BODENHEIM AIDS FATHER IN TRACING MISSING GIRL, 18

Shows Dr. M. J. Loeb of New York, Who Visits Author in Provincetown, Telegram From Her.

SHE HAD RECENTLY ATTEMPTED HER LIFE

Like Virginia Drew, Whose Case Police Have Dropped, She Had Asked Author for Criticism.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., July 21.—Maxwell Bodenheim, writer of sophisticated novels and verse, who disappeared from his New York City apartment Tuesday morning and who was sought by relatives of Miss Virginia Drew, 26-year-old writer, whose body was recovered from the Hudson River Thursday afternoon, was found here today.

Miss Drew was last seen leaving his apartment in West Forty-fifth street at 1:30 o'clock Monday morning after having been there since 8 o'clock Sunday night. According to her parents, she had gone to Bodenheim's apartment to have him criticise her work, and they wanted to question Bodenheim about what had taken place in the apartment.

Bodenheim, who talked freely about the visit of Miss Drew to his apartment and his conversation with her in which he said he sought to dissuade her from carrying out her threat to commit suicide, soon found that his flight here had complicated rather than simplified matters for him.

Another Protegee Missing.

While the artists' and writers' colony here was still buzzing with the details of Bodenheim's connection with Miss Drew's suicide, Dr. Martin J. Loeb, Bronx physician and father of Miss Gladys Loeb, another who had sought Bodenheim's literary guidance and unsuccessfully attempted suicide a month ago in a Greenwich Village garret, arrived this afternoon looking for his daughter, who had been missing since Wednesday.

Loeb was full of wrath against Bodenheim when he arrived and had to be restrained by Chief of Police John Williams from attacking the novelist and breaking into the ramshackle studio he has rented on Commercial street.

Loeb pleaded with Chief Williams to be permitted to break into Bodenheim's place and search it.

"I'll take the penalty," he said. "I'll pay any fine, but I want to search that place and see if my girl is there."

Chief Williams quieted Dr. Loeb and then went along into Bodenheim's cottage and searched it from top to bottom. There was no sign of a girl and Williams then took Loeb in with him and introduced him to Bodenheim.

Telegram From Girl.

While Loeb and Bodenheim were talking about Miss Loeb's disappearance, a telegram came for Bodenheim. He opened, read it and then handed it over to Dr. Loeb with the remark: "Now I'll tell you everything." The telegram it soon became apparent was from Miss Loeb, although it was signed "Gretchen Winthrop."

"Will arrive on 5:20 train," the telegram read.

Loeb immediately arranged to have an automobile meet the train. Meanwhile, Bodenheim was telling him that the girl had been here one night but had stayed at another house under the name of Gretchen Meyers and had left Friday morning to go to Boston "to see a doctor."

Previous to Loeb's arrival, Bodenheim had been asked if he knew Miss Loeb.

"Yes, I know her," he had replied, "but I haven't seen her for two months. She was just a surface friend. I met her in a night club in Greenwich Village and went out with her a few times. There was nothing serious between us. She is a student at New York University."

Before Loeb left Bodenheim's place another telegram arrived. It was from a news syndicate offering Bodenheim $1000 for his story. Bodenheim showed this telegram to Loeb also and they appeared greatly amused by it.

By the time Loeb left Bodenheim's cottage his attitude toward the author had apparently undergone a complete change.

"I have done the man an injustice," he told reporters who sought to interview him. "I don't want to talk about it. Poor fellow, I feel

U. S. WILL FINGER-PRINT DRY LAW VIOLATORS; ROAD AGENTS WILL BE UNIFORMED

Commissioner Doran Orders Measurements and Identification System to Help Keep Track of Old Offenders.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Plans to finger print all prohibition law violators and to place prohibition agents doing road work in uniforms so they can be easily identified were announced today by Prohibition Commissioner Doran.

Hereafter prohibition violators will face a stringent system of measurements and identification tests, the purpose being to make old offenders easy to watch. The system standardized by the American Police Chiefs' Association will be adopted in its entirety and Harry Niles, assistant Chief of Police of Portland, Ore., will have charge of the work. He has been loaned to the prohibition bureau to put the new identification branch into effect.

Commissioner Doran said that, in addition to finger printing and measuring the prohibition law violators, the records of each offender would be submitted to the Department of Justice to ascertain if they are wanted for any other law violations.

The uniforming of the dry agents doing road work was one of the chief accomplishments of the six-day conference of administrators here which ended today. The action was taken because heretofore the dry agents could not be easily identified and many motorists when stopped were unable to tell at a glance that the officers actually were dry agents. To overcome this difficulty the conference decided that any agent doing road work should wear a distinctive blue cap, on which will be a large shield, with a similar shield on the coat.

"Heretofore agents doing road work, could not be readily identified," the commissioner said, "and motorists were in a quandary as to whether they were officers or highwaymen. The new shields will be quite large and visible for considerable distance and we are hopeful that motorists will be able to recognize that they are genuine Federal officers at a glance.

"Agents have been warned against stopping automobiles promiscuously and have been told that drawing a weapon to stop a car, whether it is a suspected bootlegger or not, will result in immediate dismissal."

Simultaneously with Doran's announcement the Civil Service Commission announced that new examinations for prohibition agents would be held soon.

WOMAN, 81 YEARS OLD, FATALLY HURT IN AUTO COLLISION

Mrs. Lydia Powell Killed, Daughter and Son-in-Law, All of St. Louis, Injured Near Trenton, Ill.

Mrs. Lydia Powell, 81 years old, 4054 Lee avenue, was fatally injured in an automobile collision at 6 p. m. yesterday near Trenton, Ill., 31 miles east of St. Louis.

Mrs. Powell and her daughter, Mrs. Carrie Miller, 53, of 4123 Clay avenue, were taken to St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis, where Mrs. Powell died an hour later. Mrs. Miller suffered severe cuts and bruises. Her husband, Frederick F. Miller, was taken to a hospital at Breese, Ill., with serious injuries.

Miller was driving his car toward St. Louis on a concrete road when an automobile driven by Charles Gelly, a retired farmer, appeared from a dirt side road. The machines crashed and Miller's car was upset. Passing drivers took the three injured persons to hospitals.

CHINESE REPORTED IN CLASH WITH JAPANESE SOLDIERS

Mikado's Men Said to Have Interfered With Movement of Troops Over Railway.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Frank W. Lee, representative in America for the Chinese Nationalist organization, made public tonight this cablegram from Shanghai:

"Japanese troops interfering with the movement of a Chinese force along the Tsingtao-Tsinan railway endeavored to disarm Chinese soldiers and precipitated hostilities near Chilang, Shantung. Japanese troops in Shantung, Peiping (Pekin) and Tientsin number more than 18,000."

News dispatches from Shanghai yesterday said that a clash between Japanese troops and Chinese regulars had occurred at Tsinan-Fu as the result of Chinese infringement on the Japanese railway zone.

CONVICTS FOR CANCER STUDY

Cuban Proposed Would Give Them Freedom If They Survive.

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA, Cuba., July 21.—A proposal for legal inoculation with cancer germs of convicts condemned to death so that the disdisease may be clinically studied has received the unanimous approval of the Board of National Sanitation. The proposal it was said today now will go to Congress for legislative action.

It provides that condemned men voluntarily may be inoculated with cancer germs and that thereafter they remain under observation and treatment for 12 years. Should they survive and be cured they would be free from prison.

GOV. SMITH HAS TROUBLE GETTING SPEECH HOOK-UP

Acceptance Arrangements Delayed by Conflicts With Commercial Broadcasting Contracts.

ASSEMBLES DATA FOR HIS ADDRESS

Ceremony Expected to Take Place Week of Aug. 19 After Republicans Have Been Notified.

By the Associated Press.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 21.—Difficulties in working out radio broadcasting arrangements are delaying a final decision as to the date for Gov. Smith's notification, and it may be some days before a definite announcement of the time can be made. The Democratic presidential nominee had expected to disclose plans for his notification by tomorrow, but he said today this would be impossible due to inability to make satisfactory radio arrangements.

Smith and his political lieutenants want a nation-wide hook-up so that his acceptance speech, which will be delivered from the east steps of the State Capitol, will be heard by the voters in all states. Broadcasting officials and Smith's managers are working out a schedule, but are finding it difficult to avoid conflicts with commercial broadcasting arrangements which are on a contract basis.

Not Pleased With Progress.

Discussing the situation today with newspaper men, Gov. Smith indicated he was not entirely pleased with the progress made so far in perfecting radio arrangements. But he did not go so far as to make it appear that in his judgment he was being discriminated against. He was reminded that there was either a requirement in law or a regulation requiring all candidates for political office to have equal opportunity to utilize radio facilities.

Gov. Smith expressed the view that the chief difficulty so far as he was concerned was to "swap" time on the radio with commercial broadcasters. A suggestion that the radio stations should be willing to do their utmost to provide him with broadcasting facilities drew from him the remark: "Well, they don't appear to be doing it."

The expectation is that the Smith ceremony will take place during the week of Aug. 19, after both Herbert Hoover and Senator Curtis have been notified officially of their nominations by the Republicans. The notification of Senator Robinson as the Democratic vice presidential nominee will come a few days after the night ceremony here for Gov. Smith.

Has Data for Speech.

Until the Democratic nominee for the presidency knows exactly when he will be called on to outline his views on campaign issues, it is unlikely that he will do any actual work on the preparation of his acceptance speech. He already has assembled material for it, however, and has shaped up the frame work of the address in his mind. He intends to touch on all issues, among them prohibition and farm relief, which he regards as of prime importance.

With his campaign organization taking form with the appointment of advisory and executive committees which will operate in close conjunction with the Democratic National Committee in New York, Gov. Smith is leaving details largely to these groups of managers. He declined today to comment on the selection of these committees or on their functions.

The Governor planned to spend a quiet, restful week-end here at the Executive Mansion, with golf and perhaps some swimming for exercise. He also is getting acquainted with a month-old Newfoundland pup sent to him by W. C. Banks of Saugus, Mass. The newcomer has made a great hit with his master who calls him "Duke." His arrival increased the number of dogs at the Executive Mansion to a half dozen.

FIVE DROWN IN OHIO LAKE WHEN MOTORBOAT UPSETS

By the Associated Press.

ST. MARYS, O., July 21.—Five persons, three women and two men, drowned in St. Mary's Lake, near Idlewild Park, seven miles from here today, when a wind and rain storm unexpectedly broke over the area and capsized their motorboat in which they had sought relief from the heat wave.

The dead: Celesta Klein, 32 years old; Marie Klein, 27; Mrs. Henry Homen, Willia Corl, 30, and Henry Homen. The body of Mrs. Henry Homen was the only one that had been recovered tonight.

GLOBE GIRDLERS PLAN TO REACH GOAL TODAY

Mears and Collyer Arrive at Minneapolis From Spokane, Wash.

By the Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 21.—John Henry Mears and B. D. Collyer, globe circlers, completed a nonstop flight from Spokane, Wash., when they landed at Wold-Chamberlain Field tonight. They left Spokane shortly after 7:30 a. m., Pacific Coast time, and arrived here at 7:55 p. m., central standard time.

By JOHN HENRY MEARS,
Globe Girdler Seeking to Establish a Travel Record.
(Copyright, 1928.)

SPOKANE, Wash., July 21.—We are leaving at 7:30 a. m. for Minneapolis and St. Paul, and hope to get there before nightfall.

We left Victoria, B. C., at 3:45 a. m., after a narrow escape from crashing. Our plane swerved as we were taking off, nearly landing in a ditch. We did not stop at Seattle, as we were late leaving Victoria.

The air trip we are now about to take will be a vital one if we are to arrive in New York on our schedule, which calls for landing there about noon tomorrow. We are confident we will make it all o. k.

Our decision to fly to the Twin Cities instead of to Omaha, as we had planned, was occasioned by receipt of the following invitation:

"Theodore Christiansen, Governor of Minnesota; Mayor George Leach of Minneapolis; Mayor Larry Hodgson of St. Paul; Arthur R. Rogers, president Minneapolis Civic Commerce Associatio; William F. Davidson, president St. Paul Association; Stanley Partridge; Norman Warsinski, head of Norwalk Aircraft Corporation; Mary Hurd, former manager of Old Minneapolis Aero Club; Paul Goldsborough, general manager International Air Transport; Rufus R. Rand, chairman Midplane Transit Co., join in inviting you to stop in Twin Cities at Chamberlain Airport, on your famous flight across American continent, and ask opportunity of rendering you any service at their command. Would appreciate wireless from you assuring us the honor of your stopping here, even if it can only be for refueling. Best regards."

I cannot begin to inform you how good it seems to be on American soil again. We have left behind the dreary reaches of the Pacific, the bleak steppes of Siberia, Continental Europe, and are again headed toward the Atlantic Ocean, upon which we embarged June 29, at 45 seconds past 5 a. m.

If we succeed, and both pilot Collyer and myself are confident, we will have cut the time required for traveling around the world to 23 days! When one recalls that not so long ago 35 days was considered remarkably fast time, something of the significance of our whirlwind voyage can be realized.

How long we shall stay in Minneapolis I cannot forecast, but it will not be long, and then we will begin the last leg of our flight to New York.

We seem impervious to fatigue. Our hearts are on our goal but we will enjoy every moment as we soar across the vast transcontinental vistas of magnificent America.

Heigh ho! We will see you tomorrow in New York. We are on the way!

MRS. COOLIDGE GOES FISHING BUT TAKES NEEDLEWORK ALONG

Spends Most of Day With President and Guide in Quest of Trout.

By the Associated Press.

SUPERIOR, Wis., July 21.—Two fishermen set out from Cedar Island Lodge on the Brule River today in quest of trout. Mrs. Coolidge suddenly decided it was time for her to do her share in providing a fish dinner for the Coolidge household, and joined her husband in the canoe which John Larock, the Chippewa guide, was holding fast to the landing stage.

Mrs. Coolidge was not sure, however, that angling alone would keep her interested and amused for several hours so she took her embroidery along.

Alternating casting her own line with watching her husband fish and with attending to her needle work, Mrs. Coolidge spent a large portion of the day on the placid waters of the shady pools the Brule forms in its twistings through the dense forest of the lodge estate.

As to the actual results of the expedition, White House attaches were reticent.

SMITH, 8126; HOOVER, 7925 IN CHICAGO TRIBUNE CANVASS

Figures Apply to Illinois Outside of Chicago; Newspaper Says Result Is "Unbelievable."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, July 21.—The final State figures of the Chicago Tribune poll were taken in Quincy, Alton, Ottawa, Ravana and Roodhouse, Democratic towns. Smith received 1489 and Hoover 981. The total for the State, outside of Chicago, is Smith, 8126; Hoover, 7925. These figures show that Smith is carrying the State outside of Chicago. To check it, a poll was taken in several districts three times. There was no change.

The Tribune says today:

"Yesterday's poll presents this popularity more vividly than any yet taken either in Chicago or down-State. In fact, the figures portray it in unbelievable colors."

To ease its dry Republican readers it says: "The vote lacks farmers and women enough."

The vote in Chicago showed Smith will carry the city by 107,000.

SLOT MACHINE ODDS, 90 TO 1

Bill in Cuban House Would Bar U. S. Gambling Devices.

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA, July 21.—The Cuban Government controls a huge lottery, views with complacence roulette, baccarat and horse racing, but is preparing to strike at the advance guard of American slot machines invading the island.

The slot machines made their debut in Cuba within the last year under a concession granted an American company. After a few brief months of spasmodic running they face the gloomy future of being deported. A law has been proposed prohibiting slot machines in Cuba and will be considered by the House of Representatives. In the preamble to the bill it is pointed out that the machines were ostensibly installed for the automatic sale of peppermints and confections, but that the business had degenerated into a mere gambling game. The preamble further charges that the machines are 90 to 1 against the player.

ASKS FOR INQUIRY INTO PATRONAGE IN MISSOURI OFFICES

Joplin Lawyer Cites Postmasters' Contributions to Congressman Manlove's Campaign Fund.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JOPLIN, Mo., July 21.—An effort is being made here to induce Senator Brookhart and the subcommittee of the Senate Postoffice Committee to come to the Fifteenth (Missouri) Congressional District in its investigation of trafficking in Federal patronage.

Frank H. Lee, a Joplin lawyer, has addressed a letter to Brookhart requesting that the inquiry be extended to Missouri. He enclosed the sworn statement of Charles L. Martin, treasurer of the Republican Congressional Committee in the 1926 campaign, to show contributions by 17 postmasters to the campaign fund of Joseph J. Manlove of Joplin, Congressman from the district. The total contributions of the 17 were $1085.

The postmaster contributors, according to the statement filed with the recorder of Jasper County and the amounts of the contributions in this one campaign, were M. B. Gardner, Aurora, $112; E. K. Horine, Cassville, $88; Sam H. Hudson, Granby, $36; William A. Barris, Marionville, $80; Robert J. Smith, Miller, $25; Leslie Millsap, Mount Vernon, $96; A. T. Boothe, Peirce City, $88; Fred Mitchell, Purdy, $72; E. Culp, Rocky Comfort, $48; Wilton Wilhelm, Seligman, $68; Dana Gerster, Stella, $48; John Black, Washburn, $60; Edwin McKinley, Wheaton, $34; Thomas W. Box, Lamar, $100; John Grieselt, Golden City, $50; William S. Tabler, Jasper, $20; Ernest Young, Verona, $60.

In his letter to Brookhart, Lee said, "I recently read a statement by Postmaster General New that he would discharge any postmaster found guilty of paying for appointment or for reappointment to office. There is no difference in morals. The postmaster who pays and pays and pays during his tenure of office is as guilty in my opinion as the postmaster who pays for reappointment."

Warrant Issued for Arrest of G. O. P. Leader in Mississippi.

By the Associated Press.

JACKSON, Miss., July 21. — A warrant for the arrest of George McClellan, Republican leader of Newton, Miss., was issued today, bringing to eight the number of persons indicted by the Federal grand jury at Biloxi which investigated alleged patronage irregularities in Mississippi.

McClellan posted bond of $2500 before a United States Commissioner late today for his appearance at the November term of Federal court when he and the seven other defendants are due to be tried.

McClellan is charged with having conspired to violate the statute prohibiting sale or purchase of public office. The indictment charged that he connived with Perry W. Howard, national Republican committeeman from Mississippi, and six others, also under indictment, to bring about the appointment of A. P. Russell of

MORAL BLAME FOR OBREGON DEATH PUT ON LABOR LEADER

Friends of Slain President-Elect of Mexico Say Morones Must Go or War Will Follow.

CALLES GOVERNMENT CONSIDERS INQUIRY

Case Against Persons Held for Assassination Expected to Be Completed This Week.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, July 21.—The Government is considering an official investigation of charges by Obregon supporters that Luis Morones, Minister of Labor, was in a measure responsible for the assassination of the President-elect, newspapers declare tonight.

The authorities are especially concerned, it is said, with the declaration of Congressman Soto y Gama, agrarian leader and close friend of Obregon, that "Morones must go or there will be actual war."

It is asserted that Soto and other leaders of the Obregon bloc may be summoned before a court to prove statements attributed to them that Morones and Labor leaders opposed to Obregon are "psychologically responsible" for his assassination by creating an anti-Obregon atmosphere which influenced Jose de Leon Toral, a religious fanatic, to kill him.

Chief of Police Antonio Rios Zertuche announced tonight that the investigation of the assassination was almost completed and that its results would be announced next week.

At that time, he said, the persons responsible would be turned over to the Attorney-General of the Federal district for civil trial. The number of persons to be charged was not announced.

Army Continues Disciplined.

Meanwhile, despite Soto y Gama's declarations, the army continues to observe discipline and Secretary of War Amaro has issued an appeal to all the revolutionary elements to support the army which he promises will continue loyally to guarantee the maintenance of peace and order.

Whatever foundation or lack of foundation the actual facts might reveal for their belief, the Obregon leaders assert the conviction that the political enemies of Gen. Obregon were behind the "religious fanaticism" which the police say was the immediate inspiration of the President-elect's assassin.

The name of Morones is constantly and openly used by Obregon leaders in discussing the assassination. Gen. Obregon and Morones were long political enemies and no expressions that the Secretary of Labor has made since the assassination lamenting the crime have served to check the feelings against him openly expressed by some of the Obregon leaders. Even threats to kill Morones have been made publicly and some of the secretary's friends have advised him to get out of the country quietly if he can.

The assassination of Gen. Obregon and subsequent developments as well as the continuing uncertainty have served to distract public attention from the return of the body of Capt. Emilio Carranza.

Funeral May Lessen Tension.

Before the Obregon assassination it would have seemed absurd to suggest anything that could have taken the story of Carranza's death off the front pages of the Mexican newspapers. But today the Carranza story is of secondary importance. There was some feeling, however, that the arrival of the good will flyer's body may serve to lessen the tension which has prevailed since the assassination by giving people something else to think about.

As Obregon's body was reaching his native town today, The Obregon party building, close to the Foreign Office, closed its doors and hung them in crepe. Upon the walls of the building as well as on billboards throughout the city are still campaign posters and pic-

M'CAWLEY CUTS IN ON WILSON IN JACKSON COUNTY

With Indications That Shannon Is Supporting Senator, Pendergast's Majority May Be Reduced.

MUCH DEPENDS ON THE DRY VOTE

Records Show County Is Dry — Heavy Turnout Expected in Primary With Big Local Issues.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, July 1.—With increasing indications that Joseph B. Shannon, rival of Tom Pendergast for boss control of Democratic politics in Kansas City, intends to espouse the candidacy of State Senator McCawley for the nomination for the governorship, there are growing doubts that the triumph in Jackson County of Pendergast's candidate against McCawley, Francis M. Wilson, will be by as big a margin as the Pendergast support at first led politicians to believe it would be.

Shannon so far has avoided a public statement of his choice for the nomination, but it is considered here to be significant that a very large part of the workers in the Shannon faction are busy in McCawley's behalf, a situation which hardly could exist without Shannon's approval.

Shannon has been out of the city for several weeks. On his return he could by a word stop the work being done by his faction for McCawley, or he could turn his entire organization to getting out a vote for McCawley.

Wilson to Carry County.

Regardless of what efforts Shannon may make for McCawley, it is to be expected that Wilson will carry Jackson County. The only question appears to be whether the majority will be large or small. Pendergast has considerably more following than Shannon, but on the other hand there is a vote of considerable size here which can be counted upon to vote against a Pendergast candidate. There is less of the anti-boss opposition to Shannon than to his rival.

A comparatively large Democratic primary vote is expected in Jackson County, there being more candidates than usual for the local offices, and there being a $12,000,000 bond issue to be voted on the day of the primary. The primary vote may go as high as 45,000. The heavier the vote the smaller the Wilson majority is expected to be.

There is much opposition to the bonds, which are being resubmitted following their defeat at an election several months ago. McCawley's campaign has been one calculated to draw to him the support of the opponents of the bonds, he having gone on record in opposition to increased taxes in the State. Pendergast is supporting the bonds.

McCawley's greatest strength here, however, lies in the fact that he is an outspoken dry candidate, while Wilson has dodged giving an expression of his views on prohibition. McCawley has answered questionnaires stating his views, and has tried, up to this time without success, to learn what replies, if any, Wilson has given.

Jackson County Dry.

So far as the records show, Kansas City and Jackson County are dry. The combined majority for prohibition in 1916 was 3946 and in 1918 was 1625, while on the referendum on McCawley's prohibition enforcement act in 1924, the city and county voted by a majority of 36,438 for prohibition enforcement.

Adherents of the Pendergast faction have been spreading the report over the state that Pendergast would pile up a majority in excess of 25,000 for Wilson in Jackson County as a whole. This sort of report could only be considered political propaganda. It would mean that of a total vote of 45,000 McCawley would receive only 10,000 and that Wilson would receive 35,000. Supporters of McCawley, not considering the over enthusiastic who are insisting that McCawley will defeat Wilson here, are disposed to put the Wilson majority at something like 5000 or 6000.

McCawley's only record as a candidate in this county was in 1924, when his name was on the ticket for the nomination for Attorney-General. He made no campaign that year and was one of two dry candidates for the nomination. Notwithstanding that and the additional fact that he had no organization support, he received 7702 votes. His dry opponent, Meredith, who had the support of the dry organizations, received 11,992. Elmer O. Jones, who had the support of Pendergast and the wets, as well as some drys, received 27,553. The McCawley-Meredith vote was a dry, anti-Pendergast vote, and Pendergast then was able to muster a majority of less than 9000, in a total vote of approximately the same size as the estimate for this year.

However, McCawley's hope for a strong showing depends upon the dry vote going to the polls. It is a debatable question whether the nomination of Smith, a wet, for the presidency has caused such a loss of interest in Democratic politics among the drys that many of them will refuse to take part in Democratic politics this year, or whether its effect will be to bring them out in larger numbers in an effort to nominate dry candidates for State and local offices.

It is the contention of the McCawley following that the latter will prove to be the case and that the heavy vote for prohibition enforcement, referendum approval of the law of which McCawley was the author, can be counted on to show that McCawley will get the bulk of the dry vote.

McCawley Lays Many of Farmers' Ills to Taxation.

OAK RIDGE, Mo., July 21.—State Senator A. L. McCawley, a Democratic candidate for Governor, declared tonight to an audience of Cape Girardeau County farmers that real estate in Missouri is "over-assessed," and laid many of the farmers' ills in the State to taxation troubles.

"When the owner of a cottage home or small farm is reduced to the point where his property must be sold for taxes there is something radically wrong," McCawley said. "Hundreds of small farm homes in Missouri are being sold at courthouse doors for taxes. In many counties in this State land assessed at $40 an acre is a drug on the market at one-half that figure, and in some cases is not saleable at even $10 per acre."

BODENHEIM AIDS FATHER IN TRACING MISSING GIRL, 18

sorry for him. I don't want to cause him any more trouble."

Denies She Is Miss Loeb.

When the 5:20 train pulled in there alighted from it a young girl who fitted completely Dr. Loeb's description of his daughter. To reporters who crowded around her addressing her as Miss Gladys Loeb, she haughtily said, however: "I am afraid you have the wrong person. I am Gretchen Winthrop."

She then got into the automobile which Loeb had sent down to the train and started away. A few feet farther up the street, Loeb got in beside her and together they drove to the Gifford House, where they engaged rooms and denied themselves to reporters.

Bodenheim likewise refused to talk after the visit by Dr. Loeb, and said the Chief of Police had ordered him not to give out any more interviews or pose for any more photographs.

Additional mystedy was injected into the strange situation by the discovery a little later that Bodenheim received a telegram from "Gretchen Winthrop" this morning before Dr. Loeb arrived here.

It was sent from Boston, and read: "Your plan big flop. Hope you do not call Kenmore 6700. Twelve o'clock Sunday. Gretchen Winthrop."

Bodenheim, it was learned, arrived here Thursday and that night rented the studio he is occupying. According to the landlady who leased the cottage to him, he was accompanied at the time by a tall young girl with a haughty manner whom he did not introduce. The landlady's description of Bodenheim's companion fitted the young woman who got off the train tonight and who said she was Gretchen Winthrop. The landlady did not know where the girl passed Thursday night. Bodenheim, when questioned about the girl before the arrival of Dr. Loeb, did not disclose her identity, but said she had not passed the night at his cottage.

Turkish Woman to Visit U. S.

HALIDE EDIB HANUM.

KEMAL'S FORMER WIFE TO SPEAK IN AMERICA

Halide Edib Hanum to Open Political Institute at Wiliamstown, Mass.

By the Associated Press.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., July 21.—Halide Edib Hanum, divorced wife of Mustapha Kemal, President of Turkey, has been chosen to make the opening address at the Williamstown Institute of Politics Aug. 2.

She is the only woman speaker among the 300 experts who will assemble to discuss world affairs. More than half the program of the month's sessions will be devoted to Far Eastern and Latin American problems.

Halide Edib Hanum (or Hanoum), daughter of Mouaanerou Chaki Bey, a wealthy merchant of Smyrna, is a leader of the feminist movement in Turkey. She was a Deputy in the Turkish Parliament and Secretary of Public Instruction in the Turkish Nationalist Government under her husband, Kemal. At one time she served as a soldier in the Angora army.

She and Kemal were married, according to the Turkish rites, Jan. 29, 1923 when she was 19 years old. She was said to have brought her husband a dowry of about $650,000.

They worked together for the modernization of their country but a serious disagreement of some sort developed in 1925 and she hurriedly left Angora. On Aug. 13 of that year Kemal issued an official statement divorcing his wife—such a statement being all that is necessary for divorce under Turkish law. No reason was ever given but it was said the wife had been too masterful in her participation in affairs of State.

HOOVER DECLARES FOR NO LIMIT ON INDIVIDUAL GIFTS

Candidate Agrees With Those in Charge of Financing Campaign in Policy Toward Contributors.

PLANS FISHING TRIP ON KLAMATH RIVER

Gov. C. C. Young of California Has Luncheon With Nominee and Confers at Length With Him.

By the Associated Press.

PALO ALTO, Cal., July 21.—Herbert Hoover is in agreement with those in charge of financing his campaign for the presidency that there need be no specific limit on the amount of indvidual contributions.

The position of the Republican nominee for the presidency is that the party might accept a large contribution from a person who has no ax to grind with the Government with far greater propriety than it could accept a small donation from an individual expecting some favor from the administration.

Details of financing the campaign have been left with J. R. Nutt of Cleveland, O., treasurer of the National Committee, and his assistants, and it was stated today that Hoover had not yet been consulted as to details.

Confers With Gov. Young.

Having his first full day at his California home in months, Hoover spent the morning working on his speech accepting the nomination, making the first draft of sections of his address dealing with farm relief and other subjects, and then conferred at length with Gov. C. C. Young of California, who was his luncheon guest. Before the conference began, Gov. Young and the Commerce Secretary met the newspaper correspondents, to whom the Governor expressed conviction that California would return a substantial majority for its adopted son in the November elections.

Hoover accompanied the Governor to the Hempel house, just across a wide lawn from his own home, where the Hoover headquarters in California are being set up for the time of the nominee's stay here.

It was announced that Mayor Rolph of San Francisco would call on the candidate tomorrow for a discussion as to the date of the homecoming celebration in the Golden Gate city. It is now fairly well settled that this will not take place next Saturday, as had been tentatively planned, as the nominee expects to leave on hat date over the Redwood Trail in Northern California to the Klamath River for two or three days of fishing.

To Camp Along Route.

The nominee and his party will make the several hundred mile trip by automobile and will camp along the route, both going to and coming from the fishing place. The return journey will be on a roadway leading around the base of Mount Shasta.

Before starting on this trip the nominee will confer with California Senators Hiram Johnson and Samuel Shortridge and other political leaders. He also expects to complete the final draft of his acceptance speech to be delivered on Aug. 11 in the Stanford University Stadium.

The Republican nominee is planning now to make two addresses in the West after his notification, the first to be delivered at Albuquerque, N. M., on his trip back East. He probably will spend two or three days at Los Angeles on the return journey for a second homecoming celebration there.

After the notification ceremonies, Hoover will remain here for some days to receive the National committeemen and committeewomen of the Pacific Coast States who have been called to meet at San Francisco Aug. 13 by Hubert Work, chairman of the Republican National Committee. They will be in Palo Alto for the notification.

Hoover Speech at His Birthplace Set for Aug. 21.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 21.—Herbert Hoover will open his Western campaign at a Native Son celebration at his birthplace, West Branch, Ia., on Aug. 21, his campaign manager has decided. James W. Good, Hoover's Western manager, made the announcement after a conference here with a committee from West Branch, which invited the presidential candidate to speak at a rally the evening of Aug. 21. The Native Son celebration will be followed by a two-day Mid-Western roundup at Cedar Rapids.

LAST OF 14 POWERS INVITED TO OUTLAW WAR ASSENTS

Czechoslovakia Replies to Kellogg Note and Praises U. S. for Efforts Toward Peace.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 21. — Czechoslovakia, last of the 14 world powers invited by Secretary Kellogg to join in concluding a treaty renouncing war, has replied saying it is ready to sign the multilateral treaty as revised. Foreign Minister Benes, in a note made public today by the State Department, formally thanked the United States for the invitation and for this country's "generous efforts toward consolidating and maintaining world peace."

"I venture to add," the Minister's note said, "that the Government of Czechoslovakia gladly associates itself with all those who have rendered warm homage to the noble manifestation for world peace made by the Government of the United States and that the foreign policy of our country sees therein the realization of the end which it has pursued for 10 years."

LABOR CHIEF HELD MORALLY TO BLAME FOR ASSASSINATION

Today the Mexican Government offices were closed in honor of both Obregon and Carranza and the flags on the United States Embassy and consulate were half-masted in memory of both.

A statue of Gen. Obregon will be erected in the university plaza of Guadalajara, a public subscription for this purpose being opened today. The fund was started by Margarito Ramiez, Governor of the State of Jalisco.

Much confusion as to when, where and how Jose de Leon Toral, the assassin, is to be tried, there was much mystery attached to the "amparo," or restraining order, which prevents any action from being taken for 72 hours. Some unidentified person dropped the application into a letter box in the Second District Court. Court officials said that the Clerk at the court, as a routine matter, entered the amparo on the docket, an action which constitutes an "official acceptance by the Court."

Proceedings Set for Sept. 11.

It also was announced by court officials that the clerk had docketed the amparo hearing for Sept. 11, which happened to be the first clear day on the calendar. Should this entry be considered binding, nothing can be decided concerning the trial until then. However, if the authorities so decide, another court order can be issued cancelling the foregoing.

Efforts are being made to prevent meetings during Capt. Carranza's funeral between the followers of Obregon and the labor followers of Morones. These groups have been instructed by their respective leaders to march in Carranza's funeral parade and a prominent Obregon leader said this morning: "If these groups clash during Carranza's funeral, it will take three days to count the dead."

It is the present intention of the "Obregon bloc," which controls Congress and at present dominates the political situation, to make either President Calles or Aaron Saenz, Governor of the State of Neuvo Leon, Provisional President, taking office when the Calles term expires Dec. 1. One of the foremost Obregon leaders said that the Provisional President presumably would continue in office for two years and then a general election would be held. The present indications are that President Calles will be the Provisional President. However, every factor in the situation makes predictions uncertain.

Mexico confronts one of the gravest crises in their troubled history, said an editorial published today in El Universal.

"Today as never before, the salvation of the country depends upon the United effort of all patriotic Mexicans," said the editorial. "To avoid throwing our country into the chaos of civil war, the outcome of which nobody can see should any of the rival groups commence fighting now, we appeal to all Mexicans to support President Calles peacefully and for the best interests of all Mexico."

OBREGON BURIED WITH FULL HONORS AT BIRTHPLACE

By the Associated Press.

NOGALES, Ariz., July 21.—Just at sunset the body of Gen. Obregon, slain president-elect of Mexico, was lowered into its grave at Huatabamo, his birthplace. Thousands stood by bareheaded and prayers were offered for his repose. A thousand Mexican soldiers stood by, a guard of honor, state officials, peons and Indians were present to pay their last tribute to their assassinated leader.

The funeral train from Mexico City reached Navojoa at 6 o'clock this morning. As the casket was removed from the train a passageway was made through the dense crowd at the station platform by soldiers. Friends lifted the black draped casket to their shoulders and bore it to the Obregon home where it remained in state until late this afternoon.

The funeral procession proceeded by train and automobile from Huatabampo. There a military band played the funeral march and a long column of mourners followed to the grave. Immediately following the casket was the family, then high officials of the army and navy, followed by civil and political leaders. The rear of the procession was made up of hundreds of Mexicans and Indians. Soldiers marched alongside.

Not only did thousands of persons pay their tribute to the dead General at the graveside, but over the state and nation silence was observed in cities and hamlets.

Sirens announced the burial of Gen. Obregon in towns where prior manifestos had been issued by authorities, and the Mexican people stood with bowed heads in silence for five minutes.

Tonight throughout Sonora special memorial services were held. Flags were flown at half staff today in the native state of Gen. Obregon and all business houses were closed.

Vatican Organ Protests Against Laying Crime to Catholics.

ROME, July 21.—Osservatore Romano, official Vatican organ, in an editorial today says that what is now happening in Mexico recalls what used to happen in Rome under Nero when the Christians were accused of setting fire to the city in order to be able to massacre them afterward.

The newspaper stigmatizes the crime of Obregon's murder, but protests against the assertion that it was inspired by religious sentiment and rejects the accusation that the crime was instigated by the Mexican Episcopacy. The editorial says that Osservatore Romano is glad because of announcement that there will be a public trial of the assassin instead of his execution within 24 hours as was first reported here. Meanwhile, Osservatore adds, it is "worth noting" that the name of the assassin had been changed several times and that only lately did the report circulate that religious objects were found upon his person.

FORCED TO WED PRINCE BUT LOVED TWIN SISTER'S FIANCE

Daughter of Ancient House of Papadopolo-Aldobrandini Obtains Annulment of Marriage to the Governor of Rome.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ROME, July 21.—The Rota tribunal has just issued a decree annulling the marriage of Prince Gino Potenziani, Governor of Rome, and the Princess Madda Potenziani, daughter of the old family of Papadopolo-Aldobrandini.

The Princess admitted that, at the time of her marriage to Prince Potenziani, she was in love with Count Gilberto-Arrivabene, fiance of her twin sister, Vera.

The Prince and Princess had been separated since 1913. A divorce was granted in 1920 at Flume, which, at that time, was a sort of Italian Reno. This decree, however, was not recognized by the Italian courts.

The Rota action was instituted by the Princess in 1923. At that time it was rumored that she planned to marry the Prince of Scorida, a young politician with whom she had long been acquainted. He died, however, two years ago.

The Princess charged that she did not marry Prince Potenziani of her own free will, but had been forced into the union by her mother. She had been twice asked in marriage by Prince Potenziani, it was understood, refusing him the first time because of her attachment for her twin sister's fiance, Count Gilberto-Arrivazene, whom she wished to marry.

When the family discovered this affection, the Princess alleged, they hastened her marriage to Prince Potenziani. The pair lived together for ten years.

Prince Potenziani comes of one of the oldest and noblest families in Rome. He recently visited the United States to return the Italian visit of Mayor Walker of New York. While in America he called on President Coolidge at Washington.

TWO KILLED, 20 HURT WHEN CAR CRASHES INTO STORE

Trolley, Out of Control, Plunges Downhill and Into Building at Braddock, Pa.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 21.—Two girls were killed and 20 persons were injured when a street car ran away down a hill and crashed into a crowded store in Braddock, a suburb, late today.

The car struck an automobile and the driver was seriously hurt. The machine burst through the front of the store into a crowd of shoppers and clerks.

As the trolley plowed over the street curb, pedestrians were struck before they had time to escape. It was thought the girls who were killed were walking on the sidewalk and were carried through the front of the store by the runaway car.

The bodies were not identified until some hours after the accident. The girls, both 11 years old, were Cancetto Prestio and Yolanda Sabala, both of North Braddock. The bodies were taken from under the street car within the wrecked store.

There was no official information as to what caused the car to run away. There were no passengers aboard as it dashed down the street.

ITALY HONORS HERO OF SEA

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, July 21.—Giles Chester Stedman, chief officer of the steamship Leviathan today was presented a medal of valor awarded by King Victor Emanuel of Italy for Stedman's valorous conduct while in charge of a lifeboat which rescued 24 members of the crew of the Italian freight steamship Ignazio Florio in a storm last October.

The presentation was made at the South Boston drydock by Augustino Feranti, Italian Consul in Boston. The Leviathan went into drydock here today for overhauling.

Magee to a United States District marshalship. Payment of $1100 and traveling expenses to Washington were alleged to have figured in Russell's appointment.

The grand jury at Biloxi, which was discharged yesterday, returned indictments against McClellan, Howard, M. Redmon, A. M. Redmon, J. C. Tannehill, Deputy United States Marshall at Summerville, J. Scott Hubbard, Deputy Marshal at Biloxi, and W. E. Miller, Postmaster at Wiggins, Miss., all on charges of violating the public office sale law.

While Federal officials here declined to give out information regarding further inquiry into Federal patronage activities in the State, it was rumored that additional investigations might be conducted with the impaneling of a Federal grand jury at Oxford or Clarksdale, in the northern district of the State. The jury at Biloxi concerned itself only with appointments made in the southern district.

The warrant against McClellan was expected to be served tomorrow.

"NOT MY FAULT," SAYS SIDENER OF MOTLOW VERDICT

Exonerated by Grand Juries and in Rutherford Case by Court, He Tells G. O. P. Women's Club.

FREUND'S SPEECH STOPPED BY CHAIR

"No Personalities" Rule Blocks Rival Candidate's Attack on Circuit Attorney's Record.

The Rutherford, Motlow and Ferguson cases, which opponents of Howard Sidener for Circuit Attorney have frequently mentioned, were discussed by Sidener himself at a luncheon of the Republican Woman's Club yesterday at the American Annex Hotel.

Sidener, a candidate for renomination in the Republican primary, was the first to speak. A "no personalities" rule prevented Arthur J. Freund, last of the candidates for the Circuit Attorneyship to get the floor, from delivering his prepared address making specific allegations against Sidener's administration. Freund yielded only after a lively tilt with the chair. The order in which the speakers delivered their addresses was determined by the order in which they had accepted the invitation to speak.

A considerable group of the women applauded when Circuit Attorney Sidener entered. Cheers mingled with applause when he arose to speak, and he was interrupted by hand-clapping more than once.

He cited statistics of his office, and the majorities by which he had been elected as indications that he might add strength to the Republican ticket. He said that, with the aid of the Circuit Judges, he had cleared the courts of "the professional bondsmen that used to infest the Municipal Courts Building."

"Critics have centered many attacks on me," he continued. "They have not told you that the National Crime Commission—it is not true that only one murderer in 35 is convicted—they have not told you that the National Crime Commission showed my office had the highest percentage of convictions in murder cases of all the prosecutors in the country.

Exonerated by Grand Juries.

"It's true that some things have been investigated, but five or six grand juries have exonerated me. Those investigations were at the behost of unfriendly newspapers and certain persons in my own party who were out to destroy me.

"It's true I was indicted in the Rutherford case, but it's also true that the trial judge, when he took the case away from the jury, said there was not a scintilla of evidence, not even a circumstance on which to base the indictment.

"It's true that Motlow was acquitted, but that was not my fault. There were 10 lawyers on the other side and only Roland Johnson and myself against them.

"It's true that Forrest Ferguson was acquitted, but on a directed verdict by Judge Mix, and he was right, and it's also true that Ferguson was twice tried in the United States court and that two hung juries resulted. And it's very unlikely that he will be tried there again."

Freund's Speech Stopped.

A warning against "personalities" or aspersions on any Republican in office had been voiced by Mrs. W. T. Nardin, of 6253 Westminster place, president of the club, in opening the meeting. She added, "We may not make so many headlines in the newspapers, but I believe the Republican party and therefore the United States will profit thereby." Freund had read but a few lines of his prepared speech when she halted im.

"Can't I give instances?" he asked.

"No, you cannot," replied Mrs. Nardin, and applause followed.

"I believe we ought to face facts boldly, courageously," Freund resumed. "But, Mrs. Nardin, I bow to your decision and I will not give the instances, which I believe are shameful and damnable in the administration of that office."

Hisses mingled with applause.

"You recall the days when the Democrats were more strongly entrenched in power than the Republicans are now—"

Mrs. Nardin spoke again in a low voice, and Freund took another tack:

"Again I bow to your judgment, I shall talk about myself, a very uninteresting subject, to me." A moment later he was swinging back to, "I believe I can clean out the situation here. The Bar Association, on account of the situation confronting St. Louis, for the first time in its history—"

Chair Interrupts.

"Never mind the situation confronting us," interposed Mrs. Nardin. "Just tell what they did."

"Well," Freund tried again, "for the first time in its history, it decided to indorse primary candidates, and it indorsed me."

Mrs. Nardin spoke again in a low voice, and Freund took another tack:

"Again I bow to your judgment, I shall talk about myself, a very uninteresting subject, to me." A moment later he was swinging back to, "I believe I can clean out the situation here. The Bar Association, on account of the situation confronting St. Louis, for the first time in its history—"

Chair Interrupts.

"Never mind the situation confronting us," interposed Mrs. Nardin. "Just tell what they did."

"Well," Freund tried again, "for the first time in its history, it decided to indorse primary candidates, and it indorsed me."

Any impression from the applause for Sidener that this was his meeting was dissipated when a personable young attorney opposing him for the nomination, Louis J. Miller delivered a polemic against the present state of affairs in St. Louis. Almost every period evoked applause.

Referring indirectly to the "no personalities" rule, he said, "common honesty compels me to make a candid and straightforward dissertation on certain facts," and launched into the figures on the courts brought out by the late Herbert Hadley.

Denounces Gang Terrorism.

"The public streets have become the private battling grounds of rival gangsters," he pointed out. "State's witnesses have been murdered. Great enterprises have failed, and men who misappropriated the funds of the poor have gone unpunished.

"If I become Circuit Attorney, I promise never to compromise with crime. Murder is too great an offense upon society for any man's money to look good to me. I shall consider every robbery a challenge, every murder a personal affront upon me as a prosecutor, and I shall take it upon myself to find the hundred—or less than a hundred—men responsible for four-fifths of the crime in St. Louis. And the wages of sin is death."

900 Nolle Prosequis.

Among his "if elected" pledges, E. E. Rudolph, also a candidate for Circuit Attorney, included: "Nor will there be any 900 or more nolle prosequis in three years because the State cannot make its case, or the Prosecutor for worse reasons abandons the work of prosecution after it has been commenced. Twenty-five per cent of a Prosecutor's work thus lost is at least 23 per cent too much to go awry."

Other speakers included Charles U. Becker, candidate for Secretary of State; Larry Brunk and A. H. Steinbeck, for State Treasurer; Alroy S. Phillips, for Supreme Court Judge; William Dee Becker and Hyman G. Stein, for Judge of the St. Louis Court of Appeals; and William R. Davis, for Circuit Attorney. C. E. Stephens, for Secretary of State, was there to speak, but was made temporarily ill by the heat.

MR. AND MRS. LOUIS GORDON

—Wide World Photo.

THEY were married publicly in a Chicago dance hall Friday, by Judge William J. Fetzer. Five thousand persons witnessed the ceremony. Gordon flew across the Atlantic with Miss Amelia Earhart and Wilmer Stultz. It was while the party was in England that Gordon received a cablegram from Miss Ann Bruce of Brookline, Mass., that they would be married when he returned to the United States.

COLLEGE BARS BARE LEG FAD

Students at McKendree Must Wear Hose to Classes, Dean Rules.

Bare legs may be all right in their place, but they will not be tolerated in the corridors and classrooms of McKendree College, Methodist school at Lebanon, Ill. After three summer school students ventured on the campus in the prevailing mode of legs au naturel, Dean E. P. Baker yesterday announced that stockingless women students would be barred from the classrooms.

Some of the girls whispered that they intended to ignore the ban. Dean Baker, hearing the rumor, said if they did they would be sent home.

OCEAN FLYERS SEE CHICAGO FROM 14-PASSENGER PLANE

Miss Earhart and Aids Go Up Despite Rain—Public Reception in Stadium Canceled.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 21.— Undaunted by steady downpour of rain and exceedingly poor visibility, Amelia Earhart and her trans-Atlantic air crew took to the skies today for an aerial sight-seeing tour over Chicago. "The Chicago," 14-passenger tri-motored airplane christened by the German-Irish trans-Atlantic crew of the Bremen on their visit here last May, was placed at the disposal of Miss Earhart and her party and they ignored the severe flying conditions to fulfill their day's entertainment program.

With the first woman to fly the Atlantic were her ocean pilot Wilmer Stultz, her mechanic, Lou Gordon, their wives, Capt. Homer M. Barry, Pilot of "The Chicago" and members of the Chicago reception committee. Returning, the party inspected the municipal airport. the afternoon was left open for the flyers' own desires, after a public reception in Soldiers' Field Stadium had been canceled. A banquet tendered by club woman was the only event planned for the evening.

MAN SOUGHT FOR KILLING HERE IN 1924 HELD IN CLEVELAND

Police were informed by wire from Cleveland, O., last night that Dominick Bolona, 44 years old, wanted for the murder of Antonio L. Quinci of 1010 North Tenth street, at Tenth and Biddle streets, in 1924, was under arrest in Cleveland and had waived extradition.

A patrolman walking south of Carr street the night of Sept. 27, 1924, heard four shots and saw Quinci fall to the sidewalk. Joe Teri, proprietor of a poolroom, and his son, Jasper, told police that in the afternoon Quinci hadl quarreled with Bolona, who left but returned and renewed the quarrel. They said Quinci invited him outside, and a few minutes later they heard the shots.

NO GLOOM AT BIER, LAST WISH OF ELLEN TERRY

Famous Actress Who Died in England at 80, Left Directions on Fly-Leaf of Favorite Book.

By the Associated Press.

SMALL HYTHE, England, July 21.—"No funeral gloom, my dears, when I am gone."

Ellen Terry, famous actress, has had her wish, for beauty and peace and loving tenderness surrounded her body as it lay this evening in the quaint old farmhouse which she had known so long as home.

The noted actress died this morning, tranquilly, surrounded by her loved ones. With her were her daughter, Edith Craig; her son, Edward Gordon Craig; her brother, Charles Terry, and her favorite niece, Miss Olive Terry.

Last Wish Posted at Gate.

At "the farm," which nestles at the edge of this ancient hamlet, there was little to indicate that there had been a great change. There was an air of subdued activity, but no blinds were drawn and no one in black appeared. The reason for this was in a little white notice tacked upon the gate. It was the actress' last wish which she had penned on the fly leaf of one of her favorite volumes, the "Imitation of Christ," by Thomas a Kempis. It read:

"No funeral gloom, my dears, when I am gone,
"Corpse-gazing, tears, black raiment, graveyard grimness.
"Think of me as withdrawn into the dimness,
"Yours still, you mine.
"Remember all the best of our past moments and forget the rest,
"And so to where I wait come gently on."

Below was written: "I should wish my children, relatives and friends to observe this when I die."

The noted actress, who was 80 years old, died at 8:56 this morning, after an uncomfortable night. She had been making a hopeless struggle against a combination of heart attack and cerebral hemorrhage, and began sinking slowly last Tuesday.

Messages From All Over World.

Throughout the day messages of sympathy poured in from all parts of the world. They were from the friends of her long and wonderful lifetime, some from friends whom she had known for half a century.

Until Tuesday her body will lie in state in her home. Then members of her family and the villagers will follow her along the winding country road to the little village church where the funeral will be held. The body will be cremated in London, and then, if suggestions now being made, are followed, her ashes will find a last resting place near those of Garrick and other famous stage folk in St. Paul's Chruch in Covent Garden. This is known as the actors' church because it has been closely associated with the theatrical world for generations.

Portia Most Notable Role in 67-Year Stage Career.

DAME ELLEN TERRY a few days ago gave the Associated Press this message for America:

"Give my love to America, and tell my dear friends there that I am thinking of them as I rest here in my quiet English countryside. When one is 80, one has dreams of days gone by, and often in my dreams I live again the many happy times I spent in America. My heart is warm with memories of my friends across the sea."

Miss Terry was sitting in a big armchair by a latticed window looking out over the rolling green of Kent as she recalled her experiences across the Atlantic.

Her home was a Tudor farmhouse erected about the time Columbus set sail for the new world.

World's Foremost Portia.

Miss Terry, who for nearly 50 years was the foremost Portia in the world, was very frail for two years. But it was the flesh and not the spirit which aged. Even in her retirement she never lost track of the London theater and its activities.

Miss Terry knew how to age gracefully. She never feigned youth. In grays and blacks she was as radiantly beautiful in her seventies as she was decades ago when Whistler and other artists competed for the honor of painting her portrait.

The Terry home nestles at the edge of a tiny hamlet called Small Hythe. Just below the house is a toll gate, kept by a little man who collects his pennies and speeds the traveler out along a country road which winds laboriously through the green fields until it loses itself over the hills.

Lived in Ancient House.

In the days of Henry VII (1485-1509) some kindly soul who could read the future and who foresaw Shakspeare and Ellen Terry built this house for her, with oaken beams and carved oaken fireplaces which now are the envy of antiquarians. At the same time some monks built a church and a cottage near the old well, some 50 yards from the house.

The cottage today is the home of Miss Edith Craig, Dame Terry's daughter, and the gardens of her home and that of her mother are interlocking. These two houses are among the oldest in England and among the most interesting.

Sarah Bernhardt called Ellen Terry "the greatest actress in the world." Her artistic partnership over 24 years with Sir Henry Irving constituted one of the most brilliant periods of the English stage.

She was almost as well known in the United States, where she was presented by Charles Frohman, as in her native Britain, having toured the country 10 times and considering it her second home. In her tours of America she was greeted as a queen and a jubilee in 1906 was celebrated in honor of the half-century of her connection with the stage. She was married three times.

King George V made Miss Terry a Dame Grand Cross of the British Empire in 1925. St. Andrews' University honored her with the degree of Doctor of Laws.

Her last stage appearance was in the aid of charity when on Jan. 18, 1923, she spoke the prologue to "The York Nativity Play" at the League of Arts Guildhouse, London. After that she virtually retired to her home at Burleigh Mansions, London.

Born in Shakespeare Country.

Miss Terry was born Feb. 27, 1848, at Coventry in Warwickshire, almost in the heart of the Shakspeare country she was destined to represent so well.

Ellen made her first appearance as a child on April 28, 1856, playing with Charles Kean in "The Winter's Tale" at the old Princess Theater of London.

She wore a little red and white coat and a row of tight sausage curls clustered around her head. Her duty was to run about the stage with a small go-cart and carrying out her instructions with more vigor than discretion, she tripped over the go-cart handle and fell on her back.

"A titter ran through the house and I felt that my career as an actress was ruined forever," she said afterward. "Bitter and copious were the tears I shed, but I am sure the incident did not materially alter the course of my life."

Soon after she was engaged to play Puck in Charles Kean's revival of "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Didn't Like Sothern's Jokes.

She left Kean's management in 1860 and thereafter played in various stock companies with her sister, Kate. In March, 1863, she appeared in London at the old Haymarket Theater opposite E. A. Sothern, whom she did not like because of his penchant for practical joking. When "Our American Cousin" was revived two or three months later, Miss Terry was chosen to play the part of Mary Meredith. She quit during the run of the play to marry G. F. Watts, the noted British artist. Four years later she returned to the stage to play, for the first time, opposite Henry Irving in Garrick's version of "The Taming of the Shrew," she playing Katherine to his Petruchio. But their famous partnership was not to begin until 11 years later.

Soon after the withdrawal of "Katherine and Petruchio" in January, 1868, Miss Terry again retired from the stage, this time to become the wife of Charles Wardell, known on the stage as Charles Kelly. He died in 1885. They were the parents of two children, Miss Edith Wardell, who went on the stage under the name of Ailsa Craig, and her brother, Edward Wardell, who went on the stage as Gordon Craig. Her third husband was James Carew of Chicago.

Fame from Role of Portia.

April 17, 1975, she entered the management of the Bancrofts, taking the role of Portia in their revival of "The Merchant of Venice." It proved the most momentous of her career, since, despite the short run of the play, it brought her instant fame. She discredited for all time the old notion that Portia was a type of decorum and declamation.

Miss Terry next appeared as Olivia, daughter of the Vicar of Wakefield. The inexpressible charm she gave the part was the immediate cause of her being engaged to Sir Henry Irving for nearly a quarter century.

She found in Irving a companion spirit. The type of drama in which Irving yearned to succeed was precisely that which Ellen Terry found most to her taste. She cared nothing for plays impregnated with the sordid actualities of life.

Her Ophelia was distinguished with the wonderful charm that made her Portia famous. She was careful to make it clear that Ophelia was a girl rather than a woman.

FOUR AMERICANS REPORTED LOST IN SASKATCHEWAN

Party of Geologists Last Heard From Three Weeks Ago in Reindeer Lake Region.

By the Associated Press.

REGINA, Sask., July 21.—Four American geologists are thought to be lost in the Reindeer Lake region of Northern Saskatchewan with inadequate clothing, equipment and food. They were last seen about three weeks ago.

The party, led by John D. Fuller of Iowa, started with two canoes, rifles and ample supplies, furnished by the Canadian Government.

J. M. Cumines, manager of the Hudson's Bay Company post at Brochet, reported to the Mounted Police Post at Prince Albert that when he met the geologists three weeks ago at the lower end of Rainbow Lake they had little food, poor clothing, and most of their equipment was lost or damaged. They refused to turn back as he advised, he said, so he left them what food he could spare. No word has been received since from the party.

CORNERSTONE SET IN PLACE BY WORD OF MAN IN PLANE

Director of Public Welfare Salisbury Speaks Into Radio Device at Lambert Field Ceremony.

The cornerstone of the new Robertson Aircraft Corporation office building on the northwest corner of Lambert-St. Louis Field was laid yesterday afternoon at the command of Director of Public Welfare Salisbury who, circling over the field in an airplane, spoke into a short-wave radio broadcasting set, the word that caused the stone to fall into place.

A receiving set on the ground included a relay which was actuated by Director Salisbury's voice, so that when he called "Drop" into the microphone, the stone settled into the bed of cement which had been spread for it.

Before the cornerstone laying, Salisbury delivered an address from the plane which was re-broadcast by Station KMOX. Reviewing the history of the Robertson Aircraft Corporation from its start as a "one-plane" company, he declared the new building was typical of St. Louis' advance in aviation, and urged his audience to support the $2,000,000 airport bond issue proposed to be submitted to the voters Aug. 7, so that St. Louis might continue to progress toward a position of aeronautical leadership.

"We appeal to every St. Louisan to consider the success of the airport bond issue a personal matter," he said, "so that the city may reap the great harvest now offered it in the field of aeronautics.

"The airport proposal is no longer in the hands of a few individual. It is squarely before the registered voters of St. Louis, and it is up to them to see that it passes. In no other way than by your favorable vote can the airport project materialize.

"Failure to act will deprive St. Louis of the chance to take its rightful place in aviation and leave it virtually the only major city in the country without an adequate air terminal. The city's position as the heart of a vast inland empire is being challenged. What will its answer be?"

With Salisbury in the airplane were Harry H. Perkins, secretary-treasurer of Robertson Aircraft Corporation; Harlan Gurney, chief air mail pilot, and a radio operator.

ARMY DEVELOPS DEVICE TO HELP FLYERS IN FOG

New Altimeter, Still Experimental, Shows Exact Distance to Ground.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—A new instrument designed to defeat fog, an arch-enemy of aviation, has been developed by army air corps engineers.

It is a new style altimeter, at present highly experimental, which registers the exact distance between airplane and ground objects, instead of giving, as the present altimeter does, the distance above sea level. Its value is expected to be demonstrated in night and foggy weather flying.

"The value of this height-recording device," Assistant Secretary Davison said today in announcing the improvement, "becomes apparent when one considers the fix in which pilots have often found themselves when flying or in trying to land in a fog or at night.

"It must be remembered that the old altimeter works by atmospheric pressure. Its zero is at sea-level but a pilot who flies 1000 feet above that level may actually have only 50 feet clearance between himself and tree tops in high and rolling country. Lift one of these instruments above a desk and it records exactly the height at which it is held suspended."

Another experiment is being conducted to reduce danger in bad weather landings. It is a series of wires that radiate from the center of the airport like spokes from a wheel. Each wire sends at various intervals radio signals informing the pilot, about to make a landing, how to govern his descent and even tells him, the engineers say, when to put his wheels on the ground.

Hulbert Taft Weds.

BIDDEFORD POOL, Me., July 21.—Hulbert Taft, managing editor of the Cincinnati Times-Star, and Miss Virginia Kittredge, daughter of William G. Kittredge, Cincinnati attorney, were married today at the Episcopal Church of St. Martin's In-the-Field here. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Philip Schuyler of New York, rector of St. Martin's during the summer.

DR. BOUHASIN, RAKED, QUITS CITY HOSPITAL

Was in Charge When Patient Was Dosed With Formaldehyde by Mistake.

Dr. Abraham Bouhasin, in charge of the City Hospital receiving room for 14 years, and characterized yesterday by a Coroner's jury as "grossly careless" in the treatment of a patient who died as a result of a stretcher bearer's mistake, has resigned, it was learned last night.

The following notice was posted in the receiving room: "To afternoon and Night Dispensary Physicians: Due to the resignation of Dr. Bouhasin, the relief schedule is suspended from this date until further notice. (Signed) Dr. H. F. Cleveland."

Dr. Bouhasin, who has an office and resides at 2017 Chouteau avenue, refused to confirm the notice of his resignation, which was dated Friday, or to comment on it. It is understood he left the dispensary staff, which furnishes receiving room physicians, as the result of the mistake by which formaldehyde was given to a patient by an attendant instead of Epsom salts.

The victim was Michael Shaughnessy, also known as Herbst, of 4922 Bulwer avenue, who was taken to the hospital last Tuesday with another man to be treated for alcoholism. After the stomach pump had been used, Dr. Bouhasin directed the stretcher bearer, Herman Stueffe, to give the patient a cup of Epsom salts. Stueffe got the wrong bottle and gave Shaughnessy folmaldehyde, a powerful disinfectant, from which he died early Thursday.

In his testimony at the inquest Dr. Bouhasin declared he could not explain the mistake. He declared that it was a custom of many years' standing to allow stretcher bearers to administer salts. The bottle of formaldehyde was unlabeled and its presence in the cabinet with the salts is unexplained.

SEVEN ANARCHISTS HELD FOR PLOT TO KILL KING ALFONSO

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 21.—Seven anarchists, six Spaniards and one Frenchman, were arrested at Narbonne today, charged with plotting an attack on the life of King Alfonso of Spain. They are alleged to have been preparing an armed expedition into Spain.

INQUIRY DROPPED IN G. M. CHAPMAN DEATH IN ARIZONA

Embalming of Body Found in Canal Makes Autopsy Impossible, County Physician Tells Prosecutor.

OFFICIALS DOUBT CUTS WERE FATAL

Analysis to Be Made of Solution Found in Glass in Auto of St. Louis Cleaning Concern's Head.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PHOENIX, Ariz., July 21.—The official investigation of the death of Gilbert M. Chapman, real estate dealer and president of the Chapman Bros. Cleaning and Dyeing Co. of St. Louis, whose body was found in the Arizona Canal 12 miles northwest of Phoenix, was dropped tonight when County Attorney George T. Wilson learned that no autopsy on the body could be performed.

An open Coroner's verdict of death by drowning was returned yesterday fter a hasty inquest and the body was embalmed immediately. The County Physician advised the Prosecutor that the embalming process removed the possibility of determining the cause of death through autopsy.

Doubt Wounds Caused Death.

Chapman's body was found by a rural route mail carrier yesterday at 11:15 a. m., two hours and 15 minutes after Chapman had left his home and had said he was going to his real estate office. Apparently he had not drowned, since the body was afloat. There were cuts on either side of the neck, but physicians expressed doubt that they were deep enough to be fatal.

In one of Chapman's pockets a deputy Sheriff found a penciled note which read: "Should an end come to this break, leave me here and forgive me." Members of the family said they could not explain his meaning. Chapman's spectacles were in place when the body was found, a circumstance that deputies construed as discounting the theory that violence had attended his death.

A half mile upstream policemen found Chapman's automobile. In it were two safety razor blades, bottles containing ether and chloroform, and a shoe which matched the one found on the body. In the shoe was an empty glass which apparently had contained a chalky solution. The residue in the glass is being analyzed.

Chapman, who was 47 years old, moved his family to Phoenix last January from St. Louis, closing his home at 5423 Bartmer avenue, St. Louis. He bought a home here and recently, as a real estate operator, purchased two business corners in downtown Phoenix at an aggregate cost of $125,000.

Despondent Over Health.

In Arizona Chapman had hoped to find relief from asthma, from which he had been suffering several years. Policemen were told he had been despondent recently because his health had failed to mend as he had expected.

He and his brother, Oliver M. Chapman, went into the cleaning business in St. Louis 20 years ago with a joint capital of $1000 and built up a business that is one of the largest of its kind in that city. Chapman had maintained his connection with the firm after moving to Arizona.

He is survived by the widow, two daughters, Alice and Gladys, and a son, Gilbert Jr.

WOMAN DENIES SHE AGREED TO GIVE BUSINESS TO SON

Mrs. Edith E. Ambruster Replies to His Suit for Accounting in Undertaking Firm.

Mrs. Edith E. Ambruster of 4490 Lindell boulevard denied, in a deposition filed in Circuit Court yesterday, that she made an agreement to give the business of the William Ambruster Undertaking Co., 4234 Manchester avenue, to her son, Robert J. Ambruster, after she had accumulated $50,000.

She said it was her intention that he should have the business and her other property at her death. The deposition states that since her husband, Willliam Ambruster, founder of the busness, died 12 years ago, she has been active in its management and president of the corporation. Her salary has been as high as $9000 a year, but was reduced to $100 a week, while her son, as secretary and general manager, received $4000 a year.

The deposition was in the suit of Robert Ambruster against his mother for an accounting of the profits of the company. The suit sets forth that because of the alleged agreement the son permitted his mother to hold as her property all the stock in the firm. The son contends that, with the accumulations and profits, his mother has acquired real and personal property in excess of $200,000.

The son in his deposition says he quit the company last Jan. 29, when his mother "told me to go as fast as I could." He said that she had found fault with nearly everything he did, and they were especially at variance over methods of advertising.

STRIKERS ATTEMPT TO WRECK TRAINS IN SOUTHERN INDIA

Men Who Walked Out Reported to Have Raided Stations; Police Fire on Them.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, July 21. — Reports have reached here from Madras that South India Railway strikers are getting out of hand. Attempts have been made to wreck trains by placing stones and other obstacles on the track. The Ceylon mail train was nearly wrecked. At Mayavaram police were forced to fire on strikers.

Details are lacking but it is reported that strikers have raided railway stations and indulged in looting. At Madras trains have been stoned and employes handled roughly.

Motor vehicles commandeered by the authorities and filled with police are patroliing the streets. Regular troops and volunteers are in readiness if more serious trouble breaks out. Europeans and Anglo-Indians are maintaining a restricted service of trains.

"The Captive" Barred by Court.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 21.—"The Captive" was permanently barred from presentation in San Francisco in a ruling handed down by Superior Judge Walter P. Johnson yesterday. Judge Johnson granted a permanent injunction against its production "on the grounds that the play presents elements so debasing as to constitute a public nuisance." The play was stopped by police during its first presentation here last Saturday night.

CARMEN OPPOSE ORDER BARRING CAMPAIGN BUTTONS

In Letter, Protest Against Notice That They Must Show No Political Preference.

Officials of the Street Carmen's Union have sent a letter of protest to the company against an order issued July 9 forbidding the carmen from wearing political campaign buttons or displaying campaign literature while on duty or in uniform. The order says no officer active in the management of the company has any connection with any political party and directs all employes on duty refrain from wearing campaign buttons or talking politics.

The union officials in their letter of protest said the wearing of campaign buttons was no more objectionable than participation by some of the company's officers in the present political campaign, presumably referring to the activity of A. L. Shapleigh, president of the Public Service Co., in behalf of Henry S. Caulfield, candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor. Many of the street railway employes displayed the button of William R. Schneider, one of Caulfield's opponents and attorney for the union.

Reception in Caulfield's Honor.

A reception in honor of Judge Henry S. Caulfield, candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, and Mrs. Caulfield, will be given by their friends and neighbors and ward clubs of the Twenty-eighth Ward at the Hamilton Hotel tomorrow night.

Quitting Ready-to-Wear and Millinery Business

Sensenbrenner's Will Be a Shoe and Hose Store Exclusively

Only 6 Days to Dispose of $47,000 Worth of Summer Apparel and Millinery! Tremendous Sacrifices!

After 17 years of successful retailing, Sensenbrenner's are forced to discontinue their ready-to-wear and millinery departments . . . FOREVER . . . not the name of SENSENBRENNER'S, however, as THE SHOE AND HOSIERY DEPARTMENTS will still remain in business at the same location. And so . . . because workmen will be busy in a few days remodeling present quarters for the new tenants . . . who have asked us to vacate in SIX DAYS . . . we must dispose of our entire stocks in the shortest possible time. To accomplish this to a certainty, Monday we begin the MOST DRASTIC PRICE SLASHING women have seen in many, MANY a day . . . a sweeping disposal that brings Sensenbrenner's high-grade apparel and millinery at startling, sensational reductions . . . yes, at EVEN LESS THAN COST TO MANUFACTURE! If you would share savings the like of which you've NEVER SEEN BEFORE . . . be here when the doors open at 8:30 for best "plums."

FRENCH JUDGE ASSAILS AMERICAN LAWYERS

Denounces Three by Name in Investigation of "Divorce Mill."

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 21.—The whole scandal respecting the "American divorce mill" in Paris developed from an anonymous letter, said representatives of seven accused French lawyers when the defense had its inning in a court hearing here today.

Avocat Baudelot, eminent in legal circles and chief of counsel for the accused, turned on the public prosecutor and cried: "You went to sleep at your post. You allowed lawyers to take the wrong road, and now you prosecute them because you did not halt them."

The entire audience, principally members of the bar, greeted this denunciation with approving shouts.

Earlier in the proceedings Judge Wattine, presiding at the trial, grilled the seven defendants severely. Several American attorneys also came in for sharp criticism.

The Judge declared that the Americans took reprehensible roles and "knowingly imposed upon French justice." He mentioned specifically Dudley Field Malone, former collector of the port of New York; Benjamin H. Conner, president of the American Chamber of Commerce of Paris, and Charles G. Loeb, attorney for Bainbridge Colby when the latter was refused a divorce.

Judge Wattine emphasized the high position in the public eye of the American attorneys, Connor and Loeb, as officers of the American Chamber of Commerce, and mentioned Connor as "receiving the Premier and Cabinet Ministers."

Malone, in an interview, said: "Undoubtedly there have been irregularities in speeding up certain cases here, but American lawyers have aided the investigation in every way and have been thanked by the authorities for their co-operation."

The entire subject of "divorces while you wait" received an airing. The background of the principal charges against the accused seven was formed of collusion between parties to divorces and spurious documents by which alleged domiciles of plaintiffs were proven. The Judge cited a number of cases in which a single lease was used to establish residence for several would-be divorcees.

"You worked too fast," Judge Wattine told the accused.

FOREST PARK REFRESHMENT BOOTH HAS RECORD WEEK-END

Sells 12,000 Bottles of Soda, 80 Gallons of Ice Cream and 650 Pounds of "Hot Dogs."

The big refreshment stand operated by the Park Department at the Forest Park Pavilion did a record business last week-end when 17 waitresses, working in two shifts, dispensed 650 pounds of "hot dogs," 400 loaves of bread, 12,000 bottles of soda and other beverages and 80 gallons of ice cream to the crowds that visited the park seeking relief from the heat.

The consumption of ice for the two days totaled 8100 pounds, and each night it took all of one man's time from 11 p. m. to 7 a. m. putting more soda on ice for the next day's business.

The stand is the largest of seven operated by the city in the various parks. Of these, four are in Forest Park and one each in Carondelet, O'Fallon and Fairground Parks. Last year they sold a total of 24 tons of "hot dogs" and proportionately large quantities of soda nd ice cream, netting a profit of $18,265.65.

HAT STYLE BASIS OF SUIT

Superior Co. Seeks to Enjoin Harvest Hat Manufacturers.

Suit was filed yesterday by the Superior Hat Co., 2301 Madison street, to enjoin the International Harvest Hat Co., 717 Lucas avenue, from simulating in design a style of hat manufactured by the Superior Co. The petition alleges that the style was originated and popularized by the Superior Co. and that the other concern, taking advantage of the demand, imitated the model.

PAIR WOMAN SAID SHE KILLED FOUND ALIVE

Lindley M. Hussey and Companion, Reported Slain, Were in Bungalow.

By the Associated Press.

NORRISTOWN, Pa., July 21.—Lindley M. Hussey, magazine writer and chemist, and Mrs. Grace Tetlow Saveur of Ambler, Pa., whom police sought after Hussey's wife, Dr. Virginia Alvarez Hussey, said she had killed them, were found alive and well in a bungalow at Lambertville, N. J.

Questioned by Corporal Wallace of the New Jersey State Police, they admitted their identities. Chief of Police Elier of Norristown said that Wallace had telephoned asking whether Hussey and Mrs. Saveur should be arrested, and was told there was no charge against them.

The discovery of Hussey and Mrs. Saveur came after a Lambertville neighbor recognized them from pictures printed in a newspaper. State police were notified and Wallace was sent to investigate.

Police were unable to find any convincing evidence supporting the story told by Dr. Hussey that she shot and kileld her husband and Mrs. Saveur and they suspended search for the husband and woman search for the husband and woman. Dr. Hussey was held in the Montgomery County jail on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. It was indicated her story probably was the product of a temporarily deranged mind.

Dr. Hussey voluntarily told her story to police Friday afternoon. She lived with her husband at Parkerford, near Pottstown, but he has not been seen about the place for a week or more.

When Dr. Hussey, who is 37 years old, the daughter of a former Minister of War of Venezuela and a graduate of a woman's medical college in Philadelphia, went to the police station she was hysterical. She said she had killed her husband and Mrs. Saveur. Later she varied the story saying she wounded the woman and again that the woman escaped unharmed.

Wins Iowa Golf Crown.

By the Associated Press.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., July 21. — A six-foot putt on the ninteenth hole gave Frances Wilson of Mason City the women's gold championship of Iowa, when she defeated the defending titleholder, Elizabeth Curtis of Clinton, a recent entrant in the British championship.

BODY OF CARRANZA TAKEN INTO MEXICO

Placed on Train to Capital With Military Honors by U. S. and Mexican Troops.

By the Associated Press.

LAREDO, Tex., July 21.—Between a solid wall of packed humanity that overflowed into the streets of Laredo, Tex., and Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, the body of the late Capt. Emilio Carranza was borne today, escorted by American soldiers, to the center of the international bridge, where Gen. Jose Amezcua, chief of the aviation forces of Mexico, and a squad of soldiers waited to receive it.

There was a pause of five minutes, in which 10,000 heads were bared as taps was sounded, the final tribute in the United States to the man who lost his life in an attempted non-stop flight from New York to Mexico City, after coming to this country to repay the visit of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh to Mexico.

Gen. Albert J. Bowley, commander of the Eighth Corps Area at San Antonio, performed the last official act for the United States Government when he placed on the casket the only floral offering permitted.

American troops followed the cortege to the Nuevo Laredo station where brief ceremonies were held before the body was placed on a train that left at once for Mexico City. Mexican citizens cheered when the Star Spangled Banner was played and again when the bands struck up the national air of Mexico.

Fifty-two army airplanes, sweeping low and showering flowers, hovered over the international bridge during the ceremonies there. The planes then flew across the border to drop flowers on the funeral train as it departed.

"It is what Capt. Carranza would have wanted," Gen. Amezcua said. "His was a mission of good will. His body has been returned by the careful hands of those who have guarded it since the berry picker found his tattered form in New Jersey. American soldiers are on Mexican soil as a simple courtesy to our country in our bereavement."

GERMANY MOVES FOR PEACE IN LITHUANIAN-POLISH ROW

Minister at Kovno Said to Have Suggested Premier Seek to Solve Vilna Question.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, July 21.—The friendly hint that Germany associated itself with the desires expressed in London, Paris and Moscow for a peaceful solution of the Vilna question was conveyed recently to Premier Waldemaras of Lithuania, it is learned here, by Hans Morath, German Minister at Kovno, acting on instructions from the Berlin Foreign Office.

Morath is understood to have suggested to the Lithuanian Premier that the proceed with the utmost circumspection to avoid anything likely to increase the difficulty of the Lithuanian-Polish situation.

The Polish Government recently sent a note to Lithuania declaring that it could not consider any proposition regarding the restoration of normal relations between the two countries that opened up the question of sovereignty over Vilna, which is now in Polish possession.

SIX RADIO BEACONS TO GUIDE AVIATORS ACROSS U. S.

War Department Orders Chain Set-Up From Atlantic to Pacific Coast.

DAYTON, O., July 21.—Army aviators will have a transcontinental aerial highway from the Atlantic to the Pacific, along which they can fly day or night, through sunlight or rain, without getting off their course, when the six new radio beacons approved today by Assistant Secretary Davison of the War Department are erected.

The beacons will be erected at San Francisco, San Antonio, Tex.; Uniontiwn, Pa.; Dayton, O.; Washington, and Mitchel Field, N. Y. They will send out chains of dots and dashes to enable aviators to keep on their course without the aid of compass or maps. If the aviator veers to the right of the direct course, the dots will call his attention to the fact, while if he swings off to the left a chain of dashes will warn him.

SEARCH FOR ITALIA SURVIVORS DELAYED

Russian Ice Breaker Must Leave Spitzbergen for Two Weeks for Repairs.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, July 21.—Necessity of repairing damage suffered in the rescuing of survivors of the Italia today delayed search for six men who drifted away in the bag of the dirigible, and six missing rescuers, including Roald Amundsen.

The ice breaker Krassin will have to leave Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, and go to a Norwegian or Swedish port, since the repairs necessary are such that they can not be made at Kings Bay. It is expected that the Krassin will be able to resume rescue operations in about two weeks.

It is hoped that the Russian and Swedish planes in the meantime will be able to fly over the area north east of Spitzbergen looking for traces of the balloon party and Amundsen. The Swedish aviators at Kings Bay offered to put two small planes at the disposal of the Krassin if their government permitted.

The Russian flyer Chukhnovsky will remain at Kings Bay repairing his plane while the Krassin goes south.

A dispatch to Izvestia said the other Russian ice breaker, the Malgin, was returning to Archangel after an unsuccesful search for the missing men.

The soviet government has approved a projected visit to the United States by Prof. Samoilovitch and the aviator, Chuknovsky, both of whom are with the Krassin expedition. Word of this was sent to the two men by radio today, the invitation from the Russo-American Chamber of Commerce at New York being forwarded at the same time.

Charles Smith, vice president of the New York organization, who is now in Moscow, gave a statement to the newspaper Izvestia explaining that the invitation was issued with the idea of "cementing friendship between the peoples of the soviet union and the United States."

By the Associated Press.

MILAN, Italy, July 21.—The comittee which organized the first nobile relief expedition has decided to have gold medals struck for all airmen and sailors participating in saving the crew of the dirigible, Italia, regardless of their nationality.

Two German Planes Ordered for Italia Search.

WARNEMUENDE, Germany, July 21.—The Heinkel airplane plant has received a wireless rush order from Capt. Romagna of the base ship Citta di Milano at Kings Bay for two large Heinkel type 600 horsepower machines fitted to alight on ice, water or snow.

The planes are to be delivered in 12 days for the purpose of continuing the search for the six missing men who were carried off in the bag of the dirigible Italia on May 25.

It is believed that the Heinkel machines will have a wider radius of action than the Norwegian seaplanes now at Spitzbergen, and that they will need a very short runway.

SHERIFF AND DEPUTIES ARRESTED ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Cairo, Ill., Officer Declares Politics Is Back of Federal Accusation Against Him.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CAIRO, Ill., July 21.—Federal warrants charging manufacture, sale and transportation of intoxicating liquor and conspiracy to violate the prohibition law were served today on Sheriff Leslie B. Roche, Chief Deputy Ernest Rink and Louis C. Ent, Deputy Sheriff. The three men went before United States Commissioner J. E. Clutts and gave bonds of $10,000 each for their appearance Aug. 15 for preliminary hearing. They denied the charges.

"It's an aftermath of the primary in which Gov. Len Small was defeated by Louis L. Emmerson for the Republican nomination for Governor," Sheriff Roche said. Roche was leader of the Emmerson forces in the primary and later was elected chairman of the Republican County Central Committee.

PIONEER OF PEACE HONORED

Tablet in Memory of William Ladd Unveiled in Maine.

By the Associated Press.

MINOT, Me., July 21.—A tablet in memory of William Ladd, who founded the American Peace Society 100 years ago, was unveiled today beside the church which occupies the site where Ladd worshiped during his life here.

The speakers were: David Jayne Hill, former Ambassador to Germany; Dr. A. D. Call, secretary of the American Peace Society; Dr. Yu-Chuen James Yen, general director of the Chinese National Association for Mass Education; and Gov. Brewster of Maine, who unveiled the table. The tablet was erected by the State of Maine.

AIR TOUR AT GREAT FALLS

By the Associated Press.

GREAT FALLS, Mont., July 21.—The twenty-two planes in the national air tour arrived here today from Missoula, Mont., and will remain overnight. Tomorrow the aerial caravan will continue on to Froid, Mont., and Minot, N. D.

Mrs. Phoebe Omlie, piloting her monocoupe, was the last to check into the local air field.

Savings From 10% to 40%

VIRTUALLY all of the furniture in this semi-annual sale is new Fall merchandise. In previous clearances we have sold most of our discontinued patterns, odd suites, etc., and we now offer newest designs at savings of 10% to 40%.

Even although you may not be in need of furniture for immediate use, selections can be made now at Semi-Annual Sale prices for delivery as late as September. Early selection is urged, as some of the special suites and pieces cannot be duplicated after the present stock is exhausted.

Right Will Prevail

"And those who came to scoff remained to praise."

The recent death in England of Mrs. Pankhurst—who made woman's suffrage a reality—in that staid old country—illustrates again the difficulties of many who have the courage of their convictions.

Suffering rebuffs from Parliament—ridicule from political leaders—abuse from many sources—she still persisted in her cause—and gained a victory benefiting millions.

FIGHTING FOR A JUST CAUSE IS WELL WORTH THE EFFORTS EXPENDED.

AUTOPSY SHOWS LOEWENSTEIN WAS NOT KILLED IN PLANE

Further Examination Will Be Made to Determine Whether Banker Was Ill or Poisoned.

By the Associated Press.

CALAIS, France, July 21. — Capt. Alfred Loewenstein was still alive when he plunged 4000 feet from his airplane over the English Channel, it was concluded by the medical men who turned in their autopsy report today.

At the request of relatives a further examination will be made of internal organs to determine whether poison or disease caused the Belgian financier's abnormal condition at the time of the tragedy. This is based upon the supposition that he tore off the collar and tie which were found in the plane. Evidence has already been given that just before leaving his seat for the rear of the machine, he acted as if he were suffering.

The present autopsy finding disposes of suppositions that he might have met death in the plane. The implication that some other occupant of the ship was responsible for his passing was thus cancelled. The regular autopsy completed official formalities of the case here. Formal identification was officially reported and the body was placed in a coffin preparatory to its shipment to Brussels.

HAWES TO CONFER WITH LEADERS HERE

Outlines Plans for Conducting Smith Regional Headquarters in St. Louis.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-205 Kellogg Bldg.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Senator Hawes of Missouri, who was appointed yesterday Democratic campaign manager for the south central section of the country, outlined his geenral plans today for the Democratic presidential and congressional campaign in what he calls the "fighting group of States." These States are Missouri, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Iowa, Arkansas, Tennessee and Kentucky. It has not yet been decided whether Illinois shall be included in the group.

Hawes said he would establish headquarters in St. Louis within the next two or three weeks and that his first step would be to call into conference at St. Louis, all Democratic National committeemen and committeewomen, and all candidates for the House and Senate from this region. This group will map out a general campaign for the National Committee, the National Senatorial Committee and the National Congressional Committee. The treasurer of the group will be John G. Lonsdale, president of the National Bank of Commerce of St. Louis.

To Serve in Liaison Groups.

The conference will also decide how large an organization shall be maintained at the St. Louis headquarters. Hawes said that he would be assisted by former Scott Ferris, of Oklahoma, Representative Fred Vinson of Kentucky or a man of that type. The question of a publicity man and a speakers' bureau will be considered at this first meeting. After the conference, the St. Louis office will act as a liaison group between the national headquarters and the State and local workers.

"If we can carry this group of states, or any considerable part of it, Smith is elected," Hawes declared in announcing his plans.

"I believe that Smith is certain to carry New York, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Rhode Island and we have a fighting chance in Pennsylvania," he continued.

"Any claim for a break in the Solid South is nonsense. Columns have been written about the situation in Texas. The only question in my mind is whether Smith will carry it by 200,000 or 300,000.

"Missouri is safely Democratic for Smith and the best Republican prognosticators admit it. We can't lost Arkansas. There are four Democratic Congressmen from Nebraska. For the first time we have a clean-cut and distinct farm issue in that State. If there has been any serious Democratic defections in Nebraska I haven't heard of it.

Hopeful of Oklahoma.

"As for Oklahoma, I have talked with Scott Ferris and Senator Elmer Thomas and they were very sanguine. The attitude of Tennessee and Kentucky at the Houston convention certanily must carry with it the thought of the Democratic leaders in those states. My opniion at the present time is that we can carry both states."

This statement left Kansas and Iowa out of the picture. Hawes said that he did not know much about the situation in those states.

He said that no arrangements had yet been made for getting funds for his sectional organization. He indicated that some of the money would be raised in the region itself by Lonsdale and that help might be forthcoming from the National headquarters.

Lonsdale's selection was apparently directed at voters in the Southern tier of states, the bankers and the farmers. Lonsdale is a director of the American Bankers' Association, director of the United States Chamber of Commerce and is an authority on the farm situation in the Middle West. He was a member of the Flood Control Committee of the National Chamber of Commerce which recommended that the Government take all responsibility for flood control on the Mississippi River.

WIFE'S FORMER SUITOR HELD FOR MAN'S DEATH IN AUTO

Paul Reed of Rockford, Ill., Must Answer Charges Resulting from Bombing of Motor Car.

By the Associated Press.

ROCKFORD, Ill., July 21.—A Coroner's jury today recommended that Paul Reed, 24 years old, a draughtsman, be held for the grand jury in connection with the fatal bombing of Vernon Plager, Rockford radio expert, who was blown to death in his automobile two days ago.

The jury made no recommendations regarding Mrs. Iva Plager, the widow, former sweetheart of Reed, who also was arrested as a suspect in connection with her husband's death.

Coroner Fred Olson conducted the inquiry. Mrs. Plager was one of the witnesses, telling of her affair with Reed which culminated in their elopement last fall. After she left the stand, the Coroner asked her if she desired to see her husband's body as it lay in state in the adjoining room, waiting for the funeral. Although she had not seen Plager since his death, Mrs. Plager replied: "I don't want to see him."

Reed, who was also at the inquest, snickered when he heard Mrs. Plager testify she "was afraid of him." He maintained his stolid attitude and claimed that merely circumstances linked him with the bombing.

URGES FEDERAL AID IN CROP MARKETING

President Thompson of Farm Federation Addresses Oakville Picnic Crowd.

Government aid in marketing and the protection of the farmer against his own surplus were urged by Sam H. Thompson of Quincy, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, at the Oakville picnic given for all farmers in the State by the St. Louis County Farm Bureau. Several thousands attended.

A scientific plan of marketing, Thompson said, did not necessarily mean a subsidy or a dole to the farmer.

"This organization has contended that it is sound business policy to meet the farm situation by asking for a measure in which the Government would be required to give only such necessary assistance to co-operatives or other marketing agencies as would permit the spreading of the cost of handling the surplus over the entire marketing unit for the community. Such a measure would avoid a subsidy or drawing on the national treasury to put the American farmer on the dole system."

Thompson, quoting Department of Agriculture reports, said both farm income and the value of farm lands had declined; that farm bankruptcies had increased alarmingly, and overhead on the farm, including taxes, was increasing.

"If something could be done to restore agriculture to a state of prosperity and thus bring to it increased purchasing power, the beneficial effect upon other industries in this country would be tremendous. With a high protective tariff on most manufactured goods, domestic industries would be able to get the benefit of this market."

Roy F. Britton, president of the Automobile Club of Missouri, urged the farmers to support the $75,000,000 bond issue for good roads

With a high protective tariff on most manufactured goods, domestic industries would be able to get the benefit of this market."

Roy F. Britton, president of the Automobile Club of Missouri, urged the farmers to support the $75,000,000 bond issue for good roads throughout the State which will be voted on at the November election. The State highway system includes 7640 miles, Britton said, and is but half completed. The $75,000,000 would make possible the completion of all State highways by 1933, he said.

Other members were: Paul B. Naylor of the Agricultural Colege at Columbit, Mrs. C. C. Shuttler of Farmington, and Mrs. Ellsworth Richardson, of the Iowa Farm Bureau. Henry W. J. Rott, president of the St. Louis County Farm Bureau, presided.

JAPANESE SUNDAY SCHOOL DELEGATES TO VISIT ST. LOUIS

Program of Entertainment Provided for Party on Way to Los Angeles Convention.

A party of about 52 Japanese men and women, going to the tenth World's Sunday-school convention in Los Angeles, Cal., will be entertained in St. Louis next Sunday by a committee of St. Louis men and women chosen through the Foreign Trade Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce.

A reception committee will meet the visitors when their train arrives at 7:15 a. m., after which they will be guests at a breakfast at Hotel Chase. Next, the visitors will be escorted to various Sunday schools, then to homes of committee members. At 6 p. m. they will be invited to a picnic supper on the grounds of Eden Theological Seminary, Webster Groves, where there will be a vesper service and a pageant picturing the development of good will between Japan and America.

THREE-DAY SUN DANCE BEGUN

FORT HALL, Indian Reservation, Idaho, July 21.—With undiminished enthusiasm 50 Bannock, Shoshone and Lemhi Indian braves today performed the sun dance, to the accompaniment of drums and the chant of the squaws.

The hours of continuous effort without food or water since the dance started at sundown yesterday had in no way dulled the spirits of the dancers. The ceremony will continue without interruption until sunrise Monday, when the strongest brave will be declared the greatest dancer. The squaws will then prepare a banquet to break the three-day's fast of the dancers.

AUSTRO-GERMAN UNION CHEERED AT FESTIVAL

Three Hundred Thousand at Schubert Fete in Vienna Applaud Reichstag Head.

VIENNA, July 21.—Union of Austria with Germany was acclaimed here today by 300,000 persons of Teutonic blood, who packed themselves into and round the enormous singing hall of the Franz Schubert festival. They took a vow to make this an accomplished fact politically, as it already exists, they asserted, through bonds of language, culture and customs.

Thunderous cheers greeted the speakers, particularly Paul Loebe, president of the German Reichstag. He declared he represented the sentiment of all the German people and said that a reunion of the two germanic nations had already been achieved by established customs and the economic alliance between them.

"The Schubert centennial has given confirmation of this," he said. "It supplies a vivid and unmistakable demonstration to the world that this historic movement cannot be arrested. Germans and Austrains met here, proclaimed to the world that they are determined to live together under the protection of their common fatherland."

The demonstration was anticipated several days before the festival opened by the French Minister. He called upon the Austrian Foreign Office and said he had been instructed to stay away from Vienna while the music celebration was in progress because it was being turned into a demonstration in favor of a union of Austria and Germany, a project to which his government was firmly opposed.

LETTER FOUND IN TRASH PILE BEARS SIGNATURE OF LINCOLN

Document, Thought to Be by War President, Congratulates Governor of Louisiana.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 21.—Unearthed in a trash pile here, a letter signed "A. Lincoln" is thought to have been written by President Lincoln during the Civil War, congratulating Michael Hahn on his election as "the first Free State Governor of Louisiana."

The letter, written in a bold hand and addressed to the Louisiana Governor, is written on stationery headed "Executive Mansion," dated March 13, 1864. O. P. Walton and "Tubby" Walton, restaurant owners, found it.

The text of the letter follows:

"I congratulate you on having fixed your name in history as the first Free State Governor of Louisiana. Now you are about to have a convention which, among other things, will probably define the elective franchise. I barely suggest for your private consideration whether some of the colored people may not be let in—as, for instance, the very intelligent and especially those who have fought gallantly in our ranks. They would probably help, in some trying times to come, to keep the jewel of liberty with the family of freedom. But this is only a suggestion, not to the public, but to you alone. Yours truly, A. Lincoln."

SECOND MAN HIT BY TRAIN DIES, VICTIMS IDENTIFIED

Engineer Says Virgil Browno and William H. Austin Lay on Tracks.

William H. Austin, 28 years old, 2132 Elm avenue, St. Louis County, died last night at St. Lupke's Hospital of injuries suffered Friday night when he and Virgil Browne, 26, of North avenue and Carson road, Normandy, were struck by a Wabash passenger train between Page and Plymouth avenues, St. Louis County.

Browne, who was run over and killed, was not identified until yesterday.

According to Clarence Shoopmen, engineer of the train, the two men were lying across the tracks. Shoopmen saw them when the train was a short distance away and applied the brakes. Austin was knocked to the side of the tracks; Browne was caught between the rails.

FRANCE HOPES THAT RUSSIA WILL SIGN ANTI-WAR TREATY

But There Is Little Likelihood of Prompt Action in Negotiations With Moscow.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 21.—The possibility of signature of Secretary of State Kellogg's outlawry of war pact by Russia was an eventuality unforeseen in French offiical circles, it was said today.

There was a certain amount of skepticism as to the possibility of bringing to a head promptly the necessary preliminary negotiations with Moscow, but it was declared that the more Governments that signed the pact, the better would be its moral effect.

To Enlarge Missouri Hospital.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—A new 200-bed veterans' hospital is to be constructed in Nebraska and the present facilities at Excelsior Springs, Mo., and Knoxville, Ia., will be enlarged. Gen. Hines, director of the Veterans' Bureau, announced today that decision for the new construction, made by the Federal Board for Hospitalization, and approved by President Coolidge, would solve the problem of caring for veterans in Kansas, Missouri, Iowa and Nebraska. At present only leased facilities are available and these, which are at Kansas City, Mo., will continue in use only until the new structure is completed.

Now Betty's never guilty of "B.O." (Body Odor)

Becomes most popular girl in her set

—after learning why people were unfriendly to her

FLOCKS of eager young men seek Betty—more partners than she can dance with—admired by everyone—invited everywhere—"now the most popular girl in her set."

And this is the girl who used to be so lonely, so friendless. The girl who used to sit at home with the "blues" while everyone else was going to parties and having a good time.

How did she do it? A lucky accident. She chanced to overhear a whispered conversation and found out that she, too, was guilty of an unpardonable fault. A fault that makes many attractive girls social failures—"B. O."

Betty knew what that meant—Body Odor! And then she found an easy way to overcome it, too. She's never lonesome now. She's a favorite with everyone.

Body odor unpardonable —yet so easy to end

It's almost impossible for anyone with body odor to win popularity and success. Nobody cares to put up with this offensive social error.

Of course, everyone perspires. That's one of nature's ways of ridding our systems of waste. Even on a cool day, our pores give off as much as a quart of odor-causing perspiration. We ourselves don't detect its unpleasantness—because our sense of smell becomes accustomed to a familiar odor. But to others, it's unbearable.

Why, then, take chances? Perspiration is necessary, healthful—but the odor can be avoided now—and so easily. To be sure of absolute personal daintiness just wash and bathe often with this delightful, purifying toilet soap—Lifebuoy. Its bland and abundant antiseptic lather purifies pores—giving bath-to-bath freshness and freedom from body odor.

Healthier complexions, too

This same mild, antiseptic Lifebuoy lather also purifies face pores—keeping complexions smooth, clear and glowingly fresh. Guards health, too—by removing germs. You'll learn to love Lifebuoy's pleasant clean scent, which tells you it purifies, and which vanishes as you rinse.

Try Lifebuoy Free

To try this delightful toilet soap without cost, just send us your name and address. By return mail, you will receive two full-size cakes of Lifebuoy free. Write today to Lever Bros. Co., Dept. S 34, Cambridge, Mass.

URGES REJECTION OF STREET PAVING BIDS

East St. Louis Real Estate Exchange Says Prices Are Too High.

The East St. Louis Real Estate Exchange in a resolution addressed to the East St. Louis City Council yesterday, asks that four bids opened July 9 by the Board of public Improvements on the Renshaw Paving District be rejected, because all are too high. The low bid on the Renshaw street improvement is $136,498.

The resolution says that an inquiry was conducted into paving contracts entered into by the City of Kirkwood, St. Louis County, with Moore Brothers Construction Co. an East St. Louis concern, which bid on the Renshaw project.

The inquiry disclosed that Moore brothers laid the concrete slab complete in place in Kirkwood on various jobs at prices ranging from $2.18 a square yard to $2.30 a square yard, but that their bid on the Renshaw project was $3.42 a square yard, the resolution states.

"The Exchange feels that if one of our local contractors can go to the City of Kirkwood, Mo., and do concrete work at a price of $2.18 per square yard under practically the same conditions that exist in East St. Louis, then the bids of $3.22, $3.33, $3.34 and $3.42 per square yard that were turned in on the Renshaw project, are all too high. For the best interests of the property owners abutting these improvements, all bids should be rejected and the work readvertised." the resolution requests.

There are 32,329 square yard of concrete provided in the Renshaw specifications, which would represent a minimum difference in this contractors prices of $36,208, comparing the rate charged in Kirkwood and in East St. Louis.

No award has been made by the Board of Public Improvements on the Renshaw project. John T. Connors, Commissioner of Streets and Public Improvements and president of the board said he was investigating the responsibility of the Hogan Construction Co. of Little Rock, Ark., which submitted the low bid.

The Hogan company's bid is 20 cents a square yard below the prevailing average price received by East St. Louis contractors for the 8-inch reinforced concrete slab complete in place but exclusive of grading and other costs. The Hogan company's bid was only the second received in five years from other than East St. Louis contractors. W. H. Horner, chairman of the Exchange Committee that is inquiring into the high prices of paving, said local contractors controlled the paving work in East St. Louis and that members of the Board of Public Improvements kept outside bidders from competing by preventing them from procuring the necessary bidding blanks

FULL CIVIL RIGHTS GRANTED GYPSIES IN CZECHO-SLOVAKIA

But This Means Quitting Nomadic Life and Drafting of 20,000 Into Army.

By the Associated Press.

PRAGUE, Czecho-Slovakia, July 21.—Emulating the recent example of Hungary and the earlier ones of Russia and England, the Czecho-Slovakian Government today granted full civil rights and citizenship to all gypsies.

The full civic rights and citizenship bestowed on the gypsies means that more than 20,000 of them will be drafted into the army of Czecho-Slovakia. Like the gypsies of Hungary, the wanderers of Bohemia will be required to abandon their nomadic habits, find fixed abodes and adopt modern dress and customs.

Under the old Austrian empire, which included the present territory of Czecho-Slovakia, gypsies were immune from military service, taxes and other obligations to the state.

FORMER SEATTLE MAYOR RAKES SMITH'S WET STAND

George F. Cotterill, Lifelong Democrat, Enters Field for Gubernatorial Nomination.

By the Associated Press.

OLYMPIA, Wash., July 21.—George F. Cotterill, former Mayor of Seattle and lifelong Democrat, filed his declaration of candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Governor with the Secretary of State here today, after announcing he would not support the presidential candidacy of the Democratic nominee, Gov. Smith.

Cotterill recently declared he could not support Smith because of the New York Governor's views on prohibition. In a statement issued at Seattle, Cotterill said he refused "either to be read or driven out of the Democratic party by the abusive tactics of Tammany Hall hirelings and their imitators in the State of Washington." He said "no Democrat is in any way obligated to support this wet post-platform sought to be imposed by Tammany trickery after an honorable law enforcement declaration had been adopted and a presidential nomination based on it.

"When Gov. Smith violated the unanimous Platform Committee and convention agreement and made his direct appeal for the vote of nullification resolutions, he absolved every constitution and law-respecting Democrat from any party obligation to his candidacy."

BELGRADE ORDERS INTERNING OF BULGARIAN SUSPECTS

Attempt to Assassinate Jugo-Slavia Official Is Cause of Order.

By the Associated Press.

BELGRADE, July 21.—The government has decided to intern all suspected Bulgarian in concertration camps in an effort to prevent further attacks upon Jugo-Slavia officials.

This action follows upon the attempt last week on the life of Jivojin Lazitch, Chief of the Belgrade police, who was wounded by Momcillo Ivanow, alleged to be agent of the Macedonian revolutionary organization. In Ivanlow's pocket a letter was found indicating that members of the Jugo-Slavian ministry had been marked for death.

Nedelka Athanasoff and Stoyanoff, former members of the Cabinet of Alexander Stamboulisky of Bulgaria, who are here as political refugees, have been requested to leave the country within a week.

INDORSES RASKOB'S STAND ON EIGHTEENTH AMENDMENT

District of Columbia Committeeman Says Lack of Respect for Law Almost Unanimous.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—The stand of John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, for repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment, was indorsed by John F. Costello, District of Columbia committeeman, in his reply to Raskob's query sent to all members of the committee in regard to their attitude toward prohibition.

"We know from our personal observation and ability to weigh the real truth of conditions," wrote Costello, "that there is an almost unanimous lack of respect for the prohibition law as it now exists and a growing lack of respect for the many other blue and sumptuary laws foisted on us by a comparatively few militant reformers and fanatics. Furthermore, we are able to discount the chicanery of the ardent political wet-drinking, dry-voting politicians. To be criticised by these bigots for expressing views is disagreeable, but to be told by them that our honest opinion is in itself a lack of respect for the law is ridiculous."

NORTHWEST WEATHER SENDS WHEAT DOWN

Heavy Movement of Winter Grain Also Factor in Price Trend.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, July 21.—Wheat and corn closed lower at the final session of the week on the local market, forecast of cool weather in part of spring wheat belt being leading influence in that market. Favorable weather was reported in the corn belt. Export demand was called slack.

In the local cash grain market prices averaged 2c to 2½c lower on the better grades of soft wheat and 2c to 3c on No. 3's and high moisture off grades. A few sales were reported booked before the opening at about previous day's prices. The demand was not so sharp but at the lower levels a good clearance was effected. There were late sales at $1.51½ for nice bright No. 1 red, $1.50 for average run No. 2 red, $1.49 for 14 per cent moisture No. 2s under 59 lbs., No. 3s at $1.46 to $1.47. Elevators bought heavy test high moisture No. 4s mostly at $1.42, sample grade 15.8 to 15.9 per cent moisture at $1.40. Hard wheat declined 2c to 3c, sales being slow. Early in day a line of Kansas No. 1 and No. 2 including some heavy-test No. 4 account excess moisture or rye mixture mostly around 11.33 to 11.65 per cent protein sold to mill at $1.28. Late, Ill. No. 1 hard sold at $1.27. ½c over Chicago Sept. price, ordinary No. 2 yellow hard at $1.26. There was some heavy test high moisture No. 3 and No. 4 wheat offered as low as $1.24. Mixed wheat also was slow. Mills bought a few cars No. 2 hard 12 per cent protein for quick shipment at $1.35. Corn prices ranged 3c to 5c lower. Receipts showed further increase and with fixtures lower, the demand for corn was slow. Very little oats being received. It was reported late preceding day a car of stained new No. 3 white (92 per cent cultivator, 8 per cent wheat), 31-lb test, sold at 55c.

Weakness at Winnipeg, where prices early were down more than a cent, favorable spring wheat crop advices and big receipts at winter wheat points were mentioned as influences in early market. Liverpool wheat closed ⅝d lower. Corn here also was down in early period.

September wheat opened at $1.27⅞. December wheat, $1.31¾. September corn, 97½c and December corn, 80⅝c.

Local wheat receipts, which were 387,800 bushels, compared with 312,200 a week ago and 217,000 a year ago, included 234 cars local and 43 through. Corn receipts, which were 147,000 bushels, compared with 119,000 a week ago and 50,400 a year ago, included 81 cars local and 24 through. Oats receipts, which were 4000 bushels, compared with 18,000 a week ago and 58,000 a year ago, included 2 cars local and none through. Hay receipts were 1 car local and 1 through.

Stocks in St. Louis Public Elevators amounted to 700,804 bushels of wheat, 306,906 bushels of corn and 36,815 bushels of oats. Grain stocks comprised 2589 bushels of No. 1 red winter wheat, 21,327 bushels of No. 2 red winter wheat, 195,720 bushels of No. 1 hard winter wheat, 123,378 bushels of No. 2 hard winter wheat, 196,699 bushels of No. 2 yellow corn, 3891 bushels of No. 2 white corn, 333 bushels of No. 2 white oats, 1734 bushel of No. 3 white oats.

PROSPECTIVE COOL WEATHER IN NORTHWEST LOWERS WHEAT

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 21.—Prospective widespread cool weather ideal to promote the welfare of spring wheat led to much lower prices today for wheat. Besides, export business in wheat from North America was relatively slack, and in some cases future deliveries here touched the lowest level yet this season.

Closing quotations on wheat were heavy, 1⅞c to 3⅛c net lower. Corn finished ½c to 1¼c off, oats at ⅝c decline to ⅛c advance, and provisions unchanged to 7c down.

In addition to the auspicious weather outlook as well as favorable crop reports from the spring wheat belt, especially Canada, huge receipts of new winter wheat in the Southwest had a decided bearish influence on the wheat market here. Weakness of the Winnipeg market meanwhile gave particular emphasis to favorable advices.

Cheap Canadian offerings appeared today to be monopolizing whatever export outlet there was for wheat from North America. Southwest receipts proved to be again of record-breaking large volume. Kansas City had arrivals of 1252 cars, compared with 985 a week ago and with 402 on the corresponding day last year. Hutchinson Kan., was likewise to the front with an aggregate of 779 cars.

Corn and oats values gave way with wheat. Moreover, receipts of corn were large today, 300 cars and deliveries on Chicago July contracts amounted to 290,000 bu. Weather over the corn belt was favorable.

Provisions became easy, sympathizing with a decline in hog values.

NATIONAL STOCK YARDS, July 21.—Steady to lower prices prevailed for most livestock at the St. Louis National Stock Yards during the week just ended. Combined receipts were moderate at approximately 104,318 head and showed a decrease from both the preceding week and the same period a year ago. Cattle and calves numbered 26,000 head, including a good representation of fat native steers and 120 cars grass and cake cattle from Western ranges. Interest in cattle centered largely in the finished native beeves, prices for which strengthened 15c to 25c. Tops scored a new high for the year at $16.25. Medium and plain native steers, also Westerns, were under pressure and closed from steady to 50c lower, with the loss increasing proportionately with the decline in quality. The bulk of all native steers changed hands at $13.50 to $15.50, with plain descriptions centering around $12.00 and Western grassers, bulk of which were from Kansas, at $10.25 to $12.75. Some fed Westerns were noted at $12.85 to $13.25. Light yearling steers and heifers declined 25c, with most of the better end selling at $14.25 to $15.00, others $11.50 to $14.00. The top for heifers was $15.50 and for mixed $15.25. No strictly choice quality was represented.

Top beef cows, also the canner and cutter grades, remained about steady, while the others eased off 25c. Majority of all beef grades registered $8 to $9.50, with the best end up to $11 or better. Most of the canners and cutters were included in a range of $6.50 to $7.50. Bulls were 15c to 25c higher midweek, but lost this advance on the close. Bulk of sales $7 to $8.75, with top bolognas at the best time $9. Stocker and feeder cattle were quiet and about steady. Bulk of steers were quotable at $8 to $10.85. Lack of adequate shipping demand forced veal calf prices down almost each day, the top Friday at $13.75 comparing with $15 at the close of the previous week.

Decline in Hogs.

The past week's hog trade saw heavy hogs, which have been selling at top prices, take a sharp drop to the bottom of the maket, while light hogs, 170 to 190 pounds, took the front. This situation was gradually taking place all week and in today's market was fully established. Declines were frequent after the early part of the week due to a curtailed order and butcher demand and bearish packers. Packers would invariably hold out until late in the day then enter and seek lower prices. As compared with a week ago light hogs and handyweight butchers are steady to 25c lower, light hogs showing least decline. Medium and heavy hogs on the other and are generally 35c to 50c lower, with spots as much as 75c off. Top today was $11.25, paid for choice 170 to 190 pound averages while some 350 pound average sold down to $10.50. High top for the period was $11.65, with values ranging downward from this figure.

Very much difficulty was encountered in disposing of heavy hogs and in some cases salesmen were forced to carry them over a day or two before finding satisfactory outlet. Light hogs, in contrast, were having a hard time a few weeks back, had easy sailing, finding buyers readily, especially the latter part of the week.

Pigs and light lights held fairly well around steady with a week ago, on which basis they closed the period. Packing sows experienced a slight decline due to poor demand the past two days.

Fair Run of Lambs.

The past week's sheep and lamb market was a two-way affair, this is, the early part of the week was spent in declines while later sessions were on the up grade and values at the close of the week are about steady with last week's close. Runs were fairly heavy and demands were off in the early sessions, while the situation was reversed after mid-week. However, the market was very erratic throughout the week, due mainly to quality which varied considerably. The forepart of the week found quality running very much under good, and heavy sorts were necessary to make the lambs anywhere near good. The latter part of the period found quality in somewhat better shape and sorts were not quite so heavy. These facts influenced members of the trade considerably in calling the market and in comparing this week's close with a week ago they were important factors. Although packers failed to pay over $14.50 for anything during the week, members of the trade stated that no strictly choice lambs were offered. Bulk of lambs during the week made $13.50 to $14.25. Plain to medium grades found outlet between $10 to $13.50. Culls cashed at $8.50 to $9, mostly $9. Fat ewes were in light supply and prices varied very little during the week. Best light kinds made $6.50, with 120s up at $4 to $6. Choppers and bucks ranged from $2.50 to $3.50, with canners $1 to $2.

Quotations: Slaughter Stock: Strictly choice ewe and wether lambs $14.75 to $15, fair to good $13.50 to $14.50, plain to fair $10 to $13.50, cull and common $9 to $10, skips $6 to $8, good to choice yearling wethers $11 to $12.50, medium to good $10 to $11, plain to medium $9 to $10, cull and common $7 to $9. Good to choice mutton ewes $6 to $6.50, plain to good $4 to $6, choppers and bucks $2.50 to $3.50, canners $1 to $2.

Horses and Mules.

HORSES AND MULES—The week's trade was quiet under a small supply of 360 head. No material change in price was reported. Demand centers at this time largely in wagon horses, cheap work horses, mine mules, good big mules with bone and cotton feeders.

NATIVE HORSE QUOTATIONS.

STERLING DEPENDS ON WHO FINANCES CROPS

London Faces Autumn With a Certain Equanimity.

BY ARTHUR W. KIDDY.

LONDON, July 21.—With almost unprecedented strength in the bank position, with the gold reserve up to nearly £60,000,000 and the total of holdings in coin and bullion nearly £176,000,000 it is not surprising that London is facing the autumn with a certain equanimity though that equanimity is accompanied by caution owing to the uncertainty of the developments in the United States while the size of the French balances in London are not forgotten.

Opinions in London now concerning the position of Wall Street vary considerably and while some maintain it is still unwieldy others assert that its position is greatly reduced and is even becoming healthy, but it is believed also wisely in the sense that gold if spread out further will produce conditions favorable to international trade of which the United States will probably get the lion's share. Moreover, if the peace propaganda and the peace negotiations proceed well, and result in a general pact it is not unlikely that general finance and trade will receive still further stimulus, though the abnormal position of Russia has to be remembered.

The uncertainty of developments in America is necessarily increased by the impending presidential election but the belief in London is that whatever the result the ultimate effect will be good and some even believe that previous to the election the monetary position of the United States will be thoroughly clarified.

The movement of sterling exchange is considered to depend largely on whether New York or London finances America's cotton and wheat crops. Previous to the war America's genuine cotton bills were always freely anticipated two months ahead by finance bills, and the reappearance at the present time of such bills, but subsequently it was recognized that the present bills had no connection with cotton.

The unfavorable condition of the British heavy industries is still indicated by the steadily falling railway traffic, while the latest statistics show the number of persons on the unemployment list is 1,242,000, being an increase of 30,000 over the previous week and an increase of over 20,000 compared to four years ago.

Some railways are now showing declines in revenue which if continued throughout the year would represent more than the entire total of dividends on ordinary stocks paid last year.

Most of the British industrial troubles are traceable to the paralyzing hand of the Government. During and after the war the railways were run on an uneconomic basis and when handed back to the companies these companies were compelled to accept certain Government conditions. Remedy was sought through combines or grouping of competing systems with the idea of effecting economies, but the result has been to increase the monopolistic spirit and the curbing of railway facilities, thus giving motor competition an excellent opportunity, with disastrous results to the railways.

The national revenue figures are also disquieting, especially as regards the income tax. For the first quarter of the financial year 1925-26 the income tax was £40,000,000 and the supertax was £18,500,000. The receipts for the current quarter from income were £21,250,000 and from the supertax were £8,000,000. During the interval the income tax has come down only about 6d per pound and the reduction of the supertax is also small.

COTTON MARKET IS LOWER AT LAST SESSION OF WEEK

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Reports of beneficial rains in west Texas were followed by declines of about 16 to 17 points in the cotton market early today, but after selling off to 20.72c for October, prices steadied on covering for over the week-end. October closed at 20.80c, the general market closing steady at net declines of 8 to 15 points.

The market opened easy at a decline of 4 to 11 points under renewed realizing which appeared to be coupled with local and Southern selling inspired by relatively easy cables and the more favorable weather reports.

As the west Texas rain news reached the market offerings increased and for a time there was considerabel pressure, July selling off to 20.50c and December to 20.55c, or 16 to 19 points below yesterday's closing quotations and into new low ground for the present movement. Offerings tapered off on this decline, however, suggesting that considerable progress had been made in discounting the Texas rain reports during yesterday's trading, while the break evidently brought in a good deal of profit-taking by recent sellers. This absorbed early offerings and caused rallies of about 4 to 8 points from the lowest in later trading.

Effects of the better weather news from the Southwest were probably modified to some extent by reiterated comment of increasing boll weevil infestation, and the firmer technical position of the market after the decline of about 215 points from the high prices of late last month.

Private cable said there had been heavy selling by Bombay and American interests in the Liverpool market owing to the more favorable weather reports from the South and houses with foreign connections seemed to have some cotton for sale here at the opening. A little trade buying was reported on the decline, but local brokers attributed the bulk of the demand to week-end covering.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 68,533 bales, against 56,405 last year.

Spot cotton was quiet; middling 21.10c.

An upward revision of crop ideas due to the unexpectedly large increase in acreage as indicated by the recent Government report and the more favorable average of recent crop advices, has been reflected by further declines in the cotton market here during the past week. In a general way the acreage figures probably accounted for the addition of about 5 per cent to the crop ideas prevailing here toward the end of last month. Meanwhile an impression has evidently been created that the condition of the crop improved somewhat during the first half of June, which, of course, has had a tendency to raise ideas as to the indicated yield per acre. Between the two, current comment would suggest that crop expectations at the end of this week are not less than a million bales above the views prevailing toward the end of last month.

About a month ago, it may be recalled, traders were talking a crop of somewhere between 12¾ and 13½ million bales, while at present a possibility that end-July reports may point to a yield of between 14 and 15 million bales is being discussed. It has been pointed out, in this connection, that such views must be contingent upon weather conditions for the balance of the month and there are some traders who feel that in emphasizing more favorable weather and crop features, there has been a tendency to ignore unfavorable conditions such as the West Texas drouth, the frequency of recent showers or rains in the eastern belt, and the prevailing of boll weevil.

Whatever may be the facts, however, the decline below the 21 cent level for October contracts has been accompanied by more or less general talk of improving crop prospects which would naturally suggest that some progress has been made in discounting that view of the outlook.

The first Government report on condition and indicated yield is scheduled for publication on Aug. 8. Private reports are expected within the next week or 10 days, and will doubtless be awaited with considerable interest for a more definite indication as to the progress of the crop during July and as to whether there has been a tendency to over or under emphasize the more favorable features. Meanwhile it is said that ginning is beginning to make progress in the extreme Southwest, but it is doubted whether more than 35,000 bales will be turned out prior to Aug. 1 this year.

Weekly Butter Review.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 21.—Only the relatively light receipts are keeping supplies of butter from showing accumulation. Largely as a result, many in the trade are apparently somewhat nervous, but any attempt to establish the price basis on a lower level has resulted in sufficient buying response to hold values unchanged.

General opinion is that production is on about the same level as last year. For the most part, consumption is fairly favorable. There has been an evident attempt, particularly on the part of the larger retail distributors to hold the spread between wholesale and retail values to the minimum margin. This has been of considerable effect in sustaining consumer demands.

Joplin Ore Prices Unchanged

By the Associated Press.

JOPLIN, Mo., July 21.—Ore prices were unchanged in the tri-State District today, zinc ranging from $37 to $41 a ton with prime western grades at $40, while lead brought $80. With neither the buyers or sellers seemingly anxious to trade and with several of the major buyers reported in the market for only a limited tonnage, the amount of ore purchased dropped to 9840 tons. Production for the week remained unchanged from that of the previous week, when the output was approximately 12,000 tons.

EMPIRE MINE IS SOLD TO IRON MOUNTAIN CO.

Former Manager of Henry Ford Mines to Operate Plant at Baxter Springs, Kan.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JOPLIN, Mo., July 21.—Sale of the Empire Development Co.'s mine, southwest of Baxter Springs, Kan., in the Joplin district, to the Iron Mountain Lead and Zinc Co., for a consideration said to be "over $300,000," has been announced.

John Reigart of Iron Mountain, Mich., former manager of the Henry Ford iron mines in Michigan, has moved to Joplin and will take charge of the mine for the new owners, of which he is one.

The Empire mine was owned by F. W. Evans and the lease consists of 80 acres. The mill was built a little more than a year ago, after the old mill on the lease was destroyed by fire. A large reserve of ore was found on the lease during the 90-day drilling option by churn drilling.

Texas Corporation Expansion Developments Are Reviewed

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Three important developments in the expansion program of the Texas corporation inaugurated in the last month were reported to stockholders today by R. C. Holmes, president.

The first was the extension of pipe line facilities to the company's light oil production in the Panhandle district, Gray County, Texas followed by the purchase of 4,265,000 barrels of steel tankage and 3,000,000 barrels of crude oil with gathering lines and loading rack in Crane, Upton and Winkler Counties, Texas. Developed and undeveloped leases in this area also were obtained with 27 wells and an estimated potential daily production of 30,000 barrels net to the company.

The third important step was the laying of a 12-inch trunk pipe line from the West Texas fields in Pecos, Crane, Upton and Winkler counties to Houston and a 10-inch line from Houston to Port Arthur, a total distance of 550 miles not including field gathering lines.

A LOOK INTO FALL MONTHS IN FINANCE

Whether Normal Autumn Expansion in Commercial Loans Will Come From Present Level Depends on Certain Factors.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 21.—The Evening Post in copyrighted weekly financial review, says:

"With all money signals except the call rate set against it, the stock market crept forward perceptibly if cautiously this week. No increase in activity was induced by the moderate rise in quotations despite the efforts of pools to stimulate fresh followings. A delusion of cheap money has been created in and out of Wall street by the display of a 5 per cent call rate. By those anxious for a revival in speculation the late July relaxation in demand funds in advanced as bull argument just now. Even the financial district forgets that money in the third week of July attains a position of abnormal comfort. By this time each year most of the currency drawn out for mid-year settlement purposes and over the Fourth of July has been returned. The fall demands have not yet set in. That is why in this off season the rate on demand funds has fallen to a lower level than is warranted by the fundamental credit structure and than can be expected to hold on any reasonable interpretation of conditions.

Autumnal Demand Question.

"Within another 10 days the seasonal outflow of currency is likely to be resumed and in the very near future the autumnal demands for funds will swell the volume of commercial loans. Here are two strong seasonal pressures of a tightening character that have not received enough attention. Throughout the spring of 1928 the volume of currency outstanding remained low. In the final week of July the demand for currency almost invariably begins to multiply and if precedent is any guide roughly $100,000,000 in currency should flow out within the next two months. In its immediate effect on rates the loss to the money market of a dollar in currency is equal to the loss of a dollar through gold exports. The difference is, of course, that the currency eventually drifts back, but the important thing to note is that for its immediate influence a withdrawal of currency acts like an export of gold rather than an increase in credit. To the extent that no offset is provided against this seasonal expansion in currency through bill purchases by the reserve system an expansion of $100,000,000 in currency during the next eight weeks would tighten money as much as an increase of $1,000,000,000 in loans.

Force for Dearer Money.

"A less powerful but additional potent force that begins to work for dearer money in August is the rising demand for funds in industry. Commercial loans usually reach a peak in the spring and then decline until about this time, but instead of shrinking these loans in 1928 have maintained a high level. Whether the normal autumn expansion in commercial loans will come from this level depends partly upon the ability of borrowers to substitute foreign for domestic funds. Unquestionably there will be expansion. If it reaches the 4.6 per cent growth ordinarily expected from now to the autumn peak, commercial loans of reporting member banks may still increase the neighborhood of $400,000,000. A $400,000,000 expansion in commercial loans would not have as great an effect on money as $100,000,000 increase in the volume of outstanding currency, but they would operate in the same direction. In any consideration of the future trend in money rates these signs must be regarded as more reliable indicators than the present flush of call funds.

Disputes Critic's Comment.

"Too much emphasis perhaps has been given to the harmful effect on business likely to result from the Federal Reserve System's program to check the expansion in speculative credit. That in an effort to prevent any further growth of bank credit based on security speculation the reserve officials have indirectly tightened money for industry must now be plain. That the net result will be a cessation in industrial activity does not so easily follow. A far more drastic restrictive program in Germany directed against the stock market than anything contemplated here did not even bring a pause in business. Certainly no evidence yet is at hand to warrant the conclusion that through its three successive discount rate increases this year the reserve bank has discouraged industry. All of the key industries are active and in a general way the fundamentals of business rest on a foundation more solid than a year ago. The burden of proof is on those who contend that 1928 prosperity will be materially checked by the advent of dear money.

FINANCIAL NOTES

NEW YORK, July 1.—Heavy melting steel scrap No. 1 has touched $13.75 a ton in the Pittsburg district, a decline of 25 cents. Sales were reported at $13.50, but only for certain delivery points.

Island Creek Coal earned $1.85 a share on the common in the first half of 1928, after preferred dividends, against $2.66 a share in the first half of 1927. Net profit declined to $1,222,904 from $1,716,671.

R. G. Dun & Co. reports 40 fewer commercial failures in the United States the past week than the week before, a total of 426, which was 12 more than a year ago.

Pond Creek Pocahontas Co. earned 39 cents a share in the first half of 1928, against 37 cents in the first half of 1927. Net profit was $49,837, against $47,246.

Sales of electrical equipment through the country are at a normal level for this time of year, with the trend on the Pacific Coast and in the Middle West slightly upward, Electrical World says. Business was fairly active in small apparatus, but rather quiet in heavy equipment the past week.

Kelvinator Corporation reports net loss of $406,626 for nine months ended June 30, against net loss of $657,410 in the previous corresponding period. Second quarter profit was $57,056.

Stockholders of Independent Oil and Gas have approved an increase in capital stock to 2,000,000 shares from 1,000,000 shares and acquisition of Manhattan Oil Co. through an exchange of stock on the basis of 1½ shares of Manhattan for one of Independent Oil.

Profit of Penick & Ford and subsidiaries for the half year declined to $550,837 from $634,753 in the first half of 1927.

Net income of Niagara Falls Power Co. for the half year was $1,903,731, equal to $2.79 a share on the preferred, against $1,711,059, or $2.51 a share, on the preferred in the first half of 1927. Virtually all of the common stock is owned by the Buffalo, Niagara & Eastern Power Corporation.

Profit of Motion Picture Capital Corporation for the half year declined to $86,090 from $140,273 a year ago.

June surplus of the New York, Chicago & St. Louis (Nickel Plate) declined to $153,287 after charges, from $432,974 in June last year, and for the half year to $2,621,622 from $3,294,369 in the first half of 1927. June gross revenues were $275,360 less than a year ago.

M. A. Hanna Co. and subsidiaries earned $1.71 a share on the second preferred stock in the first half of 1928 after first preferred dividends, against $3.20 a share on the first preferred in the first half of 1927. Net income moved up to $446,659 from $358,875.

The Sugar Institute, Inc., reports meltings of 15 refiners in the United States this year to July 14 amounted to 5,271,195,880 pounds, against 6,267,230,330 last year to July 16.

Freight traffic on the Atchison picked up in the week ended July 20, the road moving 45,880 carloads against 37,473 a year ago.

American investments in South America are catching up with British, and are having a profound influence in the development of the country, Arthur W. McCain, recently elected vice president of the National Park Bank, said on his return from South America. While the British control a number of important industries, notably the railroads, American investments in the electric industry are expanding steadily, the two nations being on a ... in the ...

STOCK MARKET IS REACTIONARY IN CLOSING TRADES

Final Quotations at Week-end Session Disclose Long List of Net Declines Ranging From 1 to 3 1-2 Points and a Few Even Larger.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 21.—The stock market turned reactionary today after an early period of irregularity. Many early gains of 1 to 3 points were cut down or wiped out in the late selling movement, final quotations disclosing a long list of net declines ranging from 1 to 3½ points, and a few even larger. Trading was relatively dull in volume, the day's sales aggregating only 546,300 shares.

Fears of higher money rates later in the month were generally blamed for the lack of speculative interest in the market. Except in Western centers, theer has been little public participation in the market during the past week, the bulk of the trading being of the professional variety. Buying has been of an extremely selective character, and generally limited to stocks of companies reporting large current earnings or in which special developments are believed to be pending.

Break in Freeport-Texas.

Trading in today's market was unsettled by a break of more than 6 points in Freeport-Texas, which dropped to a new low level for the year at 60¼. The half-yearly earnings report has just been published.

Warner Bros. Pictures, which had advanced more than 2 points to a new high at 57¼, lost all its gain.

Selling pressure also was quite effective against such recent leaders as Montgomery Ward, Union Carbide, American Linseed, General Motors, Hudson Motors and Radio, all off 1 to 3½ points.

Goodrich Is Bought.

Rubber shares, particularly Goodrich, received fresh buying. Case Threshing ran up 11 points but lost 3 points of its gain. Purity Baking preferred and Reynolds Tobacco A showed large gains on a small turnover.

Except for a break of 4⅝ points in Peoria & Eastern, there were no changes of importance in the railroad group. Most of the leading rails declined fractionally.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges moved within narrow and irregular limits, sterling cables being quoted around $4.86 3-16.

Foreign Exchange

NEW YORK, July 21.—The Evening Post in copyrighted weekly foreign exchange market review, says:

"Wide and erratic movement of Canadian dollar in New York proved the outstanding feature of foreign exchanges during the past week. Remittances on Montreal in midweek were heavily offered and the discount broke to ⅛ per cent, the lowest figure to be recorded since the advent of the World War. Following this there was a rally to 1 1-32 per cent discount, at which level further offerings made their appearance and the rate again fell to ¾ per cent discount. However, near the close of the week good inquiry resulted in a good-sized advance and Canadian funds here closed at ¼ per cent discount.

"Weakness of Dominion exchange can be directly traced to unusually high money rates that have been prevailing in New York recently, and also to the fact that the grain movement in Canada has been exceptionally slow to date this year. Then again, while the rate has been well past the point at which gold could be shipped profitably as a corrective to exchange weakness, such shipments have been negligible and considerably out of proportion to the weak condition of exchange. However, according to Canadian banking officials, it is understood that gold is to be shipped from Canadian points in the forthcoming week. It is also learned that there is considerable of last year's grain crop yet to be shipped, the moving of this commodity is expected shortly in view of the fact that this year's harvest will be ready for market within a comparatively short time. This would tend to strengthen Canadian exchange, and it is their opinion that the low point for the Canadian dollar has been seen.

"Sterling continued to reflect the moderate ease in the money situation here and rallied to $4.86 1-16 for cables from a low of $4.86 for cables. Scandinavians, after early weakness, recovered all their losses and finished with net gains on the week.

"Spanish documents at the outset were under pressure, but on short covering and reported covering operations moved to higher levels.

"In the Far Eastern group Japanese yen moved down to 45.61 or only 11 points above the low level of the year. However, support appeared near the close and yen ended at 45.80. Other Far Easterns were dull.

"South Americans and Central Europeans were inactive.

STOCK TRADE IS OF RELATIVELY SMALL VOLUME

Prices Move Over Narrow Trading Area During Week, Reflecting Speculative Uneasiness as to the Credit Situation.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 21.—The stock market appeared to be marking time this week pending further light on the credit and business outlook.

Pools succeeded in marking up a number of specialties to new high records while a sprinkling of others sank to new low levels for the year. Price movements in the general list were indecisive. Trading was largely professional in character, the indifference of the public being reflected in the unusually small volume of sales which averaged around one and one-quarter million shares a day.

Lowest Renewal Since May.

Call money was in somewhat more plentiful supply due to the heavy influx of out-of-town funds, the 5 per cent renewal charge on Friday being the lowest since May 7. With half of the 12 Federal Reserve banks already on the 5 per cent rediscount basis, and the others expected to follow suit in the near future, Wall street is predicting a return to 6 per cent call money rates in the near future. Brokers' loans dropped $48,000,000 in the week ended Wednesday but the decline of $145,000,000 in Federal Reserve discounts in the New York district was offset by the advance in other centers.

With the exception of a late upturn in U. S. Government issues, bond prices drifted lower. A number of railroad liens went to new low levels for the year. Mexican bonds broke sharply on selling following the assassination of President-Elect Obregon. The week's new offerings totaled less than $23,000,000, with a large volume of "undigested" issues still overhanging the market.

Prices moved within a narrow trading area, with most of the industrials pointing upward while the rails lost ground.

Steel Shares Stiffen.

Steel shares stiffened somewhat on the advance in steel prices for fourth quarter delivery announced by two companies, and the optimistic predictions of steel executives. Motors were mixed despite reports of large current business and the publication of excellent half yearly earnings statements by the Chrysler and Hupp companies.

Mail order shares showed strength. Montgomery - Ward changed hands in large volume. R. H Macy soared to a record high following announcement of a 2 for 1 stock split up, and the three McCrory stores issues also moved into new high ground.

Aero Issues Erratic.

Airplane shares fluctuated in rather erratic fashion although some fresh buying came into Wright on the announcement of a new "Cyclone" motor to supplement the "Whirlwind" model made famous in recent long distance flights. Public utility shares lacked leadership although the bulk of the earnings reports of power and light companies appearing during the week made favorable comparison with last year.

Little speculative interest was shown in the railroad group except in Texas & Pacific, which again moved into new high ground.

CLEARINGS, MONEY AND SILVER

The St. Louis Clearing House Association reported clearings for July 21, 1928 $19,200,000; corresponding day last year $18,000,000 this year. $4,171,000,000; corresponding period last year, $4,128,800,000. Report of debits for July 20, 1928, were: Debits to individual accounts, $27,000,000; total to date, $5,362,500,000; debits to bank and bankers' accounts, $16,500,000 total to date, $30,033,800,000; combined debits were $43,500,000; total to date to individual and bank and bankers' accounts, $8,396,300,000.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Bar silver, 58⅜c. Mexican dollars, 44⅝c.

LONDON, July 21.—Bar silver, 27¼d per ounce. Money, 2¾ per cent. Discount rates, short bills, 3 15-16@4 per cent; three months, 4@4 1-16 per cent.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Treasury receipts for July 19 were $12,335,344.31; expenditures, $12,040,821.23; balance, $146,521,496.44.

MONTREAL—Dollar, D 99.71⅝.

ings of 15 refiners in the United States this year to July 14 amounted to 5,271,195,880 pounds, against 6,267,230,330 last year to July 16.

Freight traffic on the Atchison picked up in the week ended July 20, the road moving 45,880 carloads against 37,473 a year ago.

American investments in South America are catching up with British, and are having a profound influence in the development of the country, Arthur W. McCain, recently elected vice president of the National Park Bank, said on his return from South America. While the British control a number of important industries, notably the railroads, American investments in hydro-electric development and in the packing industry have been mounting steadily. The two nations now are nearly on a parity in the total investment of capital, he said.

STOCK TRADE IS OF RELATIVELY SMALL VOLUME

Prices Move Over Narrow Trading Area During Week, Reflecting Speculative Uneasiness as to the Credit Situation.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 21.—The stock market appeared to be marking time this week pending further light on the credit and business outlook.

Pools succeeded in marking up a number of specialties to new high records while a sprinkling of others sank to new low levels for the year. Price movements in the general list were indecisive. Trading was largely professional in character, the indifference of the public being reflected in the unusually small volume of sales which averaged around one and one-quarter million shares a day.

Lowest Renewal Since May.

Call money was in somewhat more plentiful supply due to the heavy influx of out-of-town funds, the 5 per cent renewal charge on Friday being the lowest since May 1. With half of the 12 Federal Reserve banks already on the 5 per cent rediscount basis, and the others expected to follow suit in the near future, Wall street is predicting a return to 6 per cent call money rates in the near future. Brokers' loans dropped $48,000,000 in the week ended Wednesday but the decline of $145,000,000 in Federal Reserve discounts in the New York district was offset by the advance in other centers.

With the exception of a late upturn in U. S. Government issues, bond prices drifted lower. A number of railroad liens went to new low levels for the year. Mexican bonds broke sharply on selling following the assassination of President-Elect Obregon. The week's new offerings totaled less than $28,000,000, with a large volume of "undigested" issues still overhanging the market.

Prices moved within a narrow trading area, with most of the industrials pointing upward while the rails lost ground.

Steel Shares Stiffen.

Steel shares stiffened somewhat on the advance in steel prices for fourth quarter delivery announced by two companies, and the optimistic predictions of steel executives. Motors were mixed despite reports of large current business and the publication of excellent half yearly earnings statements by the Chrysler and Hupp companies.

Mail order shares showed strength. Montgomery - Ward changed hands in large volume. R. H Macy soared to a record high following announcement of a 2 for 1 stock split up, and the three McCrory stores issues also moved into new high ground.

Aero Issues Erratic.

Airplane shares fluctuated in rather erratic fashion although some fresh buying came into Wright on the announcement of a new "Cyclone" motor to supplement the "Whirlwind" model made famous in recent long distance flights. Public utility shares lacked leadership although the bulk of the earnings reports of power and light companies appearing during the week made favorable comparison with last year.

Little speculative interest was shown in the railroad group except in Texas & Pacific, which again moved into new high ground.

CLEARINGS, MONEY AND SILVER

The St. Louis Clearing House Association reported clearings for July 21, 1928 $19,200,000; corresponding day last year $18,000,000 this year, $4,171,000,000; corresponding period last year, $4,128,800,000. Report of debits for July 20, 1928, were: Debits to individual accounts, $27,000,000; total to date, $5,362,500,000; debits to bank and bankers' accounts, $16,500,000 total to date, $30,033,800,000; combined debits were $43,500,000; total to date to individual and bank and bankers' accounts, $8,396,300,000.

BOND PRICES FIRMER IN THE LATE SESSION

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Prices became firmer near the close of today's brief session of the bond market, railroad obligations particularly recovering some of the ground lost during a week of declines. However, trading was light, and most price changes small. U. S. Government obligations, which have been firming up, turned suddenly soft.

Erie convertible 4s, with a gain of nearly 7 points on a small turnover, led the advance of the rails, touching a new top for the year at 92¾. Hudson & Manhattan 5s, Batlimore & Ohio 5s, Missouri Pacific 5s and Pennsylvania 7s were prominent among many rails to show fractional gains. National Railways of Mexico 4½s assented of 1957 Frisco 4½s sought lower levels.

There was little trading in the industrial group. American Smelting 5s, Purity Bakery 5s and the U. S. Steel issues sagged with others, under week-end profit-taking. However, small gains were recorded by such issues as Goodrich 6½s, Sinclair Consolidated Oil 6½s, Wilson & Co. first 6s and California Petroleum 5s.

The foreign list was steady, with Mexican Government obligations recovering some lost ground.

PRICE MOVEMENTS ARE MIXED ON CURB

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Price movements were mixed on the Curb Market today, but the general trend was toward higher levels, with industrial specialties leading the advance.

Warner Bros. Pictures, which opened up 4¼ points at 49¼, a new high, was one of the strong features, although the price dropped to 46⅛ at the close. Its gain reflected the strength of the A issue on the "big board." Spanish and General extended its recent gains to 9¼, also a new high. Spencer Kellogg & Sons reached a new peak at 170¼, closing with a net gain of more than 10 points. Auburn Auto, Tubize, Safe-T-Stat, Brill Corporation A, Ford of Canada, Marconi Wireless B, Deere & Co., Melville Shoe and Sanitary Grocers registered gains of 3 to 10 points. These advances, however, were offset to a degree by declines in such favorites as Hudson Bay Mining, Industrial Rayon, Columbia Graphone Zenith Radio, Nichols & Sheperd and American Rolling Mills.

Utilities and oils reflected general market irregularity, with price changes in both groups narrow.

LIGHT TRADE MARKS WEEK ON EXCHANGE

Wagner Electric Shows Net Gain—Shoe Stock Slightly Lower—Skouras Up.

A marked slowing up in trading was the outstanding feature of the week on the St. Louis Stock Exchange, aggregate sales being but some more than half the total of the preceding period. Gains and losses were about equally distributed in the list at the close of the week.

The relatively more active stocks were Wagner Electric, International Shoe and Mahoney-Ryan. At the close of the week Wagner had a net gain of several points, while the other two issues showed net declines.

On sales of little over 200 shares Hamilton-Brown rose 3 points and Skouras, with sales of less than 300 shares, was up 3 points.

At the closing session of the week Ely-Walker was unchanged at 29. St. Louis Public Service sold fractionally lower as did also Missouri-Illinois Stores. East St. Louis & Suburban 5s sold to extent of $16,000 at 95.

Week's Metal Market Review.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 21.—With demand for steel from automobile manufacturers, structural operations, oil and gas pipe lines and some other industries maintained at a good rate, the industry is expecting that the month of July, usually a dull period, will prove to be the most active in years. Specifications against contracts remained good, while some mills reported that there was considerable more business placed for third-quarter shipment than at this time last year. Prices were very steady with advances named for some products for fourth-quarter delivery. Pig iron was barely steady and demand largely for small lots.

Exporters continue to buy copper for August shipment, but the demand has fallen off somewhat, while buyers for home consumption have confined purchases to small lots. Exporters and the home trade have shown little interest in September or October shipments, but the market continues firm, with producers holding electrolytic at 14.75 delivered at Connecticut valley points.

Tin was steadier with sellers reported offering moderately. Consumers and dealers were the principal buyers, largely August position.

Lead was steadier with a fairly active consuming demand. Some mills were sold for the balance of July.

Zinc was quiet, with intimations that asking prices of producers were open to some shading.

Antimony was featured largely by increased offering on spot as a result of larger arrivals. Material was not pressing for sale, however, and the market held fairly steady.

Dry Goods Market Review.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK July 21.—Cotton goods were quiet and steady today. Inquiries continued for small lots of fine and fancy goods for sampling purposes for spring. Formal openings of the largest lines of tropical and lightweight suits for spring, 1928, will be made on Monday. Burlaps were steady and quiet. Raw silk retained the firmness reported on Friday and more buying was done.

Leaders in the wash goods trade expect to begin spring, 1928, openings about Aug. 18.

INDUSTRIAL EXECUTIVE

A corporation manufacturing a standard line of hardware products now making plans to move its plants to St. Louis is offering an unusual opportunity to an executive of proven ability. Positions to be filled are those of treasurer and sales manager. We invite you to investigate this thoroughly and if you become interested must be willing to take a good block of common stock. Address Box H-293, Post-Dispatch.

The Post-Dispatch Resort and Tour Bureau is equipped to supply information regarding resorts and tours in every section of the United States and Canada. Hotel, camp or cottage, railroad or steamship reservations will be made without charge. Last season this Bureau gave a personal service to more than 25,000 vacationists.

The Post-Dispatch will supply complete route and road information kept up to date by scout cars, the telephone and telegraph. Call at the Post-Dispatch, 12th Boulevard and Olive Street—phone MAin 1111—for any information regarding automobile tours or road conditions.

AMERICANS BEAT ITALY IN 3 SETS, IN DOUBLES

By Alan J. Gould
Sports Editor of the Associated Press.

By the Associated Press.

AUTEUIL, France, July 21.—Two horsemen of the American Davis Cup tennis cavalry galloped rough-shod through the last Italian defenses this afternoon and clinched the right for the United States to play France in next week's challenge round.

Picking up the pace where he left off yesterday, "Smiling John" Hennessey, coupled with George Lott baffled the Italian pair, Baron Humbert de Morpurgo and Placido Gaslini, whose last hope of prolonging the inter-zone battle was extinguished in straight sets decided by scores of 6—3, 6—1, 6—2. This result gives America its third decisive victory and removes the remaining two singles matches Sunday to the realm of exhibitions.

Erecting a bullet-proof defense and dashing all over the court, the Americans volleyed, lobbed and drove at a clip that left no doubt of the outcome from the start. Hennessey's fine generalship and clever placing dovetailed perfectly with Lott's smashing and low volleys, producing an attack which discouraged the Italians, who continued their listless and spiritless play.

Italians' Teamwork Poor.

De Morpurgo, trying to handle two-thirds of the court and dominate the play, only succeeded in spoiling what little teamwork the Italins possessed. The Baron was way off form, while Gaslini, except for his service, held up his own end and actually starred in a brief final spurt when the Europeans squared the count at two-all in the final set, the rally was short-lived, as the Americans applied pressure and ran out the set and match.

Completion of the Americans' sweeping triumph was accompanied by fresh prospect that Bill Tilden will yet be included in the team opposing the French in the challenge round starting here on Friday.

Tilden May Yet Be Named.

While declining officially to indicate whether any new course has been decided upon, Samuel H. Collom, president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, disclosed he had reserved the right to nominate Tilden for the team when the final list is submitted to the French Tennis Federation next Monday.

This was considered significant of a possible turn in events, in view of Collom's previous admission that Tilden technically was guilty of violating the player-writer law and therefore unquestionably ineligible.

It is understood Collom has discussed with French and international officials the advisability of requesting suspension of the U. S. L. T. A. Amateur Rule Committee's judgment pending a rehearing, thereby permitting Tilden to play in the challenge round.

The French are sympathetic, but officials intimate that they are reluctant to take a hand in a purely American squabble involving factions which have been at loggerheads for some years, principally over Tilden.

Tilden Defeats Brugnon.

Pro-Tilden sentiment among the tennis fans was displayed in an ovation accorded Big Bill when he took to the stadium courts after the doubles match, beating Jacques Brugnon, French Davis Cup player, 6—1, 8—6, in two exhibition sets in sparkling contrast to the previous play of the last two days.

"I must keep in condition. I am ready for any developments, good or bad," Tilden remarked smilingly prior to the exhibition when asked about his chances of Gaffsman forced wide in first three furlongs but able to keep well up under restraint to the final quarter where he took a good lead after disposing of Canaan and vigorously hustled outstayed Toro. Latter crowded back at first turn and again after five furlongs came with a rush on extreme outside in stretch and was racing strongly at end. Chicago followed in close pursuit of early pace raced wide on stretch turn and closed gamely. Sir Harry came with a rush in last quarter. Devon raced well. Broadside lost much ground. Canaan made a fast pace, but tired after reaching stretch. Rothermel quit badly after three-quarters.

$2 mutuels paid—Gaffsman, win $10.70, place $3.84, show $2.78; Toro place $3.22, show $2.48; Chicago, show $3.24.

By the Associated Press.

CRETE, Ill., July 21.—Gaffsman, under an impost of 114 pounds, won the third running of the $15,000 added Marquette Handicap, over a muddy track at Lincoln Fields here today, beating such stars as Toro, Chicago and Rothermel. Toro was second and Chicago third. Gaffsman showed wonderful speed in the going and turned the mile and one-sixteenth in 1:50 3-5.

Gaffsman, racing coupled with Sir Harry, which finished fourth, as the Edward F. Seagram entry, paid $10.70 to win, $3.84 to place and $2.78 to show. The race carried a net value of $14,160 to the owner of the winner.

Only Eight Start.

The muddy track was responsible for many withdrawals and only eight of the 15 entrants faced the barrier. Canaan, an outsider, was the first to show in front. After passing the half mile pole he had a two-length advantage over Chicago, with Gaffsman in third position. Canaan tired badly at the mile and Jockey Leslie Pichon pushed Gaffsman into the lead. Chicago held on well and was making a strong bid for the lead when he succumbed to Toro's challenge. The latter, far back in the early running, found racing room on the outside and came fast through the stretch, but was not good enough. Gaffsman won by a length, with Toro a half length in front of Chicago, which in turn was five lengths better than Gaffsman's stablemate, Sir Harry. Devon was fifth.

Padona Pays $21.62.

Black Flyer, with W. Garner up, took an early lead to win the first at six furlongs by half a length. Theo Red was second, two lengths ahead of Huntsman.

Padona, ridden by R. Cheatham, was the victor by half a length in the second, another six-furlongs sprint for 3-year-olds and upward. Bunthorne, showing good speed in the last sixteenth, took second money by three lengths over Capistrapo and paid $21.62 to place.

War Time, ridden by L. Hardy, easily won the third race by five lengths. Symphorosa was second by two lengths and Earl of Warwick third.

TUNNEY DISPLAYS BEST RING CRAFT IN WORKOUTS

By the Associated Press.

SPECULATOR, N. Y., July 21.—Gene Tunney, after a 48-hour rest, today went through the best workout of his long campaign for the defense of his world's heavyweight title against Tom Heeney in the Yankee Stadium next Thursday.

Though he reduced boxing from six to four rounds today, two each with his sparring partners, he displayed more ring stuff in these 12 minutes than he has in the past 12 days.

Tunney's actions, against Harold Mays especially, indicated that he was bent on knocking out the challenger long before the 15-round title battle was half over. For the first time in the past three months, Mays was unable to land one solid punch.

Tunney Stops Right Hook.

Mays has had little difficulty in scoring a hard right hook to Tunney's jaw after rushing the champion against the ropes. When Harold tried this fistic trick today, Gene skillfully ducked out of danger and then left-jabbed Mays back into the center where he whaled him with hard right punches. After two rounds of this vicious punishment, Mays crawled out of the ring remarking: "It's just as well that Gene wants to go only two rounds. I don't think I could last through a third one."

Mays said that Tunney was hitting harder than ever, that he could

Soft Field and Lack of Facilities for Training Hamper Olympic Athletes

By the Associated Press.

AMSTERDAM, July 21.—Hammers, shots and javelins flew helter-skelter and scouts had to be appointed to warn the runners and hurdlers lest they get hit as athletic stars of a dozen nations crowded the practice fields near the Olympic stadium today in the first general workout in preparation for the international games.

Everybody seems pleased with the colorful party but Head Coach Lawson Robertson of the American track and field team, who described it as "a very unsatisfactory workout from a coach's viewpoint."

One small practice field was so crowded, according to Robertson, that no one could do anything more than limber up.

One American casualty was reported. Jimmy Quinn, sprinter from Holy Cross, turned his ankle in one of the numerous holes dug in the soft track by runners practicing starts. Quinn said it was not serious, but the full extent of the injury probably will not be known until tomorrow morning.

Train in Cow Pasture.

The crowded conditions for practice were the second feature of the Olympic facilities here, at which Coach Robertson has registered dissatisfaction. The soft condition of the Olympic field having drawn sharp criticism from him yesterday.

The American hunt for more practice fields resulted in one belonging to the Amsterdam police and another to the firemen being placed at their disposal. Cows graze in the firemen's field and the owners have informed the Olympic authorities that casualties from flying hammers and other heavy artillery will have to be paid for. The shot-putters must heave their weights across a small canal, and

WOODEN SHOES INDORSED BY COACH AS TRAINING AID

By the Associated Press.

AMSTERDAM, July 21.

ALL the American Olympic oarsmen training at Sloten provided themselves with wooden shoes today and clattered about the cobbled streets of the village with noise and great glee.

The clogs which are worn by Dutch peasants quickly became the most popular of all souvenirs and nearl yevery Olympian returning to the base ship, President Roosevelt.

Head Coach Lawson Robertson endorsed the heavy wooden footgear for his track and field men, believing their use in the pre-Olympic period may have somewhat the same effect as swinging two bats has on Babe Ruth.

VAN RYN AND ALLISON WIN DOUBLES TITLE

BROOKLINE, Mass., July 21.—California entrants made a clean sweep in the women's singles and doubles finals, but were defeated in the men's doubles finals during the sixth days' play in the 36th annual Longwood Bowl tournament here today.

Miss Edith Cross, San Francisco, defeated Mrs. J. Dallas Corbiere, of South Boro, top seeded player in the draw 3-6, 6-1, 6-4. Then paired with Mrs. L. A. Harper, Berkely, Calif., Miss Cross defeated Mrs. Corbiere and Mrs. William Endicott, Boston, in straight sets in the women's doubles final 6-2, 6-2.

Mens Doubles Grueling.

John Van Ryn, Orange N. J., and Wilmer Allison, Austin, Texas, finalists in the men's singles, together won the finals of the men's doubles in a gruelling five-set match, from Alan Herrington and Ralph McElvaney, Calif., 8-10, 6-2, 4-6, 7-5, 6-4.

In the women's singles final Miss Cross had some trouble with her serve during the first set, but in the second set, she broke through Mrs. Corbiere twice, and came to the net more often for kills. After the interval Miss Cross came back to outdrive Mrs. Corbiere consistenly.

Doeg Loses Two Ways.

The finalists in the men's doubles won their way through the semi-finals only after the hardest of struggles in the morning's

By W. J. McGoogan

Tired of being kicked around like a football by Western teams of the National League, the Phillies turned on the Cardinals, pounded four of the league-leaders' hurlers for 12 hits and won the third game of the series, 8 to 3, yesterday afternoon.

The Phils' victory came after they had lost 12 successive contests. Prior to yesterday they had not won a game since the Fourth of July.

It was the first defeat suffered by the Cardinals at the hands of the Phils this season. McKechnie's men have won eight contests from Shotton's team. Also it was the first game the Phils have won in St. Louis since late in the season of 1926.

While the Cardinals were losing, the Cubs defeated the New York Giants two games and moved into second place, four games in the rear of the leaders. Cincinnati defeated Brooklyn and went into third place. The Reds are five and one-half contests in the wake of the Cardinals. The Giants tumbled from second to fourth and are six and one-half games out of first place.

Clarence Mitchell, Frankhouse, Reinhart and Rhem were McKechnie's hurlers, and only Reinhart escaped unscathed. At that, Art worked but one inning, and only a double play saved him from being scored upon.

Sweetland Hurls Good Ball.

Young Lester Sweetland pitched for the Phils, and hurled an excellent game during the seven and one-third innings he worked. In the eighth he walked Bottomley, first to face him, then retired Hafey on a fly to Jahn, but after he passed Harper, making the fifth free ticket he had issued, Sweetland was yanked and Ray Benge finished up for him. Benge retired the Cardinals scoreless for the rest of the game.

Hafey Socks No. 13.

There were three home runs hit in the contest. Whitney and Leach pounding out four-baggers for the visitors, while Chick Hafey slammed his thirteenth circuit wallop of the season into the left field seats.

Southern started the game against Mitchell with a single to left but he was out at second when he tried to stretch the hit, Hafey to Maranville. After Thompson had fouled to Bottomley, Hurst walked and scored ahead of Whitney when the latter hit a home run into the left field seats.

The Cardinals were unable to tally in the opening frame but knotted the count at 2-all in the second on Bottomley's double, Hafey's single, a wild pitch and an infield out.

From that point until the sixth the teams battled on even terms. The Phils had a chance to score in the fifth, when Lerian and Sweetland hit singles with only one out, but Southern forced Sweetland and Thompson flied to Hafey.

Mitchell Removed in Sixth.

The Cardinals also missed an excellent opportunity in the fifth, Mitchell doubled after one was out and Douthit was hit by a pitched ball, but Thevenow hit into a double play, Sand to Thompson to Hurst.

In the sixth, however, Mitchell weakened and, after singles by Hurst, Whitney and Jahn had scored a run for the Phils and left runners on first and third with only one out, he was replaced by Frankhouse.

At that, it took a bad break to get Mitchell out of the box, for while Jahn was batting with Hurst

CARDS HAVE WON ONLY FOUR OF 14 SATURDAY GAMES

IT is a good thing that all the Cardinals' games are not player on Saturdays, for they have won only four games while losing 10 contests played on Saturday since the season opened. And only one triumph was scored at home on a Saturday. That was May 12, when Rhem beat the Braves, 5 to 3.

Peculiarly enough, Rhem has won two of the games captured on Saturday, while Sherdel has been credited with the other two and in one of the victories credited to Sherdel, Rhem was the starting pitcher.

Following are the results of the Cardinal Saturday games this season:

April 14—Cubs 4, Cardinals 1.
April 21—No game.
April 28—Cards 5, Cubs 1 (Rhem).
May 5—Brooklyn 3, Cards 2.
May 12—Cards 5, Boston 3 (Rhem).
May 19—Giants 4, Cards 3.
May 26—Reds 10, Cards 7.
June 2—Cards 13, Phils 12 (Rhem started, Sherdel was winning pitcher).
June 9—Giants 8, Cards 3.
June 15—Cards 6, Brooklyn 5 (Sherdel).
June 23—Cubs 8, Cards 4.
June 30—Pirates 4, Cards 3.

CARDS ONCE MORE STACKED AGAINST BRITISH HOPE, IN TITLE GO

GENE TUNNEY HAS ADVANTAGE OVER TOM HEENEY IN EVERY RESPECT EXCEPT ONE---BRAWN

By John E. Wray
Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Four days hence a more or less apathetic American public will know whether Great Britain has, after many years, been able to produce a genuine heavyweight championship threat. By that time the "battle of Yankee Field" between Tom Heeney of various parts of Great Britain and Gene Tunney of New York will have been decided. All the world will know from that showing whether Heeney is a real fighter or just the garden variety of cauliflower that the betting sharks figured him.

Great Britain has not had hold of the heavyweight plum for some time. In fact, in the 36 years that have elapsed since the first glove fight was held for the world's championship, only two sons of the British Empire have held the title. In 1897 Bob Fitzsimmons won it from Jim Corbett. In 1906 Tommy Burns won it from the whisky-burned cinder, Marvin Hart, who had gained it by a gift from Jeffries, Jeffries having retired. Fitzsimmons was a real fighter; Burns was known as a "cheese champion."

For the rest, Great Britain's heavyweights figured in eight title fights with Americans; but none was ever able to make good. Since Jack Johnson laid out Burns in 1908, 20 years ago, there has not been a British fighter with even the semblance of title quality to his makeup, unless it be this same rugged, good-humored plodder—"Honest" Thomas Heeney, New Zealand, the blacksmith.

Outlook Bleak for Heeney.

Those who forecast fights have taken it for granted that Heeney lacks the experience, the speed, the punch and the brains to beat a man of Tunney's caliber. With only 35 fights in his record, and not a few of them indifferent fights against men of mediocre caliber, the experts say Tom cannot have had enough of the right kind of ring education. On the other hand, Tunney has met and whipped boxers, sluggers, sidesteppers and knockout kings. There is no type of opponent that has not been pitted against Tunney—and many have boasted a better stock in trade than Heeney is credited with.

Heeney's fights show that he is NOT fast either in footwork or in hitting, whereas Tunney can shoot like a Parthian.

Tom has no knockout punch, as his record of 11 kayoes in 35 fights shows; Tunney has flattened about 45 per cent of his opponents.

And as for brains—well, Tunney has shown all kinds and specializes in the sort that are needed in the ring. He makes his foe fight to suit his own style. Heeney just puts his head down and bores in.

There remains stamina, the advantage in which all seem to think rests with Heeney. True, this massive son of Erin has a granite build and has shown that taking punishment is his best suit. But Tunney himself is no weakling and he showed in Chicago that he could get up off the floor and win his battles. In the only fight he ever lost he showed gameness and courage—and later on proved that he had learned his lesson by beating his teacher—Harry Greb.

Tunney Not "Rusted."

So, all these factors figure out seemingly to the great disparagement of Heeney. The hopes of Great Britain seem almost certain to be battered down into the resin again.

But one never can tell about the fight game. The list of odds-on choices who have crashed like fallen idols is too long to print. It includes the name of almost every champion that ever held a title.

But unless Tunney has deteriorated materially in the past two years, the coming fight will NOT be included among the dabacles of history. Tunney has fought only 20 rounds since 1925; but he is a man careful of himself and above all a faithful trainer, a believer in the ancient Spartan rigors of fitting oneself for battle.

A Heeney victory would mean that it is possible for mere huskiness to dominate all the other fighting qualities that go to make up a champion.

History shows us more than one instance where this has occurred. Bat Nelson was a wretched boxer, handicapped by a crippled left arm which he could hardly lift above his shoulder. But he beat the best men of his day and won the lightweight title because he could take more than his opponents. His iron frame and nerves stood the jolting until his foes gave up in despair.

Jim Jeffries took terrific punishment from the shifty Bob Fitzsimmons, but in the end the stalwart Jeffries stood rocklike while his enemy wore himself out beating against adamant.

However, those were the days where finish fights or practically unlimited round contests were possible and mere endurance was a tremendous factor.

Heeney is built like a fighter of the old days and his courage and stamina complete the makeup. But he seems a generation too late. In short fights skill, versatility and generalship carry the day.

And so it would seem that on July 26 all the aces will be in the hand of Tunney. The cards are stacked against Great Britain once more.

"Oh, the Blacksmith's a Fine, Sturdy Fellow"

TOM HEENEY.

How British Boxers Have Fared In 35 Years of Title Contests

SONS of Great Britain have figured in only eight international heavyweight championship contests in 35 years or since the gloves were used in a title battle. Only two ever held the title and one of these gained it through the retirement of Jeffries. The fights follow:

1894, Jan. 25—Charley Mitchell, England, was knocked out by James J. Corbett, 3 rounds.

1897, March 17—Bob Fitzsimmons, Cornwall, Wales, knocked out James J. Corbett, 14 rounds.

1899, June 9—James J. Jeffries knocked out Bob Fitzsimmons, Cornwall, Wales, 11 rounds.

1899, Nov. 3—Tom Sharkey of Dundalk, Ireland, was defeated by James J. Jeffries, 25 rounds.

1902 July 25—James J. Jeffries again knocked Bob Fitzsimons out, eighth round.

(Jeffries retired but in 1905 turned over the title to the winner of the Marvin Hart-Jack Root fight. Hart knocked out Root in 12 rounds and became champion.)

1906, Feb. 23—Tommy Burns (Noah Brusso) of Canada, defeated Marvin Hart in 20 rounds.

1907—Tommy Burns defeated Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, 20 rounds.

1908, Dec. 26—Jack Johnson knocked out Tommy Burns in 14 rounds.

Tunney Shows His Best Form of Present Training Campaign

feel an extra stnig today, even though the champion wore the largest gloves in the camp storeroom.

During the Mays bout, Gene kept his rugged sparring partner outside by constantly jabbing him on the head with left and then aiming a stiff body punch.

Billy Vidabeck, the other member of the sparring team was then sent in to do some inside fighting with the champion. He had little or no success. Tunney's left prevented him from crowding, and the bite of his rights caused him to take cover.

On Edge, Bronson Says.

Jimmy Bronson, who will be the champion's chief second in the Heeney fight said today: "Tunney is right on edge and from now until Thursday he will taper off until he reaches the best physical and mental condition he has ever achieved in his boxing career."

It was apparent today that Tunney will be a different man against Heeney than he was in either of his two bouts with Jack Dempsey. Gene was on the defense when he met the mauler. He had great respect for Dempsey's punches and wanted to avoid being hit.

Heeney, however, will face a different edition of Tunney. The New Zealander, the Tunney campers say, will find the champion cager to give an dtake punches. Gene twice jabbed his way to decisions over Dempsey, but against Heeney, according to all indications Tunney will use the jab more as a threat and rely on his powerful right to retain his championship.

During the day no reports were received from Tex Rickard, who strenuously objected to Tunney's flying to New York on the day of the fight. The promoter threatened to seek an injunction to keep the champion on land. Tunney instructed his attorneys to checkmate Tex, but so far nothing much has happened, the Champion stubbornly sticking to his plan to make the flight with Bernt Balchen, one of Commander Richard Byrd's pilots, in a Bellanca monoplane at 10 o'clock next Thursday morning.

HEENEY IS SURE TO LAST 15 ROUNDS, LEONARD ASSERTS

By the Associated Press.

FAIRHAVEN, N. J., July 21.—That Gene Tunney stands little or no chance of knocking out Tom Heeney in their 15-round battle for the world's heavyweight championship in the Yankee Stadium next Thursday night, is the unqualified opinion of Tommy Loughran, world's light heavyweight champion, and Benny Leonard, retired undefeated lightweight titleholder, after watching the rugged New Zealander in a bristling workout this afternoon.

Heeney, refreshed by a day's layoff, stepped through four rounds of boxing and four rounds of gym exercise. The weather was cool and refreshing after three days of blistering heat. The change was a welcome relief to the hardrock.

Leonard unhesitatingly picked Tunney as the winner, provided the champion elects merely to outbox the invader. He expects Tunney to win on points.

Strong and Slow.

"If Tunney thinks he can knock him out, why, he's daffy," Leonard exploded after watching Heeney trade wallops with James J. Braddock and his other spar boy, James J. Lawless. Leonard does not regard Heeney as an aggressive fighter from what he saw today. He rated him as a big, slow-moving boxer, wonderfully built to take a lot of punishment.

"An aggressive fighter is one who lunges at you with murder in his heart," Leonard says. "I do not think he is that kind. He piles in all the time, but he is not aggressive. He may be called a pace setter, that's all. Heeney looks like he is in shape and he convinced me that Tunney will not stop him. If he tries, he may find himself in plenty of trouble."

Loughran, while declining to name the winner, voiced the opinion that Tunney could not knock out Heeney in "a thousand years."

Has Learned to Write.

He also gave the impression he favored Tunney, but refused to comment and say so because he is reserving that privilege for his newspaper articles.

"You know, I'm a writer now," Loughran explained. "But Heeney looks good. He seems to have improved in his boxing. He is hitting sharply and accurately."

Jimmy de Forest, veteran trainer of boxers, also was an interested spectator, but, like Loughran, refused to make the flat prediction that he favored Tunney. Asked his opinion of the challenger, De Forest said:

"Oh, he's just a big, tough bird," whereupon the one-time trainer of Jack Dempsey retreated.

Heeney skipped the rope for a round, whaled the bag for two rounds and stepped through a round of shadow boxing before facing Braddock and Lawless for two rounds each. Braddock managed to score repeatedly with left jabs, with Heeney trying to hook lefts to the body and shoot over right crosses to the chin. He twice nailed Braddock with jarring rights. Against Lawless, he fought largely at close range, centering his attack to the heart. They ended their last round with a spirited slugging rally, trading punches to the head until trainer Jimmy Hennessey yelled time.

Weighs 202 Pounds.

Hennessey said Heeney weighed exactly 202 pounds after the workout.

The camp will reach its emotional heights tomorrow with the arrival of promoter Tex Rickard, Jack Dempsey, Johnny Risko and perhaps Jim Corbett. Dempsey appearing in the role of a spectator, also will attend a cam-bake after the workout.

2½ to 1 Offered Against Heeney by New York Gamblers

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 21.

WHILE Gene Tunney and Tom Heeney, champion and challenger, respectively, in the forthcoming fight for the heavyweight championship, were putting the finishing touches on their training in camp this afternoon, word went out from the gamblers along Broadway that supporters of Heeney could have 2½ to 1 for their money if they wished to back the challenger. This is a slightly lower price than was originally quoted, but the depreciation is not believed to have been caused by an influx of Heeney money.

On the contrary, there was little of the latter to be had, the odds having been shortened only because of the alleged inquiry of three Australian bookmakers, Tom Jones, Harvey Melvin and Frank Wainwright, who are here supposedly to place $110,000 in commissions on the New Zealander. It was said, however, that they were holding out for odds of 3 to 1.

playing against the French next week.

Big Bill then proceeded to thrill the gallery with his full battery of dazzling strokes, clearly demonstrating how much strength would be added to American challenge round hopes by the fashion in which he out-drove and out-guessed Brugnon.

In the second set Tilden slackened when leading, four games to two, and they fought on even terms until the American apparently decided he had had enough and rushed through the last two games, finishing with a service ace.

play. Van Ryn and Allison playing Frederick Mercur of New York, and Frank Shields, also of New York, and national junior singles titlist, were taken to 28 games in the first set only to lose 13-15. They won the deciding three sets which followed only after long rallies 6-3, 7-5, 6-4.

John Doeg, Santa Monica, Calif., partnered with Louis Thalheimer, Texas, came within an ace of winning through to the doubles finals after being shut out of the singles, which he won last year, but finally lost to Herrington and McElvaney, 6-4, 5-7, 8-6, 2-6, 6-4.

HEENEY GLAD TRAINING WORK WILL SOON END

By Tom Heeney.
As Told to a Representative of the Post-Dispatch.
(Copyright, 1928.)

FAIRHAVEN, N. J., July 21.—Well, it won't belong now, anyhow, only five days more before the big scrap and only two more days of this long and weary training. I guess a fellow is tickled to death when he knows that such a thing is very near and without a word of exaggeration, I am tickled pink.

I never trained as long as this for any of my fights, and I personally think this long training is the bunk. A man can get in shape for any scrap in three weeks, providing he does enough fighting. All this bunk about training could be avoided if the man who is holding the title would fight more often. I know he is not the full sinner, but there ought to be some provision that championship bouts shouldn't be annual affairs. Last year I fought very often and when I was to start training for this fight the public was beginning to worry about whether I would get in the condition that I am in today, but six weeks of training wasn't required to do all this. I could have had three weeks to get in shape and after that time I could assure anybody that I would have been feeling the same as I am feeling now.

Yesterday's workout was a wonderful workout, speaking from the weather man's point of view and from the fistic point of view. It was very cool and because of this condition, I felt like a two-year-old. I boxed four rounds, two with James J. Braddock an two with James J. Lawless. These four rounds were the best four rounds hat I have enjoyed this week. I did five rounds of gym work prior to my boxing and didn't feel a bit tried.

Tex Rickard has planed a party to come down to see me work and among some of the folks in his party are Jack Dempsey, Jim Corbett, Johnny Risko and scores of others.

Tommy Loughran, king of the light-heavies, Benny Leonard, former light-weight boss, were guests of mine here today.

as the team brought only two shots, they have been cautioned not to lose their ammunition in the water hazard.

Serious Training Tomorrow.

Under the direction of Robertson and the assistant coaches, the American athletes were put through practice drills today at about three-quarters speed and were cautioned against cutting loose at full speed before Monday when they start serious training, working out twice a day.

A few stars, including Lloyd Hahn, already are doing morning and afternoon work. Hahn, who is considered in fine condition, probably will keep up the hard work until the middle of next week when he plans to taper off.

The track men were not the only ones who showed a need for elbow room. John T. Taylor, manager of the swimming team, informed the Associated Press that being in a country furrowed with canals does not mean swimming facilities are plentiful.

After searching all day swimmers finally found adequate conveniences at Houtvaart, near Haarlem, an hour's bus ride from Amsterdam, where there is a 50-meter pool in which the Americans will be permitted to lay out lanes, erect their own springboards, and begin practice in earnest on Monday.

Facilities there, Taylor said, are adequate for both women and men swimmers and also for water polo. The Americans will share the pool with Australians and New Zealanders. Meanwhile the women were put through a brief workout this morning in a tank belonging to a local business concern and the men had a dip at the Y. M. C. A. tonight. While there are a number of natatoria in Amsterdam all these are unavailable on account of inability to give up their regular swimming classes.

Oarsmen Optimistic.

The troubles of the oarsmen were far fewer, if any, and Henry Penn Burke, manager of the American delegation, was enthusiastic, predicting the Olympic regatta would be the largest and best in the history of the Olympics.

"Fourteen eight-oared shells are entered, 15 fours without coxswain, nine fours with coxswain, 18 single scullers—why, there has been nothing like it in history," he declared. "We are tickled to death with the arrangements.

"Oarsmen who have been to previous Olympics agree there have never been more nearly perfect conditions for good races. The course is plenty wide—108 feet—so there should be no accidents and boat sheds, dressing rooms and shower baths have been plentifully provided.

"We are happy that we brought our launch along as coaches of other nations are using bicycles, pedaling their way laboriously alongside the shells on the canal."

Burke said the University of California eight would be seated exactly as it was in winning the American trials.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Wouldn't This Chill You?

WITH the thermometer flirting with the 100-degree mark, we note with several degrees of relief that St. Louis is to have ice hockey next fall, provided several friends of the pastime do not suffer a chill in the extremities.

The Coliseum has been obtained, the terms for installing the ice-making plant have been agreed upon, the heads of the Hockey League are willing—the only thing remaining to be done is to assemble about $150,000 worth of cash hockey enthusiasm, and to organize a company.

That, according to visiting hockey promoters, is the airiest trifle. If they are right St. Louis will experience a revival of one of the most exciting sports in the entire calendar—and one of the roughest.

America Behind, in Hockey.

ST. LOUIS, some 25 years ago, maintained a creditable hockey team, one that held its own with the good American outfit of the day.

But in these times, a hockey team in St. Louis would probably not have one native-son on it! That is because the game is so little played in this vicinity that there is practically no opportunity to learn it or even opportunity to learn much about ice-skating itself.

In a way this is true of the entire country, although ice hockey is played in New England and on the border states up north to a fair degree of proficiency.

Only 7 Americans in League.

IT is in Canada, however, that the real hockey player is grown. And if you doubt this we refer you to the fact that of some 250 or more players in the American Hockey League, last season, only seven were American born!

Kids in Canada are brought up on skates, and as soon as they can stand up they begin to learn hockey. Aside from a few exceptions, we are not in Canada's class at this pastime.

Nevertheless, the popularity of the game is attested by attendance records of last season, in which more than 1,350,000 persons paid to witness league soccer games. The New York team's home games drew 125,000 persons to 20 games, while the Montreal Maroons at their home contests drew 192,000 paid admissions for 22 home contests. That is an average of about 9000 per game.

In St. Louis any sport except baseball that can draw 9000 paid admissions time after time is surely a humdinger.

In fact, it doesn't exist.

Peeved at the Amateurs.

GEORGE WIGHTMAN, who was vice president of the American Olympic Committee, and who tried to have Paddock barred from the Olympic team on the ground of professionalism, has turned his whizz-bangs on Bill Tilden.

Laying down a barrage in support of the Lawn Tennis body's shock troops, Wightman declares he expects Bill Tilden to "get by" with his violation of the amateur rules. He insinuates that everybody is doing it—among those big enough to make violations profitable, and he says that the reason why the amateurs want to retain their status is that they can only earn $5000 as professionals outright, but can clean up $15,000 or $20,000 a year and expenses as "amateurs."

"Those who want Tilden to play," he comments, "are virtually contending that, as an amateur, he ought to be allowed to earn four or five times as much as he could if he were a professional."

Mr. Wightman has hit the nail on the head.

There is not the slightest doubt that remaining an amateur is more profitable for a few players than turning professional. The great mass of the amateurs, however, are genuinely amateur and the rules are not meant for them. They are meant for the very men who have been getting by with evasions of the rules.

The returns for tennis success are far greater than the average person realizes. And the golfer who can flirt with par, as a regular thing, can pull off big deals in insurance, bonds and business that would not be possible for his as a professional golfer.

Mr. Wightman is pulling a Don Quixote, if the thinks he can tilt the amateur windmill for a push-over. Many have tried, but all they have succeeded in doing was shattering a lance here and there and coming a cropper.

Bad News From Amsterdam.

LAWSON ROBERTSON has been quoted as saying that there will be no record-breaking on the Olympic cinder path at Amsterdam. The track seems to have been badly constructed and to be seconds slow.

However, it would appear that a week's attention should put any track in first-class shape and some of the pessimism of the early arrivals will wear off.

Even if the records are not broken, the Americans are no worse off than their rivals.

At Athens in 1896 the track conditions there were deplorable. In a day of great sprinters the 100-meter event was run in 12 seconds—which is about the time a fast woman runner might make today. The 400-meter event was run in 54 1-5 seconds and the 800 in 2:11.

But America won nine firsts out of 14 events, despite the track.

MANION TOOK 32 PUTTS, MISSED FIVE SHORT ONES IN WINNING OPEN

By Gerald Holland.

The Manion's still have it.

Jimmie, the amateur, has succeeded John, the professional, as the open golf champion of the St. Louis district. In winning the annual tournament at the St. Louis Country Club, Friday, Jimmie came within one stroke of the match play record for the course in his last round, scoring a 68, which gave him a total of 142.

A remarkable part of Jimmie's performance was the fact that while he obviously shot remarkable golf, he was still a bit off in his putting. Had two or three putts which rimmed the cup fallen in, he would have turned in a sensational total.

Witness:

He missed putts for birdies on the following holes:

No. 3, a six-footer.
No. 7, a five-footer.
No. 8, an eight-footer.
No. 10, a 10-footer.

And he missed a seven-foot putt for an eagle 3 on number 9. On that hole he whacked a spoon shot about 250 yards to the green, seven feet past the cup. Then he missed a putt which he ordinarily makes, and still he got a birdie 4 out of it. And, with all his narrow misses, he still collected three birdies for the round.

After the match, some of Jim's friends congratulated him on his excellent game, especially on his good putting, but an analysis of his play proves that he really lost some strokes on the green.

He Took 32 Putts.

He took 32 putts for the round, whereas a man shooting a total of 68 for 18 holes should not take more than 28 putts. With just a wee bit of luck on the greens, Jimmie would have burned up the course.

While the match play record at the Country Club is held by Jack Hutchison, at 67, Jim Manion holds the unofficial mark of 65. He made that dizzy score one pleasant afternoon about three years ago when playing in a foursome in which his brother, John, and Elliott Whitbread, were included. There was a bit of a stake involved, so Jim just had to bear down. His 68 on Friday was, therefore, not quite his best effort.

Manion appears to be playing as well as ever before in his career. His next tournament appearance will be at the Bob-o-Link course in the Chicago district, when the Western Amateur Championship will be decided, starting Aug. 20. In that tournament the British Walker Cup players will compete and the field will probably be as high class as the national amateur, although Bobby Jones will not be among those present.

Wolff Gets Seven Birdies.

Despite Manion's score of 142, Clarence Wolff, who was second, with 144, took the Leacock prize for the greatest number of birdies. Clarence bettered par on seven occasions during the two rounds.

Imperturbable Twins.

If a prize were offered to the most even-tempered golfer, the Slattery brothers, Lester and J. Dugan would have to toss for it. These boys can putt with a brass band accompaniment. Les is an amateur and Jack is one of Johnny Manion's assistants at Sunset. Les was good enough to qualify for the national open last month but withdrew and gave Clarence Wolff, Francis Schwartz and Clarke Morse a chance to tie for his place.

MANION TOOK 32 PUTTS, MISSED FIVE SHORT ONES IN WINNING OPEN

By Gerald Holland.

The Manion's still have it.

Jimmie, the amateur, has succeeded John, the professional, as the open golf champion of the St. Louis district. In winning the annual tournament at the St. Louis Country Club, Friday, Jimmie came within one stroke of the match play record for the course in his last round, scoring a 68, which gave him a total of 142.

A remarkable part of Jimmie's performance was the fact that while he obviously shot remarkable golf, he was still a bit off in his putting. Had two or three putts which rimmed the cup fallen in, he would have turned in a sensational total.

Witness:

He missed putts for birdies on the following holes:

No. 3, a six-footer.
No. 7, a five-footer.
No. 8, an eight-footer.
No. 10, a 10-footer.

And he missed a seven-foot putt for an eagle 3 on number 9. On that hole he whacked a spoon shot about 250 yards to the green, seven feet past the cup. Then he missed a putt which he ordinarily makes, and still he got a birdie 4 out of it. And, with all his narrow misses, he still collected three birdies for the round.

After the match, some of Jim's friends congratulated him on his excellent game, especially on his good putting, but an analysis of his play proves that he really lost some strokes on the green.

He Took 32 Putts.

He took 32 putts for the round, whereas a man shooting a total of 68 for 18 holes should not take more than 28 putts. With just a wee bit of luck on the greens, Jimmie would have burned up the course.

While the match play record at the Country Club is held by Jack Hutchison, at 67, Jim Manion holds the unofficial mark of 65. He made that dizzy score one pleasant afternoon about three years ago, when playing in a foursome in which his brother, John, and Elliott Whitbread, were included. There was a bit of a stake involved, so Jim just had to bear down. His 68 on Friday was, therefore, not quite his best effort.

Manion appears to be playing as well as ever before in his career. His next tournament appearance will be at the Bob-o-Link course in the Chicago district, when the Western Amateur Championship will be decided, starting Aug. 20. In that tournament the British Walker Cup players will compete and the field will probably be as high class as the national amateur, although Bobby Jones will not be among those present.

Wolff Gets Seven Birdies.

Despite Manion's score of 142, Clarence Wolff, who was second, with 144, took the Leacock prize for the greatest number of birdies. Clarence bettered par on seven occasions during the two rounds.

Imperturbable Twins.

If a prize were offered to the most even-tempered golfer, the Slattery brothers, Lester and J. Dugan would have to toss for it. These boys can putt with a brass band accompaniment. Les is an amateur and Jack is one of Johnny Manion's assistants at Sunset. Les was good enough to qualify for the national open last month but withdrew and gave Clarence Wolff, Francis Schwartz and Clarke Morse a chance to tie for his place.

Bad News From Amsterdam.

Lawson Robertson has been quoted as saying that there will be no record-breaking on the Olympic cinder path at Amsterdam. The track seems to have been badly constructed and to be seconds slow.

However, it would appear that a week's attention should put any track in first-class shape and some of the pessimism of the early arrivals will wear off.

Even if the records are not broken, the Americans are no worse off than their rivals.

At Athens in 1896 the track conditions there were deplorable. In a day of great sprinters the 100-meter event was run in 12 seconds—which is about the time a fast woman runner might make today. The 400-meter event was run in 54 1-5 seconds and the 800 in 2:11.

But America won nine firsts out of 14 events, despite the track.

Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

PHILADELPHIA, July 21.—Three days ago the good Dutch citizens of this town were much concerned over the fact that the Japanese beetle was devouring all their plant life and the Browns, fresh from five straight victories in Boston and Washington, were en route to Philly with the grim intention of knocking off Connie Mack's boys for five more victories and grabbing a tie for second place.

They are still trying to figure a way to stop the Japanese beetle. The Browns are no longer a threat. They came to town five game out of second place and left town 10 games out. None of the insect authorities here seems to have seen the possibilities of killing off the beetle armies by turning loose Al Simmons, Bing Miller, Jimmy Foxx and a few others, armed only with bats.

Altogether the series here has been the puncturing of as poetic a dream as Jack Keats ever smoked up. The boys looked unbeatable until thew landed here.

Grove Easy Victor.

Lefty Grove had things all his way in the first game today and Johnny Ogden had nothing his way except terrific drives that burnt the atmosphere. The A's belted John all over this and neighboring cantons. The management got out the tape line after Jimmy Foxx had slammed one over the double deck stands in left in the fifth and found that the ball had carried 450 feet. Al Simmons put one in the upper deck, with Beck pitching.

Old Jack Quinn spitballed his way to victory in the second, although found for 10 hits. The Macks hopped on Stewart for seven runs and 10 hits in six and two-thirds innings, Dykes and Hauser getting homers.

Two runs were scored by the Brownies in the first. McNeely walked, and took third when Brannon slapped a double off Foxx's glove. Manush hit a bounder to Hauser, and when Joe took his time getting to the bag, Heinie slid and beat him, McNeely scoring. Brannon scored on an infield out by Kress.

Athletics Go Ahead.

The Macks went ahead by scoring three runs in the third. Foxx walked, went to second on Miller's single, took third on a sacrifice and scored on Hauser's single. Miller scored on a single by Quinn. Haas singled and Quinn was out at third, McNeely to O'Rourke, but Dykes scored Hauser with a sacrifice fly to Manush.

The Browns didn't score again until the seventh, but the Athletics made considerable hay off Stewart. Hauser hit a homer in the fourth, and Dykes did the same in the fifth. Brannon led off in the seventh with a single, got to third on Manush's double and scored while Quinn was throwing out Kress.

The Macks scored twice in the seventh. Dykes walked, with one out, went to second on an infield out and scored on Simmons' single. When Foxx doubled, scoring Simmons, Stewart was removed and Wiltse finished the inning without further mishap. Strelecki worked the ninth, and was touched for two hits, but no runs.

GRAY TO OPPOSE INDIANS

Blaeholder Scheduled to Work Tomorrow in Final Game of Road Campaign.

Sammy Gray is scheduled to open against the Indians in the first of a two-game series on Sunday, with George Blaeholder the probable nominee for the Monday contest.

Lefty Grove looked like he was after his own season strikeout record of 11 whiffs in the first inning of the opener. He pitched only one ball and that to Manush, who grounded out. McNeely and Melillo were called out on strikes, every pitch cutting the outside edge of the plate. As Melillo fouled one, Grove threw eight straight strikes, since the first one to Manush was over.

Kress was Grove's third victim. He fanned in the second. Schulte draw a walk but was forced by Blue.

They crashed through in the third though when Cochrane doubled to score Haas, who had singled. Ogden fanned Simmons for the third out. The Browns were still hitless.

Melillo Hits a Double.

Melillo broke the hitless string with a pop double in the fourth and went to third on Manush's infield out but was caught at the plate on Schulte's roller to Dykes. The Macks continued to paste Ogden. Foxx doubled and scored on Miller's single, but when Bing tried to get to third on Hauser's single to right, he was out on McNeely's perfect throw to O'Rourke.

Continuing their bombardment of Ogden, the Macks scored three times in their half. Haas doubled, moved upon Dykes' sacrifice and scored on Simmons' single, and then Jimmy Foxx hit a terrific home run over the double-deck stands in left field. It was the first time anyone had cleared the stands without bouncing the ball off the roof.

Inspired by this wallop, the Browns hit twice and scored once in the sixth. Melillo walked and went to second on Manush's single. While Schulte was forcing Manush, Melillo went to third and scored on Kress' line single to right. A double play stopped the scoring. Beck went in to pitch against the Macks and gave them their first hitless inning, fanning Hauser.

Beck set the Macks down in order again in the seventh, but the Browns got the same treatment from Grove.

Melillo got his second hit, a single, in the eighth, but the Athletics set upon Beck and drove him from the hill. Simmons opened with a home run smash into the upper deck of the left field stands. Foxx walked, went to second on Bing Miller's third single and both men moved up on Hauser's sacrifice. Boley drove in Foxx with a single and Grove singled to score Miller. Wiltse supplanted Beck and, when Haas hit to Blue, Boley was nailed at the plate.

Grove's wide throw to first gave Kress a life in the ninth and after Blue had flied out, O'Rourke sent him to second with a single and he scored on Manion's one-base punch to left. Bettencourt, batting for Wiltse, hit a long fly to right center which eventually landed safe, but Manion was holding second and, when Bettencourt ran him down, both men were tagged out by Boley, who took a throw from Haas.

In the third inning of the second game, McNeely pulled his third spectacular catch in as many days, grabbing Bing Miller's fly near the foul line after a long run.

Cards Use Four Pitchers But Lose to Phillies, 8-3

on third, the batter hit a foul toward right field which Bottomley muffed, giving Jahn a life. Jim appeared to be worrying about throwing the ball to the plate to head off Hurst before he caught it and the result was the muff.

This play had much to do with the rest of the game, for Jahn's single sent Hurst home and put Whitney on third.

Frankhouse Lacks Control.

The first thing Frankhouse did was to walk Sand to fill the bases, then uncorked a wild pitch which permitted Whitney to score and the other runners to advance.

Lerian shot a double down the left field line, Jahn and Sand scoring. All of the Phils' runs in this inning were charged against Mitchell.

Hafey's home run got one of those runs back for the Cardinals in their half of the sixth.

Reinhart went to the hill in the seventh and Hurst shot a long double to left center. He went to third on Whitney's sacrifice. Leach walked and Jahn hit into a double play, Maranville to High to Bottomley.

Douthit singled and Thevenow walked after two were out in the Cardinals' half, but High grounded to Thompson.

Leach Knocks Four-Bagger.

Rhem took up the hurling burden for St. Louis in the eighth. Two bases on balls and a single gave Philadelphia another run and in the ninth they scored their final tally when Leach hit on top of the pavilion in right center field for a home run.

Bottomley walked to start the Cardinals' eighth. Hafey flied to Jahn. Then Harper walked. Wilson bunted and Lerian threw him out. Maranville grounded to Thompson.

In the ninth Williamson batted for Rhem and singled to left. Douthit forced Williamson, Thevenow popped to Thompson and the Phils' second baseman threw out High.

For the fourth and final game of the series this afternoon, Bill McKechnie has announced he will send Jess Haines, star right-hander, to the hill, while Jimmy Ring likely will pitch for the Phils.

Wattie Holm, who has been suffering from a cold, will play today, it was announced last night.

Immediately after today's game the Cardinals leave for a trip through the east. They play an exhibition game at Rochester tomorrow, then open at Brooklyn Tuesday. Four games are scheduled to be played in Brooklyn, four in Philadelphia, four in New York, four in Boston and two in Pittsburg.

The club returns home to face the Cubs on Aug. 11.

Alexander, Haines, Sherdel and Rhem will not stop off at Rochester, but will go straight through to New York.

Frank Frisch departed for his home in New York yesterday and will rejoin the team there. He expects to be able to play soon, being almost completely recovered from the torn muscle in his left thigh which he suffered recently.

Whitney's fumble gave Douthit a life in the first, but Thevenow hit into a double play, Thompson to Sand to Hurst, and High bounced to Thompson.

Sand walked after one was gone in the second. Then Lerian hit into a doube play, Mitchell to High to Bottomley.

With two out in the third, Thompson tried to beat out a swinging bunt between the pitcher's box and first base, but was out on a good play. Bottomley fielded the ball and tossed to Mitchell on first ahead of the runner.

Mitchell Bombarded.

Leach smashed a line drive at Mitchell in the fourth which bounced from the pitcher's glove into center field for a single. Jahn then tapped to Mitchell and although the ball bounced over the pitcher's head toward shortstop, he recovered it in time to toss to Bottomley ahead of Jahn. Jahn evidently is not the fastest human.

Thompson made a fast play to retire Harper in the fourth, fielding George's grounder close to second and beating the runner to first with a snap underhand throw.

Two single availed the Phils nothing in the fifth, for after Lerian and Sweetland hit with one out, Southern forced Sweetland and Thompson sent a long fly to Hafey.

Mitchell doubed with one away in the fifth and Douthit was hit by a pitched ball. But for the second time Thevenow hit into a double play, Sand to Thompson to Hurst.

More Innings, More Pitchers.

Reinhart was the third Cardinal pitcher, going to the mound in the seventh. Hurst greeted him with a long double to left center and Whitney's sacrifice put Hurst on third. Leach walked, but Jahn hit into a double play, Maranville to High to Bottomley.

A single by Douthit and a pass to Thevenow after two were out in the seventh were wasted when High bounced to Thompson for the last out.

Rhem went to the mound in the eighth. He has recovered from an injury to his left side suffered when pitching in batting practice. It was his first appearance in the box since July 9.

After walking Bottomley and Harper in the eighth, Sweetland was taken out and Benge went in to pitch for the Phillies.

Sweetland had allowed but six hits, but he appeared to be weakening fast.

McKechnie Put Off Field.

Wilson, first to face Benge, bunted toward third and Lerian threw him out. The play was close at first and Wilson protested against Umpire Stark's decision. When Manager McKechnie joined in the argument, he was ordered from the third base coacher's box.

Thevenow threw out Whitney in the eighth, Bottomley making a fine pick-up of Tommy's low throw.

Williamson batted for Rhem in the ninth and singled to left, but Douthit forced him at second. Thevenow popped to Thompson, who made the catch in right field. High grounded to Thompson.

Andy High was honored with a day. Before the contest the St. Louis boy, who has been doing so well for the Cardinals at second base, was presented with a silver service, flowers and a huge bat by his fellow members in the Electrical Workers' Union.

RUTH HITS 39TH HOME RUN AND YANKS WIN, 2-0

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 21. — George Pipgras outpitched Ed Walsh Jr. here today as the son of the former White Sox ace made his New York debut, and the Yankees registered their third straight over the visitors, 2 to 0. Babe Ruth's thirty-ninth home run decided the issue in the seventh, but the Yanks added another run before the round had been finished.

Ruth's drive put him 29 games, 30 days and nine home runs ahead of his record pace last season, the greatest lead he ever had except in 1920. The Babe had only 30 on this date last year, and plucked his thirty-ninth off Miller at Cleveland on Aug. 20 in game No. 18. The contest today was his 89th of 1928.

CUBS PLAY 25 INNINGS TO BEAT GIANTS TWICE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 21.—The Cubs wrested two extra-inning decisions from the Giants in more than five and one-half hours of baseball here this afternoon and evening. The home team eked out the first victory by 2 to 1 in 15 rounds, and the second by a 5 to 4 in 12.

The Cubs came from behind to tie the score of the second clash in the ninth on a pass to English and a double by Maguire. A pass to Stephenson and Hartnett's triple ended the game in favor of Chicago with two out in the next round.

Clyde Beck's home run in the sixth inning of the opener kept the Cubs in the ball game until the verdict coud be pulled out in the fifteenth. Maguire's single, two sacrifices and Stephenson's one-base drive accounted for the Chicago margin.

DANGEROUS WINS YONKERS HANDICAP ON HEAVY TRACK AT EMPIRE CITY

ROSEDALE COLT BEATS DOLAN BY LENGTH; SORTIE FINISHES THIRD

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 21. — The Rosedale Stable's Dangerous, ridden by George Fields, won the Yonkers Handicap, a mile and a sixteenth gallop, at Empire City racetrack here this afternoon. The race was run over a heavy track, which was exactly to the liking of Dangerous. E. F. Coohey's Dolan, which suddenly found his racing legs, gained the place, while Sortie was third. The race was worth $5120, and the time was 1:49.

Juggler and Sortie ran head and head for half a mile, then Ironsides took the lead. However, he could not hold his lead, and when Dolan and Dangerous challenged in the stretch, he dropped back. Dangerous won by a length, while Dolan took the place by a length and a half from Sortie.

Wins By a Head.

Morven Stud's Gaffney Gal, well played at 6 to 1, won the opening event, a five and a half furlong sprint, with Lydia B second, and Clatter third. Mae Quince the receding favorite, finished away back after showing early speed. Gaffney Gal was taken wide all the way and in a hard drive, won by a head. Lydia B, took the place by three lengths.

Flying Horse Farms' Wrackeen, with Robertson up, won the second race, leading home a large field of platers, it was Robertson's second victory of the day, he having won with Gaffney Gal in the first. Wrackeen opened a wide lead early but tired suddenly in stretch and just lasted to win by half length from Turf Queen with Sucky third a length back.

Assistant Starter Injured.

F. J. Bastone's John B captured the secondary feature of the day, easily scoring in the Sprightful Stakes, a dash of about six furlongs. Matthew was second and Florinissa third. The race was worth $4265. Espinoza, the favorite, wheeled and kicked Elmer Gordon, an assistant starter, and was left at the post. Gordon suffered a broken leg as a result of the mishap.

Autumn Bloom, the outsider, went out and set a fast early pace, maintaining a length margin until the turn for home. There John B, which had been trailing, came up fast on the outside and easily went on to win by four lengths. Matthew, always well up, finished courageously to beat Florinissa a length for the place. Florinissa closed well and beat the tiring Autumn Bloom a head for the show position.

Caroler, well-played second choice at 9-5, scored in a romp in the fifth race. Caricuture was second, and Poly, the favorite, third. Caroler took the lead early and won by two lengths. Caricuture took the place by four lengths from Poly.

Old Oaks Win National Junior Polo Honors

PHILADELPHIA, July 21.—Old Oaks or Rumson wrested the Junior National Polo Championship from the army in a fiercely contested game at the Philadelphia Country Club here today. The Old Oaks four won, 12 to 8, to take the title from the defending champions, who have had the crown for the past four years.

It was Jimmy Cooley's sensational riding and mallet work that played the biggest part in the upset of the defending champions. Cooley scored seven times, three more than any other player on the field.

TWO FAVORITES BEATEN IN HARNESS RACES

By the Associated Press.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., July 21.—Two favorites were set back today in the final program of Kalamazoo's Grand Circuit harness racing meet. The first upset came in the 2:13 trot, when Volstead defeated a field of 12 in straight heats. The favorite, Freddie Capp, driven by Lon McDonald, was badly beaten. In the 2:13 pace, Capt. Grattan, by Grattan Royal, was a winner over Leco Grattan Jr., and five others. Queen Patch took second money by winning the third heat.

Doane, driven by Becker, won the $3000 stake for 2:06 trotters after Kahla Dillon took the first heat. The time was fast.

TANAIS FIRST IN 100,000-FRANC STAKE

PARIS, July 21.—The Minerva stakes, valued at 100,000 francs, was won by the 3-year-old filly Tanais today. Merry Girl was second and Ruth was third.

Utah Race Track Closes.

By the Associated Press.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, July 21.—Officials of the Lagoon Jockey Club, which has been conducting a racing meet at Farmington, 20 miles north of here, announced at the track today that the meet, originally scheduled to run until Aug. 6, would end with this afternoon's card. The State Supreme Court early this week held that horse racing and pool selling in the State were illegal.

Uncle May	102	5	8	9	9	9	9	R. Dogget	104.26

Black Friar having speed from the start raced into a good lead on the turn saved ground thereafter and outstayed Theo Red. The latter taken back after the first quarter gained steadily when urged hard in stretch and was wearing down the winner. Huntsman worked his way up on inside with a rush on turn and closed well. Roycrofter had no mishaps. Odd Fellow II, weakly ridden swerved badly in stretch run. Wildrake had early speed after reaching last quarter. Little Guinea was outrun.

$2 mutuels paid: Black Friar, win, $6.02; place, $4.18; show, $3.42. Theo Red, place, $5.04; show, $3.74. Huntsman, show, $6.82.

SECOND RACE—$1200, claiming, 3-year-olds and up, three-quarters mile: Start good; won driving; place same. Went to post 3:01 p. m.; at post 2 minutes. Winner, ch. g. 4, by Thunderstorm-Elwah. Trainer, J. Reed. Time, :23 4-5, :48 1-5, 1:16 4-5. Value to winners, $900, $200, $100.

Cleora	99	7	4	1¹	2²	4½	7	A. Tiner	3.15

Padona well ridden restrained off early pace, responded when called on after half mile racing into lead held on gamely to outstay Bunthrone. Latter closed with a rush after reaching last quarter and finished in close quarters. Capistrano rated close in early pursuit, took lead after half mile, faltered badly in last sixteenth and pulled up badly lamed. Gotham taken back soon after start and raced wide was given a bad ride. Minervus pulled up lame. Cleora had most speed to stretch where she quit.

$2 mutuels paid: Padona, win, $11.00; place, $8.28; show, $4.56; Bunthrone, place, $21.62; show, $7.90; Capistrano, show, $4.36.

SPORT SALAD

Margin Players.

BY just one run to beat the Phils
The Cards are oft put to it.
They strive and strain to lick those pills,
And find it hard to do it.
Though at the tail end they may tag,
Those boys are trouble makers,
And so the Cards may win a flag
By nosing out the Quakers.

Too Bad.

A wave of indignation has swept the European tennis courts over Big Bill Tilden's suspension. They claim the American tennis body is all wet.

Bill might appeal the case from the tennis courts to the civil courts on the ground that a slip of the pen is no fault of the foot.

France is particularly peeved over the matter and may lay it before the World Court for adjudication.

International complications are liable to set in. Lindy may have to take the Spirit of St. Louis out of the Smithsonian Institute and do it all over again.

If Bill wants to continue his writing activities he can do so without a word of protest from the amateur sport writers.

President Coolidge's feat of catching two fish on one cast is nothing to get excited about. When he catches two on one hook we'll send out and buy an extra.

Furthermore, those double-header catches are occurring with such frequency that they are being regarded in the light of fish stories.

Not that Calvin would be a party to any deception in regard to his fishing achievements. But news is news whether it occurs or not.

Then the Fun Began.

Alexander pitched a no-hit game for six innings against the Phillies the other day. Then he eased up and in the ninth Cy Williams eased the ball over the fence and the Phils eased four runs over the plate. They were two runs shy, however, and the Phils eased themselves a little further back in the cellar.

RICH STAKES ON SARATOGA FALL PROGRAM

Ten Big Races in Week at Saratoga

THE schedule for the first seven days of the annual 30-day race meeting at Saratoga follows:

July 30—Flash Stakes, $5000 guaranteed, 2-year-olds, five furlongs; Saratoga Handicap, $5000 added, 3-year-olds and up, one mile and one-quarter.

July 31—Shillelah Steeplechase, $2000 added, 4-year-olds and up, about two miles.

Aug. 1—Schuyler ille Stakes, $5000 guaranteed, 2-year-old fillies, five and one-half furlongs.

Aug. 2—Seneca Claiming States, $1500 added, 3-year-olds, six furlongs.

Aug. 3—Test Stakes, $2000 added, 2-year-old fillies, seven furlongs.

Aug. 4—United States Hotel Stakes, $10,000 guaranteed, 2-year-olds, six furlongs; Miller Stakes, $3500 added, 3-year-olds (geldings barred), mile and three-sixteenths; American Legion Handicap, $2000 and $100 plate added, 3-year-olds and up, one mile.

Aug. 6—Saratoga Sales Stakes, $1500 added, 2-year-olds, five and one-half furlongs.

By Clement Glaub.

Thirty-eight valuable stakes, ranging from $1500 to $50,000, are down for decision during the annual fall race meeting of 30 days at the beautiful Saratoga race track, scheduled to open a week from tomorrow and continue until Sept. 1. The opening day program will be featured by the Flash Stakes, for juveniles, and the Saratoga Handicap, for older horses. The latter event is at one mile and one-quarter. All the good horses in this country are eligible for the stakes and crack fields are expected to line up at the barrier when the horses are called to the post.

This year's meeting promises to be the best in the history of the New York course. One of last year's stakes has been dropped but two new events have been carded. The officials of the Saratoga Association for the Improvement of the Breed of Horses have added the Whitney Stakes and American Legion Handicap and dropped the Post Handicap. The latter carried a value of $3000 and was for 3-year-olds and over. The American Legion takes its place with a purse of $2000 and $100 plate. The Whitney, for juveniles, is worth $4000 in added money.

The Travers Midsummer Derby, one of the oldest races on the program, is one of the features of the meeting. Many of the best 3-year-olds in the country are eligible and it is probable that Reigh Count, champion of this year's 3-year-old crop, will be among the starters. The winner of the Kentucky Derby will draw Victorian, best of Eastern racers; Vito, winner of the Belmont Stakes; Genie, first in the Empire Derby, and probably Misstep, first in the Fairmount Derby, as opponents. The Travers Derby is at one mile and one-quarter and at scale weights.

Championships to Be Decided.

The championship race for 3-year-olds and over, the Saratoga Cup, will be decided on the last day of the meeting. This event, at equal weights, over a mile and three-quarters, is for colts and fillies, geldings being barred. Chance Play, one of the best horses now racing, won last year's renewal, defeating Forever and Ever and Espino. The latter won the cup in 1926. Exterminator, known as Old Bones, was the only horse to score four consecutive victories in the history of the stake. W. S. Kilmer's great horse won in 1919, 1920, 1921 and 1922. His victory in 1921 was a walkover.

When the Saratoga Association closes its gates on the meeting, new champions will be crowned. At present Blue Larkspur, E. R. Bradley's home-bred winner of three stakes, is the leader, but a number of first-class juveniles will be uncovered during the meeting. The 3-year-old question will also be decided, as will the championship of 3-year-old fillies. The latter will be decided in the Alabama Stakes, when Easter Stockings, best filly in the West, will meet Bateau and other stars.

Among stars from the West likely to make the trip to the Spa are: Voltear, winner of the Dearborn Stakes at Lincoln Fields; Port Harlem, Martin Finn's three-time stake winner; Leo J. Marks' Misstep, winner of the Fairmount Derby, and R. C. Stable's Crystal Pennant, Coffroth Handicap winner and candidate for the Saratoga Cup.

More than $350,000 in stakes will be distributed to horsemen during the meeting. The richest stake carded is the Hopeful for juveniles. Brooms won last year's renewal and earned close to $56,000. Three-year-old colts and fillies will compete in the $25,000 guaranteed Travers Derby and Alabama Stakes. The Saratoga Association guarantees a purse of $12,500 for the latter race.

BABE RUTH SAYS CONFIDENCE IS WINNING ASSET

By Babe Ruth.

As Told to a Representative of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 21.—The more I stick around the big leagues the more I'm convinced that the bigger factor in pitching success is confidence. Of course, a pitcher has to have a lot of stuff and he has to have control—but those are things that you expect from a man who comes up to the big leagues.

There are three pitchers on the Yankees right now who illustrate what I mean. They are George Pipgras, Henry Johnson and Myles Thomas. These fellows came to the Yankees several years ago. They seemed to have a lot of stuff and eventually they got control, yet they couldn't seem to win.

Some of the boys were doubtful if they ever would come through but Miller Huggins wasn't.

Huggins Encourages Boys.

"All they need is confidence and they'll win ball games," Hug declared, and went out of his way to encourage them and pat them on the back.

Last fall Pipgras went against the Tigers and pitched a shutout. Then and there he was a changed pitcher. After that he had all the confidence in the world. He was convinced himself that he was a big league pitcher, and now he rates as one of the best right-handers in the league.

Johnson got his confidence against the Athletics. Huggins started him as a gamble and Johnson won.

'Huh," he said, "This isn't so tough after all." In three starts he beat the Athletics three times and now you'll find him out there taking his regular turn in the box and pitching great baseball. All he needed was confidence—and he's got that now.

So far as that is concerned confidence is a big thing in any department. A man can't stand up there at the plate and get base hits unless he's confident. That's why some pitchers have the jinx on some hitters. A hitter goes against a pitcher a few times and can't get a hit.

No Such Thing as "Jinx."

"That pitcher's a jinx to me," he says to himself, and after that he goes up there doubtful of his ability to hit. And as long as he feels that way he's half whipped to start. The same rule works both ways.

Joe Tinker used to pound Matty because he had confidence that he could hit him. Matty on the other hand, was half afraid of Tinker every time he came to bat.

I've heard pitchers in the club house say "I'd rather pitch against any club in the legaue than such and such an outfit." When a pitcher has that feeling he's half whipped to start. As a matter of fact there are no jinx clubs.

Naturally some clubs have heavier hitters than others—but with clubs like that it isn't a jinx that beats a pitcher. It's base hits.

No sir, the more I stick around the more I'm convinced that confidence is the biggest single asset in the whole pitching layout. The chap who has confidence in himself and his ability is pretty apt to come through if he has anything to back it up at all.

MANION TOOK 32 PUTTS, MISSED FIVE SHORT ONES IN WINNING OPEN

By Gerald Holland.

The Manion's still have it.

Jimmie, the amateur, has succeeded John, the professional, as the open golf champion of the St. Louis district. In winning the annual tournament at the St. Louis Country Club, Friday, Jimmie came within one stroke of the match play record for the course his last round, scoring a 68, which gave him a total of 142.

A remarkable part of Jimmie's performance was the fact that while he obviously shot remarkable golf, he was still a bit off in his putting. Had two or three putts which rimmed the cup fallen in, he would have turned in a sensational total.

Witness:

He missed putts for birdies on the following holes:

No. 3, a six-footer.
No. 7, a five-footer.
No. 8, an eight-footer.
No. 10, a 10-footer.

And he missed a seven-foot putt for an eagle 3 on number 9. On that hole he whacked a spoon shot about 250 yards to the green, seven feet past the cup. Then he missed a putt which he ordinarily makes, and still he got a birdie 4 out of it. And, with all his narrow misses, he still collected three birdies for the round.

After the match, some of Jim's friends congratulated him on his excellent game, especially on his good putting, but an analysis of his play proves that he really lost some strokes on the green.

He Took 32 Putts.

He took 32 putts for the round, whereas a man shooting a total of 68 for 18 holes should not take more than 28 putts. With just a wee bit of luck on the greens, Jimmie would have burned up the course.

While the match play record at the Country Club is held by Jack Hutchison, at 67, Jim Manion holds the unofficial mark of 65. He made that dizzy score one pleasant afternoon about three years ago, when playing in a foursome in which his brother, John, and Elliott Whitbread, were included. There was a bit of a stake involved, so Jim just had to bear down. His 68 on Friday was, therefore, not quite his best effort.

Manion appears to be playing as well as ever before in his career. His next tournament appearance will be at the Bob-o-Link course in the Chicago district, when the Western Amateur Championship will be decided, starting Aug. 20. In that tournament the British Walker Cup players will compete and the field will probably be as high class as the national amateur, although Bobby Jones will not be among those present.

Wolff Gets Seven Birdies.

Despite Manion's score of 142, rence Wolff, who was second, h 144, took the Leacock prize the greatest number of birdies. rence bettered par on seven oc- sions during the two rounds.

Imperturbable Twins.

If a prize were offered to the even-tempered golfer, the ery brothers, Lester and J. n would have to toss for it. e boys can putt with a brass accompaniment. Les is an eur and Jack is one of Johnny n's assistants at Sunset. Les ood enough to qualify for the al open last month but with- and gave Clarence Wolff, ls Schwartz and Clarke Morse nce to tie for his place.

Bobby Jones
Says

A N amateur-professional team match, recently played near London, resulted in a draw with nine wins in singles and foursomes for each side, a fine achievement for the amateurs, most of whom are Walker Cup players. But far more important than the result of the match, is the fact that it was played and that it aroused so much interest that there is talk of making it an annual fixture.

Nothing of the kind has been tried in this country since the Professional Golfers' Association held a four-cornered team match during the war. At that time four teams were selected, three of professionals, home-bred, Scottish born and English born, and a team of amateurs. On that occasion, over three days of play, the amateurs came off a very bad last, a position which I do not believe they would accept today.

The one great pity about the present day golfing competitive structure is that no chance is offered the amateur and professional to meet at match play. Those few amateurs who attend the "open" each year are the only men who have an opportunity to compete against the pros or to play with the best of them. But even that competition is not all we should like it to be. In stroke competition there is never the feeling that you are opposing the man with whom you are playing. You are in reality playing against the field, and although your companion is a part of the field, the inclination is rather to hope he will do well and to help him along rather than to be intent upon beating him.

Pro Always Confident.

THERE is as much difference between the play of the average first-class amateurs and the best professionals as one could well imagine. We find too many men at the amateur meetings who seem to "scrape" their scores—men who are good players without looking like golfers. Men like Hagen, Armour, Farrell, Sarazen and dozens of others are bound to inspire any man with whom they play. They step up to a shot with a confidence born of the knowledge that they know what they are going to do. None of them fuss about over the ball. The matter of playing golf is to them as natural as walking.

In a field of professionals instead of having three or four men to beat, there are at least 20 who may beat anyone in a 36-hole match. That is the fact which makes me regard Hagen's record in the P. G. A. championships as the most remarkable thing in golf. It is almost inconceivable that he could go through that field for four years without out losing a match.

And there we find the very finest competition in the game, that of the professional golfer, denied to the amateur save for the very little bit he can pick up in exhibition four-ball matches.

There are today a number of very fine amateur golfers in this country and some splendid young ones coming along. But none of them are so good that competition with the pros will not help them. Of course, golfing supremacy is by no means an international question of the first importance, but there is a certain amount of national pride connected with it. Anything we can do to improve the general standard of play among our foremost golfers naturally increases public interest and improves all standards down to the rankest duffer. I think that the promotion of a match of this kind would be an immense service to the game.

Boxing Meet at Military Camp

Capt. S. G. Backman, director of athletics at the Citizens' Military Training Camp at Jefferson Barracks, has arranged a crowded program for the thousand students enrolled.

Boxing and wrestling bouts are held several nights a week fofore 100 per cent attendance. Camp tournaments in wrestling and boxing have reached the semifinals will be held next week. Special matches are also scheduled between teams of Illinois, Arkansas and Missouri teams.

Training has been started for the swimming meet on July 30 and the annual track and field meet, which will be held at Francis Field on Aug. 1. Tournaments in other sports are also planned to determine camp champions.

Capt. Backman was formerly stationed at the University of Georgia and was associate coach at the University of Cincinnati. He is assisted by a staff of company representatives.

It Will Cost You 25 Cents to See The Bowlers Now

The St. Louis Major City Bowling League at a meeting held Friday evening at the Statler Hotel, voted to bowl on the Washington Alleys this season, opening up Monday evening, Aug. 27.

The league voted to enter in a body the city scratch and class tournaments. The league also decided to charge a 25-cent admission to the games, effective Monday, Oct. 1.

Jerry C. Ameling, who has been secretary-treasurer of the Major City League for many years, was elected president; Robert Bruce was elected vice president and Gus U. Klemme secretary-treasurer.

All teams that made up the league last season with the exception of the Flower Specials, are entered. The Clover Leafs have replaced the Flowers.

LANDIS RULES CLEVELAND MUST ACCEPT MILJUS

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 21.—In a six-word decision today, Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis decided the Cleveland American League baseball club must accept the services of Johnny Miljus, former Pittsburg National pitcher, who went to the Indians on a waiver.

"The player is awarded to Cleveland," said the commissioner as he came from a conference with officials of the Indian and Pirate teams. It is understood Cleveland must pay Pittsburg the price they paid for Miljus—$16,500, plus $1500 to make Pitcher Andy House a free agent. House was sent to the Seattle Club by the Pirates in the deal for Miljus.

Billy Evans, vice president of the Clevelands, said "We took a licking, but we don't feel badly about it. We rather think the acquisition of Miljus is a good thing for us."

The Cleveland Club, after gaining Miljus on a waiver balked on the deal when it was discovered the price would be more than the regular waiver sum of $7500. The Indians took the case to Landis, contending a clerk made an error in putting in a claim for Miljus, and the claim was not authorized by responsible officials of the club.

ST. LOUIS STARS WIN SERIES OPENER FROM BIRMINGHAM, 8 TO 4

The St. Louis Stars, in the Negro National League, defeated the Birmingham Black Barons in the opening contest of a five-game series yesterday at the Stars' Park. The score was 8 to 4.

Bell, center fielder for the Stars, made a brilliant play when he raced to deep center to catch Alexander's fly single-handed, while Wells starred at short with a splendid single-handed catch. Davis, Creacy and Meredith, each hit home runs.

The second game of the series will be played this afternoon starting at 3 o'clock.

STARS' MANAGER IS SUSPENDED AND FINED

Attorney Hueston, president of the Negro National Baseball League, notified James Taylor, manager of the St. Louis Stars, that he had been fined $25 and suspended for 10 days for alleged misconduct in the game July 8 at the Stars' Park. It has been reported that Umpire Donaldson resigned after an argument with Taylor on that day.

Taylor usually does the pinch hitting for his club, but the suspension will keep him out of five games here with the Black Barons; the two-game series in Chicago next Thursday and Friday, and four of the five games to be played in Detroit starting next Saturday.

TWO REFEREES ORDERED FOR MALONEY CARD

The two-referee system, in which two referees will alternate at each boxing card, has been adopted by the State Boxing Commission, it was learned yesterday afternoon when Billy Maloney, matchmaker for the Hatzfeld Post of the American Legion, announced that he had been instructed to employ two referees for his boxing card of Aug. 1.

On recent professional cards the two-referee system has been in vogue and has been so successful that the ruling of the commission followed. In addition to making the tasks of the referees lighter, the new rule will tend to develop new officials. St. Louis now has only three licensed referees.

Maloney's fight card, with two referees alternating, will be held in the Missouri Arena, at Macklind and Berthold avenues, just east of Forest Park Highlands.

Frankie Ford of Waco, Tex., and Frank Osner of St. Louis, lightweights, will appear in a 10-round bout, and Maloney is now trying to obtain a heavyweight to oppose Hank Maloy of Boston, in another 10-round bout. Eddie Burke and Ray Alfano, local 140-pounders, probably will be signed for a six-rounder.

HAASAN'S LICENSE IS REVOKED BY OFFICIALS

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 21.—Hagan Haasan, the Turkish heavyweight boxer who was on the receiving end of Les Marriner's sixteenth knockout last week, today had his license revoked by the Illinois State Athletic Commission. The commission, which charged his showing against the University of Illinois fighter was unsatisfactory, also fined him 66 2-3 per cent of his purse.

The Illinois commissioners also recognized the indefinite suspension of Wayne Munn, former heavyweight wrestling champion, by the Oklahoma commission. Munn was suspended in Oklahoma for a poor showing at Tulsa.

REDS AND RED SOX SHOW BIGGEST GAINS IN THE MAJOR LEAGUE

LEAGUE-LEADING CARDINALS 74 POINTS BETTER THAN IN 1927 AND BROWNS HAVE PICKED UP 97

Schedules of St. Louis Clubs For the Next Three Weeks

Following are the complete schedules for the two St. Louis clubs, during the next three weeks. In this time, the Cardinals will be on the road and the Browns at Sportsman's Park:

BROWNS.

July 25 (2), 26 (2), 27—Washington.
July 28, 29, 30, 31—Philadelphia.
Aug. 1, 2, 3—New York.
Aug. 4, 5, 6, 7—Boston.

CARDINALS.

July 24, 25, 26, 27—At Brooklyn.
July 28 (2), 30, 31—At Philadelphia.
Aug. 1, 2, 3, 4—At Boston.
Aug. 5, 6, 7, 8—At New York.
Aug. 9, 10—At Pittsburg.

By Herman Wecke

Bill McKechnie's Cardinals, traveling along in first place in the National League flag race, a jump of three positions over last season, have gained 74 points over a corresponding date of 1927, records including games played on Friday show. This is a larger gain than shown by any of the contending clubs with the exception of Cincinnati.

The Browns, in jumping from sixth to third place, have tacked on 97 points, the second largest gain shown by any team in the American League. The percentage for Dan Howley's club a year ago was .419.

While it hardly seems possible that a team could travel at a faster pace than the world's champion Yankees did in 1927, this is nevertheless true, inasmuch as the New Yorkers added 17 points to the figure they owned a year ago. Huggins' men are going at a clip, which shows three victories in practically every four starts.

Two Big Surprises.

However, the two surprise clubs in the major leagues, the teams which have shown the greatest jumps are the Cincinnati Reds and Boston Red Sox. On July 20, 1927, Jack Hendricks' club was in seventh place with a percentage of .409. Thus the Reds have tacked on 158 percentage points, the largest gain to be shown by any of the major teams.

While Bill Carrigan's men have leaped only from eighth to seventh position, the Boston Red Sox, nevertheless, have a percentage 154 points better than during the 1927 campaign.

When the Cardinals reached July 20 last season under Bob O'Farrell ,the team has a mark of .586. Under Bill McKechnie this was raised to .640. New York, still regarded as the Cardinals' closest rivals in the 1928 pennant scramble, added 56 points, while the Brooklyn Robins, aided by some fine pitching—there are many who regard the Brooklyn pitching staff as the best in the National League—tacked on 80, the second largest jump in the circuit.

Pirates Lose 113 Points.

That the road has been mighty rocky for the Pittsburg Pirates, pennant winners in the N. L. a year ago, is indicated by the standings, which show that the Corsairs have dropped 113 points. This, however, was not the largest decrease. This honor, if such it can be called, goes to the Detroit Tigers. George Moriarty's club, which in the pre-season selections was a consensus choice to finish well up in the race, dropped from a .558 and third place down to .398 and eighth position, a loss of 160 percentage points, one more than the Senators.

Although Connie Mack's Athletics picked up 68 points, the club as a pennant possibility, was no better off this season than a year ago.

St. Louis Crews In Training for Annual Regatta

By W. M. MARTIN.

Crews of the Century Boat Club and the Western Rowing Club of St. Louis are preparing for the annual Central States Rowing Regatta at Culver, Ind., Friday and Saturday.

Crews from the Lincoln Park Boat Club of Chicago, South Side Boat Club of Quincy, Culver Military Academy, St. John's Military Academy and Detroit Boat Club, will also participate.

A. Krender is the Western's hope for the single scull championship while Krender and C. Dahlgren will most likely be in the doubles with E. Brancher as substitute.

The Junior-four crew will be represented by O. Klein, bow; C. Wilson, No. 2; J. Becker, No. 3, and C. Bauer, stroke, while the eight-oared shell will be manned with R. Hallman, bow; R. Carey, No. 2; E. Kohlschreiber, No. 3; A. Banach, No. 4; J. Becker, No. 5; C. Wilson, No. 6; O. Klein, No. 7, and C. Dahlgren, coxswain.

The Western barge crew will be F. Weber, bow; J. Kochanski, No. 2; J. Becker, No. 3; B. Carey, No. 4; O. Klein, No. 5; A. Banach, stroke, and C. Dahlgren, coxswain.

Century's eight-oared shell crew is composed of: Bow, W. G. Duchek; No. 2, Schlosstein; No. 3, W. E. Buder; No. 4, Antrobius; No. 5, Bokel; No. 6, Forst; No. 7, Karches; stroke, W. J. Duchek; coxswain, Ruedi. W. J. Duchek is the only first-year man on the crew.

The junior four crew is composed of Casey or Rist at bow; Meyer, No. 2; Schmidt, No. 3, and Welking, stroke. In addition to these crews, Gus A. Buder Jr. will row in the singles, both junior and senior.

The point trophy will most likely go to the Lincoln Park Boat Club of Chicago, or the South Side Boat Club of Quincy.

Al Crowder, A. L. Pitching Sensation, Took Up Baseball to Avoid Work

Browns' Ace Discarded Spade for Glove in Army —Became Hurler After Starting Out as Shortstop

"General" Has Had Varied Travels Including Stops in Siberia, the Philippines and Washington, D. C.

By Jack Alexander

"General" Al Crowder became a ball player in order to avoid work. He said so himself while reclining luxuriously in bed at 10 o'clock in the morning. The muscles in his big arms and chest rippled under numerous army tattooed insignia as he sat up, stretched and asked his roomie, George Blaeholder, who was up and dressed, to pass him a cigarette. The "General," who now has a two-and-one count on the world with a change of pace up his sleeve, grinned slowly in his accustomed way.

"I was in the army," he said, "in the Philippines. I had enlisted in 1919 in my home town, Winston-Salem, N. C., for duty in the aviation service along the Mexican border. But when I got to Fort Thomas, Ky., I met up with some fellows there and we decided to go to Siberia and hook up with Field Hospital No. 4, which had been there since the war. They needed replacement in this outfit because a lot of the regulars had been held over their enlistment time and wanted to get out."

Discards Spade for Glove.

So to Siberia went Al Crowder, who wasn't then even a ballplayer. They were stationed at a town called Bears Offla, or that's the way the "General" pronounces it. He gives up trying to spell it. The outfit left the place soon after arriving, anyway, so it doesn't matter, and returned to the Phillippines. There a nice mess awaited the unit. Storms and decay had wrecked their barracks in their absence, their buildings were a mass of twisted bamboo and the military roads had been completely washed out.

"There was a terrible lot of work to do around there," said the "General." "They gave me a good share of it because I was husky. But one day the Major, who was a nut on baseball, asked for 10 or 11 recruits for a team and remarked that the ballplayers would not be expected to work. 'Boys,' he says, 'we must have a team. Who can play ball?'"

Enlisted man Crowder joyfully tossed aside his spade and volunteered, although he had played no more ball than the average youngster his age. They made him a shortstop and when they make you anything in the Army, you are just that. If it's cook, you're a cook. If it's shortstop, you're a shortstop, even if you wear the glove around your neck.

One day the man who had been invested with the duties of pitcher, was knocked out and Crowder went in and did his first pitching job. He won, and may Horatio Alger and Burt L. Standish forgive us.

Signed First With Seals.

Before his three-year enlistment was up, Crowder was transferred to San Francisco for duty in the general hospital there. Here they made him pitcher, too, and one day toward the end of his enlistment, a scout for the San Francisco Seals offered him a contract. He did pretty well with the Seals but soon landed back in his home town, Winston-Salem. In 1923 he won 10 and lost seven and was sold to Rochester, which farmed him out to Waterbury in the Eastern League. Here in 1924 he won 11 and lost 13 games and played in the outfield in between.

In 1925 he went to Birmingham, where his record for the year was 13 and 11, with outfield service in 40 games. In 1926 he got a good start in Birmingham and won 17 while losing four, and was sold to Washington. Crowder finished the year with a 24-8 record and appeared set for a major league career.

But last year stomach trouble set in and Clarke Griffith, Senator leader, was frantic in his efforts to bring about a cure. In training camp the best specialists were retained and the most penetrating X-rays taken, the whole thing setting the club back $2000 or $3000.

"The highest priced doctor told Griffith I had gallstones or ulcers of the stomach," said Crowder, "and that I would never be any good again. Griff did everything possible and went farther than most managers would go for a fellow. But when we got into the schedule, my stamina was gone and I was losing games in the third inning."

ALVIN CROWDER.

Cured But Don't Know How.

After winning two games and losing five, Crowder was sent "down the river" to St. Louis in exchange for Old Tom Zachary from whom age had taken almost everything but his cunning. Crowder showed improvement soon after arriving in St. Louis and finished the season with a 7-12 record, four of his victories being shutouts.

This season he got off to a real start and is one of the pitching sensations of baseball. Crowder attributes it mostly to his recovery from stomach trouble, but is at a loss to explain how he was cured.

"You know how you try everything anybody recommends when you are in physical pain," he said. "Well, I did that. Someone would say lay off this and I would. And someone else would say lay off that, or try some of this medicine, it cured my Aunt Nellie, and I did it. I don't know what cured me. At the present time I don't take any medicine and if I want a steak I order it. I eat exactly what I want and nothing bothers me. I can't explain it. When I was with Griff I used to need two weeks' rest between games. Now I can take my regular turn. I don't know what did it."

Expert handling by two old catchers, Bill Killefer and Dan Howley, has done a lot for the "General." He has a wonderful fast ball, good control and is developing a puzzling change of pace. He is 28 years old.

NEW GERMAN RECORD SET IN MARATHON RUN OVER LEVEL COURSE

DUSSELDORF, Germany, July 21.—Paul Gerhard of Siegen has established a new German record for marathon running by covering a distance of 42.214 kilometers (slightly more than the marathon distance of 26 miles, 385 yards) in 2 hours 33 minutes 41 2-10 seconds. The Olympic record for the marathon was set at 2:32:35 4-5 by Hannes Kolehmainen, the great Finn, in the 1920 games at Antwerp.

German sporting editors are careful to warn the public that it must not jump to the conclusion that Germany has the marathon race at Amsterdam clinched. They point out that the Dusseldorf stretch is one of the easiest known. The road is level except that stretches of it show a gradual decline. At no place along the course do the runners have to climb to a higher altitude.

DETROIT OFFICIALS TO DECIDE WHETHER BOAT REGATTA WILL BE HELD

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., July 21.—Detroit's projected Labor day speedboat regatta, which was to have been featured by a contest for the British International (Harmsworth) Trophy race, was all but wrecked today with word that Miss Marian Barbara Carstairs, London sportswoman, had withdrawn her challenge for the trophy.

The Harmsworth trophy, emblematic of the world's hydroplane speed title, was won by Gar Wood, Detroit speed-boat wizard, at Cowes, England, in 1920. Only Great Britain, represented by Miss Carstairs, had challenged for the trophy this year, and her cancellation automatically calls off the race.

A meeting of the Detroit Gold Cup Committee has been called for Monday to determine whether the remainder of the regatta card, which included several other contests for powerboats, shall be postponed or canceled entirely.

OPTION GIVEN ON COLISEUM FOR HOCKEY

Efforts to put St. Louis back on the hockey map took another step forward, when F. P. McDonald Jr. and G. W. Grant of Kansas City announced last night that preliminary arrangements for putting a team in St. Louis had been about completed.

Grant, who heads the Kansas City hockey club of the Western Hockey League, stated that an option on the Coliseum had been obtained and that an estimate for installing the ice-making machines had been obtained and agreed to. The cost of installation will be $55,000, McDonald said.

The work of raising the money now confronts the promoters, who say that they have promise of portant aid in this respect local capitalists. Organi work will begin tomorrow.

The capital required to the enterprise is estimated at 000, as the cost of assembli team is considerable. Hockey ers' contracts have to be and most of the men come Canada. In the entire roster American and National clubs of last season, including 250 players, only seven were icans, according to Grant.

The promoters hope to have ice plant ready for opening 15 and to play four games two weeks. In the intervals Coliseum will operate as a rink and games between school or other local hockey will be scheduled.

Mrs. Claire Secord Becomes Bride of William C. Dickey

Miss Elizabeth Hubbell Weds Stanley Wright of East Orange, N. J., in Simple Ceremony.

TWO weddings yesterday revived momentarily the almost extinct summer season, socially.

At noon, at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. George W. Kerr, 3703 West Pine boulevard, Mrs. Claire Macbeth Secord became the bride of William Cox Dickey, son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Dickey of Atlanta, Ga. The ceremony was performed in the living room, against a background of pink and white gladioli and roses, by the Rev. Dr. J. Franklin Troupe. There were no attendants and the wedding guests were close friends of the families who postponed their summer journey until after the event. Mr. and Mrs. Dickey were here for the ceremony, as was the bride's sister, Mrs. George Knapp, who returned from Rye Beach, N. H. An informal breakfast followed.

The bride was gowned in navy blue silk. with a small hat of matching blue felt, and a corsage of orchids.

Mr. and Mrs. Dickey will spend their honeymoon in Europe, returning late in the summer to Rye Beach before coming to St. Louis to make their home.

The bride and her family are socially prominent in St. Louis.

Late yesterday afternoon the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Hubbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Platt Hubbell of 5934 Clemens avenue, and Stanley Wright, son of Mr. Edward Wright of New York, took place at the Hubbell home. The Rev. Dr. David M. Skilling of the Webster Groves Presbyterian Church officiated. The arrangements were simple and the guests limited to members of the families and a few friends.

The bride wore an afternoon frock of Madeline blue chiffon, made with a tiered skirt ending in an uneven hemline. Her flowers were orchids and lilies of the valley.

An informal reception followed, after which Mr. and Mrs. Wright departed on their wedding trip. They will make their home in

Sports Tourneys Engage Interest of Summer Colonies

NORTH SHORE, Mass., July 21.

WITH the approach of midsummer, sports tournaments are engaging the interest of the North Shore colony. This week the younger set held the annual tennis tournament at the Montserrat Club at Beverly, in which children from the Myopia, Nahant, Essex County and Monserrat clubs and their guests took part. Next week the big tennis event of the season, the Essex Country Club's annual invitation tournament will bring to the North Shore many of the leading players of the country.

Miss Adeline and Luther Smith, children of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Ely Smith of St. Louis and grandchildren of Mrs. Samuel M. Kennard, were among the guests at a dinner followed by dancing given Friday evening by Miss Priscilla Dennett of Boston at the Manchester summer home of her parents in honor of her house guest, Morrison Ward of Chicago.

Mrs. Luther Ely Smith of St. Louis, who is spending the summer with her mother at Manchester, has been the house guest for several days of Mrs. Fitzwilliam Sargent of Haverford, Pa., at her summer home at Eastern Point, East Gloucester. In honor of Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Sargent gave a dinner for sixteen at Del Monte, Magnolia, this week.

Mrs. Charles Boyle of St. Louis is the house guest of John Hays Hammond and his sister, Miss Elizabeth Hammond, at Lookout Hill, the Hammond summer home at East Gloucester.

Miss Medora Steedman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Steedman of St. Louis, who are spending the summer at the Longworth cottage at Pride's Crossing, won the girls' tennis championship and a silver cup at the Montserrat Club. Miss Steedman defeated Miss Katherine Winthrop, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Winthrop of Hamilton and the holder of the state junior girls' championship title. The match in the finals which was witnessed by a large and enthusiastic gallery was won by Miss Steedman after it went an extra set. The St. Louis girl won the first set, 6 to 4, lost the second 6 to 3

Regattas Feature Of Resort Life On Great Lakes

Mississippi Valley Power Boat Association to Hold Race at Traverse City, Mich., Next Month—News of St. Louisans in the Summer Colonies.

CHARLEVOIX, Mich., July 21.

REGATTAS have been planned in all of of the summer resorts on the great lakes. The first of them with place at a cherry festival at Traverse City. Gov. Green participated in the ceremonies and a queen was elected.

The Mississippi Valley Power Boat Association will hold its annual regatta at Traverse City next month.

A regatta at Charlevoix will be held Aug. 3, 4 and 5. The entries include four classics of sails: R'S, 6 meters—of which Charlevoix has the largest fleet on the Great Lakes—Manchesters and Prunes the small sailboats manned chiefly by children. In addition many motor boats are entered. It is expected that S. S. Pingree of St. Louis will enter his new speedboat, the Nana Payne.

The annual boating event at Elk Rapids will take place Aug. 10, and Aug. 12 has been set for a similar event on Spider Lake. The annual races at Harbor Spring will take place Aug. 17, 18 and 19.

The Charlevoix regatta in addition to the unusual list of entries will include surf riding contests. Sackrider, the official starter for the Mississippi Valley Power Boat Association, will handle the flags.

Club President Dunham is also expected to attend. Richard Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Vernon Clark of St. Louis, will not be able to participate in the outboard motor event because of a recent illness.

and then won the third and deciding set by a score of 6 to 4.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Hussey of St. Louis have taken the Beach View cottage on Raymond avenue for a North Shore stay at Magnolia.

The North Shore Arts Association of Gloucester opened its sixth annual exhibition of contemporary American painting, sculpture and etchings at the galleries of the association Saturday afternoon, with a reception and tea. At the annual meeting of the association Mrs. Kathryn Cherry of St. Louis, a member of the art colony of East Gloucester, was re-elected to serve three years on the board of directors. Mrs. Cherry is spending the summer at her studio on the Rocky Neck Shore.

Mrs. Josephine L. Carter of St. Louis has joined Mrs. Nathaniel T. Lane and Miss Isabel Lane at Overledge, Magnolia.

At Rye Beach, N. H., just across the line from the North Shore of Massachusetts, is a considerable St. Louis colony. Dr. and Mrs. George S. Drake are among the late arrivals at Rye Beach, where they will remain until September. Also of the Rye cottage colony are Mr. and Mrs. Edward V. Papin and Mrs. Horace W. Soper of St. Louis.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 21.

THE Newport summer colony is larger than it has been for several years, with most of the old families occupying their cottages for the season. This makes for a lively season, and luncheons, dinners, dances and picnics, in addition to a large public affairs, keep every one busy.

Tonight Mrs. Paul Fitzsimmons gave a dance at Harbor View in honor of Miss Ina Claire, leading woman of the cast that has been playing "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney" at the Newport Casino Theater this week. William H. Vanderbilt, son of Mrs. Fitzsimmons, is president of the theater company and is doing much entertaining for the members of the cast.

Mr. Vanderbilt is also planning a series of dinners and luncheons for the judges and exhibitors at the Horse Show, to be given Aug. 23, 24 and 25. These will include a dinner dance on the opening night of the show at the Clambake Club, a luncheon on the second day at the training ring at Oakland Farm, and a ball at Oakland Farm on the closing night, which also marks the close of the annual tennis tournament. Mr. Vanderbilt is taking the place of his father, the late Alfred G. Vanderbilt, as the patron of the Newport Horse Show.

The first fancy dress ball of the season will be given at the Clambake Club next Saturday evening. It is a subscription party, under the auspices of a committee of members of the club.

Admiral William S. Sims and Mrs. Sims, the latter formerly of St. Louis, and a sister of Mrs. John F. Shipley, are not at Newport this summer, as in years past, but have taken a house at Marion, where other members of the Hitchcock and Shepley families of St. Louis have summer homes.

Mr. Ephron Catlin Jr. of St. Louis and New York was at the Viking over the week end.

The Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. T. Stocking of St. Louis are at Sakonnet, where they have taken a cottage for the summer.

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., July 21.

THE first big entertainment of the summer will be the bridge tournament at the Carlton Hotel, Aug. 11, for the benefit of the Narragansett Village Improvement Society, of which Mrs. Albert Bond Lambert of St. Louis is a member.

The annual polo tournament at the Point Judith Country Club will open Aug. 18. Already several polo players have arrived with strings of ponies and each day many informal games are played on the club fields.

Albert Bond Lambert Jr. of St. Louis was among the guests at the dinner given during the week by Miss Aurelie Murchinson at her parents' villa.

WATCH HILL, R. I., July 21.

WATCH HILL has an unusually large number of cottagers from St. Louis. Mr. and Mrs. Bradford Shinkle and their family have been coming for many years—long before they left Cincinnati. Originally Watch Hill was developed by a Cincinnati syndicate and for a long time visitors from that city were in the majority. Later a large number of Pittsburgers bought cottages and helped to develop the resort. For the past few years Detroit and St. Louis have been represented by more and more families. John Wendell Anderson, one of the first partners of Henry Ford in the motor business, and former Senator Truman H. Newberry are among the cottagers. Several years ago Mr. and Mrs. Allen T. West of St. Louis bought a cottage here. Mrs. Joseph Gleman Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Carl F. Betts, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene F. Williams Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. John H. Overall and their family have joined the St. Louis colony here. Mr. and Mrs. Overall were formerly of the summer colony at Magnolia, where the Scudder and Cupples families were yearly visitors, taking an active part in the life of the North Shore colonies.

Eben Richards Jr. of Tuxedo Park, N. Y., grandson of the late Henry Clay Pierce of St. Louis, is at the Ocean House.

Jefferson Barracks Monday from Fort Sheridan, Ill., where they had been visiting Capt. Hand, who is on temporary duty at that station.

Miss Helen Umpleby and Lieut. Henry Hennis, who have been guests of Capt. and Mrs. Ralph Slate, accompanied by Mrs. Slate, motored to Des Moines, Ia., Monday. Mrs. Slate will return to Jefferson Barracks today.

Major-General Paul B. Malone, accompanied by Maj. Rollo C. Ditto, visited Jefferson Barracks last Monday at which time they made an inspection of the C. M. T. C. activities.

The following officers of the Sixth Infantry have received orders for temporary duty at Camp Perry, O., in connection with the national rifle matches, and will depart for that station during August: Capt. Harry V. Hand, Capt. Earl Almon, Capt. Ralph Slate, Capt. Frank Brokaw and Lieut. Percy Hunt.

Maj. Arthur Boettcher, Infantry, has returned to his station at Peoria, Ill., after having been on temporary duty at Jefferson Barracks during the last two weeks.

Maj. Chester Cordwell Staples, Infantry, was a visitor in Jefferson Barracks Monday, en route to Chattanooga, Tenn.

Lieut. and Mrs. Edmund Sebree were visitors in Alton last week.

Sports Tourneys at Eastern Seaside Colonies

and then won the third and deciding set by a score of 6 to 4.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Hussey of St. Louis have taken the Beach View cottage on Raymond avenue for a North Shore stay at Magnolia.

The North Shore Arts Association of Gloucester opened its sixth annual exhibition of contemporary American painting, sculpture and etchings at the galleries of the association Saturday afternoon, with a reception and tea. At the annual meeting of the association Mrs. Kathryn Cherry of St. Louis, a member of the art colony of East Gloucester, was re-elected to serve three years on the board of directors. Mrs. Cherry is spending the summer at her studio on the Rocky Neck Shore.

Mrs. Josephine L. Carter of St. Louis has joined Mrs. Nathaniel T. Lane and Miss Isabel Lane at Overledge, Magnolia.

At Rye Beach, N. H., just across the line from the North Shore of Massachusetts, is a considerable St. Louis colony. Dr. and Mrs. George S. Drake are among the late arrivals at Rye Beach, where they will remain until September. Also of the Rye cottage colony are Mr. and Mrs. Edward V. Papin and Mrs. Horace W. Soper of St. Louis.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 21.

THE Newport summer colony is larger than it has been for several years, with most of the old families occupying their cottages for the season. This makes for a lively season, and luncheons, dinners, dances and picnics, in addition to a large public affairs, keep every one busy.

Tonight Mrs. Paul Fitzsimmons gave a dance at Harbor View in honor of Miss Ina Claire, leading woman of the cast that has been playing "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney" at the Newport Casino Theater this week. William H. Vanderbilt, son of Mrs. Fitzsimmons, is president of the theater company and is doing much entertaining for the members of the cast.

Mr. Vanderbilt is also planning a series of dinners and luncheons for the judges and exhibitors at the Horse Show, to be given Aug. 23, 24 and 25. These will include a dinner dance on the opening night of the show at the Clambake Club, a luncheon on the second day at the training ring at Oakland Farm, and a ball at Oakland Farm on the closing night, which also marks the close of the annual tennis tournament. Mr. Vanderbilt is taking the place of his father, the late Alfred G. Vanderbilt, as the patron of the Newport Horse Show.

The first fancy dress ball of the season will be given at the Clambake Club next Saturday evening. It is a subscription party, under the auspices of a committee of members of the club.

Admiral William S. Sims and Mrs. Sims, the latter formerly of St. Louis, and a sister of Mrs. John F. Shipley, are not at Newport this summer, as in years past, but have taken a house at Marion, where other members of the Hitchcock and Shepley families of St. Louis have summer homes.

Mr. Ephron Catlin Jr. of St. Louis and New York was at the Viking over the week end.

The Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. T. Stocking of St. Louis are at Sakonnet, where they have taken a cottage for the summer.

40 SCOUTS PLAN HORSEBACK RIDE OF 14 DAYS IN OZARKS

Members of Ranger Camp to Leave Wednesday on 200-Mile Journey on Mounts.

A 200-mile horseback ride through the Ozarks southwest of the Irondale reservation, the official summer camp of the St. Louis Boy Scouts, will be taken by 40 first-class scout members of the Ranger Camp at Irondale, beginning a week from Wednesday. The riders will be gone 14 days. The annual Ranger ride is one of the major events on the Irondale program, and only experienced campers are permitted to make it. The Rangers, who are a separate group from the main Irondale campers are the only mounted unit on the reservation.

With most of their camping equipment being carried to selected camping sites by truck, the Rangers will be able to cut across country and stay away from towns and civilization. The route has been laid so that most of it is through deep woods, while camps will be established on the banks of the rivers and creeks encountered. The ride will be under the charge of Ranger Camp Director Thompson.

While the Rangers and their horses are on the ride, their camp will be occupied by a special Merit Badge Camp, open only to second and first class scouts who are working on merit badges. The regular camp activities will be largely suspended, enabling the campers to spend as much time as they desire earning the awards.

The camp will be under the direction of Field Executive M. N. Leavitt.

German Divorce Rate Increasing.
By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, July 21.—Divorce in Germany has been rapidly increasing and the proponents of easy separation are getting ready to strike a decisive blow for a liberalization of the divorce laws. Fifteen divorce courts in Berlin are swamped with applications and it is estimated that 30,000 marriages have been annulled during the past year in the capital alone.

Round-the-World Buoy Back Home
By the Associated Press.

BUENOS AIRES, July 21.—When the Argentine training ship Sarmiento again reaches home waters a wandering buoy which went on a personally conducted tour across the South Atlantic and Indian Oceans will be securely anchored and put to work once more. This buoy voyaged many thousands of miles from its anchorage in the river opposite Buenos Aires after having been cut adrift, probably by a passing steamer, in 1924. A year later it rolled merrily into the harbor of Freemantle, Australia, on the other side of the world with its lights out but sporting a luxuriant growth of seaweed. It is now on its way home aboard the Sarmiento.

A Greater Achievement Than Ever Before Comprising Every Fur From Inexpensive to the Rarest Pelts . . . at Lowest Possible Prices . . .

OUR Seventeenth Annual August Fur Sale begins tomorrow, Monday, July 23, with the largest and most comprehensive style assortments of high-grade Fur Coats ever assembled in any one store in this city.

Thousands of dollars worth of Fur Coats will be ready for your selection representing every authenticated style for the season of 1928 and 1929.

Style, quality and price are the outstanding factors. In all sincerity we conservatively guarantee you a bona fide saving of a fourth to a third. Such savings are possible only through our sixteen stores buying power placing orders for more than $1,000,000 worth of Furs, which enables us to offer these unusual price concessions.

In justice to yourself do not buy a Fur Coat elsewhere, until you first see what we have to offer. Everything is entirely different from what has ever been shown heretofore.

Now is the time, however, to buy your Fur Coat. First, because many models are limited and cannot be duplicated later. Skins are primest now —selections are most complete and priced within the reach of everyone.

Convenient Terms May Be Arranged, and Your Purchase Will Be Held Until Fall in Our Storage Vaults

Holds Permanent Waving Record.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 21.—Paul Gonty, ladies' hairdresser of the Rue Jouffroy, won the world title for permanent waving with a record of 13 minutes and 25 seconds. Gonty was a former title holder with a record of 23 minutes until Guglielmi of Moyeuvre-grande waved a young lady in 20 minutes and 5 seconds. Gonty achieved his great feat by manipulating 25 irons at once.

Look Years Less Than Your Age

The most aged face will look years younger after the use of ordinary mercolized wax for a week or so. This remarkable substance, because of its peculiar absorptive power, actually removes the faded or withered outer cuticle, a little at a time. Gradually the fresher, more youthful skin underneath is revealed, and as this absorption process is a purely hygienic one, an entirely natural complexion is acquired. An ounce of mercolized wax, obtainable at any drug store, is sufficient to rejuvenate any complexion. Mercolized wax brings out the hidden beauty. To quickly remove wrinkles and other age lines, use as face lotion 1 ounce powdered saxolite and 1 half pint witch hazel.

30 PLANES OVER CITY TODAY TO AID BONDS

Speakers This Week to Say Airport Defeat Would Repudiate Lindbergh.

Thirty airplanes, in three squadrons, are due to fly over the city today about 12:30 p. m. to shower down pledge cards for support of the $2,000,000 municipal airport bond issue which will be voted upon Aug. 7.

One squadron will cavort over South St. Louis, one over North St. Louis and the third over West St. Louis. The planes represent virtually all the aircraft available at Lambert-St. Louis field and Park's airport in East St. Louis. Persons who pick up the cards are asked to sign them and mail them to the Municipal Airport Bond Issue Committee.

Speakers urging voters to support the bond issue will go among factories this week. "Airport day" will be observed Tuesday by the Advertising Club at a luncheon in Hotel Statler. Toy airplanes will be distributed and a representation of "The Spirit of St. Louis" will be set up on the speakers' table.

All speakers for the municipal airport are emphasizing that the city must vote bonds or be considered to have repudiated Col. Lindbergh, whose Paris flight put St. Louis in a way to become the nation's outstanding city in aviation progress.

They expect to stop at Salt Lake City and at San Francisco, before going to Los Angeles, where they will be the guests of Mr. Matthews' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harlow L. Bartholomew.

UNION ELECTRIC AUDIT TO BEGIN IN TEN DAYS

Service Board Estimates That With Staff Available It Will Take a Year.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 21.—An audit of the books of the Union Electric Light and Power Co. of St. Louis, ordered by the State Public Service Commission to determine whether a further reduction should be made in electric rates of the company, will be started by the commission's accountants within the next week or 10 days.

The commission estimated that approximately one year would be required to complete the audit, with the staff now available. Two accountants will begin the work and one or two others will be assigned to the audit when they complete inquiries in which they now are engaged.

The audit will extend back to 1915, when the commission made its last appraisal of the Union Electric property and fixed its rate-making valuation at $26,000,000. The company now claims a valuation of $59,000,000 and the annual operating expenses have increased near five fold since 1915.

Specific Details Called For.

The inquiry was ordered by the commission upon a motion filed by the city of St. Louis. The order directed the accountants to audit the expenditures for additions to the plant since Dec. 31, 1915; the property retirements; details of the accumulation of a balance of about $10,000,000 in the depreciation reserve, set aside out of rates charged by the company; the operating expenses and revenues, and to obtain from the books any other information or data that would be of help to the commission in the proceeding.

Last May the company filed a reduction in electric rates for large consumers, that would cut an estimated amount of $600,000 a year from bills of these consumers, and made a reduction in steam heating rates, amounting to about $100,000 a year. No reductions were made to residence consumers in St. Louis, who received a rate reduction in 1923.

Information Not Given.

These reductions were made after the commission had instituted an inquiry into the Union Electric rates, based on a showing that the company's profits in 1927 were nearly $1,000,000 greater than in the preceding year. The commission directed the company to submit a detailed analysis of the effect of existing rate schedules and the apportionment of distribution system costs to the different classes of consumers. The company did not furnish this information, filing instead the new rate schedules.

The city then filed its motion for the audit, declaring the company could have reduced rates at least $1,400,000 a year, and still earn a fair return on its property, based on its annual operating reports. The city also attacked the 3.96 per cent depreciation allowance set aside by the company as unreasonably high.

It isn't the years that make a skin grow old—it's weathering

SOME young faces look old—because the skin is weather-beaten. Some older faces look young—because the skin is delightfully fresh. For the years have little to do with the skin. It's weathering that makes the difference.

You can see this proved on your own person: Take a hand mirror to a bright window. Look carefully at the skin on your face. Now examine the skin on your shoulders. Younger, isn't it? You see, your shoulders have been protected. Protect your face from weathering and it will stay young too.

Hinds Honey & Almond Cream protects the skin from weathering.

In summer your skin has much to stand

It suffers from sudden changes of temperature and of weather—slashing rain storms, dry scorching heat, damp soggy heat, dust, wind and all the rest.

To protect your skin from this day by day weathering, pat on Hinds Cream. It sinks deep into the skin. Relieves sun-scorch, windburn, the taut, dry feeling that dust gives. Hinds Cream softens and smooths the skin. Keeps it young and fresh.

What the doctors say about youth

It is mostly a matter of moisture in the tissues, say the doctors. As women grow older, they dry up within. Then the day by day weathering of the skin dries them without. They look old, are old.

What can be done to prevent it? Well, two things. First—drink water—at least eight glasses a day. Water keeps the tissues from drying. It keeps the muscles elastic, the face filled out.

Second—protect the skin from weathering. And that's easy, too—with Hinds Cream.

You'll find Hinds Cream on every toilet goods counter. Start using it to-day. Or if you like, we'll gladly send you a generous sample bottle to try in return for the coupon below. Just fill it in and mail.

ST. LOUIS AIR BOARD INSPECTS LE BOURGET FIELD

Harold M. Bixby Writes of Flight From Paris to Berlin in Two-Motored Hanley-Page Plane.

FLY 3200 MILES; COST $250 EACH

Invitation Extended to Aid of Dr. Eckner to Bring New Giant Zeppelin to This City.

By HAROLD M. BIXBY,
Chairman of the Board, St. Louis Chamber of Commerce.

BERLIN, July 11.—(By Mail)—This account, written with ease on board airplanes while flying from Paris to Berlin, is mailed from the German capital. . . . Stanley Clarke, chairman of the St. Louis Air Board, and I are now flying to Basle, Switzerland, where we land and then take off in a few minutes for Zurich. Our whole St. Louis party had motored to Le Bourget Field, Paris, to inspect the facilities there.

Our craft is a two-motored Hanley-Page biplane, with Rolls-Royce 275-horsepower engines. The cabin where I am writing is about four feet wide and 20 feet long. Comfortable black, wicker arm chairs are placed, six on one side and five on the other, along a series of plate glass windows. The aisle, about a foot wide, permits of easy passage to the washroom in back and to the door in front entering the pilot's cockpit. The floor has a red rug and the walls are trimmed in red leather; there is a magazine rack overhead, an air speed indicator and an altimeter, also drinking water and glasses.

We just passed another plane which I would like to know about, and a beautiful chateau which I could not locate on my map. One woman passenger told me she is flying from London, which she left this morning, to Zurich. The other woman and two other men passengers have been sleeping most of the time and apparently it is an old story with them.

About the time I got to the above point in my account, we sighted the Rhine on our left and the Alps on our right. From there to Basle I only took notes and am now writing in our hotel at Friedrichshafen, Germany.

The country in France is entirely different from the farms one flies over at home, for there are no section lines and the fields are laid out in long, narrow strips like a crazy quilt, and the people live in villages, as in feudal times. On the way to Basle we passed over Bellfort and had a clear view of the old fortifications which played such an important part in the early 1914 war dispatches. Strassbourgh, capital of the "lost provinces," lay to our left.

Approaching Basle, we circled the fine airport and both of us wished that Albert Bond Lambert might have seen it. On "the line" were 17 Swiss army single-seaters. There was a beautiful hotel with spacious porch, gardens, flowers and tables shaded by vari-colored parasols, and 40 or 50 persons were having lunch. Along the field were five large hangars, each with its own concrete apron, a square of concrete the width of the hangar and extending out toward the field about 100 feet.

The field itself is about 3000x4000 feet, with excellent approaches, well-drained ground, grass cut short like a golf course fairway and night-lighting facilities. In the restaurant we had a cold lunch and glass of beer, and then returned to the same plane, which had been serviced while we ate. We had landed at 1:55 p. m., on schedule, and left at 2:16, one minute behind time. Two planes came in while we were there, one from Amsterdam and the other from Vienna, and each was exactly on schedule, with a full load of passengers. Our English pilot told us that our plane was 7 years old, the oldest in the regular service of the Imperial Airways, but the motors were "quite all right and going jolly well."

Received by Zeppelin Official.

We took off across the Rhine and, following that river for 10 miles, swung to the right and headed for Zurich. It was a clear, sunshiny day and in the far distance we could see the snow-capped Alps, Lake Constance and the valley of the Rhine. At Zurich we were supplied with a car and went by motor to Romanshorn on Lake Constance. There we took a boat and crossed to Friedrichshafen. Dr. Eckner, head of the Zeppelin factory there, could not be present, but the officer next in charge, Ernst A. Lehmann, received us.

We told him we had come representing the people of St. Louis to extend an invitation to Dr. Eckner to fly his big, new dirigible direct from Friedrichshafen to St. Louis. We pointed out the advantage of proving additional cruising radius beyond the seacoast, and the effect of a nonstop flight from "the heart of Germany to the heart of America." It is just possible that under favorable conditions the big ship may go all the way to St. Louis, land for an hour at Scott Field and return to Lakehurst, N. J.

The ship is 50 per cent larger than the Los Angeles. It has a cabin built into the lower part of the bag's nose, 67 feet long, providing luxurious quarters for 20 passengers. It has a dining room, kitchen with electric stove, radio in each drawing room or compartment and shower baths. The power is furnished by five motors, each of 550 horsepower, two on either side of the big bag and one suspended two-thirds of the way back. It will carry as fuel a special gas having approximately the same gravity as air and which, being heavier than hydrogen, will stay at the bottom of the bag.

2500 Feet Above Coburg.

We journeyed back to Zurich last night by boat and train and reached the comfortable aerial station of the Imperial Airways and farman Lignes Aeriaennes at 7:30 a. m. Our plane for Berlin is a Dornier all-metal monoplane, with single, water-cooled, 275 horsepower motor. The cabin holds six passengers and every seat is taken, in fact, Clarke is riding backwards in a small chair. Our plane goes through to Berlin without a stop. There is beautiful sunshine, not a cloud in the sky, and visibility is fine. We have just passed over Coburg at about 2500 feet. There is an interesting old castle on the south and a fine air field on the north, but we go over them both—just five minutes from the Fourteenth to the Twentieth Century.

ST. LOUIS AIR BOARD INSPECTS LE BOURGET FIELD

The country below is more rolling than that part of France over which we flew and more like St. Louis County. Fields are larger and the roads are not generally lined on both sides by trees meeting overhead as in France. We are surprised to find heavily wooded hills everywhere and there seems to be a system of reforestation. We pass over Potsdam and soon sight Berlin. Tempelhoefer Field is beautiful—very large and very busy, with planes and hangars everywhere along the line. We were due at 12:45 p. m., but, favored by a gentle following wind, landed at 12:15. Everything was businesslike—we taxied over to the office and waiting room of the great German company, the Luft Hansa, where only two men came out to meet us. The motor stopped and boys carried off our baggage to the customs, and we followed.

We estimate our whole aerial trip at 3200 miles and the cost was only about $250 each. We flew from Zurich to Berlin for about $30, and in four hours and a half, as against 17 hours by train. It required 15 minutes to the center of Berlin, then, by taxi, or one can take the subway in 10 minutes. The air field is the old home of the Berlin Guards and was acquired long before the city grew all around it.

ig Business Suspicious Of Labor Planks in National Platforms of Both Parties

President W. H. Barr of National Founders' Association Comments Adversely on Them in Two Letters.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 21.

BIG BUSINESS has weighed the labor planks in both the Republican and Democratic presidential platforms and has found them inimical to its interests. One group, the National Founders' Association, which represents such organizations as the General Electric Co., Worthington Pump & Machinery Co., Dodge Brothers, Deere & Co., and the Pusey & Jones Shipbuilding Co., is urging its members to get definite pledges from congressional and senatorial candidates that if elected they will not be bound by the provisions which more or less bind the two parties to the principles of collective bargaining and promise anti-injunction legislation.

Two letters, expressing alarm over the labor planks, were sent out by the Founders' Association. The first was dated June 25 and reviewed the Republican plank. The second, dated July 10, attacked the Democratic plank. Both were signed by the association's president, William H. Barr of Buffalo, N. Y. The general counsel of the association is James A. Emery of Washington, who is also Washington counsel for the National Association of Manufacturers. He is the lobbyist who was censured by a congressional committee in 1913 after an exhaustive investigation of the Washington activities of the association. He appeared before Senator Watson's Committee on Interstate Commerce last session to protest against the Walsh resolution for a Senate investigation of the power industries.

G. O. P. Labor Plank.

Barr had some trouble in determining just what the Republican plank meant. This plank follows:

"The party favors freedom in wage contracts, the right of collective bargaining by free and responsible agents of their own choosing, which develops and maintains that purposeful cooperation which gains its chief incentive through voluntary agreement.

"We believe that injunctions in labor disputes have, in some instances been abused and have given rise to a serious question for legislation. The Republican party pledges itself to continue its efforts to maintain the present standard of living and high wage scale."

Barr, with sophistry worthy of Protagoras, interpreted the "freedom of wage contracts" in this case: "Certainly that can mean nothing but the principle of the open shop, because the so-called collective bargaining of the unions does not mean freedom of wage contracts," he argued. "The union men themselves in any particular shop have little to say about the wages to be demanded, the hours of employment or anything else. A walking delegate from a union, with offices possibly 1000 miles away, comes along and makes demands in the name of the men, sometimes without their knowledge or approval. These walking delegates may be the representatives of a union which has a secret purpose, which may be to force to the extreme limit the owners of the property or industry. In many cases they have not the slightest compunction as to whether or not they bankrupt the company. Surely this situation cannot be construed as 'freedom of wage contract.'"

Doubts Own Reasoning.

Barr had his doubts, however, about his own reasoning when he considered the remainder of the sentence, which put the Republican party on record for collective bargaining.

On the phrase "the right of collective bargaining by free and responsible agents of their own choosing," Barr waxed fearful. "That particular sentence might have been written by the head of any union in the country," he declared. "Technically, the walking delegate of the union might be chosen by the men in a shop. But he is nothing of the kind. He is an agent instructed by the union and possibly acting with a purpose not at all in conformity with the desires of the men who put this phrasing into the platform and for what purpose? The concluding sentences of the paragraph are equally vague as to their exact meaning."

Clings to Injunctions.

Barr could not bring himself to think that the Republican platform makers were serious when they wrote the anti-injunction plank. "We cannot possibly believe that the Republican party will destroy the injunction relief now in the power of the courts which is used to protect property and even life in labor disputes," he observed with some alarm.

"If it does not mean an indorsement of the anti-injunction legislation, what does it mean and what kind of legislation is to be proposed according to the suggestions in the platform?" he rhetorically asked his colleagues. His own reaction is that "this is another question that we believe should be answered very definitely during the campaign."

Barr declared that management and not politics was responsible for industry success. "During the past year, as well as in preceding years, industry has progressed steadily and because of conservative management, setbacks have not been serious and the country continues to enjoy a good measure of prosperity," he observed. "Has any of this prosperity been due to politics? The fact is that it has all been due to management and whatever defects there have been in our prosperity have been due to politics. Shall we encourage absurd legislation which will hamstring all business into a condition where panic and depression are inevitable?"

In closing the letter on the Republican plank, Barr indicated that a similar analysis would be made of the Democratic plank. He apparently did not think the Democrats would treat his group more favorably than the Republicans had done.

"The Democratic convention at Houston will begin on June 26 and after the candidates are named there, the campaign will begin," he said. "It will be an interesting period. Partisanship will run high. A political year is really a period of temporary insanity and it is our duty to remain sane and watchful and use our power for protection of national prosperity. It would appear, even at this early stage, that industry may again be a political target."

Assails Democratic Plank.

From his own standpoint, his prediction came true. His letter on the Democratic labor plank began with a bang.

"And now we have the Democratic platform which in its labor declaration goes practically the full distance which the American Federation of Labor obviously wants," he said in starting the attack.

The Democratic declarations to which he objected follow:

"(A) We favor the principles of collective bargaining and the Democratic principles that organized labor should choose its own representatives without coercion or interference.

"(B) Labor is not a commodity. Human rights must be safeguarded.

Lord Asquith's War Diary

Reveals Bitter Conflict in British Cabinet in 1914, When Ministers Almost Came to Blows Over Policy—How King George Was Hauled Out of Bed at 1:30 A. M. to Hear of Outbreak of Hostilities.

THE Post-Dispatch begins today the presentation of a notable contribution to the history of the World War—the diary of the Earl of Oxford and Asquith. When this famous British statesman died last February he left for posthumous publication his "Memories and Reflections." As Premier, during the critical days in England at the outbreak of the war, Lord Asquith kept a diary of the momentous cabinet meetings. It is here published for the first time, comprising in effect the inside story of the war as seen through the eyes of the British Cabinet. It begins with Lord Asquith's own record of the Cabinet deliberations a few days before the conflict began, when the Irish home rule bill was laid aside for matters of greater moment.

HERBERT H. ASQUITH.

JULY 24, 1914—At 3:15 we had a Cabinet where there was a lot of talk about Ulster, but the real interest was Grey's statement of the European situation, which is about as bad as it can possibly be. Austria has sent a bullying and humiliating ultimatum to Serbia, who can not possibly comply with it, and demands an answer in 48 hours—failing which she will march. This means almost inevitably that Russia will come on the scene in defense of Serbia, and if so, it is difficult both for Germany and France to refrain from lending a hand. So that we are within measurable distance of a real Armageddon.

JULY 26—No one can say what is going to happen in the East of Europe. The news this morning is that Serbia has capitulated on the main point, but it is very doubtful if any reservation will be accepted by Austria, who is resolved upon a complete and final humiliation. The curious thing is that on many, if not most, of the points Austria has a good and Serbia a very bad case, but the Austrians are quite the stupidest people in Europe. There is brutality about their mode of procedure which will make most people think that this is a case of a big power wantonly bullying a little one. Anyhow, it is the most dangerous situation of the last 40 years, though it may incidentally have the good effect of throwing into the background the lurid pictures of civil war in Ulster.

"Nothing But a Miracle Can Avert War, It Seems"

JULY 29—The amending bill and the whole Irish business are, of course, put into the shade by the coming war, for it now seems as if nothing but a miracle could avert it. After dinner I went across to E. Grey and sat with him and Haldane till 1 a. m., talking over the situation and trying to discover bridges and outlets. It is one of the ironies of the case that we, being the only Power who has made so much as a constructive suggestion in the direction of peace, are blamed by both Russia and Germany for causing the outbreak of war.

July 31—We had a Cabinet at 11 and a very interesting discussion, especially about the neutrality of Belgium and the point upon which everything will ultimately turn—are we going to go in or stand aside? Of course, everybody longs to stand aside, but I need not say that France, through Cambon, is pressing strongly for a reassuring declaration. Edward Grey had an interview with him this afternoon which, he told me, was rather painful. He had, of course, to tell Cambon—for we are under no obligation—that we could give no pledges and that our actions must depend upon the course of events, including the Belgian question and the direction of public opinion here.

Dragged King From Bed At 1:30 A. M. to Hear Message

AUGUST 1—When most of them had left, Sir W. Tyrrell arrived with a long message from Berlin to the effect that the German Ambassador's efforts for peace had been suddenly arrested and frustrated by the Czar's decree for a complete Russian mobilization. We all set to work, Tyrrell, Bongie, Sir Maurice Bonham-Carter, Drummond and myself, to draft a direct personal appeal from the King to the Czar. When we had settled it I called a taxi, and, in company with Tyrrell, drove to Buckingham Palace at about 1:30 a. m.

The King was hauled out of his bed, and one of my strangest experiences was sitting with him, clad in a dressing gown, while I read the message and the proposed answer.

There was really no fresh news this morning. We had a Cabinet which lasted from 11 till half past one. Lloyd George, all for peace, is more sensible and statesmanlike for keeping the position still open. Grey declares that if an out-and-out and uncompromising policy of non-intervention at all costs is adopted he will go. Winston Churchill very bellicose and demanding immediate mobilization. Haldane diffuse and nebulous.

The main controversy pivots upon Belgium and its neutrality. We parted in fairly amicable mood and are to sit again at 11 tomorrow, Sunday. I am still not quite hopeless about peace, though far from hopeful, but if it comes to war I feel sure that we shall have some split in the Cabinet. Of course, if Grey went, I should go and the whole thing would break up. On the other hand, we may have to contemplate with such equanimity as we can command, the loss of Morley and possibly, though I do not think it, of Simon.

German Ambassador Wept Over His Country's Plight

AUGUST 2—Things are pretty black. Germany is now in active war with both Russia and France and the Germans have violated the neutrality of Luxembourg. We are awaiting to know whether they are going to do the same with Belgium. I had a visit at breakfast from Lichnowsky, German Ambassador, who was very emotional and implored me not to side with France.

He said that Germany, with her army cut in two between France and Russia, was far more likely to be crushed than France. He was very agitated, poor man, and wept. I told him that we had no desire to intervene, and that it rested largely with Germany to make intervention impossible if she would (1) not invade Belgium; (2) not send her fleet into the Channel to attack the unprotected north coast of France. He was bitter about the policy of his Government in not restraining Austria and seemed quite heartbroken.

Then we had a long Cabinet from 11 till nearly 2, which very soon revealed that we are on the brink of a split. We agreed at last with some difficulty that Grey should be authorized to tell Cambon that our fleet would not allow the German fleet to make the Channel a base of hostile operations.

John Burns at once resigned, but was persuaded to hold on at any rate till the evening when we meet again.

There is a strong party against any kind of intervention in any event. Grey, of course, will never consent to this and I shall not separate myself from him. Crewe, McKenna and Samuel are a moderating intermediate body.

Split in Cabinet as War Crisis Is Presented to Britain

Bonar Law writes that the Opposition will back us up in any measure we may take for the support of France and Russia. I suppose a good number of our own party in the House of Commons are for absolute non-interference. It will be a shocking thing if at such a moment we break up.

Happily I am quite clear in my mind as to what is right and wrong. (1) We have no obligations of any kind either to France or Russia to give them military or naval help. (2) The dispatch of the Expeditionary Force to help France at this moment is out of the question and would serve no object. (3) We must not forget the ties created by our long-standing and intimate friendship with France. (4) It is against British interests that France should be wiped out as a great Power. (5) We cannot allow Germany to use the Channel as a hostile base. (6) We have obligations to Belgium to prevent its being utilized and absorbed by Germany.

On Monday, Aug. 3, the Cabinet resolved to dispatch an ultimatum to Germany requiring her to give an assurance by midnight the following day that the neutrality of Belgium would be respected. The whole situation and its antecedents were explained by Sir Edward Grey in his historic speech in the House of Commons on the afternoon of the 3d. In my cabinet letter to the King of that day I had to report that four of my colleagues had tendered their resignation, adding an expression of my hope that some of them might be induced to reconsider their position.

Two of them, Lord Beauchamp and Sir John Simon, yielded to my counsels and consented to retain their offices. The other two, Lord Morley and Mr. Burns, did not see their way to alter their resolution.

AUGUST 3—This morning two letters arrived for me, one from John Morley, the other from Simon, announcing that they must follow John Burns' example. They are both characteristic productions. At the Cabinet later in the morning Beauchamp declared that he must do likewise. That is four gone. We had a rather moving scene in which everyone all around said something, Lloyd George making a strong appeal to them not to go, or at least to delay it. Anyhow, they all agreed to say nothing today and to sit in their accustomed places in the House.

Bonar Law and Lansdowne came to see me early this morning. They were in general agreement, but laid great stress upon Belgian neutrality. The Germans have delivered an ultimatum to Belgium and forced themselves on their territory, and the Belgian King has made an appeal to ours.

Cheering Crowds Escort Ministers to and From Commons

After lunch we all went to the House of Commons. Grey made a most remarkable speech almost an hour long, for the most part almost conversational in tone and with some of his usual ragged ends, but extraordinarily well reasoned and tactful and really cogent, so much so that our extreme peace lovers were for the moment reduced to silence, though they will soon find their tongues again.

AUGUST 4—I think the effect produced by Grey's speech has not died down. It is curious how going to and from the House we are now always escorted and surrounded by cheering crowds of loafers and holiday-makers. In the evening I had a call from Bonar Law, who is afraid that we shall make use of the truce to spring a trick on them by suddenly proroguing and putting the Home Rule and Welsh church bill on the statute book as a fait accompli before they can say "knife."

I assured him that there would be no thimble-rigging, but it is not easy at the moment to decide exactly how to deal with the bills. The best thing, of course, would be a deal between Carson and Redmond, which is far from impossible.

J. M. (John Morley) remains obdurate and I fear must go. He wrote me a particularly nice letter.

Ultimatum to Germany To Keep Out of Belgium

We had an interesting Cabinet, as we got the news that the Germans had entered Belgium and had announced that if necessary they would push their way through by force of arms. This simplifies matters. So we sent the Germans an ultimatum to expire at midnight requesting them to give a like assurance with the French that they would respect Belgian neutrality.

They have invented a story that the French were meditating an invasion of Belgium and that they were only acting in self-defense, a manifest and transparent lie. Winston (Churchill) who has got on all his war-paint, is longing for a sea fight in the early hours of the morning to result in the sinking of the Goeben.

The whole thing fills me with sadness. The Offer by Great Britain and U. S. To Treat With Chinese Would Bring Peace, Says Lloyd George Despite Fall of Pekin, Many Points of Difference Remain Among Factions of Nationalist Group.

By DAVID LLOYD GEORGE,
Wartime Premier of Great Britain.

LONDON, July 21.

SINCE last I wrote on China, the development of the military and political situation there has been swift, remarkable, and apparently final and decisive. The swing from Nanking to Pekin, and back again to Nanking, which looked as if it would never end, has at last terminated in the Nationalist claw fastening tightly on Pekin.

The Manchurian Government of Pekin—the rule of Marshal Chang Tso-lin—is over and the old Mukden war lord himself has disappeared from the scene, a victim of a bomb attack, the exact origin of which remains a mystery. Whoever is responsible, Bolshevists will be blamed.

The Manchurian armies have withdrawn almost entirely behind the Great Wall, leaving a free hand to the Nationalists, militarists, and other faction leaders. There is one satisfactory feature in the situation—Communists are out of it. They have been savagely repressed. China is Nationalist but never was Communist. An English missionary throws a lurid light on the methods adopted to stamp out Bolshevik propaganda:

Decapitations on Street.

"The General in command sent out a squad of soldiers with a machine gun mounted on a motor car, accompanied by two executioners carrying heavy swords and armed with the power of summary decapitation. The coolies found distributing handbills advocating Communist principles were seized and beheaded on the spot. The second batch was allowed speech before their heads were lopped off, and it then transpired that they had been given 40 cents each, and a handful of bills to distribute which they could not read, and they had not troubled to ask what the bills were about. Their lives were spared, but death or life hung by a hair, and on the word of the squad leader who was out for victims."

The Nationalist leaders are the masters of the situation but not of themselves, because they remain divided and mutually suspicious. The Generals are either in or around Pekin and the politicians either at Nanking or at Shanghai. Nor is it as yet any too certain that the war lords will agree to the transfer of the capital from the North to the Yangtze.

It is generally considered that although Pekin is nominally in the occupation of the "model Tuchun" of Shansi, Gen. Yen, the key to the situation is in the hands of Marshal Feng, the "Christian General," who has had more resurrections than his former faith ever guaranteed him.

Feng Stronger Than Yen.

The forces of Yen, the "model," are too weak numerically to resist those of Feng, should the latter be tempted to establish himself once more as the dictator of the northern Capital. Gen. Chiang, the Southern Commander, on the other hand, although possessing a very numerous army, has so far refrained from carrying out his proclaimed intention of pushing across the Great Wall into Manchuria.

Chiang's cautious attitude has been prompted, so there is reason to believe, by two considerations. One is that, being a good soldier, politicians could not dispense with his services so long as there was any fighting to be done, but now that the fighting is over, they would rather get rid of him. The other consideration is the renewed declaration by Japan that in no circumstances would it tolerate the extension of the Civil War to Manchuria. Chiang also has in mind the fear that if he should venture too far north of Pekin, Feng might cut off his retreat by a sudden betrayal, and thrust across his communications.

Chiang, moreover, was never, and is not now, assured of the support of the Nanking Government. In other words, although Chiang has disappeared, the future mastery and status of Pekin still is in doubt.

Group Favors Pekin.

There is also another influence apart from that of the war lords which militates against the transfer from Pekin to Nanking; that is the influence of bureaucracy, at one time better known as the Mandarins. They cling to Pekin as the Capital by tradition, and because Nanking lacks the accommodation necessary for housing so many and large State departments.

It will not have escaped notice that while the officers and the Chinese Postmaster-General actually have been removed from Pekin, they have been removed not to Nanking but to Shanghai, for very natural reasons, namely, inadequate communications between Nanking and the outer world. Indeed, from the point of view of the adequacy and the safety of such communications, there is only one alternative to Pekin, and that is Shanghai, where, on the same grounds, conferences of Nationalist and political leaders have recently been held, instead of at Hankow.

The transfer of the capital from Pekin to Nanking would be most undesirable from the standpoint of the foreign Legations and colonies. At Pekin foreigners are relatively secure, for at the first threat of peril they need only take refuge in Tientsin, where there has always been a strong foreign garrison as well as a fairly strong railway guard insuring a train service between Pekin and the coast. At Nanking, the position of foreign diplomats and merchants would be decidedly precarious in the present state of anarchy and chaos. This is proved by the outrages committed last year on the British, American and Japanese Consular authorities, and other foreign residents.

For the outrages the present Nanking Government has as yet made no full and fair reparation. It has even insisted, in the course of the negotiations with the British Minister at Pekin, Sir Miles Lampson, that Great Britain, in return for an apology and an undetermined sum for damages, should apologize for the firing of British warships on Chinese troops at Nanking, and should solemnly undertake to revise the iniquitous and evil treaties.

Chamberlain Vetoes Plan.

Sir Miles, like his American colleague, MacMurray, had inclined at one moment to meet the Nanking Government half way by expressing at least regret that it should have been necessary for British warships to open fire. But, although the State Department either instructed or allowed MacMurray to assent to this compromise, Sir Austen Chamberlain vetoed any such suggestion to the Nationalists by Lampson.

Indeed, only the other day, when the Nanking Government openly declared its resolve to denounce "unequal" treaties, and to negotiate a new series of treaties on equal footing with the foreign powers, and itself to lay down a regime for foreigners, which should operate between the termination of the old treaties and the conclusion of the new, it was at once made clear by the British Foreign Office that Great Britain would refused to negotiate with the Nanking Government unless Hudson Maxim on Immortality.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

YOU recently published the views of the late Hudson Maxim on his disbelief in a future life. He says death, to him, is like a slow explosion of dynamite. The body undergoes a process of destructive chemical action. And he identified this body with himself. "When I die * * * I shall explode slowly," etc.

As to eternal life without this mortal body, he says "it would seem like eternal damnation," because "happiness consists in the pleasurable exercise of our faculties."

It seems to me that the trouble with most unbelievers in a future life is lack of imagination. The French astronomer Flammarion imagined a future life in which those who desired could explore the universe, not merely, as Hudson Maxim imagined, as "a disembodied wraith, tossed about helplessly, writhing in the torment of eternal futility," but with faculties superior to those the body enjoys.

Some time ago I collated the experiences of persons who had approached death and been revived. Among these, James J. Kane, for 30 years a chaplain in the U. S. Navy, testified that he came near dying with yellow fever. As the body grew weaker, he says, the mental powers grew stronger. "I recognized the peculiar distinction between the soul and the body, and made the startling discovery that I was possessed of wonderful faculties belonging to the soul, which were gradually developing as the separation from the body was taking place. I am unable to describe them. Their power was marvelous. For each faculty I had in the body, I had 10 in the spirit form."

Those fortunate individuals who, like myself, have vivid dreams of flying, rising above the earth with little or no effort and traversing the upper regions, can imagine what powers might await entry into a future life. With all the senses blended into one power of keen perception, with the power to view the wonders of nature and travel at will, why might not a future life be vastly and eternally enjoyable? Having this faith, whenever I enter a cemetery I deny the reality of death.

H. M. WILLIAMS.

Sad Times for G. O. P. Press.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE Grand Old Party must face the issue in November minus a solidified Republican press, for the Republican press is now "between the devil and the deep blue sea." It can hardly minimize the courage, ability, candor and popular acclaim of Gov. Alfred E. Smith nor can it attempt to eulogize the fiasco attendant the Harding and Coolidge disastrous regimes without sinking to the level of making itself ridiculous and a ridiculous Republican press is an inevitable financial disaster. The price is too much to pay for the "sins" of Fall, Doherty, Forbes, Hays and the rest of the "Buccaneers" who scuttled the ship.

OBSERVER.

Southern Sectionalism.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I HAVE here before me a letter which is typical "Southern style," written by one J. S. Gordan. He starts out by telling what a high degree member of a certain order he is and the same old Southern familiar phrase, a "Confederate soldier," which reminds me while listening to the radio at the past conventions one would hear things on this order: He (the candidate) came home from the war and hung his coat next to his grandfather's, who fought in the Civil War, whose father fought in such and such a war, etc. Still another phrase was: "We of the South." The others never said "We of the East," or North or West.

Forget your Civil War records and narrowmindedness and wake up to the fact that that war is over 60 years. The South will never progress by it.

ANOTHER BROWN DERBY.

Fruits of Over-Speculation.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WE would like to have an economic explanation of this fact:

If the Treasury Department can reduce the national debt $9,000,000,000 in 10 years, why should it be necessary for the Federal Reserve Board to become so excited over brokers' loans of $4,242,000,000 with the resultant semipanic in which we now find ourselves, where banks are losing deposits in order to protect stocks and bonds which have been forced down by the attitude of the reserve banks, where agricultural products are in a state of depression, with wheat down 40 cents a bushel and no demand, and business on the eve of a serious setback?

Why can't we be allowed to enjoy our prosperity without Government inter-

THE END OF THE COAL STRIKE.

The so-called "Jacksonville wage scale" has finally been abandoned in the bituminous coal mines.

This wage scale provided for a uniform wage of $7.50 a day and $1.08 a ton in the central competitive field, which includes Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and the outlying districts of Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming and Nevada. It has been in effect since 1920, when the terms were agreed upon at a conference of operators and miners at Cleveland. After a stormy four years, punctuated by two strikes, the same terms were reaffirmed in a conference at Jacksonville, Fla., in February, 1924, to be effective for a period of three years, or until April 1, 1927. On that date the operators refused to renew the agreement and a strike was ordered which has been in progress ever since. A few operators here and there have withdrawn from their association and reopened their mines at the Jacksonville scale, but, for the most part, the industry has been prostrate in the central competitive field. The present strike now appears to have ended in the surrender by the miners of the Jacksonville agreement.

This decision was reached by a committee which met at Indianapolis on call of John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers. The committee has authorized district officers to negotiate with operators, with the proviso that terms shall be ratified by a district convention or referendum. The immediate effect of the Indianapolis decision will presumably be a resumption of operations throughout the entire bituminous field. But the basic conditions which have kept this great industry in turmoil and distress have not been corrected by the surrender of the Jacksonville wage scale. Those conditions are well known. Too many mines, too many miners. With normal operation our mines can produce far more coal than the market can consume. Until that situation is remedied there, obviously, can be no permanent peace in the coal mines. The flash of prosperity will necessarily soon flicker out. Mines with rich deposits, or a special quality of product, may operate continuously, but those not so happily circumstanced will have to shut down under the grim mandate of competition as soon as the market's urgent demands are met.

And this, broadly speaking, has been the history of the industry under the Jacksonville agreement. That uniform wage scale has been, so to speak, a scrap of paper. It has provided a fair day's pay for a fair day's work, but it has not provided the day's work. The coal miner who has been employed three-fourths of his time in the last seven years has been exceptionally fortunate. Half-time and less than half-time has been the rule.

And the operator has, in many instances, been in about as bad case as the miner. Where production has been expensive, due to any number of conditions, he has been unable to pay the Jacksonville scale and has shut down his mine. In recent years the operator's difficulties have been aggravated by the competition of the nonunion mines in Kentucky, with their substantially lower wages. Whether nonunion competition will continue to harass the unionized mines by a further cutting of wages is problematical. In the nature of things, of course, there is a minimum below which the nonunion operator and nonunion miner cannot go.

As to other consequences of the Indianapolis decision, speculation is directed to John L. Lewis. The surrender of the Jacksonville scale does not unmistakably foreshadow his passing, but it points that way. There are conflicting estimates of his leadership, but no head of the mine workers, whatever his genius, could solve the problem of the coal industry. Neither could any operator or operators' organization. The problem of this basic industry calls for the best minds among the operators and the labor leaders, aided by the ablest technicians, all of them striving for a solution under the authority and with the earnest co-operation of the Government.

THE IOWAS AND THE WHITE FATHER.

In the belief of the Iowas, a considerable Republican tribe on the Upper Mississippi, the White Father at Washington could not very well be a Democrat.

Therefore Senator Brookhart, sent to the Senate by the farmers of his State to do something about the agricultural problem, espouses Mr. Hoover and the Kansas City platform. The Houston platform promises more for farming, but the farmers of Iowa cannot support it without voting for Gov. Smith.

That is too much to expect of them. Indeed, they are regular Republicans first and farmers thereafter. They could not even desert Mr. Coolidge in 1924 to vote for La Follette, though Mr. Coolidge was known to be hostile and proved it by twice vetoing the McNary-Haugen bill. Yet his Iowa plurality over La Follette and Davis was 102,792.

It is a ridiculous situation, one given particular emphasis by the conduct of Senator Brookhart. He protests mightily against his party, which he says is making a peasant of the farmer; but given an opportunity to do something for the farmer by leaving his party, he refuses. That is what he is doing now. The country will find it hard to sympathize with that sort of partisanship. More than 30 farm organizations, meeting in Des Moines, declare the Houston platform more sympathetic with farming than the Kansas City platform, but Iowa sticks to her ungenerous gods.

And if Gov. Smith is elected in November, Mr. Raskob will be able to explain it in four words: Product of General Motors.

THE CHEWING GUM EVIL.

The report just issued by the Department of Commerce at Washington on the chewing gum situation is a clarion call for the immediate organization of an antichewing gum league. Now is the time for all uplifters of the race and dictators of other people's morals to get together and grapple with the growing menace. For the report shows that in 1927 the nation's chewing gum bill was $58,018,271 and that the habit is increasing to the tune of approximately $2,000,000 a year. It is appalling.

There is, of course, no way of knowing how many addicts there are, since the chewing of gum is a social dissipation, the sharing of a nickel's worth being a common practice. On the other hand, it is known that frugal slaves of the habit chew the same gum over and over, parking it between times on the under side of chair seats. So it is difficult to even estimate the number that are in the grip of this devastating vice, but there is a mighty host headed for destruction and something should be done about it at once.

It is not to be doubted that something will be done. Never yet have the uplifters turned a deaf ear to a There is nothing that they would rather hear. Every clarion call is fresh confirmation of their conviction of the innate depravity of the human race and the solemn duty of organizing something to combat it and invoking the powers of legislation to control it.

Sooner or later, no doubt, the demon chewing gum will be brought under the rein of repression and it will be against the law to possess the deadly stuff or pass it around or to park a chewed portion on the under side of a chair seat to be chewed again another day. Whereupon, such is human perversity, something else will be started for the hard-working reformers to squelch.

PEACE AND THE OIL SUPPLY.

Now that Mr. Kellogg's peace treaties have enjoyed wide acceptance among foreign nations, it will be interesting to see them put to the test. While the substance of them in such a real world as this is can hardly be said to be more than that of which dreams are made, there is no disposition anywhere not to ascribe to them the fine quality of making every civilized nation more acutely realize its responsibility to international society. It is undeniable that nations are more responsible to civilization than they used to be. No nation, it is safe to say, wishes to bring down upon itself the censure of the world. The economic interdependence of nations has become too great for that. A Russia, vast in extent, mighty in power, and almost sufficient to itself, can defy the world; but a less than Russia, as Japan found out in Shantung, as England has found out in Egypt, and as we ourselves have found out in the Caribbean, must be very circumspect about it.

Yet the Kellogg treaties are far from impressing people whose understanding of war penetrates to depths which are obscure to idealists like Mr. Kellogg. Ludwell Denny is one of these. Mr. Denny was for years attached to our State Department. His specialty was oil, and he has written a book about it. "We Fight for Oil," which some critics think might better have been entitled "America Fights Britain," fully explains why Mr. Denny believes that oil will at length bring the two great English-speaking countries into bitter conflict for supremacy. It is, he says, a rivalry in which the greater experience of the Britons in empire has already bested us. Our own Government plays oil politics, but it is the opinion of Mr. Denny that we do not do it very well. He thinks that when we wake up to discover ourselves compelled to buy oil from Britain at her price, as Mr. Hoover some time ago complained we would have to buy rubber, the Kellogg treaties will not amount to very much. Nor does the late World War, which had economic rather than political causes, suggest that they will.

It is for this reason, says Mr. Denny, that in any foreign controversy in which oil is the chief desideratum, like that with Mexico, for instance, our Government is always found upon the side of the big American oil companies. His experience is that in similar controversies which are bottomed on oil the British Government is also always on the side of the big British oil companies. Oil politics, in a word, transcend every other kind of international politics. Both sea power and colonies are but branches upon the great stem. Not many of us are aware that there has been a great British-American fight for the oil fields of Mesopotamia, Russia, Persia, Venezuela, Colombia, Spain, Argentina and Mexico. Mr. Denny knows all about it. His chapter on Venezuela, and the British-American rivalry in this, now the second oil-producing country, is said to be almost sensational, the more so since the reader has usually known nothing about it. Mr. Denny thinks it is because the country is young and therefore not internationally minded, as well as because our own oil scandal has been all the oil story we could absorb. He, at least, has been aware of it, and the story he tells is one documented with the proofs.

Mr. Denny thinks we are drifting steadily toward war. Mr. Kellogg thinks we are blissfully drifting toward peace. We imagine that most people would rather read Mr. Denny's book than one of Mr. Kellogg's treaties. The reader may not fully share the opinion that oil will bring the United States and England to war, but he can readily admit that in so great a commodity there are undoubtedly the germs of conflict.

MONTANA AND THE SENATE.

The relation of the State of Montana to the United States Senate is unique. She has two Democratic Senators, Thomas J. Walsh and Burton K. Wheeler. Senator Walsh exposed the oil scandal, and Senator Wheeler drove Daugherty out of the office of Attorney-General after Mr. Coolidge had refused to dismiss him from the Cabinet.

No other State, so far as we know, has done so much through its representatives to purify the public service and make the Government honest. The Government ought to be honest. Public office ought not to be a means of private enrichment. What Fall did and what Daugherty did faced the Government with a dilemma which had no precedent in our history, and it was the United States Senators from Montana who took the initiative in doing what should have been done.

The New York Herald-Tribune, which is one of the mouthpieces of privilege, applied to Senators Walsh and Wheeler the epithet of "mud gunners." They wanted the Government to be honest, and because they exposed the man who made it dishonest they were "mud gunners." Fortunately for the national morals, Montana, unhonored by the nation for this signal service, has a means of honoring herself. She can do it by honoring her two useful Senators. She has already done so by re-electing Senator Walsh, and the Democrats of the State have just renominated Senator Wheeler in the primary. He, too, will probably be re-elected.

To Montana these men are not "mud gunners." In truth, they are a rebuke to many of the other states, some of which have not even one Senator who would turn his hand over to purify the public service. Maine, for instance, has just re-elected Senator Hale, who consistently refused to do so. He voted against every effort made to stop the almost open sale of privilege in high public place. Montana has two Senators who did do it, and they have heavy hands. All honor to her.

"LET'S TALK ABOUT PROSPERITY."

The Irrepressible Issue

From the New York Times

DESPITE superhuman efforts to prevent it, prohibition has got into politics. The Anti-Saloon League has moved heaven and earth to keep it out. Nothing could be so terrible as to allow citizens to vote on a subject which comes nearer than any other to being of universal discussion and interest. This feeling was shared by the politicians of both parties, who, in addition, dreaded the raising of an issue which would leave them uncertain of their own following and doubtful what might happen to their leadership. Accordingly, both Republican and Democratic platforms adopted a plank which intended above all things to keep prohibition out of the presidential campaign. But it has been plunged into it. The statements made by Gov. Smith and by Chairman Raskob have made it inevitable that the question of amending or repealing the Volstead act is going to be argued from now till next November, with an effect upon the election which will be tremendous, though no one can now foretell which party or which candidate will be more helped or hurt by it.

One obvious and immediate result is to throw Republican plans into confusion. This fact stands out in such a speech as Representative Fish made to his Republican constituents in this State on Saturday. He exhorted them not to be despondent; not to act as if their campaign had been "paralyzed" at the very beginning by the bold strategy of Gov. Smith. Similar indications of Republican uneasiness and apprehension are seen in other states. In Illinois, for example, Republicans are saying that Secretary Hoover must somehow qualify his stand in favor of prohibition, unless he wishes to see Chicago go for Smith by 400,000 majority and the whole State imperiled. The Chicago Tribune has given expression to the view that Mr. Hoover must in some way satisfy the large number of Republicans who show signs of being swept away by the great movement in favor of Smith mainly because of his courageous stand on prohibition.

Is Secretary Hoover irrevocably dry? Some ingenious but anxious Republican dialecticians are trying to prove that he is not. They take up and analyze his letter to Senator Borah and seize hopefully upon two expressions in it. One is that prohibition is an "experiment." To be sure, Secretary Hoover added that it was one "noble in motive." But still an experiment is something that can be dropped if it has faithfully been tried out and has failed. Note also, say these eager Republican expounders of Mr. Hoover's text, that he said that prohibition "must be worked out constructively." This is a blessed word. May it not mean that Secretary Hoover intends to tear down the Volstead act and then "construct" something much better on its ruins?

Such are the speculative comforts which Republicans are seeking for their troubled hearts. They would so like to go to the country and say to the voters that the only really effective way to get a remedy for the evils of prohibition is to elect Mr. Hoover President, just as, in 1920, 31 eminent Republicans issued a manifesto asserting that the only way to get the United States into the League of Nations was to elect Senator Harding President. But it is certain that no such maneuver can succeed this year. If Mr. Hoover were to hedge as a dry, in the hope of retaining the votes of wet Republicans, he would give an impression of weakness and of alarm. Besides, it could not cut down the advantage which Gov. Smith has won by his prompt and manly lead.

The thing may not come down to a square division between parties, but it is rapidly heading toward a sharp contest between principles. In time Republicans like President Butler will have to make their choice between personal conviction and party preference. The policy which they have strongly advocated, Gov. Smith has made his own. Are they going to be ready to "follow the argument"—the argument which they themselves have put forward with great moral earnestness—even if it leads them temporarily into the camp of the opposite party?

These are but preliminary evidences of the way in which the prohibition issue is going to cut wide and deep in this year's election. It may not divide parties vertically, but it will split them horizontally. They will appear to be like layers of conflicting opinion, slipping in different directions. Whatever the effect, the cause is already at work. Prohibition is in politics and can be got out only in one way.

ARE UMPIRES PEOPLE?

From the Boston Herald.

THE Rev. Egbert W. A. Jenkinson's suggestion in the Mail Bag column that baseball umpires discard their blue suits and dress like other persons is interesting, but betrays a ghastly ignorance of the actual situation. Mr. Jenkinson writes as if he considered His Umps a person (is the plural Their Umps, Their Umpses or His Umpses?) with feelings like those of regular folks. Now, professional baseball players could have informed him that umpires resemble the human article in being nearsighted at times, prejudiced almost always and not seldom unintelligent, but otherwise are a race apart, a set of pariahs. There is documentary evidence on some of those points. Go read the rules, Mr. Jenkinson. The umpire must not travel with players. He must not try to fill inside straights with them. He must not stay at the same hotels or otherwise consort with them. He does not know more than one series in advance where he is going to next. There are, perhaps, seemingly authenticated instances of umpires who have been, like Charles I, good family heads, but brute animals may be as much as that.

So it really doesn't matter what His Umps wears, for he never wears well himself, as any baseball player knows. Ban Johnson once prescribed three sets of apparel for umpires—spring, holiday and autumn—but nobody fills the prescription nowadays. The theory of the players is that the umpires themselves discontinued the practice because it was too much of a strain on their intellects to make three correct decisions a year.

We do not know whether double-breasted blue coats are compulsory. They have been made a custom, but they are not necessarily custom made. The color itself attracts and retains heat, but as umpires have neither sensibilities nor sense, they do not know it or feel it. The tacticians' explanation of the blue is that it interferes less than other colors with a batsman's eye, especially when the umpire is out at second base. The players cannot see too little of the umpire to satisfy them. And as to the blue caps of which our correspondent complains, the player would say solid blue and

House took the fresh news today very calmly and with a good deal of dignity, and we got through all the business by half-past four.

AUGUST 5.—I have taken an important decision today to give up the War Office and install Kitchener there as an emergency man until the war comes to an end. It was quite impossible for me to go on now that war is actually in being. It requires the undivided time and thought of any man to do the job properly, and I hate smamped work.

Putting Kitchener in Power
"A Hazardous Experiment."

K. was, to do him justice, not at all anxious to come in, but when it was presented to him as a duty he agreed. It is clearly understood that he has no politics and that his place at Cairo is kept open so that he can return to it when peace comes back. It is a hazardous experiment, but the best in the circumstances, I think.

We had a longish Cabinet at which we decided to ask tomorrow for a stiff vote of credit, hundred millions, which will carry us for a long time and produce a good immediate impression.

Oddly enough there is no authentic war news either by land or sea. All that appears in the papers is invention; Winston's mouth waters for the Goeben, but so far she is still at large. I am truly sorry for the poor Lichnowskys. They are broken-hearted, and she spends her days in tears.

After the House I had a War Council here, a rather motley gathering, Lord Roberts, Kitchener, Ian Hamilton, (Sir John) French, Douglas Haig, etc., with Haldane, Grey, Winston and myself. We discussed the strategic situation and what to do with the Expeditionary Force and adjourned till tomorrow when we shall have over a representative of the French General Staff.

AUGUST 6.—We had our usual Cabinet this morning and decided with less demur than I expected to sanction the dispatch of the expeditionary force of four divisions. We also discussed a number of smaller schemes for attacking German ports and wireless stations in East and West Africa and the China seas. Indeed, I had to remark that we looked more like a gang of Elizabethan buccaneers than a meek collection of black-coated Liberal Ministers. After the Cabinet I went to the Palace and had a talk with the King before the Privy Council, at which Kitchener was sworn in, and I handed over my seals to him. It will be amusing to see how he gets on in the Cabinet.

Expeditionary Force Rushed
To France in Entire Secrecy.

AUGUST 10.—We had a long and rather critical Cabinet this morning, the main question being what I was to say on the adjournment about the (Irish) Home Rule and Welsh church bills. Redmond was pressing for prorogation and immediate placing on the statute book. Carson sent a rather threatening letter in the opposite sense. We had a very animated debate, and for a time it seemed as though we should come to a deadlock.

Happily not the first, or perhaps the last, time I was able to devise a form of saving words which pleased everybody and which I have just, 5:15, read to the House with the benediction of Bonar Law and not a single question from any quarter. The expeditionary force is moving on oiled castors. A considerable part of it is in France. There is not a whisper of this in the newspapers.

AUGUST 11.—Sir John French came to pay me a farewell visit this morning. We had a long Cabinet, in which a large part of the talking was done by Winston and Kitchener, the former posing as an expert on strategy and the latter as an expert on Irish politics. At lunch we had Cassel and Sir Edward Goschen, just returned from Berlin. He gave a lot of interesting particulars about his last days there. At the end his German footmen took off their liveries and spat on them and refused even to carry down his boxes.

AUGUST 12.—The only interesting thing is the arrival of the Goeben in the Dardanelles and her sale to Turkey. The Turks are very angry at Winston's seizure of their battleships here. As we shall insist that the Goeben shall be manned by a Turkish instead of a German crew it does not much matter, as the Turkish sailors cannot navigate her except onto rocks or mines. Meanwhile the embarkation of the expeditionary force goes smoothly and steadily on.

AUGUST 17—Turkey has come into the foreground, threatens vaguely enterprises against Egypt, and seems disposed to play a double game about the Goeben and the Breslau. Winston, in his most bellicose mood, is all for sending a torpedo flotilla through the Dardanelles to threaten and, if necessary, to sink the Goeben and her consort. Crewe and Kitchener very much against it.

In the interests of the Mussulmans in India and Egypt, they are against our doing anything at all which could be interpreted as meaning that we are taking the initiative against Turkey. She ought to be compelled to strike the first blow. I agreed to this, but the Turks must be obliged to come out and tell us whether they are going at once to dismiss the German crews.

And even Caesar's vaunted might
Too soon must know the narrow bed;
The dusty way of death we tread
Ere many moons shall wax and wane,
While yet the wine is ruby red
To what befalls the glasses drain!

Yon moon invoking love tonight
Has etched the charms of Helen, fled,
The Pleiades have given light
To deathless vows dead lovers said;
The fairest form to dust has sped,
And death will render fond vows vain
Then waiting dust too soon we wed
To what befalls the glasses drain!

No craven verse need we indite
That ruthless fate but spare the thread,
Nor death, in dread, need we invite—
Too soon this sorry rag we shed;
Then proud the heart and high the head
Before we know that dusty train;
Avaunt grim fear, and in its stead
To what befalls the glasses drain!

L'ENVOI.

Sweet Prince, that dusty way was led
By mighty lord and humble thane;
Ere yet we eat the bitter bread,
To what befalls the glasses drain!

House took the fresh news today very calmly and with a good deal of dignity, and we got through all the business by half-past four.

AUGUST 5.—I have taken an important decision today to give up the War Office and install Kitchener there as an emergency man until the war comes to an end. It was quite impossible for me to go on now that war is actually in being. It requires the undivided time and thought of any man to do the job properly, and I hate scamped work.

Putting Kitchener in Power "A Hazardous Experiment."

K. was, to do him justice, not at all anxious to come in, but when it was presented to him as a duty he agreed. It is clearly understood that he has no politics and that his place at Cairo is kept open so that he can return to it when peace comes back. It is a hazardous experiment, but the best in the circumstances, I think.

We had a longish Cabinet at which we decided to ask tomorrow for a stiff vote of credit, hundred millions, which will carry us for a long time and produce a good immediate impression.

Oddly enough there is no authentic war news either by land or sea. All that appears in the papers is invention. Winston's mouth waters for the Goeben, but so far she is still at large. I am truly sorry for the poor Lichnowskys. They are broken-hearted, and she spends her days in tears.

After the House I had a War Council here, a rather motley gathering, Lord Roberts, Kitchener, Ian Hamilton, (Sir John) French, Douglas Haig, etc., with Haldane, Grey, Winston and myself. We discussed the strategic situation and what to do with the Expeditionary Force and adjourned till tomorrow when we shall have over a representative of the French General Staff.

AUGUST 6.—We had our usual Cabinet this morning and decided with less demur than I expected to sanction the dispatch of the expeditionary force of four divisions. We also discussed a number of smaller schemes for attacking German ports and wireless stations in East and West Africa and the China seas. Indeed, I had to remark that we looked more like a gang of Elizabethan buccaneers than a meek collection of black-coated Liberal Ministers. After the Cabinet I went to the Palace and had a talk with the King before the Privy Council, at which Kitchener was sworn in, and I handed over my seals to him. It will be amusing to see how he gets on in the Cabinet.

Expeditionary Force Rushed To France in Entire Secrecy.

AUGUST 10.—We had a long and rather critical Cabinet this morning, the main question being what I was to say on the adjournment about the (Irish) Home Rule and Welsh church bills. Redmond was pressing for prorogation and immediate placing on the statute book. Carson sent a rather threatening letter in the opposite sense. We had a very animated debate, and for a time it seemed as though we should come to a deadlock.

Happily not the first, or perhaps the last, time I was able to devise a form of saving words which pleased everybody and which I have just, 5:15, read to the House with the benediction of Bonar Law and not a single question from any quarter. The expeditionary force is moving on oiled castors. A considerable part of it is in France. There is not a whisper of this in the newspapers.

AUGUST 11.—Sir John French came to pay me a farewell visit this morning. We had a long Cabinet, in which a large part of the talking was done by Winston and Kitchener, the former posing as an expert on strategy and the latter as an expert on Irish politics. At lunch we had Cassel and Sir Edward Goschen, just returned from Berlin. He gave a lot of interesting particulars about his last days there. At the end his German footmen took off their liveries and spat on them and refused even to carry down his boxes.

AUGUST 12.—The only interesting thing is the arrival of the Goeben in the Dardanelles and her sale to Turkey. The Turks are very angry at Winston's seizure of their battleships here. As we shall insist that the Goeben shall be manned by a Turkish instead of a German crew it does not much matter, as the Turkish sailors cannot navigate her except onto rocks or mines. Meanwhile the embarkation of the expeditionary force goes smoothly and steadily on.

AUGUST 17—Turkey has come into the foreground, threatens vaguely enterprises against Egypt, and seems disposed to play a double game about the Goeben and the Breslau. Winston, in his most bellicose mood, is all for sending a torpedo flotilla through the Dardanelles to threaten and, if necessary, to sink the Goeben and her consort. Crewe and Kitchener very much against it.

In the interests of the Musselmans in India and Egypt, they are against our doing anything at all which could be interpreted as meaning that we are taking the initiative against Turkey. She ought to be compelled to strike the first blow. I agreed to this, but the Turks must be obliged to come out and tell us whether they are going at once to dismiss the German crews.

"Winston Churchill Chasing German Cruiser About North Sea."

AUGUST 18—Everyone is very pleased with the smoothness and secrecy of the Expeditionary Force. Winston is engaged in chasing a German cruiser about the North Sea with two of his flotillas and hopes to run her down before nightfall.

AUGUST 20—The poor Belgians have been having a bad hammering and are now driven back to Antwerp, and Brussels is in the hands of the Germans. For the real purposes and fortunes of the campaign this is all to the good, for it means that the Germans have to spend two, or possibly even three days more to the disarrangement to their time-table, before the real fighting on the great scale begins. It looks as if our troops may be in the thick of it before long. We are now sending off another division, the Fifth.

Troubled Over Position of Turkey, Bulgaria and Italy.

AUGUST 21—The real center of interest, political, not military, at the moment is Turkey and the two darkest horses in the European stable, Italy and Rumania. The different points of view of different people are rather amusing—Winston violently anti-Turk, Kitchener strong that Rumania is the real pivot of the situation, Masterman eagerly pro-Bulgarian, but very much against any aggressive action vis-a-vis Turkey which would excite our Mussulmans in India and Egypt; Lloyd George keen for Balkan confederation. Grey judicious and critical all round; Haldane instructive and juiceless, and the "Beagles" and "Bobtails" silent and bewildered.

AUGUST 24—Early this morning I was aroused by Kitchener bringing French's telegram announcing the fall of Namur. Very bad news, for we all assumed that Namur was safe, if not for a fortnight, at least for two or three days, and, though our soldiers seem to have held their own, its tail, of course, takes out the pivot from the movement which was in contemplation.

The general effect is that the French fifth army has had to fall back and take a new line, and our own men in consequence had to fall back also from the forward positions at and about Mons. It is a bad check to say the least.

AUGUST 26—When I came back here from the House I had a long visit from Winston and Kitchener and we summoned Edward Grey into our councils. They were bitten by an idea of Hankey's to dispatch a brigade of marines, about 3000, conveyed and escorted in battleships to Ostend, to land there and take possession of the town and scout in the neighborhood.

This would please the Belgians and annoy and harass the Germans, who would certainly take it to be the pioneer of a larger force and it would further be quite a safe operation as the marines could at any moment re-embark.

Grey and I consented, and the little force is probably at this moment disembarking at Ostend. Winston, I need not say, was full of ardor about his marines and takes the whole adventure, of which the Cabinet only heard for the first time an hour ago, very seriously.

France Taken to Task for Secrecy About War Plans.

At about 11 p. m. I got French's telegram announcing that, much against his will, he was falling back on Peronne, which is between St. Quentin and Amiens. His men were in excellent condition and most anxious to take the offensive, but the French commanders were persisting in further retirement. We all think they have been very wrong in not taking us more into their confidence, and we have sent a pretty strong message for more knowledge of their plans and intentions.

Happily the telegram this morning is more reassuring. They seem to be regaining confidence and are even taking the aggressive in Belgium and Luxembourg. French's situation is not a very pleasant one, in command of an unbeaten army, full of fight, yet compelled always to go back. I hope it is only a passing phase.

I am very anxious now to get all the party machinery on both sides to work, first to stir people up about the war, for there is, I fear, in some places a growing apathy, and next, to bring the multitude of idle, able-bodied loafers into the recruiting net. I have just had a visit here (House of Commons) from Lord Roberts. He is particularly keen for the moment about two things, the bringing over of the Indian troops and the enlistment and training of both sets of Irish volunteers.

"I Wish We Could Submerge Ireland for, Say, 10 Years."

AUGUST 27—Winston has been scoring some small, but not unimportant, points. His 3000 marines have taken Ostend, and the scouting about the country in that region, and the Kaiser Wilhelm, a huge armed German liner, has been sunk by the High Flyer.

AUGUST 31—The Irish on both sides are giving me a lot of trouble just at a difficult moment. I sometimes wish we could submerge the whole lot of them and their island for, say, 10 years under the waves of the Atlantic. I have had interviews today, in the intervals of what are more urgent things, with Redmond and with Bonar Law, inspired by Carson, and they almost fill one with despair.

Further installments of Lord Asquith's diary will be published in subsequent issues of the Sunday Post-Dispatch.

Submarine Volcanic Disturbances.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, July 21.—The newspaper El Universal prints reports that the eruption of an unlocated submarine volcano in the Pacific Ocean somewhere off the coast of the State of Oxaca caused the recent severe earthquakes in Oxaca, Mexico City, and al lthe Southern part of Mexico.

Offer to Treat With Chinese Advocated By Lloyd George

and until that Government had satisfied in full the British demands in respect of last year's outrages.

This, however, was not the only reason for the British Government's refusal to date to negotiate new treaties with Nanking. The main reason given in support of this policy is that the Nanking Government has not yet proved that its jurisdiction extends to its own territory or to the main territories of China, nor shown itself capable of permanency. It is, of course, easy to argue that the Nanking Government is neither the stable nor the universally recognized government within China itself. All this no doubt is true, as also is the fact that the Chinese Nationalist authorities are everywhere encroaching on privileges hitherto reserved for the foreign controlled administrations of the Customs and the Salt Gabelle.

Plank of All Parties.

In practice, nevertheless, it must be borne in mind that every Chinese Government in the past few years, not excluding that formerly controlled by Marshal Chang Tso-lin, has demanded, and not unnaturally, revision of "unequal" treaties; so that this revision is a plank common to every party and every class in China. It is as much the part of the program of the Shanghai economic conference of Chinese bankers and merchants, representing the most moderate element in China, and the most pro-foreign, as it was of the Hankow communists.

Moreover, if negotiations are to be barred with the de facto Chinese Government of still uncertain growth and jurisdiction, China's relations, juridicial and commercial with foreign countries, can only remain in a chaotic and unprofitable state for the next 10, 20 or 30 years to come. A beginning really must be made with negotiations for the placing of the Powers' relations with China on a new, appropriate, and stable basis and this being so the opportunity should not be missed of negotiating on an issue where China's opinion is at one with the Chinese Government. Such at least would seem to be the only practical, business-like policy for a trading nation with ourselves to adopt toward China.

More Than Hankow Group.

It is not so very long ago that the Foreign Office authorized negotiations between the British Legation at Pekin and the ephemeral government of Hankow. Admittedly, in this case things went wrong and mistakes were made, but after all, the Nationalist Government of Nanking and its vassals in the North represent something very much more than did this Hankow Government.

Both France and America are moving very rapidily in the direction of negotiations with Nanking, while Tokio, it is true, remains as rigid as Downing street. But then Tokio has strategic considerations and political ambitions, while British interests in China are almost purely commercial and economic.

Of course, a British offer to negotiate might be cautiously conditioned. It might even be conditioned in such a way as to promote directly and in friendly spirit, the establishment of a united government for China by stipulating that Great Britain would be prepared to negotiate with anybody whose credentials were equally approved by the Nanking Government, Marshal Feng and Gen. Yen. Such a declaration, if made by Great Britain alone, or Great Britain and the United States in common, could not fail to have an inspiring and healthy influence on the responsible leaders of the chief Chinese factions of this date. The probability is that it would be seized upon eagerly by all three groups, and would lead to the sinking of their present differences. It would certainly be appreciated as an act of friendship and disinterestedness by all save the communist element in China.

For lack of such an offer, the failure of the Chinese factions to set up a government capable of maintaining order and administration might be indefinitely prolonged, and this perpetuation of chaos would damage in equal measure the Chinese trader and the foreign trader, not to mention the toiling masses of China.

WIFE OF RUSSIAN PRINCE HELD

Former Frances Stevens of Chicago Suspected of Theft.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 21.—Princess Frances R. Golitzine, 23-year-old wife of Prince Dimitri Golitzine, Russian nobleman, was arrested on suspicion of grand larceny yesterday. The complaint, sworn to by Olga Bekrineba, Russian motion picture actress, accuses the Princess of aiding a man in taking various articles of value from Miss Bekrineba.

The Russian actress said that Princess Golitzine and the unnamed man persuaded Miss Beckrineba to give them to sell several articles including a valuable pongee cloak. The actress said the money received was to have been given her but that the man disappeared and the Princess failed to return with the money. Officers said several other complaints against the Russian noblewoman had been received. The owners of the apartments in which she lived told officers she had sold furniture from the place. Princess Golitzine said that prior to her marriage she was Frances Stevens of Chicago, and that she married the Prince in New York.

Big Business Suspicious of Labor Planks of Both Parties

Labor should be exempt from the operation of anti-trust laws.

"(C) We recognize that legislative and other investigations have shown the existence of grave abuse in the issuance of injunctions in labor disputes.

"Injunctions should not be granted in labor disputes except upon proof of threatened irreparable injury, and after notice and hearing, and the injunction should be confined to those which to directly threaten irreparable injury.

"The expressed purpose of representatives of capital, labor and the bar to devise a plan for the elimination of the great evils with respect to injunctions must be supported and legislation designed to accomplish these ends formulated and passed."

Walking Delegate Bogy.

As in the Republican letter, the walking delegate obsession was stressed from the outset.

"You will notice in the first section (A)," Barr pointed out, "that not only is the principle of collective bargaining approved but the walking delegate is also approved and the inference is plain that it is only through the union plan that the representatives of employes are not coerced or interfered with.

"The second section (B) is the old statement that 'labor is not a commodity.' The high sounding phrase 'human rights must be safeguarded' would seem to imply that somewhere there is a dastardly attempt to destroy human rights and we presume that the open shop is intended.

"Then comes the meat in the coconut—'labor should be exempt from the operation of the anti-trust laws.' In others words, labor must be free to do as it well pleases without restraint or restriction and the plans of its leaders and 'entertainment' committees must not be interfered with in the slightest. Then comes the approval of the anti-injunction legislation. The platform concurs with militant unionism that injunctions must not be issued until there has been a notice and hearing together with proof of threatened and irreparable injury. By the time the hearing is ended, the irreparable injury will have been caused, but presumably no one will be to blame."

Not All "Applesauce."

Barr knew that platforms are often disregarded after the election but he advised his colleagues that they could not afford to take a chance on this.

"It is well understood that in the matter of quantity production during a presidential year, all other items sink into insignificance beside the figures of the production of promises," he declared.

"This productivity begins in the platform and ends on election morning. Nevertheless, we cannot afford to assume that the declarations of either the Democratic platform or the Republican platform are merely 'applesauce.' Certainly, if they are repeated often enough, and are then forgotten, the party which happens to succeed and then forgets will have stultified itself.

"So far as the open shop movement in particular is concerned, in more than 90 per cent of our industrial plants, it must be assumed that both parties intend to legislate according to declarations of the platform. If these intentions are carried out there will be a thin time for industry, and the control of your business will pass to walking delegates and entertainment committees of the unions".

Checking Up on Congress.

In following this line of argument, Barr demonstrated that he knew his politics. Neither letter said a word about Smith or Hoover and their attitude toward organized labor. Barr concentrated on the legislation rather than the executive aspect of the platform declarations. It was during this argument that he made the declaration that industry must know how each congressional and senatorial candidate stood on labor legislation.

"So far as the platforms are concerned in this question of labor," Barr continued, "the Democratic platform is more direct and specific in approving policies flatly opposed to national progress and the best interest of industry.

"The Republican platform is less direct, but it must be assumed that its purpose is practically the same. Everybody engaged in industry must realize that these declarations cannot be put into effect except through Congress, and must begin an intensive campaign to see that neither moral nor financial support is given to any congressional or senatorial candidate who definitely commits himself to principles antagonistic to sound economics.

"There should be no hide-and-seek movements relative to these declarations. They should be made in the open and if necessary printed as an advertisement in the newspapers and signed with the names of men who are leading the movement.

Suggests Industry Bloc.

"You will be asked to support men for Congress during the coming months who are absolutely opposed to your interests. You will be told that they are not in sympathy with this or that provision of the platform.

"Before you support them be very sure that what you are told is the truth and that these men are not merely concealing their antagonism to industry until after the election. See what they have to say when they address meetings of unionists, and contrast it with what they have to say when they talk with you or your representative.

"Industry, in this campaign, must find out who its friends are and support them to the limit. Do not be stampeded by political speeches or orations. Make up your mind after you have analyzed the facts in the situation and vote accordingly. But be sure and vote."

In this Democratic letter Barr disclosed the same sophistry that was apparent in the Republican document. The above paragraphs mean, if they mean anything, that owners and managers of industry should support men who are "right" with industry and will represent industry in Congress—a class group.

A Possible Interpretation.

The concluding paragraphs of the letter, however, made it plain that such groups or blocs are only for industry.

"In November, besides a President, there will be elected a House of Representatives composed of 435 members and one-third of the Senate of the United States," Barr said. "The Congress is the legislative body and the selection of congressional candidates is of the highest importance. Remember this, if you send to the Congress of the United States men of intelligence and patriotism, no one will have anything to fear. But, if you send men who are time servers, you will have much to apprehend. No man should go into the House of Representatives or the Senate who is there as the representative of any clique or section or voting aggregation."

The only conclusion that can be drawn from the foregoing paragraph is that Barr thought it would be permissible for "men of intelligence and patriotism" to go back on their platform pledges provided they properly represented themselves.

40 SUICIDES ALARM HUNGARY

Homes for Those Contemplating Self-Destruction Established.

By the Associated Press.

BUDAPEST, July 21.—Suicides have been increasing at an appalling rate in Hungary. Forty persons have taken their lives in one week. Among them was a prominent director of a bank, who killed himself in front of the stock exchange, in view of thousands. An entire family of five was killed by gas. Two septuagenarians ended their lives in the same manner.

"Suicide homes" will be established and maintained at the expense of the State. The Ministry of War has placed large military barracks at the disposal of the Government until the regular homes for would-be suicides are built. The new law makes it a misdemeanor to publish or give information about a suicide, punishable by fine or imprisonment.

E. L. DOHENY SUED FOR $405,000 FOR REMARKS

R. H. Murray Charges Oil Man Accused Him of Fomenting Revolution in Mexico.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Damages of $405,000 against Edward L. Doheny, multi-millionaire California oil man, are sought in an amended complaint filed today by Robert H. Murray in his libel suit. Murray charges that Doheny, to manipulate oil operations in Mexico, issued a statement declaring that Murray had approached him to finance a Mexican revolution.

In an earlier complaint, which was dismissed last May, Murray demanded $100,000 damages. In the new complaint he includes in his demands commissions of $35,000 which he alleges he lost when Doheny made the revolutionary charges. He also asks for $270,000,000 as punitive damages as well as the original $100,000.

At the time of Doheny's statement, Murray charges, he was on the best of terms with the Obregon Government, after 12 years residence in Mexico, but that the charges held him up to hatred and disgrace in Mexico City and damaged his business and reputation.

The statement, he says, cost him his connection with a Vera Cruz oil concern with whom the Californian was in litigation, and facilitated Doheny's plans in "carrying out of certain designs of his own with respect to said properties."

Appointment Of Caldwell As Commission Chief Opposed

New Counsel, Not Related to Commissioner, O. H., Has Been Legal Adviser to Radio Stations and Plans to Return as Such in Six Months.

By THOMAS STEVENSON.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Strong protest will be made in Congress against the appointment of Louis G. Caldwell as general counsel for the Federal Radio Commission.

Two Senators have definitely said they will ask for an investigation into the selection of a man who previously had been acting as legal representative of a number of broadcasting stations.

Caldwell (who is not related to Commissioner O. H. Caldwell), has been a member of the firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green and Martin of Chicago. It is said that at present the firm represents stations WGN, WLIB, WATS and WGES in a legal capacity before the Federal Radio Commission.

The appointment of Caldwell was made early in June. It is said that he then procured a leave of absence from his firm, but that he expects to return to it at the end of about six months.

The charge is made that Caldwell was ineligible because he has represented and perhaps in the future will represent stations before the commission, and because his firm will continue to appear in behalf of the stations. The claim is made that Caldwell cannot be expected to act impartially and without prejudice because of his expectation to return to the service of those stations.

Regardless of the charges against him, Caldwell is declared to have an excellent record in Chicago, his home city.

Caldwell has followed broadcasting legislation and litigation since its start in 1922 and should be qualified in many respects to assist the commission. It is said that the appointment might have been an excellent one but for Caldwell's connections.

Keener competition among the stations within each zone for better assignments and, in fact, for survival, is one of the results of the equalization amendment to the law. It is said that Caldwell's appointment was particularly unfortunate because it will enable him to have access to the confidential records of stations which are rivals of those he has represented and may continue to represent in the future.

During the hearings which have been conducted before the commission for the 162 stations notified to prove that they serve public interest, Caldwell sat with the commissioners hearing the cases of the Fourth Zone, in which his former clients are located.

According to the Senators, "even a moderate amount of delicacy would have suggested to the commission the propriety of not permitting Caldwell to participate in hearings where he might influence action toward competitors of the stations which he probably may serve after leaving the commission.

The hand of Caldwell can be seen in several of the recent moves of the commission. Appearing at the hearing accorded to broadcasters late in April, in behalf of a group of Chicago stations, Caldwell made a number of recommendations, some of which have been followed since.

First of all, he suggested that all portable stations be discontinued, a step which was later taken by the commission.

Then he urged the deletion of all stations which use power less than 50 watts on the ground that they are too small to render public service. He also recommended the removal of stations which operate at irregular periods and those which fail to come within a strict classification of a broadcasting station.

Radio reception, however, would remain in a chaotic condition if Caldwell's recommendations were followed. He suggested that after weeding out some of the smaller broadcasters, the remaining number be relicensed.

He advocated that the total number of remaining stations be divided by five, which would establish the quota for each of the five zones.

Then the zones which had more than their quota would be allowed to borrow from the zones which were under quota, the surplus stations receiving temporary licenses for 90-day periods.

Engineers claim that such a plan of reallocation would afford no improvement at all to radio reception and would result in a discrimination against the 60,000,000 rural listeners who would be unable to get many programs without heterodyne interference.

KSD'S Schedule for Today

AS is customary, the Summer Radio Church to be broadcast over KSD at noon today will feature a visiting speaker and a series of anthems and hymns by a mixed quartet directed by George Vause. This weekly church program is sponsored by the Federal Council of Churches.

Grieg's "Norwegian Dance" and the Toselli "Serenade" will be played by the Federal Council of Churches Little Orchestra in the Sixty Musical Minutes program to be broadcast over KSD at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

The group of four old favorites this week will contain Offenbach's "Barcarolle" in orchestral form; "Mother Machree" as a tenor solo, and "Somewhere a Voice Is Calling" on the violin. Prominent among the other numbers is Eric Coates' "Birdsongs at Eventide," sung by the male quartet.

The program:

The Top .... Gillet
Orchestra.
Recessional .... de Koven
Male Quartet.
Violin selection
Onaway, Awake Beloved..... .... Coleridge-Taylor
Tenor solo.
Norwegian Dance .... Grieg
Orchestra.
Shadow March .... Protheroe
Male Quartet.
A New Heaven .... Gaul
Baritone solo.
Four Old Favorites
(a) Barcarolle ...... Offenbach
Orchestra.
(b) Old Oaken Bucket
Male Quartet.
(c) Mother Machree .... Olcott
Tenor solo.
(d) Somewhere a Voice is Calling
Violin solo.
De Gospel Train .... Burleigh
Male Quartet.
Serenade .... Toselli
Orchestra.
Dedication .... Franz
Baritone solo.
Bird Songs at Eventide.... Coates
Male Quartet.

Genia Zielinska, coloratura soprano, and Winifred Young Cornish, pianist, will broadcast another half-hour concert over KSD at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Chopin's "Mazurka in E Major" and the delightful "Scherzo in C Sharp Major" by the same composer, will be heard as piano solos, while Miss Zielinska will sing, among other things, Novello's "Little Damozel" and "The Lark Now Leaves Its Watery Nest," by Parker.

The program:

Mazurka E Major .... Chopin
Miss Cornish.
(a) Little Damozel .... Novello
(b) The Lark Now Leaves Its Watery Nest .... Parker
Genia Zielinska.
Scherzo C Sharp Minor.... Chopin
(a) Estrellita .... Ponce
(b) Gypsy and the Bird.. Benedict
Miss Cornish.

A special arrangement of Rubenstein's famous descriptive piece, "Kamenoi-Ostrow," originally written for pianoforte and now transcribed for orchestra, will be broadcast by the Stetson Summer Serenaders during the first part of the 60-minute variety program by that group over KSD beginning at 4 o'clock. Soon afterwards the unforgettable aria "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice" from Saint-Saens' "Samson et Dalila" will be heard in instrumental form and the familiar "Humoresque" of Anton Dvorak has been arranged for male voices and entitled "Mammy's Lullaby."

The period will also contain the Spanish serenade "Chalita," written by Schertzinger, who is perhaps best known as the composer of "Marcheta."

A musical version of Shakspeare's familiar text "Under the Greenwood Tree," set to music by the American composer, James Dunn, is an additional attraction, as is a thrilling orchestra arrangement of Kipling's poem of army life in India "Route Marching," the musical setting of which was written by George Chadwick Stock.

Alexander Konstantinovitch Glazounow's "Slav Quartet (Op. 26), will be played by the National String Quartet in that group's broadcast over KSD, beginning at 5 o'clock this evening.

A newcomer to Maj. Bowes' Capitol Family—Betty Poulus—will be heard over KSD during the usual 90-minute concert beginning at 5:30 o'clock this evening. Miss Poulus is a contralto. She has appeared before continental audiences for several years. She is a Highlander by birth and sings with equal ease in English, French, Dutch, Italian and German.

Allen McQuhae, tenor, and William Simmons, baritone, will share

Kanawha River Gorge Called Most Striking

NEARLY every tourist has some favorite river gorge, which he regards as more beautiful than any other. East of the Rocky Mountains, there are the Palisades of the Hudson in New York, the twisting valley of the French Broad in Tennessee and North Carolina, the rockbound defiles of Ozark streams and others, but many travelers may pick the pass through which the Kanawha flows in West Virginia as most striking of all.

The highway along the Kanawha is a chief key to Southern Virginia and the Carolinas from this part of the country. It reaches the river near the mouth, at Charleston, capital of West Virginia. One may drive to Charleston by way of Louisville, Ky., and Huntington, W. Va., or via Cincinnati, O., and either Huntington or Parkersburg, W. Va. The Kanawha flows into the Ohio between Parkersburg and Huntington.

"Ka-NA-wa," incidentally, is the proper pronunciation of this name, an appelation looming large in West Virginia history and economics. The stream rises in the extremity of North Carolina and crosses a tip of Virginia before entering the mountain State.

Charleston itself is an attractive place, set in a narrow valley between lofty, frowning ridges. The State has started erection of a huge Capitol by a unique plan. Two wings of white stone have been erected on a site near the river bank, and some day between them will rise a domed structure. Beyond this spot are fine homes facing the iron-colored current and hazy reaches of the Alleghenies.

East of the city, the highway and accompanying railroad are flanked by enormous industrial plants — oil refineries, collieries, manufactories — some of which belch smoke like Pittsburg, till the valley seems filled with storm clouds.

The first 39 miles of the road (U. S. No. 60) run through the lowland, close beside the Kanawha for a good part of the way, to the town of Gauley Bridge. Thus far the stream is colloquially known as the Great Kanawha. The Gauley River, a tumultuous tributary, flows in at this point and a couple of miles below, hard by the highway, are the Great Kanawha Falls. What the falls lack in drop they make up in noise and swirling, as the murky water dashes over tre-

A Trip Into the Appalachians and Their Environs

By RICHARD G. BAUMHOFF.

WHILE the cities are sweltering in midsummer heat, the Appalachian Mountains in the charming country south of the Mason & Dixon line actually offer pleasant relief — even produce breezes which call for a blanket or two at night.

There is a circuit tour of 2000 to 2600 miles over good roads to and from St. Louis, taking in some of the notable resorts and many other attractive places to stay. There are so many side trips and stopovers possible that they cannot be enumerated here. One may make the drive in as short a time as a week or 10 days, but a fortnight's vacation enables the traveler to spend a week at some cool place 2000 to 4000 feet above sea level.

White Sulphur Springs, Hot Springs and Asheville are the best known spots on the route, with lesser resorts clustered around. The chronicler recently visited them in the course of a 2800-mile drive, which had as its far points Richmond, Va., and Atlanta, Ga., and which was accomplished easily in eight days on the road, leaving seven for the trail, the bypath, the festive board and (disastrously) the bridge table at Warm Springs, Va., a few miles from Hot Springs.

Here is the route followed, practically all on pavement, with negligible detours: St. Louis to Cincinnati, via Indianapolis—an old story to Middle Western tourists. Cincinnati to Charleston, W. Va., via Chillicothe, O., and Parkersburg, W. Va. — an attractive countryside, off the beaten path with hills near the status of mountains in western Virginia; one also can drive south of the Ohio River and through Huntington, W. Va., Charleston to Hot Springs—through the imposing gorge of the Kanawha River. Hot Springs to Richmond—across the Blue Ridges of Virginia and by way of Charlottesville, the interesting seat of the University of Virginia and site of Monticello, home of Thomas Jefferson.

Richmond to Asheville — via Greensboro and Charlotte, thriving cities of North Carolina, and into the Great Smoky Mountains. Asheville to Atlanta — winding among towering ranges of the Great Smokies and over the Blue Ridges of Georgia to the bustling metropolis of the Southeast. Atlanta to St. Louis—around Lookout Mountain at Chattanooga, Tenn., and over an arm of the Cumberlands into Nashville, Tenn., thence home.

To go solely to the delightful Allegheny country of Virginia and West Virginia, the tour may be followed to Hot Springs and the return made by way of Huntington, W. Va., and Lexington and Louisville, Ky.—a pleasing route. The central and eastern part of Virginia may be avoided by going directly from the Hot Springs section to Asheville. The loop to Atlanta may be eliminated by cutting across from Asheville to Cumberland Gap and Louisville or to Knoxville and Nashville. Thus, the trip may be shortened or lengthened at will, even after the start.

Interesting in its entirety, the journey begins to reach spectacular stages at Charleston. The smooth highway climbs sharply up the mountain ridge, glimpsing the Kanawha far below. White Sulphur Springs, with its pretentious hotel, is near the Virginia line. Hot Springs isn't many miles beyond, but there is one 16-mile mountain detour with tough though not prohibitive driving. After that the mountains become steeper and the traveler who lingers in this region finds himself in the wild and lovely Alleghenies, whichever way he turns.

These thickly wooded mountains rise up to 4000 feet or so, and the excellent gravel and tarred macadam highways twist and turn about them here and there. Elsewhere, trails and a profusion of bridle paths may be followed. The territory offers resorts to fit every purse, some of surpassing quality. Mountain streams tear through the rocky glens, occasionally bursting in falls over cliffs. Wild flowers are everywhere and bird life is thick. The blue empyrean challenges Asheville's claim of sky ownership. Golf, tennis, riding, hiking, a little swimming, various healing springs—these are among the attractions. And an important feature is that Virginia cooks know their culinary onions and Virginia servants know how to serve.

An interesting side trip runs through Goshen Pass, a great cleft in the Allegheny range, in which rushes a crystal river, to Lexington. That town is a shrine of the Things That Can Happen in One Eye-Wink

THE fastest thing that any man can do is to wink his eye. The instinctive reaction of winking when a cinder blows into the eye is about one-tenth of a second for most people. In that flash of time, and automobile speeding 60 miles an hour will move nearly 10 feet.

A fast airplane will move more than 25 feet. Thus, the pilot can run into a small bird after he has first seen it before he can wink his eye against the expected shock, writes E. E. Free in Popular Science Monthly for August.

Some months ago, a workman fell out of the fifteenth floor of a building in course of construction in New York City. On the thirteenth floor he grabbed a rope hanging from a scaffold and swung himself in on the twelfth floor, saving his life. He afterwards confessed that he was as much astonished by his act as anyone who saw him.

The explanation is that the fall of 20 or 25 feet before he grabbed the rope occupied about one second and a quarter, which was time enough for his thinking machinery to issue the orders which made his muscles take hold of the rope below at the proper instant. Had he been placed in equal danger while driving an automobile at 60 miles an hour he would have been killed.

Tests with a group of typical automobile drivers have shown that the average time needed to see a danger signal, realize its meaning and begin to press the brake lever is a little more than half a second.

In that time, a car traveling 40 miles an hour would move 30 feet. That distance represents the minimum margin of safety the driver must maintain to avoid accident.

As speeds increase, no remedy for the advancing number of accidents will be found in stricter driving tests or improved warning signals. Devices will have to be found speedier than the human nervous system.

Perhaps speeding automobiles and aircraft may some day be equipped with these lightning-like electric eyes, so that collisions can be avoided and speeds checked automatically before the human pilot even has time for his tenth-of-a-second wink, let alone for any kind of thought.

Motor Tour Of Minnesota Ideal for City Vacationist

St. Paul, Gateway to Region of a Thousand Lakes, Is Only 640 Miles North of St. Louis—Trip Is Over Excellent Highways.

By ROBERT HENRY HALL,
Automobile Editor.

WITH great Lake Superior washing her rugged northeastern boundary and the majestic Mississippi draining her thousands of lakes, Minnesota was well named by the Indians "Minnee Sotah—The Land of Sky-Tinted Water."

Minnesota's charted lakes number well over 10,000 and cover an area of 6500 square miles. In the main, they are located in the northern portion of the State, which yearly is the rendezvous of thousands of city dwellers intent upon passing the hours of all too brief vacations along the shores of silvery lakes amid primeval forests.

Northern Minnesota is bucolic. By virtue of its character it is destined always to remain so. It does not have the rich, natural resources which have made the southern portion of the State commercially great and its cities vast, yet those resources peculiar to it—forest, lake and stream—are invaluable.

Minnesota, too, is rich in romance and legendary lore. Call to memory Hiawatha and the legends of Pipestone Quarries—where, according to Indian traditions, the creation of man took place; Redwood Falls, where a great battle was once fought; the Waters of Minnetonka, where "Moon Deer" and "Sun Deer," Indian lovers, persecuted by their tribes, leaped into the waters of this beautiful lake, faithful to the end. Maiden Rock at Winona, also the scene of an Indian love story, and Itaska State Park, where are found the head waters of the Mississippi River.

Minnesota is not so far from St. Louis as a cursory glance at the map would indicate. It is only 640 miles to St. Paul, gateway to the lakes region. From this point one can swing northeast up to and along the Lake Superior shore and into the scenic paradise of Superior National Forest, or north through the center of the State following the course of the Mississippi River. One way is as good as the other. Most motorists, however, like to make a circle trip, starting at St. Paul and following U. S. 61 to Duluth—site of Jay Cooke State Park—thence northeast over the same route along Lake Superior to Little Marais, 220 miles northeast of St. Paul.

At Little Marais a county road is taken five miles northwest of Finland, on State Highway No. 35, and the journey through Superior National Park is begun. Incidentally this point is also the gateway into the real fishing and hunting sector of Minesota. Shortly out of Finland there is Greenwood Lake and Seven Beavers' Lake, noted for good bass fishing, and a few miles further on the highway parallels Stony River for a distance, offering ideal sport with fly tackle.

No. 35 meanders north through Superior Park to Ely, then dips southwest and south to Pineville and west to Virginia—103 miles from Finland—the junction of State No. 35 and No. 11.

A word about Superior National Park. This preserve was established by President Roosevelt and dedicated in his own words to be "The Playground of the Nation." It stretches from the Canadian boundary on the north to the rugged shores of Lake Superior and encloses in its boundaries a veritable paradise for the seeker of nature's beauty spots. In it there are more lakes over a given area than in any other portion of the State of Minnesota. By the same token fishing in its boundaries is unexcelled elsewhere in the State. There are many resorts in its confines where one may stay, but camping seems to be in vogue and many little camps are seen all along the highway leading through it.

Continuing the journey from Virginia over No. 11 the motorist faces north again and a 100-mile jaunt brings one to International Falls on the Minnesota-Canadian line. Then, facing westward, the road follows the course of Rainy River until the hamlet of Baudette—55 miles from International Falls—is entered.

Rainy River leaves the highway at this point and proceeds northward to enter the Lake of the Woods. Fishermen of the party usually leave the motor cars there and take guide and boats up the river and across the lake to Warroad—40 miles west of Baudette—where the motor cars can be driven by other members of the party. Lake of the Woods at its widest

1,825,581 CARS PUT OUT OF USE IN 1927

Autos Scrapped Totaled 12 Per Cent of Those in Use.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—The average life of motor vehicles in the United States has been increased 14 per cent, largely as a result of good roads, the American Road Builders' Association declares.

A total of 1,825,581 vehicles were sent to the scrap heap during 1927, the association states. This was 12.05 per cent of the total registration at the beginning of the year, indicating that should this average maintain, the entire stock of motor cars would be replaced every eight and one-fourth years. The average life of a motor vehicle was formerly estimated at seven years.

New York led all states in the number of cars scrapped, that state discarding 149,372 vehicles. Nevada discarded only 813 vehicles, the smallest number of all states. Arkansas held the highest junkage rate, that state discarding 16.6 per cent of all vehicles registered at the beginning of the year. South Carolina discarded only 2.8 per cent of the cars registered.

All but two states registered more vehicles in 1927 than in 1926. They were Florida and Arkansas, the former decreasing by 6828 cars and the latter by 2851. North Carolina recorded the largest comparative increase, that State gaining 11.8 per cent over 1926. National registration was increased 5.1 per cent.

Most of the scrapped vehicles were partially salvaged. Metal parts were in many cases adapted to vehicles still in use, while a large number of motors were installed in boats or used as stationary power plants. The bodies were burned or cast into dump heaps. One New York salvaging agency maintains a seven-acre plot of ground for storing undamaged parts of disassembled vehicles.

In estimating the figures pertaining to the discard of motor vehicles, the association has considered all cars scrapped which were registered in 1926, but not reregistered during 1927.

sentiment of the Confederacy. There is the tomb of Robert E. Lee, the grave of Stonewall Jackson, the historic V. M. I. and Washington and Lee University.

In landlocked Goshen Pass a monument to a sea figure whom history has strangely overlooked to a great extent—Matthew Fontaine Maury, one-time Federal naval officer, later supporter of the Lost Cause, who numbered among his services to mankind the recognition of the Gulf Stream, the charting of the trade winds and the foundations of the Weather Bureau. Dying at Lexington, he asked to have his body carried through the Pass "when the rhododendrons are in bloom." It was. The beautiful road is called Maury Highway now.

From Parkersburg to Staunton, Va., the tour runs through sparsely settled mountain country. Everywhere in the Virginia hills the cottages and mansions are resplendent with roses, hollyhocks and all sorts of old-fashioned blooms. Going north from Hot Springs to Staunton, the way leads through the haunting shadows of Shenandoah National Forest, and it crosses the famous Shenandoah valley pike at Staunton. Then to the east there is a climb over the hazy divide of the Blue Ridge Mountains. This range is perpetually cloaked in a bluish atmosphere, but the view from its summits, particularly towards the rich plain eastward, is remarkable.

However, on the day when the chronicler's car sped over the route, there were thick clouds half way up the mountainsides, which shrouded the landscape like fog, yet offered loveliness in themselves. From the valley, this fringe of clouds looked like the wool about the pate of an ancient Afro-Virginian.

Charlottesville, a pretty town, is filled with interest. The University of Virginia has many things to see. On the campus and on the streets is an amazing collection of excellent statuary that would be worthy of a city like St. Louis and of particular point here. There are images of Thomas Jefferson, who bought St. Louis as part of the Louisiana Territory; of George Rogers Clark, who drove the British from this part of the country, and of Lewis and Clark, who set out on their exploration of the Northwest from here.

Monticello, shrine of democracy, is only a few miles from Charlottesville, where one learns that the proper pronunciation of the name of Jefferson's estate is with the soft, Italian "c," since it means "little mountain," an exact description of its captivating site. The place at last is being preserved for posterity and there is an admission charge of 50 cents to defray the cost. It is a queer old colonial house, among ancient trees, but its walls and furnishings carry something of the spirit of the author of the Declaration of Independence, father of the University of Virginia, sponsor of the Old Dominion's statue of religious freedom and great constitutionalist.

Crossing Virginia to Richmond and the South is like traversing the land that slum children in Northern tenements are supposed to dream about as "real country." Richmond itself is worth going a long way to see. There is a shady, easy-going town of the old South being transformed into a lively city of the new South, but not along the standardized architectural lines of too many American communities. It has a new Union Station like a temple and new homes whose walls have a distinctive air. Its quaint, old antebellum structures remain to a great extent, too.

South of Richmond, crossing into North Carolina, the deeper woods are left behind, though the Southern pine enters a stately appearance, and many towns and cities sprung up around the textile and tobacco industries are encountered. Turning west from Charlotte, the route begins to climb the Great Smokies for Asheville. On the way, the well-named Lake Lure, a resort place at high altitude, is passed. The attractions of Asheville are widely known.

While the generally favored route to Atlanta runs via Greenville, S. C., the chronicler stuck to the mountains and went by way of Bryson City, N. C., and Blairsville, Ga., thereby viewing some of the loftiest peaks and deepest canyons.

Atlanta is high enough to be comparatively cool in summer and is a city worth seeing—for instance, Stone Mountain, the battle cyclorama, the Federal prison and the great branches of national distributors.

Turning back toward St. Louis, the route leads through Chattanooga, where no traveler with time to spare should fail to ascend Lookout Mountain, whether interested in history, scenery or the thrill of seeing a different state in almost any direction of the gaze. The Cumberland range beyond has fine vistas. Nashville is a rather interesting old city.

Thinks Planes And Autos Will Grow Together

H. J. Klinger, Chevrolet Sales Manager, Not Alarmed About Aircraft.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Mich., July 16.—What effect airplane development will have on the automobile frequently has been discussed by those close to both industries as well as by laymen interested in the transportation methods the future may evolve. Is an era of keen competition ahead? Will the airplane relegate the automobile to a place beside the horse and buggy?

Decidedly no, in the opinion of H. J. Klinger, general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Co. The two industries rather will follow parallel lines of development, with each one aiding the other, the Chevrolet sales leader declared.

"There will be no more competition between the airplane and the automobile than there is between the newspaper and the radio," Klinger stated. "When the radio first began broadcasting news dispatches, there was talk of it supplanting the newspaper. Today the newspaper prints radio news, and the news items broadcast by the radio rather whet the appetites of newspaper readers. Each one serves the other.

"I believe the airplane and the automobile will follow similar lines of development. I believe that for every airplane that goes in the air at least two automobiles will go on the ground.

"The owner of an airplane will need an automobile to take him from his home to the airport. He will need another car to take him from the landing field downtown to his destination. Meanwhile his wife and family will need a car at home while his is parked at the airport awaiting his return. Every flight will call into use at least two or three cars.

"There will be no competition between the airplane and the automobile because the airplane can serve only a restricted field of transportation. It is essentially a rapid medium of long distance travel. It does not have the flexibility or the all-around utility of the automobile."

MINNESOTA TOUR IDEAL FOR CITY VACATIONIST

point is about 40 miles across and the boat trip, usually made by motor boat, takes from three to five days. It is fair muskie, pike and bass water and few fishermen leave it without a good catch of fish.

The motorist now continues on No. 11 down to Karlstad and there picks up State No. 33 and then heads for Red Lake Falls, 50 miles distant.

The area which the motorist has skirted on the road from International Falls to Red Lake Falls is known as the Minnesota Wilderness. In it are few towns and few good highways. Near its geographical center are Upper and Lower Red Lakes, combined being nearly as large as the Lake of the Woods. This is the big hunting and fishing sector of the State and it is visited by those sportsmen fortunate enough to be able to pass at least a month on vacation. Roads leading into it are found at Thief River Falls, a few miles north of Red Lake Falls, at the latter place and eastward at Wilton on U. S. No. 2, which is traveled out of Red Lake Falls.

At Wilton access is also had into Bemidji State Park and to Itaska State Park—just off of U. S. 71, about 30 miles below Wilton. The latter park encloses the headwaters of the Mississippi River and Lake Itaska. This park is of particular historical significance. Near its northern boundary is the site of "The Lost Village of the Moundbuilders," an Indian ruins which bears evidence of being inhabited at one time by people probably related to the mound builders who at one time lived across the Mississippi River in Illinois, near St. Louis. Through it runs an ancient war trail of the Sioux and within its confines was signed in 1865 the peace treaty between the Ojibway Indians and the U. S. Government.

Most motorists begin the homeward trek at Wilton and use U. S. No. 2—the Roosevelt International Highway—is followed the 250 miles into Duluth.

Another route, however, is often used if time is no object. The route, State No. 19, is followed south from Wilton, through the Leech Lake country to Brainerd—150 miles south of Wilton—from which point State No. 18 is traveled through the picturesque Mille Lacs country southward into Minneapolis-St. Paul from which point the journey to St. Louis is begun.

mendous boulders. The inevitable power plant is there to take advantage of the force. Tree-clad heights hem in the scene.

Below the falls is a ferry connecting with the highway to Bluefield, W. Va., a coal town in the south, but a bridge is being erected to replace it. At a cost exceeding $4,000,000, the river has been made navigable from the Ohio to the falls, and the highway passes some of the locks involved.

Immediately out of Gauley Bridge, the course climbs upward for several miles to the crest of Gauley Mountain. It is an easy grade for modern cars, despite its curves and sharp parts, and when at the top the forest breaks there is an unforgettable view. Far beneath, the river sparkles and fast trains on its farther bank look like toys. The sky is blue, the clefts in the hilltops are hazy and the mountain sides are a profusion of green.

There is curve after curve, in the river, the mountain outline and the road. The latter continues over the ridge, with glimpse after glimpse of the majestic panorama on the right. Deep in the woods there is a branch which drops down to connect with the Bluefield highway, and at a little distance machines may be seen spinning over both routes.

All too soon, the main highway leaves the Kanawha, but it continues through the wild mountain country, with occasional villages and infrequent towns. It reaches the famous resort, White Sulphur Springs, 120 miles east of Charleston. It is 40 miles farther to another resort, Hot Springs, Va.

General Brake Corp. Now Open at Night

General Brake Service Corp, 2727 Locust street, is now open until midnight every night except Saturday and Sunday to service passenger cars, according to William Chaudet, manager. Formerly night service was open only to trucks and delivery cars.

The same low prices prevailing in the day time will be maintained for the night service. Chaudet says usually night service costs more but his company does not deviate from their flat rate schedule.

The three substations of the company will remain closed at night.

Plymouth Large Car at Low Cost

"Why is it that low-priced cars have always been small, and that the lower priced they are the smaller they seem to be?" asks J. W. Frazer, Chrysler and Plymouth sales manager.

"To say that buyers of low-priced cars are smaller physically than those of higher priced ones is plain foolishness," says Frazer. "Furthermore, owing to the prevalence of large families among those in more moderate financial circumstances, low-priced cars generally carry more persons per car than those of higher price. The former is truly the family car—the only one that family has. It serves both parents and children alike at all times.

"Commensurate to his pocketbook, the buyer of a low-priced car wants and has the right to expect just as much as the manufacturer can possibly give him in size, comfort, distinctiveness, performance, style and luxuriousness, as the man who can afford to pay more. Somehow, everyone seems to have overlooked that until now, when it is brought out forcibly in the new Plymouth.

At St. Louis Air Fields

St. Louis Air Fields.

FLYERS from three fields—Scott, Lambert, St. Louis and Parks Airport—turned out Thursday afternoon in honor of Capt. Emilio Carranza, the Mexican distance flyer who was killed in a crash in New Jersey when attempting a New York-Mexico City flight.

In the aerial convoy that flew over the special train as his body was borne into St. Louis were five Scott Field dirigibles sent out by Lieutenant-Colonel John A. Paegelow, four airplanes from Lambert Field and four from Parks Airport.

O. E. Scott, manager of Lambert Field, met the special 20 miles east of Collinsville, carrying in the front cockpit of his plane roses which were strewn in the path of the train by his passenger, a Post-Dispatch staff photographer. At Collinsville the train was met by a formation of three airplanes of the Thirty-fifth Division Air Service piloted by Capt. William M. Robertson and Lieuts. Frank T. Dunn and Walter Braznell.

The formation flew over the speeding train at 1000 feet, holding an air speed of 70 miles an hour against a light head wind to keep abreast of the special. Scott circled over the train at higher speed while the airships, hard put to it to keep up, ran alongside.

At East St. Louis the Parks formation, three Travel-Airs, piloted by Lieut. Edgar Smith of the National Guard squadron, William Beal and Claude Sterling, fell in below the O-17's and the PT-1 of the military formation while high above the shops hovered Clyde Brayton in another Travel-Air.

The planes followed the train all the way to Union Station, flying through dense clouds of smoke over St. Louis. The dirigibles left the procession at the foot of Chouteau avenue and headed homeward, running before a black storm cloud that threatened in the south.

On Business Trip by Air.

H. G. Fales, consulting chemical engineer for the duPont powder works at Wilmington, Del., landed at Parks Airport Thursday flying his own Whirlwind-Stearman with Roy Langhren, manager of the duPont Field at Wilmington as his passenger. They left Friday intending to touch at Louisville, Ky., Indianapolis, Ind., and Dayton, O., on the return trip which is made in the interest of business.

Makes Train-Plane Journey.

"Bud" Gurney, chief air mail pilot, flew to Cleveland Thursday in a Ryan brougham, carrying as passengers Joseph Pulitzer, editor of the Post-Dispatch; A. F. M. Greig, his secretary, and George S. Tiffany, St. Louis broker, who took a train at Cleveland.

The party left St. Louis at 9:40 a. m. and arrived at Cleveland shortly after 2 o'clock, having stopped on the way at Indianapolis. Besides his passengers Gurney's load when he left Lambert-St. Louis Field included five suitcases and 110 gallons of gasoline.

At Cleveland the passengers took a train for Boston, whence they planned to fly by seaplane to Bar Harbor, Me. Gurney, meanwhile, headed homeward, running into a heavy storm just as he left Cleveland.

He flew out over Lake Erie to avoid the storm, headed inland again in heavy weather and after one landing in a cornfield when the blow got particularly heavy, finally landed at Lambert-St. Louis Field half an hour before midnight.

Parks to Manufacture Planes.

Both open and closed monoplanes, with passenger capacity ranging from one to five persons, will be made by the Parks Airplane next fall, Oliver L. Parks, vice-president and general manager of the concern, said yesterday. Complete plans for the design of the planes have not yet been completed, but it is understood they will be powered by a line of motors not yet sold on the market. A factory for the manufacture of the planes will be built.

Von Hoffman Flier to Iowa.

Bernard Von Hoffman, vice-president of Von Hoffmann Aircraft Co., left St. Louis in a Ryan monoplane Thursday morning for Milford, Ia., to visit Mrs. Von Hoffmann who is there on a vacation. He was accompanied by the pilot, John Hunter, and a friend, Charles Fritschle.

Standard Color for Robertson Fleet

Art Heman, who besides being secretary-treasurer of the Independent Quarry & Construction Co. is also an accomplished handler of an air brush, has been busy refinishing the ship in the fleet of Robertson Aircraft Corporation, which will from now on be painted a standard color, maroon body with silver wings.

Trips by Planesmen.

Oliver Parks motored to Moline, Ill., last Tuesday with S. B. Lambert of St. Louis to visit the factory in which the new Monocoupe monoplanes are being turned out in quantity. Lambert is St. Louis distributor of the planes.

Frank H. Robertson, vice-president of Robertson Aircraft Corporation, visited the Ford Motor Co. at Detroit Friday to inspect the progress made on the building of four Ford tri-motors under construction on order of his company. The first of the planes will be delivered about Aug. 1.

Wigton Wins Cup.

The Harrison Cup for the winner of the weekly 20-mile OX-3 race at Parks Airport last Sunday afternoon, was won by Frank Wigton in a Travel-Air. The prize for today's race is a cup donated by the Weil Clothing Co.

New Equipment Bought.

To augment the equipment already at hand for teaching ground school subjects, Von Hoffmann Aircraft Corporation has ordered a Whirlwind "cut-out" motor. Sewing machines for stitching wing covering, and welding outfits for repairing fuselages have been installed in the new Von Hoffmann hangar. Five new Eaglerocks have been ordered for student instruction and will be delivered within a few weeks.

Reward for Finding Pilot's Body.

A check for $500, the reward for finding the body of Leslie H. Smith, mail pilot who died in a crash near Elsinore, Mo., June 28, was forwarded last week by Robertson Aircraft Corporation to Otis Tucker, Willard Boyer and Harry Secrease.

Visitors Stop Over.

Henry Phelps Jr. and W. C. Bentley of San Antonio, Tex., flying, respectively, a Travel-Air and an Eaglerock, landed at Parks Airport last Wednesday. They were on their way from San Antonio to the national convention of the Phi Delta Kappa fraternity at South Bend, Ind., and carried a passenger apiece.

Other visitors last week at Parks Airport were: Charles Quinn, in a J-5 Travel-Air, who landed Thursday after a flight from Quincy, Ill., and made the return trip the same day; Tony Amrhein, in an American Eagle, who made a round trip from Peoria, Ill., last Monday; and Louis Gasses, who flew in Monday in a Hisso-Swallow, from Nashville, Tenn.

Standardized Quality in The Plymouth

"The new Plymouth is the triumph of the principle of standardized quality—without it the car it is would not have been possible," says J. W. Frazer, Chrysler and Plymouth sales manager.

"No car in the low-priced field hitherto has been so large, so comfortable and so roomy," he adds. "No car in that field ever has enjoyed its smoothness of operation, which extends throughout its speed range; has afforded the buyer such luxuriousness of body interiors; been as comfortable over rough roads or smooth pavement; had its surplus power always available for every driving need; had the benefit of its symmetry of design; enjoyed the advantage of high compression; been equipped with internal expanding four-wheel hydraulic brakes; had its engine literally floating in rubber, further to promote the advantages of smoothness by destroying the transmission of torque impulses and road shocks, and enjoyed a host of other refinements heretofore unknown to the low-priced field."

Studebaker Sales

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., July 21.—Total sales of Studebaker-Erskine cars during June were 51 per cent greater than June last year, according to an announcement made by President A. R. Erskine. Thirteen thousand units were sold to world markets during the month as against 8600 in June, 1927. This marks the tenth consecutive month that Studebaker retail deliveries have shown an increase over the corresponding month of the previous year.

Studebaker sales for the first six months of 1928 amounted to 75,000 units; an increase of 12,000 or 20 per cent gain over the same period last year.

Graham-Paige Coupes Offered In Five Models

Coupe bodies on five different chassis models are now being produced by Graham-Paige, at a price range from $860 for the 110-inch wheelbase six to $2485 for the 135-inch eight. With these additions, the Graham-Paige line comprises sedans and coupes on all chassis, and town sedans, seven-passenger sedans and cabriolets on the largest six and the eight.

The coupes, which are all of the Graham-Paige standard in appearance and equipment, offer a wide choice in seating arrangement. The 110-inch six has a single wide seat for two passengers. The 114-inch and the 119-inch six-cylinder models seat four passengers. The 129-inch six and the 135-inch eight have a single wide seat inside and a rumble seat in the rear deck for two additional passengers.

Studebaker Adopts Fafnir Ball Bearing Spring Shackles

As a result of laboratory and road tests over a period of a year and covering 177,911 miles of the hardest driving, the Studebaker Corporation has adopted Fafnir Ball Bearing Spring Shackles as standard equipment on all Studebaker President, Commander and Dictator models.

The shackle is that part of the car that links the running gear to the frame, and that allows the spring to flex. The shackles support 80 per cent of the weight of the car. Until recently all shackles were of the plain-bearing type, consisting of a pin sliding in a bushing. The ball bearing eliminates friction.

Automatic Greasing

A system of chassis lubrication has been adopted as standard equipment on all Gardner Eights-in-line, that automatically lubricates the chassis while the car is in motion—no greasy work for the motorist, no button to push or forget—just automatic and just enough lubrication to important points as the car moves and in correct proportions on smooth roads or rough.

Dodge City Is Within Two Other Cities

"A city within a city within a city."

That's what they have in Detroit. It has a population of approximately 18,500, operates its own police and fire departments, postoffice, railways, restaurants, schools and hospitals, and manufactures products valued at millions of dollars monthly which are shipped to every corner of the world.

The city encased in two others is "Dodge City," within the city limits of Hamtramck, a separate city within the limits of Detroit. The area of this city is reckoned by acres, approximately 218, yet nearly every function performed by municipal governments can be duplicated within its boundaries. Here more than 2,000,000 Dodge Brothers automobiles have been built in the 14 years of the city's existence.

"Years ahead in performance" explains Hupmobile popularity

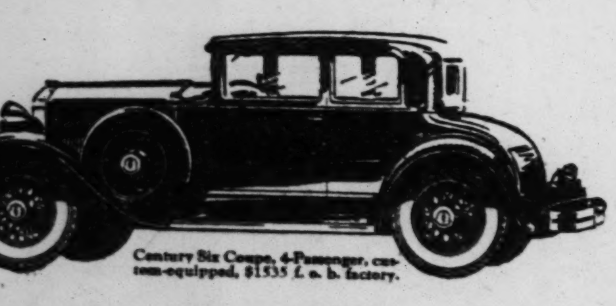
THE pleasing picture presented to the eye by any of the vividly beautiful Century Hupmobiles, is less than half the story of the value Hupmobile has built into these modern cars. Everywhere buyers who were first won by a distinctive note in body styles, now acclaim the equally brilliant performance qualities of the new Hupmobiles. Marvelously quick get-away, high-compression power, that makes light of the steepest grades, ease of steering, riding and brake control—all symbolize the Century's greatest advance in motoring. Until you personally drive a Century Six or Eight, you can have no conception of what Hupmobile has achieved in smoothness, speed and flexible power. We will gladly provide a car for your independent test.



Century Six Coupe, 4-Passenger, custom-equipped, $1535 f. o. b. factory.

24 body and equipment combinations standard and custom on each line. Six of the Century, $1345 to $1625. Century Eight, $1825 to $2105. All prices f. o. b. Detroit. No war tax.

40-Year-Old Model of Steam Auto Is Found

Device Invented by University of Maryland Professor Is Said to Be Still in a Workable Condition.

DUST covered and surrounded by medicine bottles and specimens, an old model of a steam automobile, probably one of the first of its kind in the world, is lying on a shelf in the pharmaceutical laboratory of the University of Maryland.

Long before the automobile era a professor at the university dreamed of a power-driven carriage and constructed a working model of his dream. Today, the model, at least 40 years old, is still in a workable condition, although one of its wheels is missing and the valve mechanism and other parts are broken and worn.

The inventor, according to A. Dorsey Johnson, cashier of the university, was the late Dr. William E. A. Aiken, professor of chemistry and pharmacy from 1838 to 1888.

Johnson said he discovered the model about 25 years ago. It was stored in what was then the old chemical laboratory, now used as the office of the dean of the School of Medicine.

Johnson said he had been told by the late Dr. R. Dorsey Cole, former dean of the university, that Dr. Aiken had made the model and used it for years in his classes to aid in explaining the theory of the steam engine.

"I took the machine when I was cleaning out the room and stowed it away in a cubbyhole back of the chemical amphitheater," the cashier said. "I forgot about it and it stayed there until a few years ago, when Mr. Harne discovered it."

O. G. Harne, who is now associate professor of pharmaceutics, said he found the engine about three years ago with a heap of old papers. He said some of the papers were protruding from behind a loose board and attracted his attention.

Several of the professors at the university have taken considerable interest in the model, but it has never been repaired, due to lack of time and opportunity.

The model originally was equipped with four wheels and no brakes, a body that supported a fire box and boiler, a single-cylinder steam engine and seats for four passengers. The reciprocating vertical motion of the piston in the cylinder imparted motion to one rear driving wheel and impelled the machine.

The tiny working parts, carefully wrought long ago by Dr. Aiken and his students, are still in good condition, although some persons at the university believe the model to be more than 75 years old.

Willys Business Good in England

On the eve of his departure for his home, Sir William Letts, managing director of the Willys-Overland Crossley, Ltd., of Stockport, England, declared that although 1928 will see a record business for the Willys-Overland Co., every indication points to 1929 as even greater.

Commenting on the automobile business in England, Sir William said: "The English company, the Willys-Overland Crossley, Ltd., which I direct, will this year see the biggest business in the company's history, and this despite the fact that we have not been able to get all the Whippets and Willys-Knights that we needed."

New Reo Wolverine Sedan on Display

The Reo Distributing Co. here is displaying today a new sedan model in the Reo Wolverine line. The car is for five passengers.

Two standard color combinations are offered—one of denarara brown and rose beige and one of bay berry green and mermaid gray. Special type of paneling on the sides just below the windows adds materially to the beauty of the color scheme and a new narrow type radiator gives the car an unusual streamline effect.

The use of all metal sections in the rear of the body has enabled Reo designers to add new beauty to the rear end of the car and at the same time give this new Wolverine roominess and riding comfort that is unusual in a car of moderate wheel base. A luxurious interior with a vanity set and smoking outfits adds to the completeness of the new Wolverine sedan.

It is completely equipped from stem to stern. New grooved type bumpers on the front and rear. Four-wheel internal expanding hydraulic brakes that insure certain stopping. Hydraulic shock absorbers on the front springs that add to the driving comfort.

An advanced type of six-cylinder motor that more than meets the demands of modern travel whether in the city or on the open road. Cam and lever steering that insures perfect and easy control, and many other features have been incorporated in this new type of motor car which Reo has made available to motorists who want a moderate priced automobile, yet demand the finest performance.

The car is priced at $1295, factory list.

A "Home Test" Of Lubrication

Rub the palms of your hands together briskly for a few minutes, exerting a slight pressure. They soon become too hot for comfort. The heat you feel is the result of friction that works havoc with your automobile.

Now moisten your palms with water—better still, with butter or grease of some kind. Rub together again and note how much longer it takes for them to become hot. You have lubricated them, and instead of the rough skin rubbing together, the grease keeps them apart and the rubbing is between the surfaces of the two layers of grease.

However, you will notice that finally your palms do get hot. The layers of grease have been worn away by the friction and if rubbing were continued, the skin would soon wear away.

'Quality' Drivers Look to Engine

Although smart and distinctive body designs and elegance of interiors have made marked strides in the past two years, especially in the quality car field, car buyers in this classification today still demand a general all-around performance thoroughly in keeping with the quality tone which such cars impart, according to H. J. Leonard, president of the Stearns-Knight Sales Corporation.

"This means," Leonard explains, "that the buyer in the quality car classification pays marked attention to engine performance as well as to general style and distinctive design of body and interiors.

"Because of a limitation of patent rights for use of the Knight sleeve-valve engine, the Stearns-Knight organization occupies a conspicuous position in the automobile industry of America since it is one of the three companies holding the rights to employ this type of power plant in pleasure cars.

The Business Man

Time is money in business and I make sure my car is always ready for service by using Champion Spark Plugs.

Champion is the better spark plug because it has an exclusive sillimanite insulator specially treated to withstand the much higher temperatures of the modern high-compression engine. Also a new patented solid copper gasket-seal that remains absolutely gas-tight under high compression. Special analysis electrodes which assure a fixed spark-gap under all driving conditions.

SIX VICTORIOUS MONTHS for THE VICTORY SIX

When the Victory Six was announced six months ago it was the talk of the town.

What would it look like? What would it do? Would it be different from other cars? In what way? And so on.

Then the public saw the Victory Six!

Its freshness of design was a revelation. It was different. Like no other car.

Rakish and trim—low and graceful—smart hued and colorful—it captured the eye. Immediately.

Look again. Wider seats—more leg space. Big! Roomy!

Then it proved, in operation and performance, the promise suggested by its beauty.

Swift pick-up—smoothness—speed.

Dodge Brothers dependability again!

It was a great car then; it is an even greater car now.

It has stood the test.

Each month has seen a substantial increase in Victory Six sales.

Not because of what we have been saying for six months. Or because of what we say now.

But because of what the Victory Six is.

The snappiest, best looking, speediest car in its class.

A car you should try out—now—yourself at the wheel

AUTO DEALERS SALVAGE CO. ORGANIZED

George Weber Is Made President, Phil Brockman Vice President.

The final organization of the Auto Dealers Salvage Co. of St. Louis has been completed with the election of George Weber of the Weber Implement & Auto Co., president; Phil H. Brockman of the De Luxe Automobile Co. as vice president; Robert E. Lee, manager of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association as secretary and treasurer, and R. C. Frampton of the Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co. and F. R. Tate of the Tate Motor Co. as directors.

This company was organized by members of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association for the purpose of taking over all of the obsolete and unfit automobiles from dealers in St. Louis and nearby territory. The premises at 6600 Easton avenue, which have been occupied by the Gavin Lumber Co., have been leased for a term of five years by the company and J. W. Wright, an expert metalurgist, has been engaged as one of the staff of the new salvage yard, which will be in operation by Aug. 15.

The census taken among dealers in St. Louis indicated that they are now selling to junk dealers about 4000 "junkers," as worn-out motor cars are called in the trade. There has been no certainty that these cars would be junked because in many instances they have been offered back again and again in trade to dealers, indicating that the junk man had sold them as complete cars for trade-in purposes.

As the prime purpose of the Auto Dealers Salvage Co. is to remove worn out motor cars from the streets one of the unvarying rules of the new company will be that any car which is sold to the Auto Dealers Salvage Co. will cease to exist as an entity at that moment. All cars will be pulled apart by the use of wrenches, acetylene torches and sledge hammers. This dismemberance will be so complete that the car can never be used again.

The parts of a few cars in better condition will be saved, kept in bins and sold as replacement parts on other used cars of the same make. This will be particularly true of obsolete makes of motor cars, whose manufacturers have gone out of business.

About 90 per cent of the entire junk proceeds from cars, however, will be sold to foundries for old metal. In the yard there will be careful sorting of aluminum, bronze and babbitt and the several kinds of steel. Fenders and bodies will be cut into small sizes technically known as "busheling." These accumulations from time to time will be moved on freight cars on the private switch in the yards and shipped to various foundries.

Weber estimates that the salvage yard will take in approximately 4000 wornout cars during its first year of existence thus removing them as menaces to traffic and leaving the market open for the sale of new cars or better used cars. Incidentally the salvage company is expected to make a very satisfactory profit for its stockholders. Practically all of the large dealers in St. Louis are stockholders in the company.

The office of the company will be at 3124 Locust street, which also is the office of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association.

Auburn Dealers Hear Refinery Chief

At the regular monthly meeting of the St. Louis Auburn Dealers' Association, held the past week at the Auburn-St. Louis Co., Auburn distributer here, G. A. Johnston lubrication engineer of the National Refining Co., spoke on automobile motor lubrication in its relation to motor car maintenance. The general significence of his talk was that good motor oil is much cheaper than machinery parts and that any money saved in the purchase of a low-grade oil would surely be spent at a higher cost of machinery maintenance.

Women Delight
in its marvelous handling ease

Offering smartness and distinction never before attained in any low-priced six and reflecting exceptional good taste in appointments and upholstering, the Pontiac Six is a car which invariably wins feminine admiration. And that admiration turns to sheer delight when they leave the back seat and drive the car themselves.

They know the Pontiac Six is a dependable car. And they quickly discover an ease of handling that makes every mile a pleasure. The powerful four-wheel brakes answer the lightest touch. The big motor is smooth, quiet and responsive. The clutch and transmission are exceptionally easy acting. And the seats are pitched at that comfortable angle characteristic of bodies by Fisher.

Every day you see more and more women at the wheels of Pontiac Sixes—because Pontiac provides, at a price within reach of almost every purse, everything that women demand in a motor car of their own.

AUBURN SETS NEW STOCK CAR RECORDS

Breaks All Marks From One to 2000 Miles; One Hour to 24 Hours.

A stock Auburn model 115 speedster in an endurance test sanctioned and supervised by the American Automobile Association is credited with breaking all times and distance records from one to 24 hours and one to 2000 miles. In the 24-hour continuous test this Auburn stock car made more than 2033 miles in 24 hours, averaging 84.7354 miles per hour and beating the former record by 9.112 miles per hour. The test was staged on the Atlantic City Speedway.

For five miles, 10, 50, 100 and 500 miles Auburn broke all records for stock car distances by five miles an hour faster. Then at the 1000-mile distance the Auburn was nine miles an honur faster. At 2000 miles distance Auburn was 11 miles an hour faster than the former record. Following are Auburn's official times:

DISTANCE.
5 miles	854985 m. p. h.
10 miles	85.8656 m. p. h.
50 miles	86.1302 m. p. h.
100 miles	86.2688 m. p. h.
500 miles	84.5501 m. p. h.
1000 miles	84.8252 m. p. h.
2000 miles	84.6967 m. p. h.
PERIODS.
One hour	85.5932
Three hours	84.508
Six hours	84.5796
Twelve hours	84.8606
Twenty-four hours	84.7354

E. L. Cord, president of Auburn, emphasizes, however, that the purpose of this test was not with the idea of selling speed. He says, "It is unlawful to drive 100 miles an hour and no one wants to try to average 84 miles an hour. But a test like this proves endurance and value and that was its purpose."

Harris Chevrolet Co. Now in Clayton

The Harris Chevrolet Co. has been organized by W. S. Harris to take over the dealership in Clayton formerly operated by the Allen-James Motor Car Co., at 7800 Forsythe boulevard. As is known the latter organization recently took over the Orthwein Chevrolet Co., at 3016 Locust boulevard.

Harris is president and general manager of the new organization. Originally a St. Louisan, he has been engaged in the securities business in Washington, D. C., for the past several years.

Hudson-Essex Sales Here High in June

Hudson-Essex sales for the month of June were the heaviest of any month in our history in St Louis and St. Louis County. Hudson sales for the month of June were 246 per cent over May sales and Essex sales for June were 25 per cent greater than those of May, according to A. S. Frampton, vice president, the Hudson-Frampton Motor Co., Hudson-Essex distrbuter here.

"Hudson's exclusive fashion of line, color and appointment is adding hundreds of enthusiastic customers to our owners' list monthly. In the new models a wider variety of colors are presented than ever before. In every phase of performance in both Hudson and Essex cars, there is effortless ease. Power is so smoothly delivered in all ranges of performance that you are scarcely conscious of it," says Frampton.

"It is the public itself which is saying the finest things for Hudson-Essex. This is the reason why we are outselling all other sixes by a wide margin.

"Gasoline mileage on both Hudson and Essex is equal or better than any line of sixes on the American market today with equal horsepower. This is just another reason why Hudson and Essex are outselling all other sixes," he concludes.

Plate Glass on Oldsmobile.

By use of plate glass, which gives perfect vision without distortion, and narrow front pillars, Oldsmobile has eliminated dangerous "blind" spots.

Nonn Leaving for Yellowstone Park

O. E. Nonn, zone sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Car Co., here, will leave St. Louis this week by train for Denver, where he will obtain a Chevrolet car and make an extensive tour of the northwest. He expects to be gone about a month.

Auto Painting Firm Moves Its Factory

The Motor Car Painting & Top Co. has moved from 2937 Sheridan avenue to the large one-story building at 5153 Easton avenue. H. E. Faupel is proprietor of the company which specializes in the painting of cars and in top, body and dent work.

Sales of New Dodge Increase

Despite the extensive change-over period that Dodge Brothers, Inc., has gone through during the past six months in preparing a complete new line of six-cylinder cars and trucks to replace the old line fours, this company completed its first half year with the record of having shipped 121,327 units from its plants in the United States and Canada.

During the first six months of 1927, this company shipped 107,115 units. Accordingly, this year's figures show a gain over that period of 14,212 units or 13.3 per cent. At the same time, stocks in dealers' hands on July 1 were less than on the first day of January.

1908 Studebaker Oldest in Use

Prize winners in Studebaker's veteran car contest, held to determine the oldest Studebaker car still in active service, have been announced. The oldest machine reported is a 1908 Studebaker-Garford touring car, owned by the Spraggins & Nelson Garage in Oakland, Cal. The car still has its original finish and, according to the owners, still runs perfectly in spite of nearly 20 years of service.

Second prize went to a 1909 Studebaker touring car which still serves as a snappy "collegiate" model for Robert Henninger and Francis Winant, students at Westwood, N. J. Three other prizes were awarded to owners of 1909 cars, all of which are serving after well over 100,000 miles of travel.

Hollingshead Co. Relocates Offices

The St. Louis branch office of the R. M. Hollingshead Co. of Camden, N. J., formerly located at 1600 Clark avenue, has been moved to 2914-16 Washington avenue. The firm is the manufacturer of Whiz automobile products. O. A. Clenin is the branch manager here.

R. M. Hollingshead, president of the firm with offices at Camden, who was here the past week, said that the change in the location of the local branch was made to facilitate better dealer service.

Your motor needs the extra

Margin of Safety

which Pierce Pennant

"balanced"

motor oil will give you

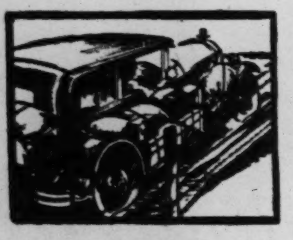
High Speed



Bad Roads

Hill Climbing

Heavy Loads

Traffic Changes

It is now becoming more important for the car owner to select his motor oil with great care. Your motor is now daily called upon for higher speeds and heavier duty than formerly.

Engine speeds are also on the increase. Motor operating temperatures are therefore becoming higher, and the necessity of heat resisting oils is becoming greater.

Where ordinary oils that break down under heat were merely an annoyance because the crankcase supply had to be replenished frequently now these oils are becoming actually dangerous to the safety of the motor.

Pennant oils are given extra margins of safety in the following ways:

1. Made from selected paraffine base crudes;
2. Specially purified and thoroughly "de-waxed"

It is well known that heat resistance can not be refined into a motor oil. The heat resisting elements must be in the crude oil or they are not in the finished motor oil.

This is why Pennant oils are made from selected paraffine base crudes in which Nature has provided the heat resisting elements. These oils are then purified and "de-waxed" to balance the heat resistance with an equal cold resistance.

Balanced for flash and flow

These processes assure that Pennant oils will flow and penetrate at the first turn of the motor, regardless of weather conditions and they will resist engine temperatures far beyond those of normal motor operation.

Since these superfine Pennant oils sell at regular prices you gain both economy and safety for your motor by insisting upon Pierce Pennant motor oils always.

A Landslide for CHRYSLER!

Chrysler's New Style and Value Sweep the Country and Thousands Rush to Buy!

In every principal city of the country people are examining, admiring and buying the new style introduced by Chrysler.

They are universally voicing the sentiment that the new "75," "65" and the new Chrysler-built Plymouth are — each in its class — the greatest dollar's worth in beauty, style and quality ever offered.

Metropolitan New York had the tremendous total of 109,000 persons with 1,500 retail orders, totaling more than $2,000,000.00, for the new Chrysler Products.

In Detroit, the center of the industry, nearly 42,000 saw the new cars the first four days. Chrysler dealers sold 652 cars—more than $750,000 worth—in that time. Chicago drew 32,000 to the Coliseum and made 443 retail sales.

Philadelphia had 50,000 and took 309 retail orders. Cleveland's attendance was 10,000 in one day—sales 166 cars.

Portland, Ore., showed to 16,000 and sold nearly $100,000 worth in a day. San Francisco reported 210 retail orders. Kansas City's opener was to 3,000 persons and sold 61 cars.

Flint, Mich., drew 5,000 persons and sold 44 cars. Baltimore's attendance was 3,000 in one day and the district sold over 300 cars. Texas points were busy—El Paso with 5,000 attendance and 19 sales—Dallas 1,265 people and 26 cars in a day and Beaumont showing to 1,000 people and selling 22 automobiles.

Everywhere everyone agrees that, indeed, Chrysler has done it again—that Chrysler has provided a wholly new style and performance—unmatched in attractiveness—and strengthening the value leadership of this great company.

Chrysler acknowledges with sincerest gratitude this endorsement and will spare no efforts to continue to merit this expression of public confidence.

KSD TO OFFER TUNNEY FIGHT ON THURSDAY

Pre-Battle Impressions of Boxers to Be Broadcast Tuesday.

The regular Musical Miniatures program, broadcast every Tuesday evening over KSD from 8 to 8:30 o'clock, will be replaced this week by a half-hour talk by Joe Williams, famous sports writer, who will give his pre-battle impressions of Gene Tunney, world's heavyweight champion, and Tom Heeney, challenger to the crown, who are to meet in a 15-round bout Thursday, July 26.

The broadcast of the Tunney-Heeney bout on Thursday will be available through KSD and 18 other stations associated with the National Broadcasting Co. The story of the fight will be given to the listeners by Graham McNamee and Phillips Carlin. The program begins at 8 o'clock.

Trouble Caused by Tube Weakness.

The source of howls and squeals in the set, scratches and off-color tone quality is often due to tubes that have outlived their usefulness. The life of tubes is limited, and after the operation of a receiver begins to show signs of poor tone quality it is well to make tube-checking one of the first considerations. Circuits are foolproof. "B" and "A" supply faults are readily apparent and make themselves felt at once and wiring troubles are easily traced on the outside, but the trouble may often be found in the tubes and it is well to trouble shoot there first—when the set has passed through several months of operation.

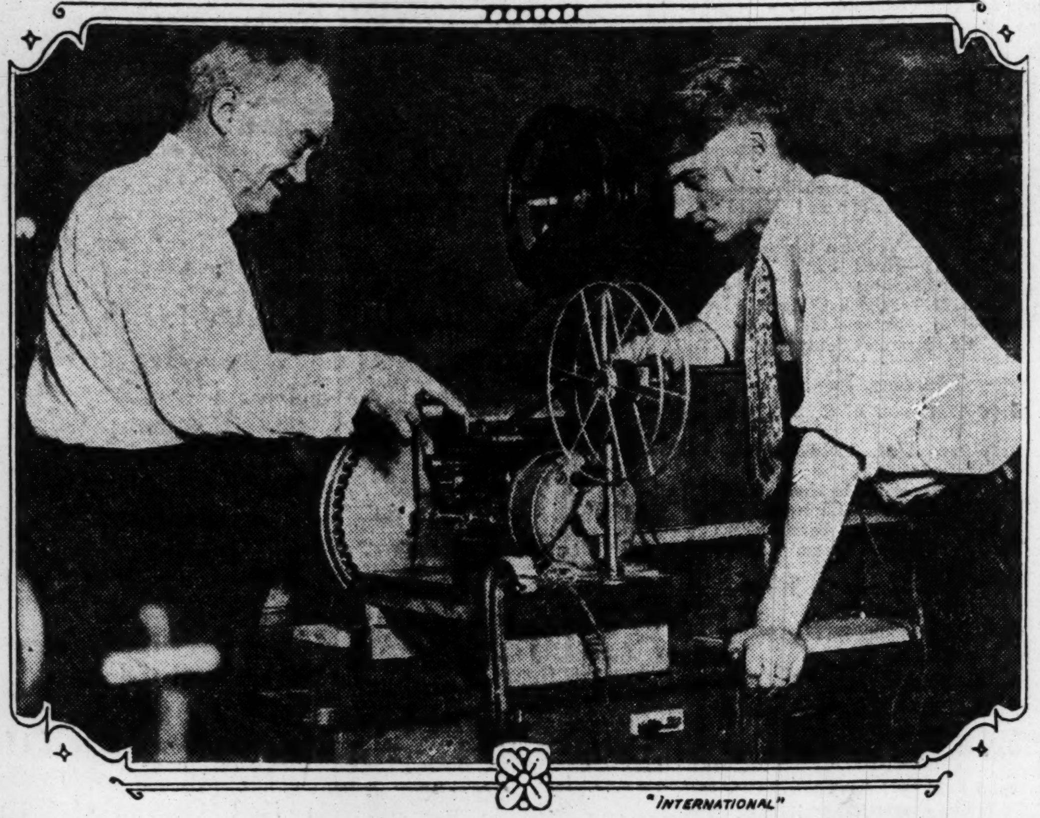
Radio Amateurs of Washington Receive Movie Broadcast by Queer Invention

Talking Silhouette Pictures Found to Be as Interesting as the Animated Cartoons Seen in Theaters, Plus the Appeal of the Mystery of Films by Air.



"INTERNATIONAL"

C. Francis Jenkins, on the left, and his assistant, Paul Thomson, at the sending apparatus.

TRI-WEEKLY a group of amateur radio enthusiasts in Washington, D. C., darken the lights in their studios and for an hour or so mysterious things happen.

Each studio bears remarkable similarity. On one side of each studio is hung a white curtain and at the far side is a table on which is rigged a peculiar assortment of machinery. These amateurs are receiving and seeing radio movies.

C. Francis Jenkins, a well-known radio amateur of Washington, started it all. He has been experimenting with radio movies for some years. Just recently he perfected a machine which was capable of sending out "simple subject" pictures, but in the past few weeks he has elaborated on his invention and now the pictures he sends out are rather pretentious.

The movies Jenkins broadcasts are different than those one sees in the theater. They are silhouettes. His apparatus has not been perfected to the point where it will clearly transmit features of persons or the minute details of objects. But Jenkins and his group of radio friends have found the silhouette pictures as interesting as the animated cartoons one sees in the regular theater—plus, of course, the appeal of the mystery of movies by radio and the speaking of the characters. Jenkins says it will be a matter of time only that he will be able to broadcast half-tone pictures.

Jenkins now sends out his pictures on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, but he said the other day that if a sufficient number of amateurs would install the instruments necessary to receive the pictures he would broadcast six times a week.

ATWATER KENT RADIO

We are proud to announce the new

Model 40

$77
(without tubes)

JUST IN TIME FOR THE FIGHT
AT A NEW LOW PRICE!

Model 40 A. C. set. Satin-finished in brown and gold or deep golden bronze and gold. For 110-120 volt, 50-60 cycle, alternating current. Requires six A. C. tubes and one rectifying tube, $77.

Also Model 42 A. C. set with automatic line voltage regulator, $86, and Model 44, an extra-powerful, extra-sensitive seven-tube A. C. set, $106. Battery sets, $49 and $68 (less tubes and batteries).

ATWATER KENT has done it again—just in time for the Tunney-Heeney fight! Year after year, Atwater Kent has been out in front. He was first with compact radio; first with the true ONE-Dial; first with the all-metal cabinet—that completely shields the electrical assembly inside; first with the all-in-one electric set at a popular price. And now—here is the Model 40—new—even better than the 37.

Everything that made Model 37 America's best selling radio is here—with greater power and greater sensitivity—and at a still lower price. The economies that go hand in hand with increased demand are passed on to you in the new Atwater Kent 40.

Come in today. Examine—listen to this new all-electric set. Here is tone that will give you every word-picture of the fight, clear and undistorted. The fast FULL-VISION Dial and the efficient volume control are all you need to touch to operate this remarkable little set. There's fraction-of-a-cent-an-hour operation—from the A. C. electric light socket. And dependability, backed by 222 tests or inspections.

The striking modern beauty of Model 40 and its unobtrusive compactness make it adaptable to any nook or corner of any room. There are two new color combinations—both satin-finished—old gold and deep golden bronze, and old gold and dark brown.

Stage the fight on your living-room rug. Invite the presidential candidates to speak to you. Command entertainment that costs millions of dollars to put on the air—and make it sound real through an Atwater Kent 40.

The Atwater Kent A. C. set gives you your choice of all the programs in a wide range, brings in music and speech clearly, gives you no trouble at all, and costs only $77 (without tubes). This radio itself will prove it to you. Have a demonstration today.

U. S. LISTENERS FAIL TO HEAR LEAGUE TEST

Special Programs Will Be Broadcast From Dutch Station.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, July 21.—American radio fans have failed to pick up speeches recently broadcast from the League of Nations through the Dutch station at Kootwijk, or, having picked them up, have failed to report their experience to League headquarters.

In discussing this failure to hear from American points, speakers who delivered the final addresses on June 20 in various languages, including English and Spanish, said that the Dutch East Indies had easily heard previous broadcasts and that if Java heard the American continent should be able to hear.

The explanation is believed to be that the hours were not suitable for the American continent. Broadcasting will be resumed some months later when a system of special programs will be adopted for certain definite regions instead of for the whole world.

Despite the lack of reports from America, the broadcasting was a fair success, the speakers told their unseen hearers during the final speechmaking through the microphone. Twenty-five reports were received by the League. Three advices from European stations, one from England, one from Prague and one from the Netherlands reported receptions varying from mediocre to bad.

A considerable number of reports from Mediterranean points, including Algeria, Tunis, Palestine, and steamers sailing in the Straits of Messina, in the Suez Canal and off Gibraltar, indicated receptions varying from mediocre to excellent.

Variation of Line Voltage Often Is Made Too Much Of

In Most Cases No Special Precautions Need to Be Taken.

So much has been said about the problems encountered as a result of excessive line voltages and line voltage variation in an effort to guard A. C. receiver users against possible trouble from that source that the problem has assumed unwarranted proportions in the minds of many users and prospective users of A. C. tube receivers and power supply devices.

To begin with, the problem exists only in a comparatively small number of localities. But to avoid trouble, it is wise to have tests made to determine whether special means of regulating the voltage source are necessary.

In the great majority of cases, no special precautions are necessary other than those taken by the manufacturer of the receiver to incorporate suitable transformers and resistors to take care of ordinary conditions.

In cases where the voltage supplied is excessive, suitable tests may be made to determine to what extent the voltage is excessive and the amount of resistance required to bring it down to the proper value. In those comparatively few cases where the voltage varies considerably at different periods of the day, one of the newly introduced devices, consisting of an automatically adjusting transformer without moving parts which acts to boost or buck the voltage as required, may be used to advantage between the lighting lines and the receiver.

In making tests on the line it is advisable to test the voltage at different times of the day, to determine whether the overvoltage is constant or whether it fluctuates. In many cases fluctuations at different times of the day result from varying load conditions, so a fixed resistance type of regulator which would be suitable at one time of the day is not suitable at other times.

In cases where the voltage varies from time to time an automatic regulator adapted to the set is desirable.

The Value of a Filter.

To choke out interference coming in over the antenna, a filter in the power leads to the set will often correct the trouble. The filter is constructed as follows: Make two wooden spools with a wire space large enough to carry 350 turns of No. 20 double cotton-covered copper wire. Connect a spool in each one of the power leads from the light socket to the set. Then connect two one microfarad condensers together and place them across the terminals of the spools on the opposite side from the set. Ground the center connection between the condensers.

How to Make Old Phonograph Wholly Modern

Good Amplifier, Similar to That for Radio Set, Will Do the Trick.

Any old phonograph can be easily transformed into a modern instrument for reproduction of music and voice by addition of a suitable audio amplifier, very similar to that used in the average radio receiver. As a matter of fact, the audio amplifier section of a receiver can be utilized for this purpose by using one of the pickup devices now generally available.

A very efficient type of audio amplifier for such use can be made by building a standard two-stage audio amplifier using either transformer-coupled or resistance-coupled amplification. If transformer-coupled audio amplification is used, a CX-301A tube should be employed in the first stage and a power tube such as the 371A, 310 or 350 in the last stage.

If resistance-coupled amplification is selected, a three-stage unit should be employed, with 340 tubes in the first stages, and a 371A or 310 power tube in the last stage.

The only difference between the standard type of audio amplifier for use with a radio receiver and one especially designed for phonograph work is that the amplifier for phonograph use should have a special input transformer, a scratch filter and a suitable volume control. These units are connected between the electrical pickup and the audio amplifier.

For the Notebook.

Condensers should not be exposed to high temperature.

The normal working life of a vacuum tube is 1000 hours.

Operate the -27 type tube at 2 to 2¼ volts on the filament; no more.

AC tubes cost anywhere from $3 to $6 apiece, depending upon the type.

It is virtually impossible for a worn-out storage battery to hold a good charge.

A large, heavy duty battery should last from six to nine months of typical radio use.

Fading or swinging of signal volume on distant stations is due to natural causes which cannot be overcome at present.

Merely changing the position of the loud-speaker will sometimes honors in the Atwater Kent Radio Hour beginning at 7:50 o'clock tonight, vying with one another in selecting songs of popular appeal.

BROADCASTING SCHEDULE OF KSD FOR TODAY

The program opens with a duet by the famous French composer, Jean Baptiste Faure, and closes with "Passage Birds' Farewell," by the noted German baritone and composer, Eugene Hildach. "The Crucifix" was selected from the 45 published songs by Faure, who was noted as one of the most cultured Paris artists the past century.

In addition the program includes "Rose of My Heart," "Love I Have Won You" and "Tommy Lad," by Simmons; "The Bard of Amagh," "Brown Bird Singing," and "The Tumbled Down Shack in Athlone," by McQuhae.

The tense situation in which a childless woman deliberately gives her young and comely handmaid to her own husband as spouse is the subject of this week's offering in the Biblical drama series "Ishmael," to be broadcast over KSD at 7:45 o'clock tonight.

Once again the author, William Ford Manley, has brought an unusual understanding of the intense emotions involved as he treats of the memorable story of Abraham, leader of the wandering Israelite tribes, and his wife, Sarah, who has not yet brought forth a son to assume his father's power.

With a woman's intuition, Sarah senses her spouse's disappointment and bemoans the barrenness which threatens her happiness and the love of Abraham, whom she adores. She fears he will turn to another in his longing for a son to take up the difficult post of leadership, and her fears are almost realized when she learns her own handmaid, the Egyptian girl, Hagar, is in love with her husband. With unusual sagacity, however, Sarah seizes this as an opportunity to retain her husband's favor. She urges Hagar not to conceal her love for Abraham, but to go to him freely in hopes of bearing the son they all desire.

When the child is born, Hagar's own mother jealousy makes the situation impossible and she earns the disfavor of her two benefactors on more than one account. The day is saved when Sarah, herself, brings forth a son of her own, more ably fitted to bear the responsibilities incumbent upon a scion of the house of Israel.

A 30-minute organ recital of all-Hungarian Gypsy music will be played by Lew White, theater and concert organist, over KSD beginning at 8:15 o'clock tonight.

The "Fifth Hungarian Dance" by Brahm, and Liszt's "Second Hungarian Rhapsody," will be heard during the period, together with the familiar "Czardas" from Delibes' "Coppelia" and selections from the comic opera "Gypsy Love" by Lehar.

The program:
Hungarian Fantasie ....Tobani
Fifth Hungarian Dance.....Brahms
Czardas' "Coppelia" ....Delibes
Selections from "Gypsy Love" ....Lehar
Second Hungarian Rhapsody..Liszt

The South Sea Islanders will conclude the program with an offering beginning at 10:45 o'clock to stop "howling." This alters the space or air column.

PATENTS BAR U.S. RECEIVERS FROM BRITAIN

Tribute of $15 the Set Must Be Paid to Marconi Concern.

With the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Co. owning and controlling patents affecting virtually every type of tube set manufactured, comparatively few American radio receiving sets are sold in Great Britain.

First-class American five-tube receivers can be laid down in the British market for £9 (about $45) complete and the patent royalties on such sets would add about £3 to the cost of each set, says Hugh D. Butler, assistant U. S. Commercial Attache at London.

"Thus it will be seen what a large factor the patent royalties constitute in the sale of sets, British or American make, in this market," Butler explains. "Nevertheless, importers of American apparatus are of the opinion that they could sell large quantities of American-made sets even under these circumstances if it were not for the exclusion of American apparatus from the market because of patents."

The British market for radio parts has been considerably enlarged by the widespread experimenting among consumers as a result of the expenses incurred by manufacturers because of Marconi royalties. This side of the market, however, is shrinking and it is to the large number of manufacturers who are mainly assemblers that parts makers will have to make their chief appeal in the future, he believes.

In this field the cheaper articles are mainly of German manufacture, the medium-priced of British make, and the more expensive of American make.

With $238,055 in 1926, this classification accounted for about half of the total exports of American apparatus to Great Britain. The exports of receiving sets in the same year amounted to only $55,375.

Condensers, resistance coils, B battery eliminator parts and short-wave apparatus constitute the principal articles of American make sold.

It is essential, Butler says, that new American components entering Great Britain be carefully protected by patents in order to prevent copy.

The British radio exhibition, held yearly in September or October, is reserved exclusively for British-made products and is therefore of no value to importers of American goods in expanding their sales, he points out.

RECORD SET BY OPERATIC BROADCASTS

Total of 39 Operas Heard Over NBC Chain in Season Just Closed.

All known records for continuous presentation of opera in the United States were broken by the National Grand Opera Company during the 1927-28 season, according to figures compiled by the National Broadcasting Co. Not only were more operas presented from WEAF over KSD and allied stations during the season, but, because of the broadcasting of the operas through a large network of radio stations associated with the NBC, it is believed that more persons heard operatic music this year than in any previous season.

In the past operatic season the National Grand Opera Company presented 39 operas, representing 25 composers. The operas were given in their original languages, except "Martha," which was sung in Italian. Twenty-two of the operas were sung in Italian, nine in French, four in German and four in English.

WEAF Pioneer.

The singers of the National Grand Opera Company now are on vacation and the company will be off the air until the fall. Rehearsals of operas for broadcasts during the coming season will start late this month, according to Cesare Sodero, maestro of the company.

WEAF of the NBC network is recognized as the pioneer broadcaster of tabloid operas. For more than three years WEAF has been broadcasting condensed versions of operas on regular schedule, and most of them have been broadcast also by KSD. When WEAF became part of the NBC in November, 1926, the opera broadcasts were continued without interruption. Though other American radio stations have presented operas from time to time, the record of WEAF has not been approached.

Radio presentation of operas has been recognized in the musical history of the nation and received considerable mention in "One Hundred Years of Grand Opera in New York," written by Julius Mattfeld.

Border Patrol Uses Durants

Immigration authorities recently selected eight Durant fours for Canadian Border Patrol service. Patrol cars used in this service are required to travel 55 and 65 miles per hour for long periods. They must be able to go over all classes of roads, or no road at all.

ONLY INDIAN ANNOUNCER

CHIEF KIUTUS TECUMSEH, of Oakland, Cal., is the only Indian tenor and radio announcer in the world. He is a descendant of old Chief Tecumseh of the Cherokee tribe. He has sung and talked over principal stations of the country and traveled more than 50,000 miles on tour.

Trade Notes

The Gus Cohn Agency, factory representatives of the All-American-Mohawk line of radio products here, has announced the appointment of the Lance Electric Co., as exclusive distributer of the line in the St. Louis territory.

The All-American-Mohawk line consists of radio receivers of various prices, from small table sets to massive console types priced up to $200.

Officials of the Freed-Eisemann Radio Co. announced the past week that the Barrett Electric Co., 3117 Washington avenue, has been appointed exclusive distributer of the Freed-Eisemann line in the St. Louis territory.

The regular monthly meeting of the Radio Trades Association will be held Wednesday evening, July 25, at the Hotel Roosevelt, beginning at 6:30 o'clock. A speaker of national prominence is promised by executives of the association.

Lindeman & Hoffer of Kansas City has been appointed St. Louis distributer for the Zenith line of radio products, for the past five months handled by the Zentih Co., out of Kansas City depots, it was announced this week. The deal was consummated late last week. The factory was represented by Thomas Endicott, general sales manager, and M. Lindeman represented Lindeman & Hoffer.

Lindeman & Hoffer will also represent the Peerless line of loud speakers. Their business address in St. Louis has not been definitely decided on.

Seeks to Direct Short Wave Beam At Any Angle

With the hope of being able to direct a concentrated short wave beam in any direction and at any angle, experiments have been started in the Kolster Radio laboratories at Palo Alto, Cal., by Dr. Frederick A. Kolster, radio inventor and chief research engineer of the Kolster Radio Corporation.

Dr. Kolster has had constructed a copper parabolic reflector, 25 feet in circumference at the mouth. At the focal point a common vacuum tube transmitter has been inserted.

Arising above the reflector and at a variable distance from it, a receiving observation station has been erected to study the character of the radiation.

PLANS FLIGHT TO STOCKHOLM

Bert Hassell Hopes to Take Off From Rockford, Ill., This Week.

By the Associated Press.

ROCKFORD, Ill., July 21.—Barring unexpected developments, the airplane "Greater Rockford" with pilot Bert Hassell and navigator Parker Cramer, will take off here Monday or Tuesday in an attempt to fly to Stockholm, Sweden.

As soon as radio batteries are installed, the plane will be ready for its flight. The plane has been stocked with provisions, clothing and other necessaries so that the take off can be made without delay when weather reports are right, Hassell says. Hassell is depending on the weather reports of Prof. W. H. Hobbs, who is at Greenland. The flyers plan one stop at Greenland.

$30,000,000 Worth of Stamps.

LONDON, July 21.—Postage stamps worth more than $30,000,000 are on view here in the first International Stamp Bourse. Frank Godden, president of the Bourse, points out that as London is the center of the philatelic world it was only natural that this should be the largest show yet held.

The Post-Dispatch classified "Business Cards" columns will locate that tuckpointer or cleaner when you need their service.

Song of the Flame Returns

Municipal Opera Company to Present Operetta Which Proved Such a Tremendous Success Last Season—Detroit Raises More Than $200,000 by Popular Subscription for a Civic Theater and Will Give a Preliminary Performance, Out of Doors During the Coming Week.

AFTER seeing the production by the Municipal Opera Company in Forest Park during the past week one must take, with something more than a few grains of salt, the statement that the reason the piece had never been presented here before was the fact that it was too big and too expensive a production to send through the country. Lacking in every quality necessary to make it a success it went to the store house in New York for the simple reason, in all probability, that it had no chance to do business on the road. The Municipal Opera Association, in the future, will do well to look twice upon the Shuberts bearing gifts.

The standard of works selected for presentation in the park has been high. Selecting 12 operas to be given in as many weeks before a large public demanding a certain amount of straying away from the old standard works and requiring something in the way of novelties is no small task. The wonder is not in the fact that "The Lady in Ermine" was produced here but that more of the same sort have not been done during the ten years of opera in the park. As a matter of fact this work is the only really poor one given to summer night audiences during that time.

Tomorrow night the Municipal company gets back to a tried and true success in so far as the park audiences are concerned, for "The Song of the Flame," which will be given during the coming week, last summer proved to be one of the great money getters of the season.

"THE SONG OF THE FLAME," which will be revived tomorrow night for the eighth week of this summer's season, with a soul stirring score by George Gershwin and Herbert Stothart, drew the largest attendance ever recorded in Forest Park up to the time of its production. A few weeks later, however, "Rose Marie" established a new high mark, and again this season eclipsed the figures of "The Song of the Flame," as did "The Student Prince" two weeks ago.

"The Song of the Flame" is modern in every sense of the word. Gershwin is a recognized leader among modern American composers and he wrote into the score in syncopated form the soaring spirit of modern Russia. Stothart, himself, though an older musician than Gershwin, stands high in his field, having collaborated with Rudolf Friml on the score of "Rose Marie." The librettists, Otto Harbach and Oscar Hammerstein II, are also leaders among the younger authors.

In this opera, as will be recalled, Gershwin and Stothart, poured a true melodic richness characteristic of the finest modern musical compositions, "The Song of the Flame" and the "Cossack's Love Song," being the dominant musical numbers and recurring frequently throughout the work. Other passages include such tuneful pieces as "Far Away," "Women's Work Is Never Done," "Great Big Bear," "Tartar," "You May Wander Away" and "Vodka."

The cast will be:

Konstantin	Joseph Royer
Anuita	Leonora Allen
Grusha	Dorothy Seegar
Nicholas	Lee Daly
Boris	Florenz Ames
Tartar	Bernice Mershon
Volodya	Sam Ash
Nadya	Alice MacKenzie

Tonight's attraction at the Municipal Theater is "The Lady in Ermine." A week from tomorrow night the Municipal Theater Association will produce "Countess Maritza," a light opera by Emmerich Kalman, which was enthusiastically received last September as the opening attraction of the Shubert Rialto's season.

TAKING a tip from the success of the Municipal organization here, the City of Detroit is writing a page in theatrical history. The citizens of the Michigan town have just completed a successful drive for a $200,000 fund in the Jessie Bonstelle Membership Campaign for the Detroit Civic Theater Foundation. The fund rose to $212,352, with pledges for founders and sustaining memberships and annual dollar memberships still coming in.

Jessie Bonstelle has had stock companies in Detroit for 17 summer seasons and since Jan. 1, 1925, has been at the head of the Bonstelle Playhouse. She has for a long time had a dream of the Municipal Theater. For five years she managed the Northampton (Mass.) Municipal Theater with Bertram Harrison. But Northampton was too small for the venture or to carry much weight as an example for other cities.

Detroit held more promise, and Miss Bonstelle operated the Bonstelle Playhouse not on the lines of the regular commercial theater but as she felt a civic theater should be operated. She made it a vital part of the city's life, enabling patrons who wished it to have tea or supper served on the mezzanine after their theater parties, to dance on the stage or the mezzanine after the performance, and inviting Detroit and Michigan artists to hold monthly exhibitions of their paintings on the mezzanine, these exhibitions first being passed on by a fine art committee.

In connection with the Playhouse, Miss Bonstelle has conducted a dramatic school, and the Bonstelle-Cassan Dancing School, under the direction of Madame Victoria Cassan, a pupil of Pavlowa. In the dramatic, production and dancing classes each year she has offered six scholarships to high school students in Detroit. She has had in the school a dramatic class for young children, hoping some day they will form the nucleus for a children's theater.

DURING Drama Week this year, about Feb. 13, Miss Bonstelle went before the audience and read a clipping from a newspaper telling of three wealthy citizens of Philadelphia who had offered to build a beautiful theater for the spoken drama and present it, fully financed, to the city of Philadelphia. She urged her hearer not to allow Philadelphia to get ahead of Detroit in this project. And in exactly 15 weeks from the night Miss Bonstelle read the clipping about Philadelphia's proposed municipal theater, she secured the final signature on the lease that took the Bonstelle Playhouse out of the hands of its owners and gave Miss Bonstelle the power to turn the Playhouse over to the citizens of Detroit and establish the first non-profit-sharing, non-commercial civic dramatic theater in America.

With the fund now secured for the Detroit Civic Theater, Miss Bonstelle will be able to present the best of modern and classical drama at a moderate price, to give free performances for the school children, of plays selected by the Board of Education, to establish a children's theater, to bring on from New York guest stars and guest producers of national prominence, to work with the foreign groups in interpreting and presenting their native art, drama, music

The baritone of the Municipal Opera as Konstantin in "Song of the Flame" this week.

Gershwin—A Romance of Tin Pan Alley

FROM the noisy carnage of Tin Pan Alley to the effete eloquence of the Metropolitan Opera House—that is the path that music critics are predicting George Gershwin, America's foremost exponent of syncopation, will follow as a result of the genius he displayed in "The Song of the Flame," the opera to be presented at the Municipal Theater tomorrow night.

That America's hope for a creator of a true American grand opera should rest upon the shoulders of a youth whose juvenile inspiration and training were gained amid the din of popular inanities is one of the artistic anomalies which so frequently arise to confound the intelligentsia.

But, perhaps, it was amid the raucous bleatings of Tin Pan Alley that Gershwin first grasped the feel of American neuroticism and there first sensed the spirit that he will later interpret in the first truly great American grand opera, and which he has already breathed into "Rhapsody in Blue" and "Concerto in F."

For the more liberal musical sages have conferred upon Gershwin the mantel of leadership that Victor Herbert, great as a light opera composer but just short of greatness in the grand opera field, could not carry to the supreme heights. But Gershwin may succeed where Herbert failed because he so early sensed the pulse of American music in Tin Pan Alley.

IN later years, if Gershwin wins through as the composer of American grand opera, there can be no glossing over his connection with Tin Pan Alley. For a gaudy frontispiece bears the name of George Gershwin as the composer of the ditty, "When You Want 'Em, You Can't Get 'Em; When You Got 'Em, You Don't Want 'Em," certainly no less trivial or banal than many of the songs in the air today.

He so modestly and inconspicuously began what seems destined to be a great career as a professional pianist in a music house in New York at 15½. There, it was that he turned out his first composition between assignments calling for his banging the keys of the piano while singers and song pluggers learned the words and melody to the latest tune off the presses.

Strangely enough, George Gershwin was not intended by his family for a musician. In their modest Brooklyn home there was no piano, and when they finally invested in an upright, it was to cultivate the talent of George's older brother, Ira.

The youngster, George, however, soon caused them to transfer their attention from Ira to himself. For while Ira was learning the scales at 50 cents a lesson, little George in odd moments was slipping on the piano stool and acquiring a technique that Ira could not master under instruction.

Accordingly, the Gershwin family decided that George should have the lesson rather than Ira. It was no idle fancy that led him to the piano. For with great rapidity he graduated from the 50 cents an hour teacher to a $1 an hour instructor; then to a $1.50 an hour instructor; and then to even higher apostles of music.

CHARLES HAMBITZER of Brooklyn, an able musician, then took George under hand, and after suggesting that they kill his first teachers, undertook to instruct him correctly. Even after George had gone to work in Tin Pan Alley he sedulously studied from Hambitzer, and in addition studied harmony under Edward Kelenyi and Rubin Goldmark.

The remainder of Gershwin's knowledge has been self-acquired. His success is clearly understandable when one learns that he insisted on arranging his own musical ideas rather than leaving the task to the company's arranger as do so many of the modern "Hit" composers.

After publishing his first song at 17, he advanced into show numbers by writing for "Half Past Eight," an opera that didn't get beyond Syracuse on its way to Broadway. He later struck pay notes, however, when his "I Was So Young, You Were So Beautiful," was interpolated in "Good Morning, Judge," and this led to his writing the score for "La, La, Lucille," of which "Nobody But You" was the hit.

Since then in quick succession he has written the scores for "Lady Be Good," "Oh Kay," "Little Miss Bluebird," "Sweet Little Devil," 'Virginia," "Tip Toes" and five George White "Scandals." These represent his principal contributions to the lighter musical field, but they are significant only because Gershwin in them has displayed an unusually sound musical conception and has brought to his popular tunes an originality that many critics have deemed worthy of the utmost consideration.

IN view of this fecundity and richness of composition it is not surprising that Paul Whiteman, desiring to put a dress suit on jazz, commissioned Gershwin to write "Rhapsody in Blue." Since taken to the American heart, both lay and critical, this composition when first offered at the sacrosanct Aeolian Hall left its auditors breathless.

Recovering from their amazement, some critics left to damn it while the more discerning left to laud it. It struck a new note, the jazz note, in serious American music, and led critics to ask how far jazz would go and what lay beneath the surface of this composer from Tin Pan Alley.

Gershwin answered the skeptics in sensational manner, and Walter Damrosch made possible the retort by requesting him to write a concerto for presentation by the New York Symphony. At the time he was only 26, and had been so busy that he had been unable to peruse the orthodox musical authorities.

Hence after accepting Damrosch's commission, he took a short vacation in London, but before sitting

Day by Day In New York

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, July 21.

THE morals of taxicab drivers seem to improve as one travels West. New York has splendid drivers who suffer from the rascality of their fellows. In Chicago there is a decided improvement, most of them being sturdy boys with round haircuts from the farming sections. In Kansas City, the taxi drivers are a respected class, owning their own homes and raising excellent families. Los Angeles and San Francisco have the same brand. I know a man who sent his young daughter to Los Angeles and intrusted a taxi driver with the job of meeting her and delivering her to relatives on a desert ranch.

Never before in America have employers in big organizations been on the hunt for clean-cut young men as now. Some time ago a Long Island manufacturer engaged in conversation with a taxi driver in a Middle West city. The driver told him of the home he was buying and of his efforts to educate his children. The fare expressed a desire to see his home and was driven around to a neat little cottage. He was taken to the back yard, where there was a grape arbor and beds of flowers, also a hand-made bird bath. "That bird-bath," he said, "showed a rare consideration I liked." The driver was employed in his factory, and is now one of the assistant managers.

Two men I know recently lost their jobs. They were efficient in their special lines, but both were given to unkind gossip. That is what brought about their dismissal. A winner is never a knocker nor is a knocker ever a winner.

There are now 96 high-class theatrical stars of Broadway making personal appearances in moving picture theaters around the country.

It has been discovered the six most profitable and best patronized restaurants in New York do not bootleg liquor, and discourage the use of that which is brought in by patrons. Lots of decent folk left in the world.

A mistake in billing on the part of a hotel in the mid-west to a New Yorker cost him $5000. A year ago he went on a business trip. An item was omitted when

Is the Orpheum Passing?

Rumor Persists That Down Town Vaudeville House Will Not Be Reopened for the Two-a-Day Shows This Fall and Chicago Burlesque Producers Have Been Negotiating for That Theater as Well as the Empress—Talking Films at Loew's and the Ambassador Scheduled for Aug. 4.

By NIE.

THERE are very persistent reports that the Orpheum Theater will not reopen as a vaudeville house this fall. Straight vaudeville has suffered terribly through the country from the competition offered by the picture houses and with the new Keith-Albee-Orpheum Circuit well represented here by the very successful St. Louis Theater and the gold mine in the Grand Opera House there seems little need for the organization to continue throwing good money after bad at the Orpheum. With a 5000-seat house downtown the vaudeville people would be better equipped to meet the competition of pictures and variety offered by the cinema palaces and it is known that the Orpheum has been looking for a site for such a show place. The small seating capacity of the present Orpheum does not lend itself to movie admission charges and the acts which are booked around the vaudeville circuit can be played to better advantage at the St. Louis out on Grand avenue where, incidentally, the competition is going to be very severe when Fox throws open his new theater during the coming winter.

There are reports, too, that the Orpheum Theater will be turned into a burlesque house. Irons and Clamadge, well known burlesque theater men from Chicago, were in St. Louis last week looking for a house for the coming season. They considered both the Empress and the Orpheum and they will probably be represented here in September. They operate houses in Detroit and Chicago on the stock-burlesque plan and that would be their line of endeavor in St. Louis.

IN the meantime the rush to equip the movie theaters with sound reproducing devices goes merrily on and both the Ambassador and Loew's announce that they will shoot with the new fangled pictures on Aug. 4. Loew's expects to have United Artists' first sound film, "Two Loves," ready by that time, while the Ambassador has definitely set in Richard Dix in the part talkie, "Warming Up."

While it is Vitaphone that is best known in St. Louis through the several pctures at the Grand Central, the Ambassador's first sound picture will be a Movietone product. But while there are several different names for the sight-sound entertainment, including Vitaphone, Movietone, Firnatone, Photophone and others, the result is the same in every case—the synchronization and reproduction of the human voice and music with the action of the photoplay.

As this writer pointed out last week, it is a matter of conjecture as to what effect the talkie will have on swiftly moving comedies of the Bebe Daniels type, and as to whether the talkie will hurt rather than help this type of picture.

As an answer to this question comes "Warming Up," which, in line with so many of the Dix pictures, is a romantic comedy. If reports from New York are to be believed, the synchronization of "Warming Up" has been cleverly handled. The picture, however, is not strictly a talkie, but rather a synchronized picture. The effects of Movietone are called upon in some baseball sequences. Through Movietone one hears a baseball game in sound—the crack of the bat, the voice of the umpire, the cries of the players, shouts of the program boys, and the razzberries of the spectators. In addition to these effects, the amusing conversation of the ball players are reproduced with some talking in the love scenes. Otherwise "Warming Up" is enhanced by a standard score played by the Paramount Theater Orchestra and for which Walter Donaldson prepared a special theme song, "Out of the Dawn."

Besides its first Movietone picture the Ambassador will offer a complete program of synchronized subjects, completely eliminating its orchestra and stage presentation, for Ed Lowry will take a two weeks' vacation starting Aug. 4. He will still be featured at the Ambassador, however, for his second Vitaphone subject is booked for that time to fill the gap caused by his absence.

SPEAKING, as we believe we did above, of a special theme song being written for a movie, when Tobani composed "Hearts and Flowers" little did he dream that he'd written what was destined in later years the champion "tear jerker" of the movie stars.

A "tear jerker" is studio parlance for music that will inspire tears for sad scenes in a film play.

Each star has her own favorite "crying music" or "tear jerker," but of them all, according to a survey of "inspiration music" made at one of the big studios, "Hearts and Flowers" scores the even hundred.

Every feminine player listing to her favorite crying music always adds "or 'Hearts and Flowers' " to her listed preference. It is a general inspiration to tears.

Lon Chaney admits it can make him cry.

"I believe it is because the tune has been used so many years on the stage for sad scenes and that it has this universal appeal for lachrymous scenes," he said, "or else that the old stage producers picked it as the one tune best suited psychologically to inspire the most general woe. Anyway, as on the stage, it reigns on the screen today as the one sure fire piece of crying aid."

Marceline Day can cry most easily when "Rock A Bye Baby" is played—in fact the musicians sometimes play it for fun just to make her cry. Failing this—"Hearts and Flowers" is her next big bet.

Renee Adoree likes "Melody in F," by Rubenstein, for her weeping moment—but again, can do a good job on the Tobani classic.

Norma Shearer finds "Traumerei" the best incentive to lachrymal precipitation, with "Hearts and Flowers" a runner-up.

Joan Crawford places "Macushla" first as a crying aid.

Incidentally, "Macushla" is Herbert Brennon's favorite music while working out a sad scene. But, he, too, weeps for "Hearts and Flowers."

"Let the Rest of the World Go By," "Mother Machree," "The Berceuse from Jocelyn" and "Swanee River" are other highly esteemed "tear jerkers" used on sets by the "inspirational orchestras."

IT is an interesting coincidence that one of the very latest "gentleman crook" pictures of the current season should have in its cast an actor who in 1905 gave the first "gentleman crook" performance in movie history.

He is J. Barney Sherry, who plays Mary Brian's foster-father in "Forgotten Faces." Clive Brook is the gentleman crook with the polished hold-up technique who occupies the center of dramatic interest. Sherry functions modestly in the background.

But 23 years ago, when nickelodeons were just beginning to sell tickets, a far-sighted producer startled such film fans as there were in those days by making a feature version of a popular Broadway play, "Raffles, the Amateur Cracksman." Precedent was thrown into the ash heap, all caution in the matter of production expense was

Behind the Screens

OUT IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, July 21.

IT IS hard to buy at a book store a really up-to-date directory of "famous film faces." To keep up with the swiftly shifting cinema spotlight such a book would need to be a cross between a looseleaf notebook and a stock market ticker.

Glancing through a list of film notables published exactly three years ago one reads names like Rubye de Remer, Wanda Hawley, Mabel Ballin, Beverly Bayne and Elliott Dexter and notes the conspicuous absence of such names as Greta Garbo, Victor McLaglen, Vilma Banky, Dolores del Rio, Joan Crawford, Greta Nissen, Janet Gaynor, Charles Farrell, George Bancroft, Karl Dane and others, all come to popularity since 1925.

In the new era of talking pictures the average length of a screen career may be greater, for the history of grand opera and stage celebrities would indicate voices hold the public interest longer than faces.

Dressing sets with the proper sounds as well as the proper furniture or hangings is becoming an art in the studios now. On the waterfront set built for "The Docks of New York" a sea-gull colony has been established, the birds being brought from the seacoast and encouraged to make themselves at home. So when the film reaches the screen the squeaking of seagulls will be heard along with the lap-lap of water and other sound effects.

Although ownership of an automobile is no passport to film fame, a car is often a great help to the struggling extra. Some studios, in dressing street sets which must be full of automobiles when the camera starts, send out calls for so-and-so many $5 people, or $7.50 people "with cars." The extra then gets an additional $2.50 for the use of his car. How to keep up payments on a car while working irregularly at $5 or $7.50 a day, plus an occasional $2.50, is something else to worry about. Imported automobiles, of course, must be rented separately, sometimes for as much as $50 a day.

It is widely taken for granted that the new talking pictures are much more costly to produce than the old-style silent films. Initial installation of sound-recording equipment is in fact costly, but if time is money there is another side to the question. Short talking-picture subjects, such as are supplanting silent two-reel comedies and other program-fillers in many theaters, are being turned out here in from one to six days, while one of the best-known slapstick comedy companies, with all its experience in slapping them together as rapidly as possible, still consumes two weeks or more on each silent comedy. The secret of one-a-day sound-picture speed lies, of course, in the fact that it is far simpler to film a vaudeville entertainer doing his act than to put a troupe of comedians through a long series of silent scenes. Feature-length sound pictures are another story.

To those who remember how the movies, in their infancy, came to Southern California in search of clear skies, the following figures will be significant:

Number of studios making pictures in Southern California during the month of June, 1928, 23.

Number of factories making airplanes in the same area, 18.

Is it possible that the infant aviation industry, needing clear skies for testing planes, is on the verge of doing for some Southern California community what the movies did for Hollywood?

The movies must not only be kept clean; they must always be well brushed and neatly pressed. So it costs the studios plenty for dry cleaning and pressing costumes worn by players. At one studio more than $100 a day is paid out for such items. In addition, the studio furnishes an average of 16 pairs of stockings to each actress under contract during the making of a picture. For modern silk stockings wear out quickly amid the loose boards and splinters of a crowded movie stage.

Europe will be given an opportunity to look at one of the typical American boys of the movies when Nick Stuart, the news-cameraman hero of "News Parade," goes abroad this summer to continue the characterization in a sequel called "Chasing Through Europe." Some of the scenes may be filmed in or near Nick's own home town, which is Abrud, Rumania. He was christened Nick Prada there, so villagers no doubt will hail him with a regular "home town boy makes good" celebration, and cite him as proof that you can't keep a good Rumanian down. Nevertheless young Stuart is as typical an American boy as one could hope to find in Hollywood. He looks like one, speaks like one—he came to this country when he was 10—and has the kind of smile generally associated with the bubbling optimism of American youth.

Among the studio employes who are worrying about the possible effect of sound-pictures on their jobs are many musicians who for years have been earning good money playing for stars on the set. Their value to actors and directors has been due to their ability to stimulate emotion at the right time with just the right music. In sound-pictures the stars will have to get along without such stimulation, for any sound on the set will be picked up by the microphone.

On the other hand, experience of set musicians in swift matching of music with dramatic action may lead them into greater prosperity as experts or assistants in the synchronization of orchestral accompaniments for sound-pictures.

RUMOR THAT ORPHEUM WILL BECOME A HOME FOR STOCK BURLESQUE

ignored, and a whole reel of celluloid, a thousand feet, was risked on the venture. The producer even signed a stage actor to play the title role at what was then the top starring salary of the movies, $10 a day. J. Barney Sherry was the actor, and he needed the money very much—it was midsummer and the theaters were closed—or he would not have risked his professional standing by dabbling in a form of entertainment then scorned by all "legitimate" players.

Indeed, Sherry himself thought so little of motion pictures that he never had seen one up to the time he was cast as Raffles. When "Raffles the Amateur Cracksman" was completed he looked at it, of course, and saw himself as the star of the first motion picture he had ever seen. He was agreeably surprised.

Not that it appealed to him as art.

Douglas Fairbanks Jr., in "Modern Mothers," at the St. Louis

"We never spoke of what we were doing as 'art' during the making of that picture," he said, "and I don't believe I even heard anyone in the company use the word 'drama.'

"In fact, until it ceased to be a novelty to see objects and people actually moving on the screen, the best actor was the one who moved most. Raises in pay came to the player who made more and faster motions."

Since that first of all "crook" pictures, J. Barney Sherry has played everything from criminals to cardinals. He estimates the number of his screen appearances at approximately 1000. He was one of the first motion picture actors to be sent to California in the days when producers were beginning to discover Los Angeles, but as yet had not heard of a hamlet called Hollywood.

He is now preparing to play the role of Robert E. Lee in a feature based on the life of the famous Confederate General.

and dancing, and to enlarge the scope of the dramatic school.

In doing this she will have the co-operation of the churches and the Board of Education, which were unable to accept her co-operation before, for fear of laying themselves open to criticism for advertising a commercial enterprise. As the Civic Theater is absolutely non-commercial, they are now free from that criticism. Miss Bonstelle also has the full indorsement of the Board of Commerce and the City Council.

Membership in the Detroit Civic Theater is in three classes: The 50,000 annual $1 class, which brings the following reductions: 1-3 per cent on Monday and Tuesday, 20 per cent on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, and 10 per cent on Saturday and Sunday, thus giving the young person and the person of moderate means an opportunity to see the best plays at a price approaching that of the movies. Sustaining members pay $100, or $20 a year for five years. They receive the percentage reduction on tickets and six annual invitational Guild meetings, and have the right to vote for six members of the Board of Governors of the theater. The minimum Founder membership is $500, and entitles the holder to the foregoing privileges. The list of founders will also be engraved on a tablet to be placed in the lobby of the theater.

The board of governors of the Civic Theater consists of 24 members, six appointed by the Mayor, six by Miss Bonstelle, and six each elected by the sustainers and the founders, respectively. The board represents the citizens in the manipulation of the funds, but Miss Bonstelle is the sole director of the theater. This is purely a noncommercial, nonstock, nonprofit-sharing corporation, and all the profit made by the theater goes back into the sustaining fund, which may eventually be used to secure a permanent home for the Civic Theater.

Miss Bonstelle has received telegrams of congratulation and endorsement from Otto Kahn, William Lyon Phelps, George Baker of Yale, Frank Gibson of the Actors' Equity, Owen Davis of the Dramatists' League, Winthrop Ames, William A. Brady and George Tyler. Mr. Kahn and Katherine Cornell both have become founders of the Detroit Civic Theater, and a $3000 foundership was cabled from Paris.

Every summer the City of Detroit gives a series of free concerts with the Symphony Orchestra on Belle Isle, having made a special appropriation for this. The first official act of the Detroit Civic Theater will be to co-operate with the Symphony Orchestra in presenting Shakspeare's "A Midsummer Night Dream" for three nights, July 23, 24 and 25, on Belle Isle, and these performances will be free to the citizens of Detroit. Something of this sort will be done each summer, according to the plans of the directors of the Civic Theater and of the Symphony Orchestra.

down to compose dropped in at a book shop to purchase an elementary book on musical construction. When Damrosch brought the Concerto, the critics were even more effusive, though pointing out that Gershwin had not yet fully mastered the technique of the concerto.

His other serious venture was a one-act opera, "One Hundred and Thirty-fifth Street," which likewise earned the praise of music lovers though its presentation was not equal to Gershwin's composition.

After these three excursions into the jazz classics, Gershwin has returned to light opera and musical comedy. The critics, however, are eagerly awaiting his next dip, and in the meantime are deriving hope from the brilliance he displayed in scoring "The Song of the Flame," which they feel is the highest type of light opera and which approximates grand opera in its rich, surging tones—sounding to the world a prophecy of Gershwin's readiness to bring forth a truly great American grand opera.

the bill was made and the hotel sent a statement to his home. It was made out to a "Mr. and Mrs." The wife opened it and had detectives on his trail for a year at a cost of $5000. It was all a bit of accounting carelessness.

At a dinner the other evening the subject of a scare-crow came up. A native New Yorker did not know that farmers rigged up the suggestion of a man in their fields to scare away crows and other destructive birds. He thought the term "scare-crow" was invented merely to describe a part that Fred Stone used to play in "The Wizard of Oz."

SUMMER BOARD OF REVIEW TO MEET TUESDAY EVENING

The last opportunity for local Boy Scouts to be reviewed in merit badge subjects to be awarded at a court of honor this summer will be given at a city-wide board of review at the Ben Blewett Junior High School Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Subjects to be reviewed are bird study, camping, cooking, archery, swimming and life-saving. First-class applications also will be passed on.

The court of honor, the only one held in the city during the summer, will convene at the same place the evening of July 30, at 7:30. This court will be for all scouts of all districts, as no district courts will be held until fall. Awards of all the above merit badges, and of those not specified as necessary to review, will be given to successful candidates. First-class pins also will be presented, although these usually are given only at district courts.

When Damrosch brought the Co certo, the critics were even effusive, though pointing out tha Gershwin had not yet fully mastered the technique of the concerto.

His other serious venture was one-act opera, "One Hundred and Thirty-fifth Street," which likewis earned the praise of music lover though its presentation was no equal to Gershwin's composition.

After these three excursions int the jazz classics, Gershwin has re turned to light opera and musica comedy. The critics, however, ar eagerly awaiting his next dip, and in the meantime are deriving hope from the brilliance he displayed i scoring "The Song of the Flame," which they feel is the highest typ of light opera and which approx mates grand opera in its rich, surg ing tones—sounding to the world a prophecy of Gershwin's readiness to bring forth a truly great American grand opera.

At a dinner the other evening the subject of a scare-crow came up. A native New Yorker did not know that farmers rigged up the suggestion of a man in their fields to scare away crows and other destructive birds. He thought the term "scare-crow" was invented merely to describe a part that Fred Stone used to play in "The Wizard of Oz."

SCOUTS TO SEE FILM OF ROVING CAMP TOUR

Two-Reel Motion Picture Depicts Boys' Trip to Washington.

How scout buddies, Al and Jack, took "the vacation of their lives" by a trip to Washington, D. C., with the Roving Camp of the St. Louis Boy Scout Council, is the story of a new two-reel moving picture just released by the local scout organization. The film is to be sent to scout troops for entertainments and parents' night programs, and also will be used as a record of the Roving Camp tour, which was completed just last week.

"Al" and "Jack" are Al Davis and Jack Bower, both scouts of Troop 18, who were members of the Roving Campers on the trip. The story opens showing the buddies excitedly preparing for the tour, packing the necessary equipment, and filling out the information blanks. The scene then shifts to Camp Irondale, where three days of preparation and training are spent in the Tepee Camp.

At last the big day arrives, the new busses come into camp, and the Rovers start for St. Louis, where a farewell celebration is held. The busses and traveling equipment are shown in some detail, as much of the outfit was specially built for the scouts.

After the skyline of St. Louis fades into the distance, the picture breaks into short scenes of the various camps set up on the road to Washington.

Most of the second reel is taken up with views of the scouts sightseeing in Washington. All the well-known buildings and monuments, such as the Capitol, the Smithsonian Institution, the Washington and Lincoln memorials, and Mount Vernon, are shown. On the way back to St. Louis, Gettysburg and Niagara Falls are visited.

The views at Irondale and St. Louis were taken by Assistant Scout Executive Jack Wright. Most of those on the trip were made by Quartermaster Bill Puffer and others of the junior officers.

A second Roving Camp tour will begin Aug. 11, covering a similar route to that of the last, but occupying several days longer. Four days will be spent at Irondale, and then a circle will be made through Indianapolis, Dayton, Wheeling, Gettysburg, Washington, Philadelphia, Atlantic City, New York City, Niagara Falls, Cleveland and St. Louis. Every night of the entire trip will be spent under canvas except one in Atlantic City, where the campers will be taken to a hotel. One day will be spent there to allow the scouts to swim in the ocean.

Scouts or parents who wish to borrow the moving picture film, or who wish to make arrangements for the second tour, should get in touch with Executive Wright at local headquarters.

Troop Notes

North District.

Scout Jack Hunt of Troop 3, meeting at the Holy Cross Church, passed his second class signaling test at the last meeting of the troop, and is now a second class scout. Instructions in signaling were given at the meeting by Committeeman Salade. Plans for a hike either to Kenwood Springs or the Lions' Den Reservation are to be made at the next meeting, and all scouts are expected to be present to decide on the details.

Twelve scouts of Troop 88, of the Salem Church, were guests of Mrs. Kuesel, a member of the church, at the Municipal Opera the evening of July 9. The eight members of this troop who won the North District Campbell June 1, returned from the bus trip to Washington, given them as a reward, a week ago Thursday evening. Each of them gave an account of the trip at the meeting the next evening.

Several scouts of Troop 191, meeting at the St. Stephen's Evangelical Church, have been attending the Irondale Reservation, the official summer camp of the local Boy Scout Council. Frederick Schulyke and Tim Wigge are at the main camp now, and Clifford Dister, George Blase and Elmer Musscoff have just returned from a section at the Ranger Camp. Frank Rossell is back from the roving camp tour, which visited Washington and other cities in the East.

The officers of Troop 206 of the Ames School held an officers' club camp and meeting at the Lions' Den reservation last Sunday. An account of the camp, and of the improvements recently made at the Lion's Den, was given by Richard Godt at the regular meeting Tuesday. Julius Gilden became a scout at this meeting. The Eagle patrol won a game of prisoners' base. An inter-patrol contest, in which points are awarded for passing tests is being conducted by the troop.

West District.

Despite the fact that most troops slacken their activities during the summer, Troop 46 of Immanuel Baptist Church is carrying on with unabated vigor, holding regular meetings and hikes, and receiving new members. A fathers' and sons' outing was held by the torop recently, the scouts and their fathers driving to the Rankin Cave on the Antire road. A game of baseball in which the fathers opposed the sons, a camp meal prepared by Scoutmaster Hall and Assistant Scoutmasters Reiter and Sherwood, and a council fire held in a natural amphitheater, were features of the day. Songs by the boys and talks by the "dads" were given around the council fire, which closed with the scout benediction and the singing of taps.

The regular meeting of the troop a week ago Friday evening was held in a wooded spot west of the city, each patrol proceeding under instructions to a rendezvous, whence they were conducted to a prepared council fire by the scoutmaster. After the fire flashed up apparently spontaneously, a program of songs, talks, games and stunts was given. After the closing exercises, the troop hiked home. Two new members and several visitors were present at the meeting.

Troop 195, meeting at Mount Calvary Church, Union boulevard and Wells avenue, held an ice cream social at the church grounds last Friday evening.

Suburban District.

Troop Overland 1, meeting at the Overland School, held its July overnight hike last Saturday and Sunday. The troop goes on at least one overnight hike a month. Most of the time over the week-end was spent swimming. Junior Assistant Jim Patterson, who is training the scouts in signaling, and organizing those who become expert into a signal chain, added Scouts Leo Balkenbush and John Wise to the chain at the camp. He hopes to have every scout in the troop in the chain by fall. Frank Johnson found an Indian spearhead at the camp.

Junior Assistant Bob Grossenbacher of this troop, who is one of the drivers on the various roving camps conducted this summer by the local council, returned last week from the tour to Washington. He is now driving the equipment truck on the Yellowstone Park tour of the Tepee Campers.

TOMATO SPLITS PARLIAMENT

Australian Body Argues on Whether It Is Fruit or Vegetable.

By the Associated Press.

CANBERRA, Australia, July 21.—The Australian Parliament and press have split into bitterly partisan groups over the question of whether a tomato is fruit or vegetable. Scientists and botanists have been consulted to no purpose.

Legislation of national importance has been delayed and Parliament's entire program thrown out of gear. The difficulty arose when it was discovered that the tariff schedules called tomatoes in pulp form vegetables but charged fruit rates when they were imported in dry concentrated form. Farmers say they are willing to call them whatever costs most. Vegetable venders are concerned and wonder how long they can continue selling tomatoes without a fruit license.

BLAMED FOR POISONING PATIENT BY MISTAKE

Attendant Who Gave Fatal Dose and Doctor Censured in Coroner's Verdict.

A Coroner's jury yesterday, reporting on an investigation of the death of a city hospital patient from poison mistakenly administered for salts, censured Dr. Abraham Bouhasin, physician in charge of the hospital receiving room, and Herman Stueffe, stretcher-bearer. There was no verdict of criminal carelessness and Dr. Bouhasin and Stueffe were not ordered held. The jury reported:

"We, the jury, believe that Dr. Abrahm Bouhasin and Herman Stueffe, stretcher-bearer, were grossly careless and we recommend that all medicine given to patients at the city dispensary at City Hospital be properly labeled and under the direct jurisdiction of licensed physicians.

The victim of poison was Michael Shaughnessy, also known as Herbst, of 4922 Bulwer avenue, who died of formaldehyde poisoning. Dr. Bouhasin was treating Shaughnessy for intoxication and sent Stueffe to a cabinet for a dose of salts.

Stueffe got formaldehyde by mistake and gave a cupful to Shaughnessy.

TRANSACTIONS IN BIG APARTMENTS FEATURE WEEK

Mrs. Minnie Housam Sells Cambridge Apartment Hotel, 4917 McPherson, for Reported $250,000.

MARGARET MORRISON IS PURCHASER

Clients of Walter F. Sheehan Real Estate Co., Acquire Apartments at Cabanne and Goodfellow.

By BERRY MOORE.

Transactions in large apartment buildings were a distinctive feature of the week in realtydom. Holdings of this type, according to real estate men, were magnets for speculators, as well as investors, Deals, in several instances, were characterized by record profits.

Negotiations were concluded yesterday for the purchase of the Cambridge Apartment Hotel at 4917-19 McPherson avenue, owned by Mrs. Minnie Housam, president of the Housam Realty Co., and the large apartment building at the northeast corner of Cabanne and Goodfellow avenues, owned by the May Building and Investment Co., the two transactions involving a total of more than $432,000.

Negotiations for the former were handled by the Housam Realty Co. in connection with the W. B. Shelp Realty Co., and for the latter by the Walter F. Shehan Realty Co., along with the Anderson-Stocke-Buermann Realty Co.

Margaret Morrison, a client of the W. B. Shelp Realty Co., was the purchaser of the Cambridge Hotel Apartment for a reported consideration of $250,000. This is a four-story semi-fireproof building with a frontage of 107 feet on McPherson. It comprises 44 apartments, all under lease, at annual rentals totaling $36,000, or a gross rental of more than 14 per cent on the reported purchase price.

Profit for Mrs. Housam.

Mrs. Housam has apparently realized a gratifying profit on the hotel apartment, which she purchased just before the revolution in values in buildings of this type, synchronizing with a perpendicular rise in rentals.

The purchaser has elected to let Mrs. Housam retain the management of the building, which has been placed on a highly lucrative investment basis under her management.

Mrs. Housam owns the six-story Ranlegh-Wilmar apartments at the northeast corner of De Baliviere and McPherson avenues. She purchased the Ranlegh, occupying the corner, several years ago, and, as an addition to it, built the Wilmar adjoining on De Baliviere.

Several years ago she obtained an option on the southeast corner of Delmar and De Baliviere avenue for a lofty hotel structure, for which she had completed financial arrangements. The site then, however, was available only under a 99-year lease, the owner preferring to hold it as a permanent investment, whereas she wanted to purchase the fee, in order to secure the loan for the building. The nucleus of her real estate holdings was a lot which she improved and resold at a profit.

The southeast corner of Delmar and De Baliviere avenue was acquired yesterday under a 99-year lease by a syndicate headed by Sam Hamburg Jr., with plans for a large apartment and business building, as is told elsewhere.

Apartments Bring $185,000.

The apartments at Cabanne and Goodfellow avenues were purchased by clients of the Walter F. Sheehan Real Estate Co., whose identity is not disclosed. The building has 30 apartments, with tile bath, built-in fixtures, marble stairs, and fireproof boiler room. Refrigeration is also included in the equipment. The site has a frontage on Cabanne of 84 feet with a depth on Goodfellow of 208 feet.

The reported consideration in this instance was $185,000. The transaction was financed by the Cytron Mortgage Co. in connection with the Walter E. Sheehan Real Estate Co.

Another sale through the Walter F. Sheehan Real Estate Co. was that of a building at 4813-15-17 Delmar boulevard, with lot 60x167 feet. It comprises three stores and three six-room apartments. The price paid was $80,000.

The Sheehan company also announces loans on West End buildings aggregating $150,000.

Oliver Cadillac Extends Lease.

The Oliver Cadillac Co. has leased for an additional term the two-story building at 3333 Locust street, where it maintains a used car salesroom. The Mercantile Trust Co. represented all parties to the transaction.

TO ERECT BUILDING AT DELMAR BLVD. AND DE BALIVIERE

Sam Hamburg Jr., as Head of Syndicate, Leases Corner for 45-Apartment and Store Structure.

HOTEL ON TWELFTH TO HAVE 17 STORIES

Construction of Van Dyke, at Locust, to Be Started Without Delay — Project Involves $2,000,000.

Sam Hamburg Jr., as head of a syndicate, has acquired a 99-year lease of the property at the southeast corner of Delmar boulevard and De Baliviere avenue, with plans for erecting a comprehensive structure.

The site has a frontage on Delmar of 148 feet with a depth on De Baliviere of 100 feet. The proposed building will contain a minimum of 45 apartments, 10 stores and a bowling alley. Pending negotiations with the prospecti lessees, including several nationally known chain store organizations, the height of the building will be in abeyance.

Provisions of the lease give the lessee the privilege of purchasing the property at a designated price, of which advantage doubtless will be taken should plans ultimately materialize for a lofty structure for the site. The rental prescribed has not been disclosed.

Speculation is rife as to the price at which the fee is available for purchase under the lease. Valuations of the site range from $2500 to $3000 a foot, for the Delmar frontage, a total of $544,000, which, however is regarded as somewhat optimistic.

Site in Considerable Demand.

The site, regarded as one of the big prizes in this part of the city, has been a magnet for large hotel and apartment projects, for which it is regarded as especially attractive, with De Baliviere avenue forming the main entrance from the north to Forest Park.

The fee is owned by Louis Bueltermann, a client of Lambert E. Walther of the firm of Leahy, Saunders & Walthers, attorneys, who purchased it 20 years ago at a nominal price compared with its present market value.

Hamburg has been a prominent figure in speculative and building operations in the city in both the business and residential sections, apparently with large resources at his command. He has built or financed a record number of apartment and hotel structures.

Hotel to Be 17 Stories.

The new Van Dyke Hotel, to be erected on the northeast corner of Twelfth and Locust streets, will be 17 stories instead of 16, as originally proposed, according to Walter J. Holbrook, president of the Holbrook-Blackwelder Co., who has the project in hand. Notice to vacate has been given the present tenant of the premises, with plans for beginning construction without delay.

The hotel promoters have acquired a 99-year lease of the site owned by the Essex Realty Co., of which W. H. Bixby is president. A building loan in this connection

FRUIT AUCTION HOUSE TO COST $850,000

Wabash Railway to Construct Building at Second and Carr Streets.

The Wabash Railway Co. has let contracts to the Boas-Kiel Construction Co. for the erection of a new $850,000 fruit auction house to be erected at Second and Carr streets. The project was announced two months ago.

The building is to be completed by Nov. 1, but the display and distributing section is to be finished by Sept. 1. The structure will extend 780 feet between Franklin avenue and Carr street, with an average width of 56 feet. There will be a three-story unit at one end for offices, the auction room and other purposes, and a long one-story unit. R. E. Mohr, Wabash architect, designed the building.

At present, fruit auctions are held in the Wabash freight house on the opposite side of the tracks, facing Third street. This sale enterprise is conducted by the American Central Fruit Auction Co., an independent corporation, which will occupy space in the new house.

At the northern end there will be a three-story unit, with an assembly room, record rooms, cooperage shop, overflow room and print shop on the first floor, and offices of the auction company and an auction room seating 250 persons on the second floor. A part of the second floor and all of the third floor will be available for rental as offices to commission men.

Consul Leases Office in Moneta Building.

ST. LOUIS SHOWS GAIN IN 1928 BUILDING

Activities in U. S. for First Half of Year 2 Pct. Below Those of Like Period in 1927.

The beginning of the last half of the year found building activities throughout the country about on a par with those of a year ago. Reports made to S. W. Straus & Co. from the 541 principal cities and towns of the country covering all of the 48 States showed building permits and plans filed for the half year amounted to $2,065,202,908 compared with $2,103,324,264, a loss of slightly less than 2 per cent. In the first half of 1926 substantially the same list of cities reported $2,245,030,070, and in 1925, $2,343,308,089. Thus, the first half of 1928 was a little below the four-year record for the period.

These figures cover approximately 80 per cent of building operations within the limits of all incorporated cities and towns. They do not include cost of road building, construction of subways, bridges or other major engineering projects. They pertain to buildings only and are to be taken as an index of activities which will be under way within the next few months rather than records of money already spent.

The same 541 cities reported $368,987,324 in June compared with $362,581,217, a gain so slight as to be without economic significance. In June, 1926, the same cities reported building permits and plans filed $411,051,351 and in June, 1925, the total was $384,321,193.

The 25 cities leading the list in building prospects submitted much more favorable reports than did the other places. For the first half of the year, those cities issued building permits amounting to $1,285,744,471, compared with $1,229,630,024 last year, a gain of 5 per cent. The figures for June were 1928, 1928, $228,021,213; June, 1927, $209,238,744; gain 9 per cent.

New York City continued to run far ahead of any other city in the country. The plans filed there for the first half of the year called for the expenditure of $561,395,247, compared with $493,315,695, last year, a gain of 14 per cent.

The activities in New York, in fact, were in large measure responsible for the excellent showing made by the 25 city group for the half year. Chicago, Detroit, Los Angeles, Newark, San Francisco, Milwaukee, Portland, Ore., Buffalo and Indianapolis showed substantial losses, while notable gains were recorded in Boston, Cleveland, Pittsburg, Seattle, Yonkers, St. Louis, Baltimore, Houston, Cincinnati, Atlanta and Albany, Philadelphia, Washington, Oakland and Birmingham revealed conditions not greatly at variance with those last year.

St. Louis stood twelfth in the list of 25 cities. In the first half of 1928 its building permits totaled $21,562,005, compared with $15,-

ONLY HOSE AND SHOES AT SENSENBRENNER'S

Store to Sell Out and Discontinue Other Lines of Apparel and Millinery.

The Sensenbrenner Mercantile Co., which has been in business 17 years, announced yesterday that it would confine its stock to shoes and hosiery after a clearance sale of its women's apparel and millinery goods.

The concern occupies three floors and a basement of a five-story building at the northwest corner of 6th and St. Charles street, with the shoe and hosiery department in the first floor and basement.

A part of the first floor and basement will be retained for the concern's shoe and hosiery department. The rest of the space will be subdivided and leased.

A large jewelry concern whose name has not been disclosed has leased the corner store, 35x60 feet, through Martin & Breitt. Other stores in the building are also under negotiation. Space on the second and third floors of the building also has been leased.

The building, which occupies one of the strongest corners in the retail district, is owned by the Peter O'Neil estate of which the Mercantile Trust Co. is executor.

A new scale of rentals has been fixed for the building which will place the property on a much higher investment basis.

15 COTTAGES IN RIDGEVIEW TO BE MARKETED AT COST

The A. R. Schollmeyer Real Estate Co. announces that it will sell at cost 15 cottages in Ridgeview Subdivision. These cottages contain three and four rooms and bath. They will be sold for $100 cash, the balance in monthly payments not to exceed $35 a month and interest. A model home, erected on Manchester road, is open for inspection every day including Sunday. The company will arrange for transportation of those interested who call the office, MAin 0878, during the week, or the field office, Kirkwood 819, on Sunday.

BUILDING AT WASHINGTON AND 18TH TO BE 10 STORIES

Work of Clearing Site Is Begun for New Clancy Commercial Structure to Cost $350,000.

The work of razing of buildings between Washington avenue and St. Charles street, on the west side of Eighteenth street, was begun this week to make way for the Clancy building, to be erected under the direction and management of Eugene Cronk.

The new building, instead of five stories, as recently announced, will be ten stories high with a frontage of 106 feet on Washington and on St. Charles, and a 150 foot frontage on Eighteenth street. The first three floors except for 12 small shops on Eighteenth street, will be occupied by the Langan Furniture Co., which moved out of the old buildings now being torn down. The Langan company will have a show room in the first story with a full 106 foot store front on Washington avenue, with one return into Eighteenth street, and show windows in the second story along the entire Eighteenth street front. The second and third floors will be used for stock, show and sales rooms. These quarters will have their own freight and passenger elevators.

From the fourth story to the top of the building, the arrangement is for loft or office use. The exterior windows are designed to accommodate either arrangement. This part of the building is equipped with freight and passenger elevator service, stairways and a main entrance on Washington avenue. The loft space is so provided that it can be divided into individual storage, sample or sales rooms, each provided with a general office.

The building will cost about $350,000. The contract for its erection was let to the McKelvey-Carter Construction Co., 3800 West Pine boulevard. Aegerter & Bailey, architects, 1904 Railway Exchange building, who designed it are superintending the construction of the building.

PRUDENTIAL INSURANCE CO. LOANS TOTAL $109,369,993

James M. Franciscus, loan correspondent for the Prudential Insurance Co. of America, reports that the company made real estate mortgage loans amounting to $109,369,993 during the first six months of 1928. Of this total $79,822,816 was on dwellings and apartment houses; $22,967,830 on city property other than residential; and $6,579,347 on farms. Loans were made in the United States and Canada on 11,379 dwellings and 665 apartments, for the accommodation of 21,605 families, an impressive gain over the investments of the first half of 1927, when a total of $76,213,616 was lent on 13,064 dwellings and 670 apartments for the accommodation of 21,578 families. Thus the investments of 1928 on this type of loan exceeded those of a similar period in 1927 by $3,609,199. While nearly $23,000,000 was lent on city property other than residential in the first half of 1928, loans of this type totaled only $9,190,747 in 1927. There was a decrease in farm loans, however, the 1927 figure being $15,369,260 as against $6,579,347 this year.

GEORGE F. BERGFELD CO. SALES IN CITY AND COUNTY

The George F. Bergfeld Co., Inc., reports the completion of a new home at 7315 Kingsbury boulevard, in University Hills, for Arthur S. Goodall, of the First National bank.

The company reports also the following sales: Lot 8, block 3 in Ellenwood; 9-room residence to Hiram C. Martin for Julius H. Bentzen; Lot 1 block 9, Alta Dena; 5631 Chamberlain avenue, a 9-room brick residence to O. W. Jencks; lot 9, block 1 Skinker Heights for the Murphy Door Bed Co., having a frontage of 96 feet on Wydown boulevard; Lot 14 block 3915, Laclede avenue, to the St. Louis Provdient Association.

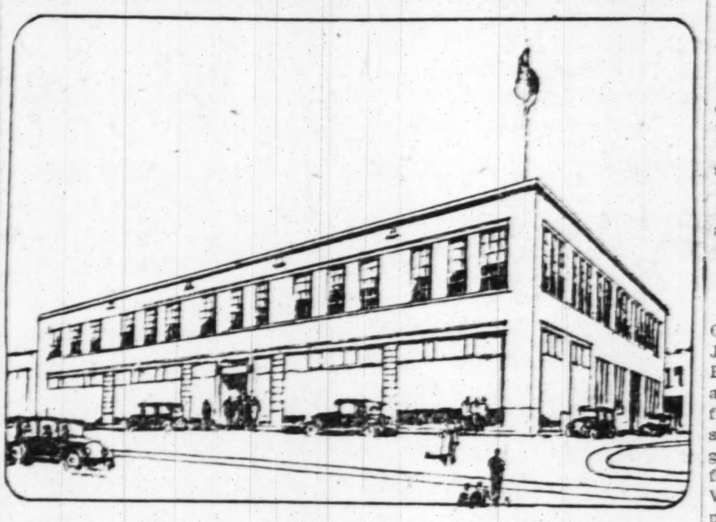
Ford and Lincoln Sales Building



Plans have been completed for the new Ford and Lincoln sales building to be erected at the southeast corner of Eighth street and Cass avenue by the Ayres Automobile Co. The building will be two stories high, constructed with concrete floors and with 12-foot wide ramps to roof.

It will contain a show and a salesroom, a used car department, first and second story parts department, available to shop and public, a shop, wash racks and a grease and oil department.

In connection with the salesroom and the public and private offices, there will be rest rooms for pedestrians. The Cass avenue side will have five show windows with a return on Eighth street of two windows. The showroom will accommodate about eight cars.

The building will be under the management of Joseph Ayres. The site was obtained through Martin & Breitt Real Estate Co..

has been underwritten by local investment bankers. The project, including the value of the site, will involve an outlay of nearly $2,000,000.

J. I. Epstein reports the sale of a six-family apartment building at 721 Limit avenue, to a client whose name has not been disclosed. He also announces negotiations concluded for other large apartment buildings which are being acquired both as a speculation and investment.

EIELSON IN HIS OLD HOME TOWN

HATTON, N. D., July 21.—Capt. Sir Hubert Wilkins and Lieut. Ben Eielson landed here today for a two-day celebration in honor of Eielson. About 5000 persons from all parts of the State greeted the flyers as they arrived in the plane that carried them over the top of the world.

Gov. A. G. Sorlie presented a medal to Lieut. Eielson in behalf of the citizens of Hatton, the flyer's home town, while Capt. Wilkins received a cane.

France to Send Blind Delegate.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Georges Scapini, war-blinded member of the French Chamber of Deputies, will be the sole representative of France at the American Legion convention in San Antonio, Tex., in October. Scapini was permanently blinded during the war and later organized the thousands of French war blind so that their needs might be brought to the Government's attention. After the war, in which Scapini served as a Major, he studied law.

New Quarters for Rubber Co.

The Panama Rubber & Equipment Co. has leased part of the ground floor and all of the basement space of the Pickel Realty Co. property, situated at the junction of Lindell, Locust and Channing. The rubber company will remove from 1423 Locust street after alterations and improvements have been made to the 3325 Lindell boulevard premises. The Mercantile Trust Co. handled the transaction.

NEW VERSAILLES APARTMENT FAST NEARING COMPLETION

Construction of the new Versailles apartment building at 709 Skinker boulevard is fast nearing completion. Directly facing and overlooking Forest Park, this building has one of the most commanding locations in the West End.

The exterior is classical in conception, with any tendency towards formality relieved by a harmonious employment of warm-colored brick in conjunction with a well study terra cotta treatment. It is of French Renaissance ornamentation. All modern mechanical and electrical equipment is provided in the kitchens and bathrooms.

High-speed passenger elevators, with service night and day, are among the many attractions. The garage service provides two levels, affording accommodation for approximately 100 cars.

Preston J. Bradshaw planned the Versailles Apartment. It will be under the management of Harold E. Wilson.

ST. LOUIS SHOWS GAIN IN 1928 BUILDING

468,713 in the first half of 1927. In June, 1928, its permits totaled $4,023,327, compared with $4,300,152 in June, 1927.

Building material prices during June were firm with an upward tendency. The starting materials and cement were unchanged. Brick rose slightly in several districts. The structural steel market, however, was soft with preferred buyers doing better than the quoted rates. Yellow pine and Douglas fir were reported firmer throughout the country and there has been talk of merging the smaller concerns in order to better the lumber market.

Labor conditions are sound and well stabilized throughout the industry with no important disturbances or wage readjustments anywhere apparent.

Epstein Handles Apartment Deal.

J. I. Epstein & Son reports the sale of a six-family apartment in University City and a 7-room bungalow in Ferguson. The first at 721 Limit, sold to Gus Schaller, and the second, at 34 Barat avenue, Ferguson, Mo., to Mrs. F. E. Maxwell.

WHEELING CORRUGATING CO. LEASES 6-STORY BUILDING

Concern Makes 10-Year Contract for Structure Vacated by Pittsburg Plate Glass Co.

A 10-year lease has been acquired by the Wheeling Corrugating Co. on the six-story and basement building at the southwest corner of Tenth and Spruce streets, recently vacated by the Pittsburg Plate Glass Co. The building contains 10,000 square feet of space, has sprinkler equipment. The tracks of the Terminal Railroad Association are in the rear.

The Wheeling Corrugating Co. is moving from the adjoining building, 1008-10 Spruce street, where it has been for 20 years. It has leased the corner building with increased space to take care of its growing business. The building being given up is the last building in the downtown section with tracks for lease.

J. H. Robinson is the local manager of the Wheeling Corrugating Co. The concern here is one of the largest branches of the many the company has throughout the United States.

Isaac A. Hedges, manager of Cupples Station, handled the transaction.

AIRPORT BONDS SUBJECT AT REAL ESTATE LUNCHEON

There will be a meeting and luncheon for all members of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange Thursday, July 26, at the American Annex.

Lon Sanders, chairman of the Speakers' Committee of the Municipal Airport Issue Committee of the St. Louis Air Board of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce will be the guest and speaker on the bond issue, to be voted on Aug. 7.

MOTORMAN HELD AFTER PAR OF TRAIN GOES INTO BA

Eighteen Persons Hurt When Tw Cars Plunge Off Drawbridge in Long Island.

NEW YORK, July 21.—The motorman of a Long Island electric railroad train, two cars of which plunged through an open drawbridge today, injuring 18 persons, is under police guard at the Rockaway Hospital pending an investigation of the accident.

The Jamaica bay tug boat Dynamic had just passed through the opened bridge when the train bound from Flatbush Terminal reached it. The first car of the Brooklyn to Rockaway Beach coach train was three-quarter submerged and the second car balanced on the edge of the draw.

The injured were in these two cars. There were 15 men in the first car, which was the smoker. The motorman, Charles Muller, smashed a window and swam to the surface. He was rescued by the tug crew. Several of the passengers escaped similarly.

The accident occurred at 1:2 a. m. on the long trestle that crosses an arm of Jamaica Bay Broad channel. It was low tide.

Service over the line was restored at 1:02 p. m. in time to move New York's thousands bound for the beaches for the week-end.

Railroad officers said the motorman passed a red signal set against him. District Attorney Newcombe and two assistants are conducting an investigation. Muller was arrested at the hospital charged with violation of a section of the penal code relating to passing a danger light on a railroad. He is suffering from a possible fractured skull.

$4000 Holdup in Auto in Texas.

By the Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., July 21.—Forcing one of his victims to remove his trousers and shoes while driving through the business district, a holdup man today robbed two messengers of the American Building Co. and escaped with $4255 in cash. The robber boarded the messengers' automobile as it stopped for a traffic light and drew a revolver, ordering them to drive on. A. F. Hubbard, one of the messengers, attempted to wrench the pistol from the robber's hand and was struck over the head. Then while the car moved through the business district Hubbard was forced to partially disrobe.

JOHNS HOPKINS TO START LAW RESEARC

First Institute of Kind to B Organized With Four Professors.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, July 21.—An institute for the study of law is to be established at Johns Hopkins University, with the hope that its research will accomplish for the profession what the Hopkins medical center has achieved in its field.

Dr. Joseph S. Ames, acting president of Johns Hopkins, in announcing the establishment of the institute, the first of its kind in the country, pointed out today that it would devote itself to research concerning legal problems and their social and economic significance, rather than to the training of lawyers.

The institute will be organized when the university opens this fall and four of the faculty already have been appointed. They are Walter Wheeler Cook, professor of law at Yale; Herman Oliphant, professor of law at Columbia; Leon Carroll Marshall, director of economics and business at the University of Chicago, and Hessel Edward Yntema, professor of Roman law and jurisprudence at Columbia.

Speaking of the founding of the institute as the culmination of 20 years of planning, B. Howard Griswold Jr., chairman of the Trustee Committee on its foundation, recalled that four men, the late Sir William Osler, Dr. William H. Welch, Dr. W. S. Halsted and Dr. Howard A. Kelly, started the medical school and added:

"We regard the selection of four men for the founding of this new institution as a happy omen for success."

"Just as the four great doctors started the medical school without the restraint and limitation of a plan fixed in advance of their arrival, so the four new professors of the institute for the study of law will have in their hands every liberty in the formation of the institution."

Financial provisions have been made to support the institute for five years and in the meantime an effort will be made to provide a permanent endowment.

Among those consulted concerning plans for the institute, Dr. Ames said, were Charles E. Hughes, Harlan F. Stone, Elihu Root, President Ernest M. Hopkins of Dartmouth College, Judge R. A. Burch of the Supreme Court of Kansas, Frederick R. Coudert of New York, William Draper Lewis, director of the American Law Institute, and D. F. Houston, former Secretary of the Treasury.

During the academic year 192 while the faculty members will concentrate on their own research problems and formulate their course for the future, no students will be enrolled.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls or answers by mail cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

O. T. M.—To take chewing gum from clothing wet a cloth with gasoline. Rub the garment and the gum will evaporate with the gasoline.

BASEBALL FAN.—Ages of the players you ask about are, Jim Bottomley, 28; W. Roettger, no record; Andy High, 31; Frankie Frisch, 30, Taylor Douthit, 27; Heinie Manush, 27; Fred Schulte, 23; Otis Brannon, 25; Walter Beck, 23; Ralph Kress, 21. Other information asked for is not of record here.

A READER.—To prepare cucumber pickles, wipe four quarts small unripe cucumbers. Put in a stone jar and add one cup salt dissolved in two quarts boiling water and let tand three days. Drain cucumbers from brine, bring brine to boiling point, pour over cucumbers an again let stand three days; repeat. Drain, wipe cucumbers, and pour over one gallon boiling water in which one tablespoon of alum has been dissolved. Let stand six hours, then drain from alum water. Cook cucumbers 10 minutes, a few at a time in one-fourth the following mixture, heated to boiling point and boiled 10 minutes: One gallon vinegar, four red peppers, two sticks cinnamon, two tablespoons allspice berries, two tablespoons cloves. To make tomato catsup take one gallon skinned tomatoes, four tablespoonfuls of salt, four ditto of whole black pepper, half a spoonful of allspice, eight pods red pepper and three spoonfuls mustard, boil them together for one hour, then strain it through a sieve or coarse cloth and when cold bottle for use.

E. C. A. AND Ex-K. K. K.—The expression "Rum, Romanism and Rebellion," originated as follows: In 1884 James G. Blaine was the Republican candidate for the Presidency, opposing Grover Cleveland, Democrat. Samuel Dickinson Burchard, a Presbyterian minister of New York City, addressing James G. Blaine on behalf of a gathering of ministers, ended his address with the words, "We are Republicans, and do not propose to leave our party and identify ourselves with those whose antecedents have been rum, Romanism and rebellion." The expression was widely circulated and is credited with having caused Blaine the loss of New York State and the Presidency. Some authorities, however credit events in Blaine's career with leading a considerable number of his own party to vote for his opponent. Samuel Dickinson Burchard, author of the expression, was associated with a Presbyterian church in New York for forty years, of which he became pastor and was pastor of the Murray Hill church from 1879 to 1885.

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association)

MOTHER.—The child can only be legally adopted through the Juvenile Court on a petition filed for the purpose.

J. F. S.—You could probably get the ring back by filing a replevin suit in a Justice of the Peace court.

W. N. H.—As to the water draining off your neighbor's yard on yours, all you can do is raise the level of your own yard.

M. L. S.—The landlord can demand a full month's rent, unless your understanding was in writing.

HARD LUCK.—If the loan company attempts to attach the car, the party holding the mortgage can claim and obtain it. He should consult a lawyer, if an attempt to attach is made.

BERTHA.—The heirs should agree among themselves on who will handle the property, collect the rents, etc. Any one can do it if all the heirs have authorized him to do so.

D. D.—Marriage licenses obtained more than 25 miles away from St. Louis are as a rule not published in the St. Louis papers. The parents could not have the marriage annuled if both parties are satisfied with it.

C. H. D., LaSalle street—The second wife should get a divorce before she marries again. A man who has not seen or heard of his wife in six years as stated could not legally marry without divorce.

J. J. F.—It is necessary to obtain a permit from the city to install plumbing in your home. A window in the bathroom from the outside is ordinarily required. No stack is necessary in installing the toilet, if we understand your question correctly. You should inquire at the Building Commissioners office, 426 City Hall.

W. O. R.—The husband's misconduct with another woman would be ground for divorce unless his wife subsequently condoned his offense. His failure to support her adequately would not be ground for divorce, if he is supporting her as best he can. A single act of cruelty might or might not be ground for divorce. It would depend upon the circumstances.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

SUE MALVA.—The Adams Apple is a cartilaginous structure and of course cannot be reduced. To make it less prominent, you should endeavor to build up your bodily weight, especially about the neck.

GUS.—Plastic surgery, when done by skilled operators, is harmless, painless and the result permanent. Names of competent surgeons will be furnished on request and when a stamped and self-addressed envelope is sent.

R. H.—Dieting is the only safe method for reducing. For a growing young individual, it would be very advisable that the reducing should be done under the supervision of a physician to avoid any serious consequences.

S. A. E.—To differentiate between the many types of goiter requires more space than alloted here. See a medical text book, such as those in the library of the St. Louis Medical Society.

WIFE, CHILDREN AND ALL WHO LOVED HIM.

DIETZ—In memory of my dear father, William Dietz, who passed away July 26, 1925.
From this world of pain and sorrow
To the land of peace and rest
God has taken you dear father
Where one finds eternal rest.
Sadly missed by DAUGHTER, MAMIE.

EICHENLAUB—In memory of our dear husband and father, Frank Eichenlaub, who departed this life July 25, 1927.
One year has passed since that sad day
The one we loved was called away.
God took him home, it was His will,
But in our hearts he liveth still.
Sadly missed by
WIFE AND CHILDREN.

HART—In loving memory of our dear daughter and sister, Helen Hart, who died July 19, 1923.
Sadly missed by
PARENTS, BROTHERS AND THOSE WHO LOVED HER.

HASSBAUM, ANNA—In memory of my dear wife, Mrs. Anna Hassbaum, who departed this life July 24, 1913.
Gone, but not forgotten.
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND AND CHILDREN. (JH)

KELSO—In loving memory of my dear mother, Margaret Kelso, who passed away July 21, 1927.
My lips cannot tell how I miss you,
My heart cannot tell what to say;
God only knows how I miss you,
In my heart that is lonesome today.
Sadly missed by daughter,
MRS. DONNA RATHGEDER. (c)

KNIGHT, DOROTHY LA RAE—Who departed this life 4 years ago, July 24, 1924, sadly missed by father, brothers and all who loved her. (c)

RACHER—In loving memory of Joseph Racher, who departed this life on year ago July 24.
Our family circle has been broken,
So we're parted for awhile.
We know we'll meet again.
No one knows how much we miss you.
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered since we lost you.
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers.
Sweetly, tender, fond, and true.
There is not a day my dear, that we do not think of you.
Sadly missed by
WIFE, CHILDREN, RELATIVES AND FRIENDS. (c)

RESTETSKY—In memory of Franz Restetsky, who passed away one year ago, July 24, 1927:
From this world of pain and sorrow
To the land of peace and rest
God has taken you, dear loved one,
Where you have found eternal rest.
Sadly missed by wife, Rosalie Restetsky; son, Herbert, and daughter-in-law and foster daughter, Dorothy Sullivan.

RILEY—Mrs. Theresa Riley, who passed away, one year ago, July 25, 1927.
Gone, dear mother, gone forever,
How we miss your smiling face.
But you left us to remember
None on earth can take your place.
A happy home we once enjoyed
How sweet the memory still,
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND AND CHILDREN. (c)

SACKSE—In memory of Mr. Louis W. Sackse, who died July 24, 1927:
A year today we said adieu
To the most lovable man we ever knew;
Kind and thoughtful, generous and true,
Since you left us, Daddy, the sun hasn't shone through.
Sadly missed by his WIFE AND CHILDREN.

SCHNECKS—In loving memory of Richard C. Schnecks, who died July 23, 10 years past.
The flowers are laid upon his grave,
They wither and decay.
But my love for him who sleeps beneath
Will never fade away.
Sadly missed by his wife.
ANTOINETTIE SCHNECKS.

SCHNUCK—Laura Schnuck departed this life two years ago, July 23, 1926:
Day by day we saw her fade
And gently waste away:
But often in our hearts we prayed
That she might longer stay.
Sadly missed by Mother, Son, Daughter-in-Law and Brother. (c)

Sales Help Wanted, Male MEN

Waiting list will shortly be established for applicants seeking executive positions with ELECTROLUX, INC. Pioneers in a new health industry now commencing operations in the United States; these lists already exist in many of the 42 countries in which Electrolux operates over 400 branches.

Electrolux needs right now about 90 men to fill executive positions paying salaries ranging from $4000 to $25,000; many men who have been with us a matter of months are earning these salaries; inasmuch as we are the only ones in our field we cannot get experienced men for this new industry; the most important qualifications are intelligence, loyalty, aggressiveness and vision.

We have a remarkable product, a strong international organization and tremendous financial backing; the men selected to fill these positions will be given an intensive training in our policies and methods of operation and will receive splendid income in bonus and commission during their training and qualifying period.

Men who apply for personal interview 10 to 12 A. M. Monday will be able to start work immediately if they qualify.

Electrolux, Inc.
Call in person only. Suite 1626 to 1632, Paul Brown Bldg., and ask for manager.

UTILITY FIRM ATTACKS MUNICIPAL SERVICE

Contends City of Columbia, Mo., Cannot Legally Supply Current to Nearby Town.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 21.—Constitutionality of a law authorizing Missouri cities with municipally owned electric plants to supply electric current to other cities and towns, and to build the necessary transmission lines, was attacked in a motion filed with the Public Service Commission today by the Missouri Power & Light Co., which operates in about 95 Missouri towns.

The motion was for a rehearing of a case in which the commission last Wednesday authorized the city of Columbia to build a transmission line from its municipally-owned electric plant to the town of Ashland, 15 miles south of Columbia, and to furnish electric current to Ashland. The Missouri Power and Light Co. perviously had intervened in the case. The company contends the commission should have given it a reasonable time in which to obtain a franchise from the town of Ashland to furnish it with electric service. Ashland heretofore has obtained electric service from a small plant within the town.

The law authorizing cities with municipal electric plants to extend their service outside the corporate limits is attacked on the ground it enables such cities to use public funds for purposes outside the city's limits, and enables making of city appropriations for the use of another municipal corporation. This is asserted to be a violation of provisions of the State Constitution. After the commission authorized the line to be built, the project was held up by an injunction suit filed by a Columbia tax payer.

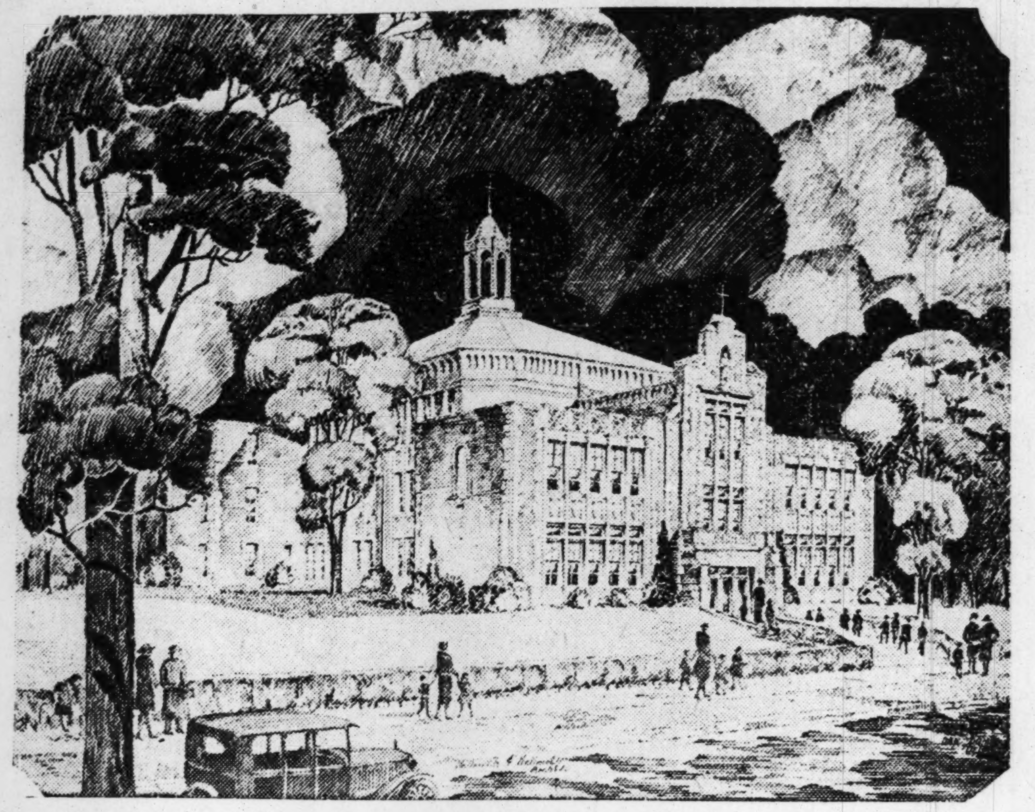
New Parochial School Building



PHOTOGRAPH of school building for the Parish of the Little Flower under construction at corner of Boland Drive and Arch Terrace, Richmond Heights. The first floor contains class rooms, etc., and a temporary chapel which will later be converted into a gymnasium when the church is built. The second floor contains class rooms, offices and living quarters for the sisters. The building is of standard fireproof construction throughout. Father Joseph A. Tammany is the pastor. The design is a modern adaption of the Tudor style of architecture. The building was designed by Hellmuth & Hellmuth, architects, and is being erected under their supervision.

FOUR COOLIDGE PRIZES FOR LITERATURE AWARDED

Texan First in Phi Gamma Delta Competition, With Poem, "The Unrepentant Thief."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Winners of the Calvin Coolidge literary competition conducted annually among the undergraduate members of the Phi Gamma Delta College Fraternity, were announced here today.

First prize, $200, was awarded to John Edwin Canaday, University of Texas, Austin, Tex., for his poem, "The Unrepentant Thief," which was published in the Longhorn, the university literary publication.

James Hulsart of Rutgess, New Brunswick, N. J., won the second award of $100. M. L. Sandell of Iowa State Collge, Ames, Ia., and D. Richard Weeks of Union College received third prizes of $50 each.

The competition is conducted by the fraternity, with national headquarters in Washington, as a tribute to President Coolidge, a member of the Amherst College Chapter, who, during his undergraduate career, won the first prize in an essay contest sponsored by the Sons of the American Revolution.

GIRL HITCH-HIKERS TAKING $5 BILL TO GOV. SMITH

That's All They Had When They Left Houston; Hotels Give Give Them Free Board.

Five dollar bill No. K86860600 went through St. Louis yesterday on its way to New York, where the bearers, Miss Cordelia Mayberry, 19 years old, and Miss Amelia Eastman, 21, of Houston, Tex., who are on an automobile ride-catching hike from Houston, will present it to Gov. Smith for his campaign fund.

The girls say the $5 was all they had when they left Houston Wednesday, and because hotel keepers have treated them as guests in the fullest sense, it has remained intact. They wear hiking suits and large tropical cork hats. In New York they will make their bids for fame—so they say. Cordelia seeking a stage career, and Amelia, one in journalism.

PREMIER MUNROE TO RESIGN

Head of Newfoundland Government Makes Announcement.

By the Associated Press.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., July 21.—Announcement was made today through St. John's newspapers that Premier Walter Munroe would decline to lead his party in the general election in November and would resign the premiership. He assumed office in 1924.

At the last session of the legislative assembly the Munroe government had a majority of only one, aside from the Speaker, but was successful in carrying out its program of legislation.

Woman Killed in Runaway.

By the Associated Press.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., July 21.—Mrs. Ella McCoy, 66 years old, was almost instantly killed when a team of horses ran away here last night, throwing her from a spring wagon. The team, driven by Mrs. McCoy's nephew, who was bruised, raced down a residential street after becoming frightened by an automobile. Three grandchildren of Mrs McCoy in the wagon were not injured.

3,000,000 Farmers in Co-Operatives

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Some 2,000,000 farmers, a larger number than ever before, are shown in a Department of Agriculture survey to be participating in co-operative marketing and purchasing associations. A marked increase is noted in the North Central States, but a decrease has occurred in the South. Of the estimated total 900,000 are in grain marketing associations, 600,000 in associations for marketing dairy products, 450,000 for livestock marketing, 215,000 in marketing associations for fruits and vegetables and 140,000 in cotton marketing.

Youth and Congressman Convince Admiral Minor Dental Defect Won't Incapacitate Him.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CAMDEN, N. J., July 21.—After being refused admission to the United States Naval Academy in Annapolis because one of his teeth failed to meet the opposite, John Spiers, 16 years old, of Brooklawn, N. J., has at last won a fight for his chance to enter the academy.

Spiers was graduated from Penn Charter School in Philadelphia in June and obtained his appointment by passing the competitive examinations with an average above 90. Later he passed the mental tests at the academy with an equally high average. He was passed as perfect at a physical examination July 9, with the exception that one tooth was slightly out of line.

The authorities held that the slight defect would prove a drawback, and the boy was denied admission. Disappointed, he appealed to Congressman Charles A. Wolverton and was taken by him to Washington, once more examined, and once more turned down.

A cast was then made of young Spiers' teeth, and Wolverton sent it to Washington. Admiral Stitt decided the youth's teeth would not be a handicap to him as a naval officer and signed the order admitting him.

46 CANDIDATES FOR BENCH TO ADDRESS WOMEN VOTERS

Each Asked to Limit Remarks to 200 Words in Luncheon Meeting Wednesday.

Of the 46 Republican and Democratic candidates for the nine nominations of each party for places on the Circuit Court bench, 12 Republicans and eight Democrats have accepted the invitation of the League of Women Voters to address the last of its series of candidates' luncheons, at the City Club Wednesday.

Each has been asked to limit his remarks to 200 words, because of the number to be introduced. The meeting will be nonpartisan, with Mrs. George B. Mangold presiding.

The gathering will be public, and reservations may be made at the league office.

PAVING OF HIGHWAY NO. 50 TO BE DONE BY FALL OF 1931

State Commission Tells Committee Work From Sedalia to Union Will Be Pushed.

A subcommittee of the Highways' Committee of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce which went to Jefferson City Friday to urge the early paving with concrete of Highway No. 50, between St. Louis and Kansas City, was assured that steps were being taken to complete the paving of the highway by the fall of 1931.

The highway now is completed from Kansas City to Sedalia and from Union to St. Louis, and the Highway Commission has included the section from Sedalia to Union in its projects for early construction. Completion of the highway would provide two hard-surface roads across the State.

JUDGE CONFUSED BY TWINS; FREES BOTH AS SOLUTION

Columbus (O.) Jurist Knew One Had Served 30 Days Longer, but Mixed Identities.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., July 21.—The O'Connor twins, Mark and Clark, confessed narcotic law violators, were at liberty today, Mark the gainer by 30 days through a mix-up in Federal Court records.

When the pair pleaded guilty to grand jury indictments, Judge Benson W. Hough intended they should serve 60 days in jail, but as Clark had been in jail a month longer than Mark, the Court planned to let him out that much sooner.

Court attaches later told the Judge he had mixed the twins, and that one was getting more than the other, so the sentences were changed to correct that mistake. The twins' sister appeared later, however, and proved the change was a mistake, so Judge Hough decided to let both go, Mark 30 days ahead of time.

Texas Democrats to Plan Campaign

By the Associated Press.

DALLAS, Tex., July 21.—All Democrats "who have the success of the party at heart" have been invited by Jed C. Adams and Mrs. Clara Driscoll Sevier, Texas members of the Democratic National Committee, and D. W. Wilcox, State chairman, to participate in a meeting at Austin, Aug. 4, to consider plans for the campaign. Organization to cover every county in Texas and to "assure for the Democratic ticket, national, State and county, the greatest majority it has ever received," will be the aim of the gathering, it was announced following a conference here of party leaders from over the State.

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., July 21.—Ward Crane, 37 years old, motion picture actor, died of pneumonia today. He was born in Albany, and educated there, later serving in the navy in the war. He came here three months ago to regain his health.

CONVICT WHO HELPED KILL WARDEN CAUGHT

Detective Captures Condemned Man Who Escaped From Illinois Prison.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 21.—Charles Shader, one of the seven convicts who killed Deputy Warden Peter Klein and escaped from the penitentiary at Stateville, Ill., two years ago, was recaptured for the second time today. Within an hour he was on his way back to Joliet, where he was tried and condemned to hang for killing Klein before he made his second escape. Joliet authorities said he would be hanged within a week.

Detective Sergt. Walter Storms took Shader single-handed. Storms was on his furlough at the time and was driving a truckload of dirt for his garden through the street when he saw the escaped killer inside a tire shop. Wrapping his revolver in a newspaper and picking up an old tire rim outside the place, he entered on the pretense of having it repaired.

Shader knew Storms, but did not recognize him in his grimy working clothes. Storms stepped to his side, pressed his revolver against Shader and made him a prisoner. Shader was carrying two heavy-caliber revolvers.

Deputy Police Commissioner O'Connor placed Shader in his own car and, with a guard of detectives, started him back to Joliet. The recapture of Shader leaves only two of the original seven killers at large. James Price was never recaptured. Shader and five others were caught, tried and condemned to hang for killing Klein.

While they were awaiting execution, three of the prisoners, Bernardo Roa, Gregorio Rizo and Roberto Torres, broke out of the Will County Jail and fled to Chicago. They killed a Chicago policeman, member of the squad which intercepted them.

Helpful Information about
RESORTS and TOURS

The Post-Dispatch Resort and Tour Bureau has entered its fourth year of greater usefulness to the traveling public in St. Louis and the Great Southwest. Each year's added experience, in personal contact with thousands of travelers, has developed a constantly increasing efficiency for the Bureau and a greater ability to render better service.

Preparations for the Season of 1928, which were under way for months, are now complete. Bureau employes have accumulated up-to-date information. Map makers have collected the most recent available facts about highway construction; railway and steamship companies are notifying the Bureau of every schedule change as soon as it is made; resorts, hotels and camps have supplied new information and every other possible avenue of information has been explored and facts recorded so that the Post-Dispatch Resort and Tour Bureau of 1928 is now better equipped than ever before.

What Are Your Vacation Plans?

Do you want to go North, East, West or South—near or far? Do you want to travel by train, steamboat, steamship or automobile? Whether your plans are definite or indefinite, the Post-Dispatch Bureau will help arrange all details. Railroad, sleeper, steamship or hotel reservations will be made if desired. The best automobile routes and interesting side trips will be suggested.

This service is free—the Bureau has nothing to sell except some very handy and reliable state maps which sell for a dime each, an atlas of the United States which sells for half a dollar, St. Louis and Vicinity Maps which sell for 20c and a St. Louis Street Guide which sells for 25c, but you will not be urged to buy any of these unless you want them.

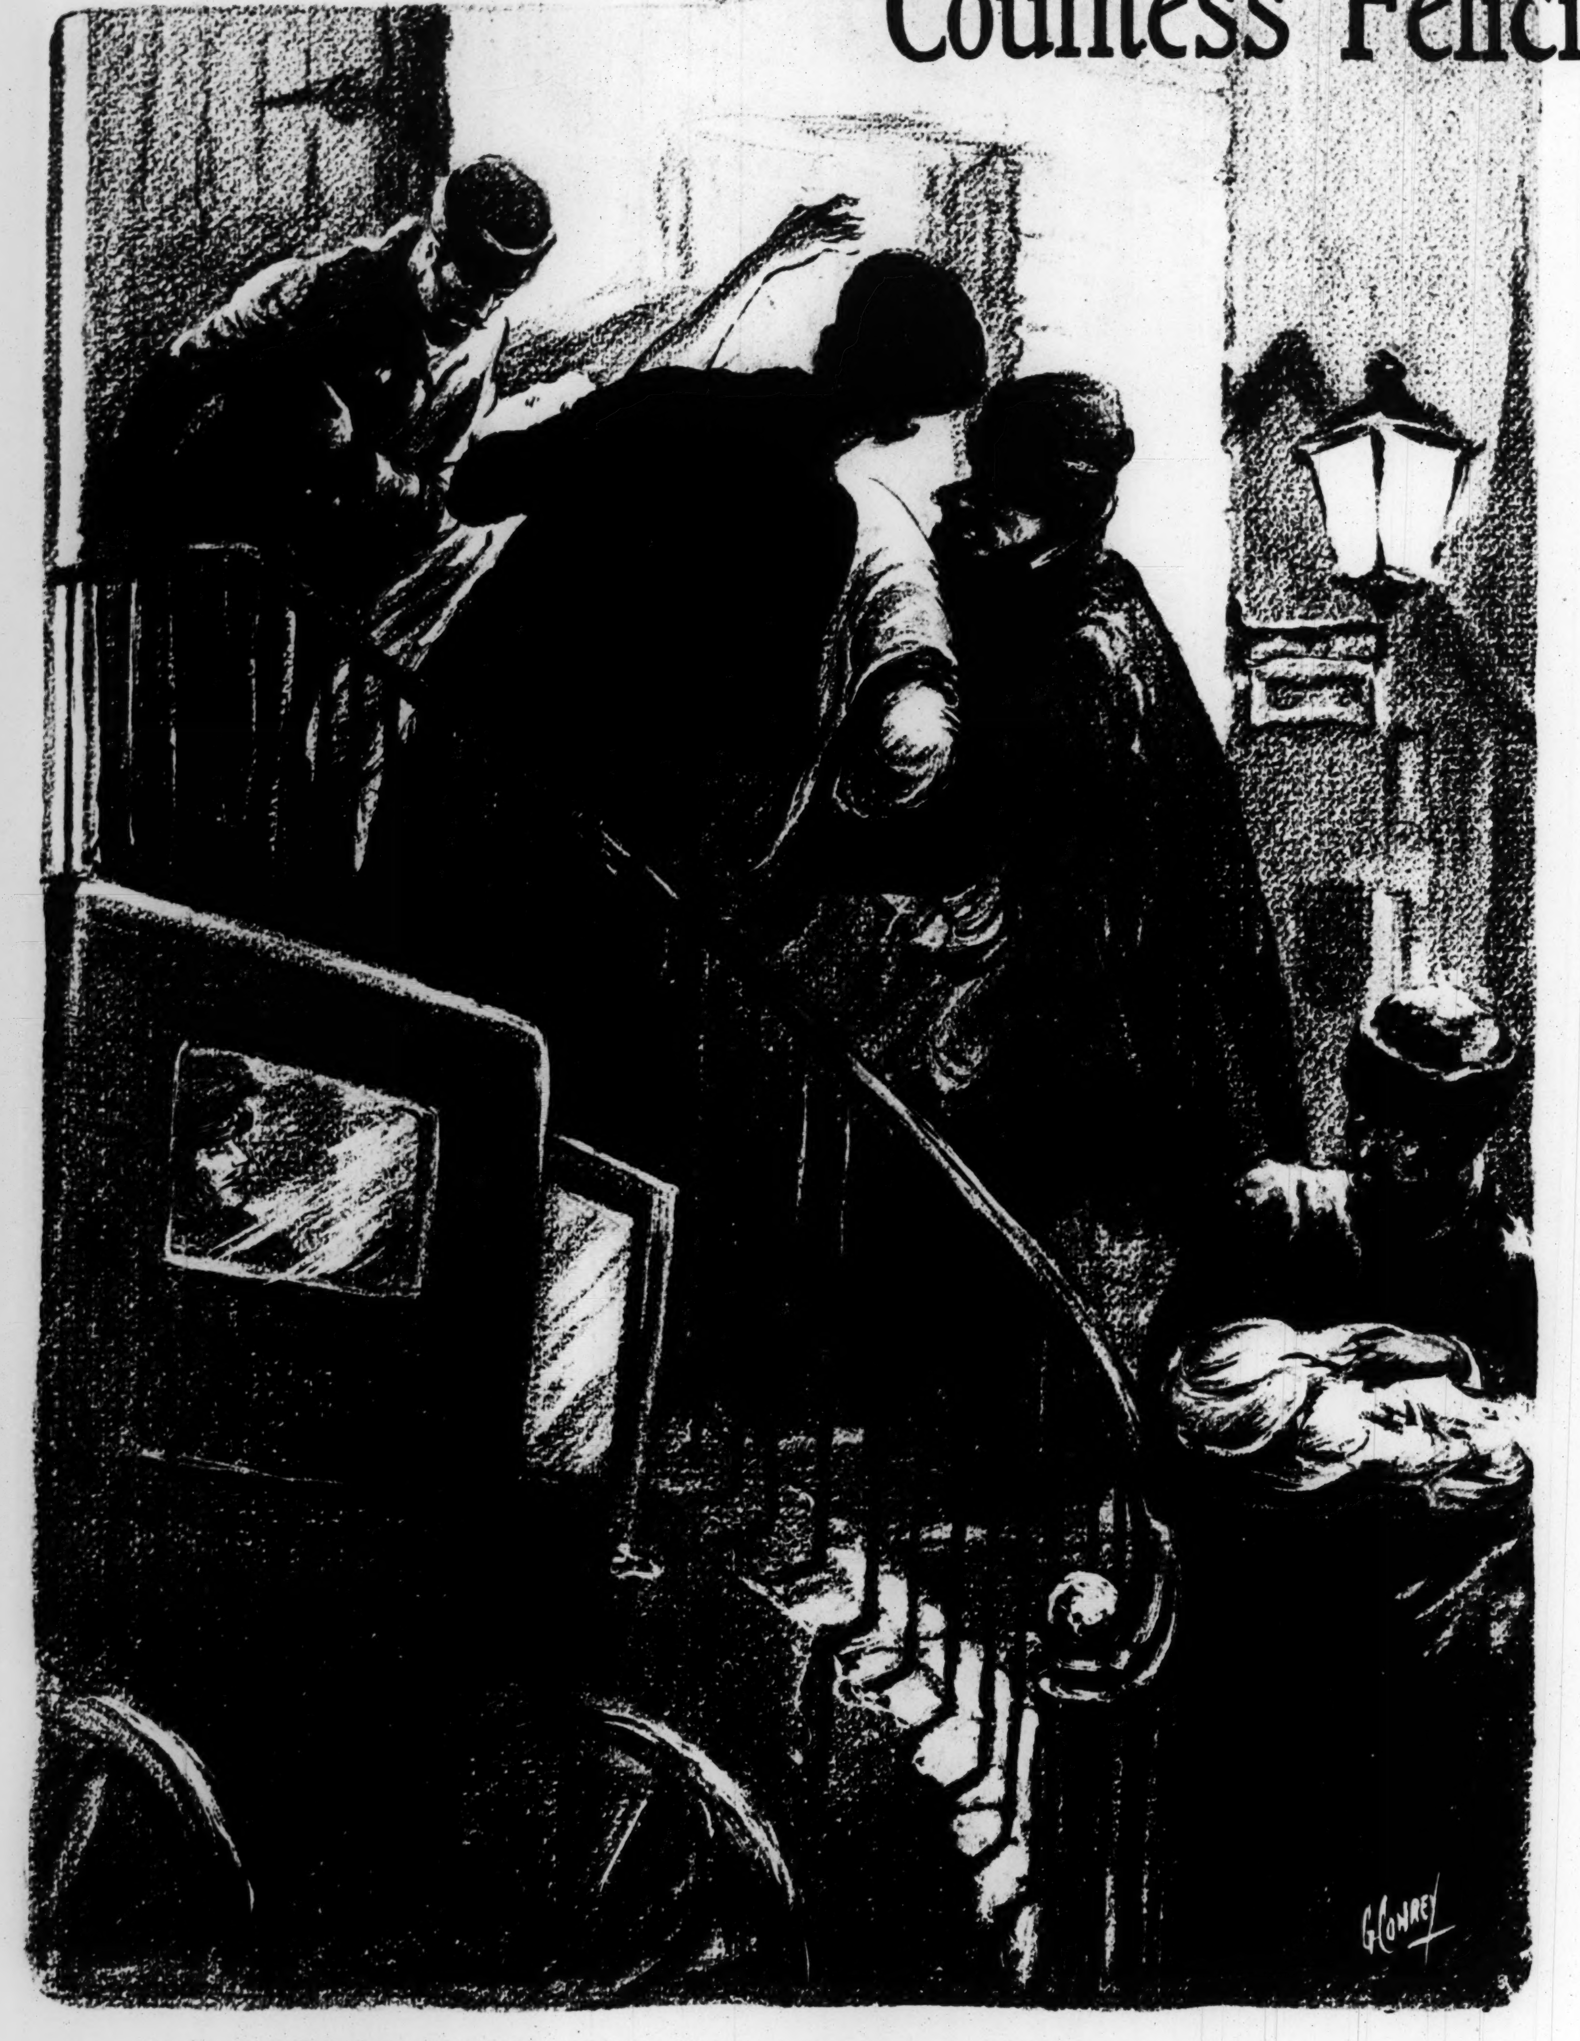
Countess Felicia Reaches Another Chapter Ending

Daughter of a Polish Nobleman and the Wealthy Eleanor Patterson, Her Kidnaping Involved Two Powerful Nations.

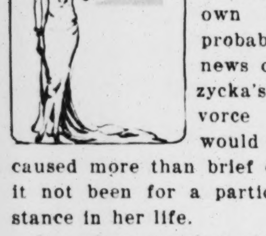


The nurse and the child were kidnaped and taken back to Poland by henchmen of Count Gizycka.

Countess Felicia (Mrs. Drew Pearson) and her infant daughter.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

WASHINGTON.



EVEN though she has a background of great wealth and is a Countess in her own right, it is probable that the news of Felicia Gizycka's recent divorce in Reno would scarcely have caused more than brief comment had it not been for a particular circumstance in her life.

It so happens that when she was a year old the Countess Felicia became a figure of international importance, about whom lengthy intrigue centered. She had been kidnaped by her father, who is a Polish nobleman, and she was sought by her mother, an American heiress with very influential connections. Later her mother and father were divorced.

Inevitably, though 20 years have elapsed, this romantic episode that took on an international character is recalled now that her own marriage has crashed and she has been granted a divorce from Drew Pearson, a young newspaperman whom she married three years ago.

The story of the Countess Felicia rightly begins with her mother, the former Eleanor Patterson, daughter of the late editor of the Chicago Tribune, Robert Patterson, for it was the fate of the mother that largely presaged the fate of the daughter. It is necessary to go back to the days of the Roosevelt administration, when Eleanor Patterson was a debutante in Chicago.

Eleanor Patterson was one of the wealthiest girls in the world at that time, and her debut year in the Illinois city was one that has been remembered ever since. Her parties and dinners would have put to shame the efforts of the proudest royal chef on the Continent. And her suitors included Princes and noblemen.

It was the Count Gizycka, Polish nobleman, who finally won her hand. And in the days that preceded the wedding the whole world, it seemed, indulged in speculations as to its possibilities of success. There were those who believed it would survive the test. There were those who didn't. The latter, it developed, were right.

AFTER a brilliant wedding in California—just such a wedding as would be expected as a fitting climax to Eleanor Patterson's debut year—the Count and Countess left America for Poland, where they took up their residence in his castle near the border country, which was then a part of Russia. But things went badly.

The Countess, being an American girl, raised according to American standards, found herself in an entirely new and strange environment. Although her family-in-law did everything in their power to make her welcome, there were inevitable differences constantly cropping up.

The role of the European wife is to be obedient and subservient. She is supposed to ask no questions, to dispute no commands of her husband, to do nothing that may hamper, in any way, his freedom. If she has money she is supposed to bestow it all upon him, to do with as he pleases. At least this was true 15 years ago.

On the other hand, the role of the American wife is to be an intelligent helpmate, working on the same plane with her husband, ready to meet him half way in any emergency. Legally, she has virtually the same rights that he does. Socially, she has more. And the Countess Gizycka, being an American girl, found herself utterly unable to reconcile herself to the position of continental wifehood.

For some months she stood it as best she could, until a daughter was born—the Countess Felicia, who has recently been Mrs. Drew Pearson—and then, suddenly, she revolted. It was not a revolt against the Count, for he had been more than kind. It was not a revolt against his family, for they had done everything in their power to make her happy. It was, really, a revolt against the European custom of marriage.

Taking a faithful old family nurse with her, the Countess Gizycka and her baby fled from Poland one night, while the Count was away, and went to Paris, where she took an apartment. Her primary idea, as a matter of fact, was not to desert the Count permanently. It was, instead, only to get off to herself where she could think this new scheme of things out in peace and quiet. She wasn't dogmatically declaring that the European custom was wrong. She only wanted to be able to argue the question out with herself.

But while she was arguing, the Count was not sitting idle in Poland. His noble pride had been outraged, and his rights of fatherhood violated. And he set about to rectify the situation.

He laid his plans carefully. He found out, through his agents, the exact address of the Countess in Paris; the plan of the apartment; the general habits of the little family; and, in short, all particulars that might be of any assistance to him. Then, several months after the Countess had disappeared, he sent representatives to the French capital, who kidnaped not only the child, but the nurse also, and brought them back to Poland.

Countess Gizycka, formerly Eleanor Patterson, now Mrs. Elmer Schlesinger.

The world was suddenly turned upside down, at the news of this affair. Cables from France to America burned with communications to the powerful Pattersons and McCormicks, who were first cousins, back in Chicago. Every possible string of influence was pulled, both in the States and abroad, but without success. And as the months rolled by, fall found the Countess Gizycka still in Paris without her baby, and without even a promise of regaining her.

The only suggestion of satisfaction came in a very occasional communication from the Count in which he formally informed his wife that the child was safe, happy, and being well cared for by his own family.

Meanwhile, Medill McCormick—who had then just concluded a term as United States Ambassador to France and another to Russia, and who later became United States Senator from Illinois—had gone to Europe to take the cure at Carlsbad, and hearing of the difficulties, hastened to Paris to the aid of his beautiful young cousin.

FOR SOME weeks they struggled along in Paris, trying to get some satisfaction by cable from the States, or by wire from St. Petersburg, but without success. Finally, seeing that nothing could be done by long-distance methods, he and the Countess decided to make a personal appeal to the Russian Government, and hurried on to the capital.

The influence of the Count, however, was so strong that even a former American Ambassador to the country could do nothing. It was with much difficulty that they got a hearing at all, and then it was merely a formality. The plea was denied. Obviously, no redress could be expected there, and McCormick gave up, returning to America. The Countess, on her part, went to Vienna, and there waited, not knowing where to turn next.

Back in America, however, there was one member of the family—the Countess' uncle, Raymond Patterson, Washington correspondent for the Tribune—who was quietly working, and who finally saved the day.

Raymond Patterson had been a college mate of William Howard Taft, who by that time had been made President, and when all else failed he went to Taft and told him the story.

As a personal favor he asked whether anything could be done, and Taft, after long deliberation, said he would try. He told Raymond that he was certain no President had ever asked a Czar or any other crowned head to have a baby given back to its mother. He didn't know whether he was treading on the toes of international relations or not. But international relations or no international relations, he wrote the letter.

Eleanor Patterson, then in Vienna, knew nothing of it. She had written to Raymond at intervals, telling of the progress of the case, but had never asked him to take a hand in it, and had no idea he was doing so. And, therefore, it was out of a clear sky that the sudden change in fortunes came.

The Count, upon a special order of the Czar, was placed under arrest by Imperial officers, and was held until he signed a document in which he relinquished all claim to the child. Then, with a special escort, the little Countess Felicia and her nurse were hurried away to the mother in Vienna.

It was only for a few days that they remained in the Austrian capital, for as soon as steamship reservations could be obtained the trio came back to this country, where the Countess Felicia was raised and educated.

As for the Countess Gizycka, she subsequently divorced the Count, and married Elmer Schlesinger of New York. It was in the Schlesinger home, on Dupont Circle here, that the President and Mrs. Coolidge lived while the White House was being remodeled in 1927.

YOUNG FELICIA made her debut very quietly in Washington in 1923, and in 1924 she married the young newspaper man, Drew Pearson, in California. Pearson's father was very wealthy, having started the Swarthmore Chautauqua Association, and the young man himself gave no little promise in the newspaper world.

But the marital venture of the daughter was no more successful than that of the mother.

A daughter was born, but this failed to draw the two together. Felicia finally went to Reno about four months ago, to take up her residence preparatory to filing a divorce action.

It was based on incompatibility, and did not go into details. That, fortunately, is not necessary in Reno. And, indeed, there was only one thing in it that was out of the ordinary. She asked the court for the privilege of resuming her maiden name, and the request was granted.

THE life of the open road may have its appeal to men — it certainly does for James Eads How. But you never saw a woman hobo. If you were to ask How, he would probably tell you that you never will see one, for he has tried for four years to cultivate in Mrs. How a taste for the pleasures of bumming, and has failed.

As a result, Mrs. How the other day filed suit for divorce. It makes no difference to Mrs. How that her husband happens to be a de luxe tramp, known to the world as "the millionaire hobo." That makes it even worse, she says. After four years of life with How she detests anything having even a distant relation to the province of Hobohemia. She can't endure Mulligan stew and she hates people who regard shaving and bathing as quaint customs which may be happily ignored.

When How found that he couldn't convert her into a hobo, or at least into a friend of hobos, he virtually deserted her for the "jungles" of the "blanket stiffs," she says in her petition for divorce. He preferred those haunts, she complains, to their pleasant home in Glendale, a suburb not far from here.

The world was advised by wire in August, 1924, that Mr. James Eads How, "the millionaire hobo," had taken unto himself a wife in Chicago. "His secretary, whom he met in Denmark," the dispatches said. "The bride is Mrs. Ingeborg J. Sorenson. She has a son seven years old by a former husband."

The couple boarded a train for St. Louis and went to live at the Buckingham Annex. Which seemed the logical thing to do. How's family had been one of importance there. His grandfather had built the Eads bridge and was one of the most widely known contractors in the West. It was from St. Louis that James had gone East to college and earned his Doctor's degree. The young man afterwards had become imbued with the wanderlust and had developed some I. W. W. or Socialistic tendencies, but there was no disputing the quality of the blue blood which coursed in his veins.

EVENTUALLY he began living among the knights of the road. By the time he had reached full manhood he had been branded "the millionaire hobo" and was engaged in promoting a hobo college and fostering an organization known as the International Brotherhood Welfare Association in the interest of wayfarers.

His bride knew all this but she was willing to take him for better or for worse. A short stay at the Buckingham Annex and then the two set out for California to establish their home.

"It wasn't long," says Mrs. How in reviewing subsequent events, "before I learned I had made a mistake. My first rude awakening came while we were on a train en route to Los Angeles. We went into the dining car. The steward seated us at a clean, white table and I began looking over the menu.

By the time he had reached full manhood he had been branded "the millionaire hobo" and was engaged in promoting a hobo college and fostering an organization known as the International Brotherhood Welfare Association in the interest of wayfarers.

His bride knew all this but she was willing to take him for better or for worse. A short stay at the Buckingham Annex and then the two set out for California to establish their home.

"It wasn't long," says Mrs. How in reviewing subsequent events, "before I learned I had made a mistake. My first rude awakening came while we were on a train en route to Los Angeles. We went into the dining car. The steward seated us at a clean, white table and I began looking over the menu.

"I'll have some chops and a salad,' I said to the waiter. 'And a bit of French pastry.'

"'A cup of coffee!' the Doctor said, briefly. 'That's all.'

"The waiter served the orders. He set the lonely cup of coffee in front of Mr. How. I wondered if he was losing his appetite. But was he? He reached into his pocket, hauled out a large, red bandana handkerchief and extracted therefrom a choice collection of stale bread, doughnuts and cheese.

"And that was on our honeymoon! I sat in amazement. He did that time and time again thereafter, during our travels. In time, I grew accustomed to the stored-away food and the bandana.

"When we reached Los Angeles, he took me to a third-rate hotel and presently I noted that he needed a shave. But he didn't get it. He had promised to buy us a home and he made good on that promise, all right. He bought a very, very pretty place. This is it."

MRS. HOW was surveying her property as she talked. It was a modern home, painted a dull gray, possibly six or seven rooms, situated on Silver Ridge drive. A few blocks away was beautiful Silver Lake and in the distance the thriving little city of Glendale. Eucalyptus trees towered above the bungalow, there was a garage in the basement and room in the yard for flower gardens and fountains. But the gardens and the flowers and the fountains never had been put in. Instead, a large and luxuriant crop of wild oats and weeds was allowed to grow until more or less of a jungle surrounded the home.

"His time was too much taken up with affairs of the Brotherhood and with the Hobo College to permit him to cut weeds or mow a lawn," Mrs. How continued. "I tried to domesticate him in a manner, but it wouldn't work. He had been a hobo so long he couldn't change his spots. This might not have been so bad but he tried to make a hobo out of me. Soon after our arrival in California he began demanding that I attend the hobo meetings. And, wife-like, I went. I would act as chairman of the assemblages, when he directed. Or as secretary if he thought it advisable. Sometimes I attended as many as seven meetings a week right down in the cheap lodging-house districts. It made me miserable, but I did my part.

"Presently he began bringing his hobo friends to the house to eat. In they'd march, the Doctor in the lead, and trailing behind him two, three or more men he had picked up somewhere in the sticks. And I wish you might have seen them! Unshaven, disheveled, unwashed. And I'd try to be the 'charming hostess.'

"Eat? The way some of them went after food was a sight to behold. I'll say this much, however, there were some among them with the polished manners of gentlemen—unkempt in their clothing but courteous, gracious, tactful and, withal, charming guests. It's that way with knights of the road, I guess. Possibly among these Mr. How finds his most agreeable companionship. They were like him, in a way. When the Doctor is shaved and bathed and nicely dressed he can assume the role of a gentleman and be at home in any society. But he doesn't want to be shaved and bathed. And he doesn't want to be in good society. He wants to be with hobos.

"We had not been married many months before he began staying away from home, coming to see me only once in a while and remaining only a very few days. I'd hear of his addressing hobo meetings and of his hobnobbing with them down by the river bed. He took an interest in my boy, Holger Carl Sorenson, now 11 years old, and wanted to adopt him. I gave my consent, then learned that Mr. How purposed training him to be a leader of hoboes. Would any mother consent to such a course as this? Well, hardly! Thus our clashes started. He wanted to take him out of school but I objected. Once, in an argument over the child, he struck me, making my arm sore and painful. Then he decided that he would adopt two four-year-old boys in Tennessee and make hobo leaders of them.

"'All right, Doctor,' I told him. 'You give this home to me and give me $400 a month out of your $600 or $800 income and you may bring them here. But you shan't make a hobo out of my Holger.'

"He would not agree to that because he spends all his time and money in the supposed advancement and organization of the hobos of this country. He had little money for me. There were days at a time when I had to go hungry or could buy only one meal. I could never get enough to run the house. He used to say: 'This money was inherited. I did not make it. That's why we mustn't spend it on ourselves.' That is a part of his creed.

"Once the Doctor took me and my aunt and her friend to dinner where he ordered just an average meal. You should have seen the dirty look he gave us! He was to pay the check and it seemed to hurt.

"I ENDURED all these things until April, 1926, then Mr. How went away. We had lived together as Mr. and Mrs. How exactly one year, seven months and 15 days before the break-up. That is, we lived together intermittently. He would be absent for weeks, then return for two or three days. But presently he would be off again with his hobo friends and I would be left alone with my boy. He sent me a little money but gradually began cutting down the remittances more and more until—O, what's the use of bringing up all those miserable days and incidents! I'm done."

In the interim, James Eads has driven around Southern California in his big gray automobile. A year or two ago he established offices for the International Brotherhood Welfare Association on San Julian street in Los Angeles and went about delivering lectures. One Christmas eve he invited 500 hobos to a sumptuous feed and at another time arranged an entertainment for a throng of the city's derelicts and down-and-outers at which music, refreshments and dancing were provided. He went to Manila last year to organize the insular hobos and asserts that he represents an organization of 3,500,000 men.

When Mrs. How's divorce action was filed, it developed that the task of locating the "Doctor" was not a trifling matter. He was scheduled to deliver an address to wayfarers at 612 North Main street in Los Angeles the day the papers were made of record. Attorney S. C. Schaefer, representing Mrs. How, had a process server there to greet him. But "the millionaire hobo" did not show up. Neither did he appear in a little hall opposite the Plaza where another meeting was scheduled. A scouting trip into the jungles along the Los Angeles river bed failed to find him.

THEN the attorney began wondering if somewhere on a train away out in the great American desert James Eads How was not comfortably ensconced in a swaying boxcar, bound for nowhere in particular but on his way. Who could tell?

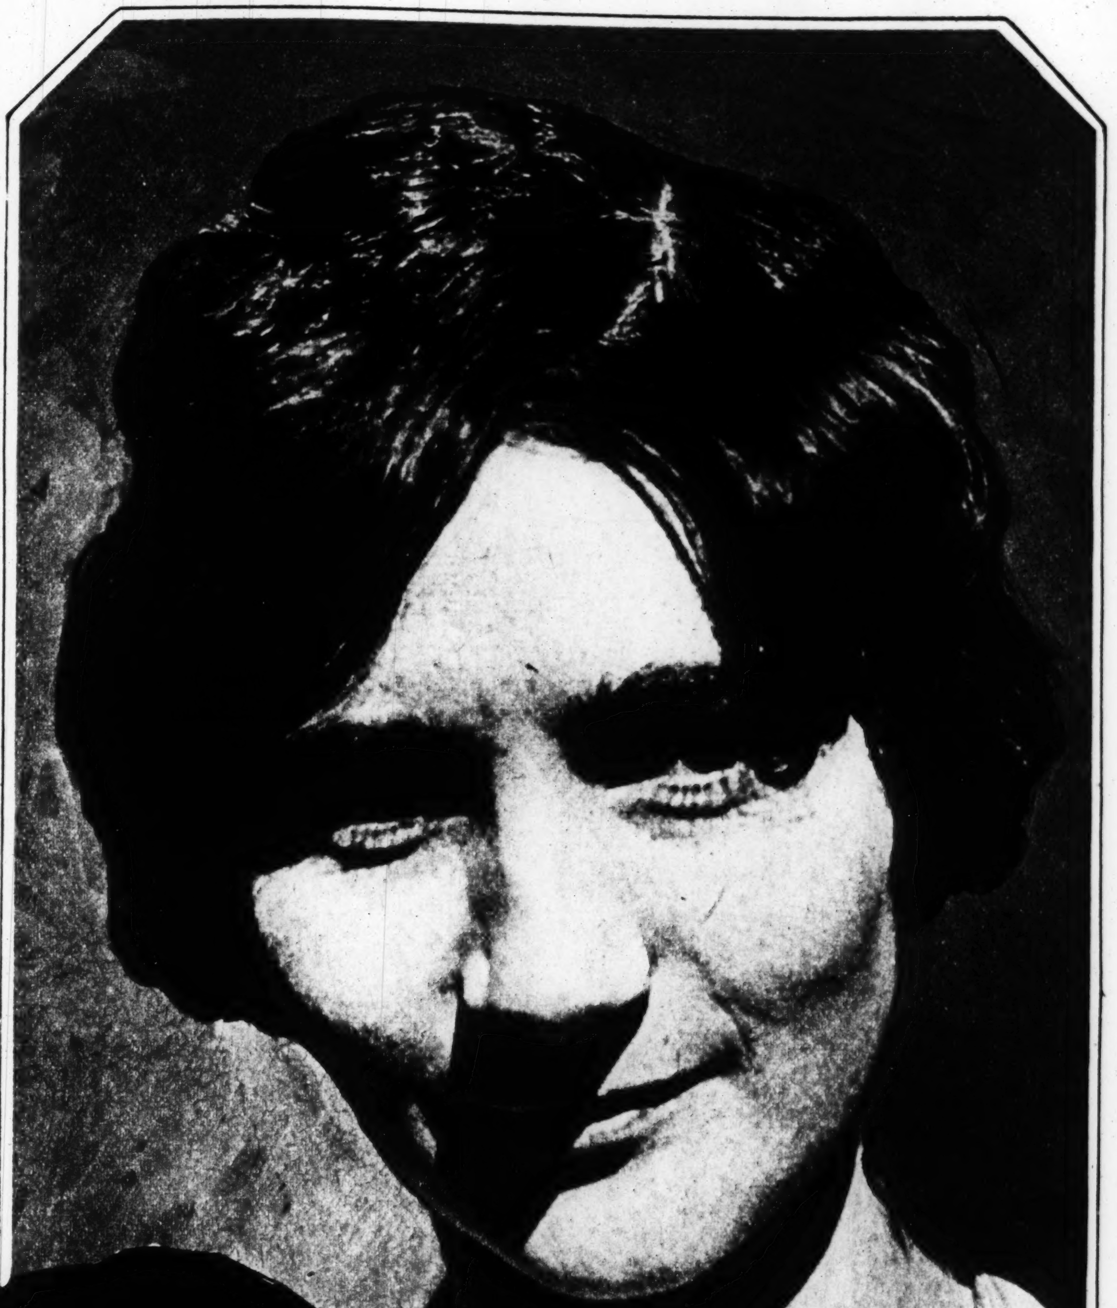
Serving papers on Mr. How on previous occasions had been no small task. In 1924, scarcely more than a month after he had taken Mrs. Sorenson to be his bride, Mrs. Victoria Harvey, for 18 years secretary of the International Brotherhood Welfare Association, filed suit against him in St. Louis for $100,000, alleging breach of promise. She said she had been engaged to How for 14 years and was waiting for him in Atlantic City, ready to be married, when she read the dispatches telling of his wedding in Chicago. It is understood that papers in this suit never were served upon Mr. How because he never was found in the State of Missouri thereafter.

"He has been back there many times," the present Mrs. How declares, "but he makes the trip secretly—usually at night."

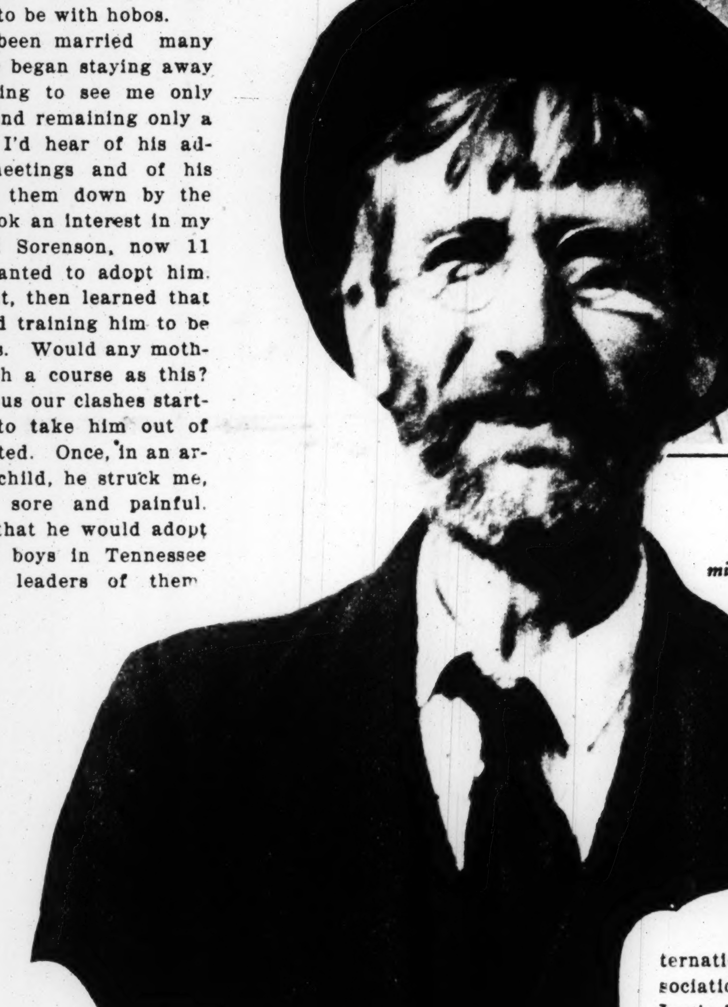
"Will the same trouble be encountered in bringing him to court in the present action?" Attorney Schaefer was asked.

"WELL, I hardly think so," he said. "Mrs. How has asked for a division of the community property, which consists of the home on Silver Ridge, valued at something like $12,000. Then she asks for a reasonable amount of alimony, leaving that to the judgment of the court. How gets from $600 to $800 a month, it is understood, from the estate of his mother, Mrs. Eliza How, administered in St. Louis. We can get service on him by publication, just as Lita Grey got service on Charlie Chaplin by publication in her divorce suit. I do not believe it likely that Mr. How will drift on into other fields, surrendering his home and facing the prospect of a California alimony order. But he might remain away the legal limit proscribed by law under such publication proceedings."

The estate left by How's parents is held in trust—tied up so that he cannot lay hands upon the principal. Only the income may be spent.



Mrs. How.



Portrait of "the millionaire hobo."

Mrs. How says she will make no effort to obtain possession of the source of her husband's funds. At his death, she knows, all payments from him must cease.

"I am asking the courts to give my boy into my custody," she says. "He legally was adopted by Mr. How, but I don't believe any Judge will permit him to be taken into the life of those men. I want him back, to be brought up among good people and go to school. Just a few days before I brought suit for divorce, Mr. How came out to the house and we had a long, long talk to see if we couldn't patch things up. But it was no use. I just couldn't do it. He slept that night in a spare room. I had to change the bed clothing next day. He went back, I suppose, to his hobo friends. I haven't heard from him since and I have no idea where he is."

NEIGHBORS look askance at "the millionaire hobo's" home, with its sunroom darkened by faded drapes. They see Mrs. How drive to the public school in the mornings to take her son to classes and they see her coming back later in the day with the boy by her side. She lives in fear that he will be stolen, so guards him closely. Sometimes during the day she drives to the beach where she has had an interest in a small establishment since the separation from her husband. And always she looks furtively at the "weary Willies" she sees plodding along the road. Being the wife of "the millionaire hobo" has brought her no gladness and she wants to lose the appellation. If she had it all to do over again, the wedding never would occur. That one short stay at the Buckingham Annex in St. Louis, as a bride, was the only happy period of her life as Mrs. How, she says.

"I tried to make the home attractive," she adds. "But it mattered not how nice I made it look, how well I prepared the meals, or how pretty I made the table appear, I found that he preferred being down in the jungles eating with the hobos. And so, in time, I became discouraged."

Outside the door, as she talked, there lay a toy airplane propeller whittled from a stick. The wreck of a small wagon lay at one side. A piece of slate, some tangled twine, a stray marble, all told in silent language where her interest in the household lay. It is certain that little Holger Carl How never shall be a hobo.

AND THERE on the SCREEN WAS the STORY of HER SHAME

Why Gabrielle d'Arley, Who Had Started Life Anew, Sued Dorothy Davenport Reid for $50,000.

LOS ANGELES.

NOW SHOWING
THE RED KIMONO

IN THE sun-baked town of Prescott, Arizona, some few hundred miles from here, there is nothing much to do when night comes but go to the movies. Nearly every film that comes along draws a good crowd.

It was natural, then, that the first showing of "The Red Kimono" there last February should attract a crowd, for it had been heralded as showing a realistic picture of vice conditions and was produced by the widow of the late Wallace Reid.

Friends and neighbors, living along a pleasant, bungalow-lined street, formed a little party to see the movie on the first night that it was shown in Prescott. Among them were the Melvins, Gabrielle d'Arley Melvin and her husband. They settled themselves in their seats, while the piano thumped away, and waited for the show to begin.

With the first flickering bit of film, Mrs. Melvin saw her whole existence shattered. She watched, as though in a nightmare, her name and her picture flashed on the screen, saw the blackest episodes in a past that she had concealed from her friends and neighbors spun out before their eyes. When the picture ended, a painful silence fell as one by one the friends arose and left the husband and wife sitting in the still darkened theater.

So eager had Mrs. Reid been to make the picture realistic in every detail that she had even chosen the history of a real person for the scenario. That person was Gabrielle d'Arley. At the beginning of the film a picture of Mrs. Reid was shown glancing through an album of newspaper clippings, some of which were thrown in close-ups on the screen. A page was turned, black headlines at the top of a column blazed the name Gabrielle d'Arley, and exhibited her picture. The rest of the film followed the darkest episode in her early past fairly closely. It scarcely exaggerated, even though it may have seemed over-theatrical and forced to a critical eye, the bitter drama of Gabrielle d'Arley's youth.

IT WENT back to New Year's Day in 1915; a wine cellar in Los Angeles, with liquor bottles and barrels in rows. Business houses closed. Few pedestrians on the street. Night coming on. A group of men drinking.

The door opened and a girl, her fur closely drawn about her throat, entered. She was 18, dark, her face youthful, yet already bearing a faint imprint of lines.

The girl walked directly to the side of a man who had a glass of wine before him. One hand she removed from her muff. The other she kept concealed. Close observation would have revealed the muzzle of a small revolver barely protruding. No one noticed her arrival. The appearance of a woman in a wine cellar was not uncommon. Many were regular patrons.

The man turned as she reached his side. He recognized her.

"Gabrielle!" he exclaimed.

"Yes," the girl replied. "So you remember me, do you? I thought you would. I came to see you—to have a little talk."

"About what?"

"I think you know. You promised to marry me."

"Well, what of it?"

The muscles of her face tightened. Her eyes half closed. She raised the hand in the muff and there was the report of a revolver. The man, Leonard Topp, a former bartender, staggered backward. Before a police surgeon arrived he was dead. Gabrielle d'Arley faced trial for her life.

"I knew Topp in Prescott, Arizona," she said. "For two and a half years he made me believe he was going to marry me. Then he left for Los Angeles. I learned he was about to be married, so I started out to—to have a little talk with him. And—I found him."

ANOTHER young woman, a Miss Bonnie Elliott, received a telephone message from a police officer that evening:

"You were going to a New Year's dinner with Leonard Topp? Well, you needn't wait. He's just been killed in a Seventh street wine shop by a girl from Arizona." The phone clicked. Miss Elliott had been engaged to marry the murdered man.

For the purposes of the film, the story of the murder and the trial that followed was taken from the columns of Los Angeles newspapers and the official records of the Los Angeles courts.

Gabrielle d'Arley unhesitatingly admitted firing the shot which killed Topp. She went back through all the sordid details of her life—telling how she had come from a little town in Northern France when a child and had met and married Ernest Presti, a boxer, whom she divorced. Then she met Topp, an ex-soldier. At first, so she testified at the trial, he had been the epitome of kindness, but it was not long before there was a marked change in their relationship.

She told her story to the jury, simply, plainly, unreservedly. She described the garish life that she had led, the degradation to which Topp had finally brought her. And she offered no excuse except that she had loved Topp with all the devotion and sacrifice which it was possible to give.

IT DID not take a jury long to exonerate her for the killing. Juries have a way of being moved by stories of that kind. She was free. But where was she to go? To whom could she turn? How could she live? Alone, friendless and penniless, she faced another bitter struggle. She got work in several homes, only to be discharged when her identity was discovered. Asked for references, she had none to give. Women in good homes do not want maids who have been tried for murder and have admitted following the oldest of all professions.

After a long series of failures, she gave up and went back to the life in which no credentials are required. It seemed the easiest way, the only way, in fact. And thus for a time she passed into obscurity.

But one afternoon, four years later, August 9, 1919, to be exact, a woman walked into Los Angeles police headquarters and asked for Policewoman Barton. She was neatly dressed. There was color in her cheeks and on her face was a look of happiness and contentment.

"Mother Barton," she asked, "do you know me?"

The police matron confessed that she did not. It was not until Gabrielle d'Arley had related the circumstances through which they had known each other that Mrs. Barton recognized her.

She explained that she had met a man who had befriended her, and that finally they had been married, that she was now Mrs. Melvin and that she was again living in Prescott. Several years had elapsed and she had been able to go back to the little Arizona town and assume a position among the respectable middle-class wives there. No one remembered her. When she had lived there before she had known only the lower fringe, virtually outcasts.

Moreover, even her appearance had changed. She was a mature woman now, with only faint traces of her ordeal visible in her face. She went back to Prescott with the utmost confidence that she would always be accepted as one of the virtuous housewives of the town.

The film, "The Red Kimono," set all of Prescott talking. Mrs. Melvin's friends and neighbors shunned her. Where they were not openly rude, they made it plain that they felt they could have nothing more to do with her.

An old snapshot of Gabrielle d'Arley.

When it ended its run in Prescott, "The Red Kimono" went to Phoenix. Then it was shown in San Bernardino, California, not so many miles from Prescott. To thousands upon thousands it told the story of Mrs. Melvin's early life. She was frantic.

"Can't it be stopped?" she implored the producers. "Why should all this be brought back again?"

The whole structure of her new life virtually destroyed, she sought an attorney in Los Angeles, where Mrs. Reid has legal residence. She begged the lawyer to take action to suppress the film and bring the producers to an accounting. And so there was filed the other day a petition in the courts. Stripped of its legal verbiage, it recited:

"In truth and in fact, Mrs. Melvin, prior to 1915, lived a depraved life, but became entirely rehabilitated. After her marriage she moved to Prescott, where she succeeded in keeping her past life secret. Her friends and acquaintances were not aware of the fact that she had at one time been tried for murder. In Prescott she was loved and respected by her new friends and acquaintances and was treated as a lady of culture and refinement. But, as a result of the showing of this picture, she has become and is now exposed to obloquy, contempt and ridicule. She has suffered and still does suffer in mind and body. She became sick and still is sick by reason of the wrongful and unlawful acts of the defendants."

Fifty thousand dollars is being asked as damages, as well as an accounting of profits on the production, which, the petition alleges, are large. The suit is aimed at Mrs. Reid and four John Does. Attorney Ben F. Griffith, who filed the suit, admits in the petition that the facts as shown in the picture are essentially facts of Gabrielle d'Arley's life. As such, he charges, they are her private property. Her name was used "without her consent or wishes for the gain and profit of the defendants," it is charged.

CAN the producing company be punished for telling a story drawn from a city's criminal records? Will Gabrielle d'Arley forever be exposed to situations that may bring a recurrence of her present plight? If the events pictured really occurred, can a company be restrained from telling them to the world? Newspapers recount details of murders, giving true names in the accounts. If newspapers have this privilege, do not motion pictures also? These are questions the Court is asked to decide.

The production manager for Mrs. Reid declares that although Mrs. Melvin's misadventures may furnish the plot, or part of the plot, of "The Red Kimono," the completed picture shows her in a most favorable light, depicting her finally married to a good husband and the mistress of a pretty home. He cites further that it even minimizes the dark episodes in Mrs. Melvin's life, since it shows her turning her back on the easy way following the trial. Priscilla Bonner played the part of Gabrielle in the film, while Mary Carr, a professional screen "mother," took the role of the kindly police matron. George Siegmann, character actor who died recently, was the villain in the screen play.

For Mrs. Melvin there is just one bit of good that has come out of the whole tragedy. And that is her husband's steadfast loyalty. He has never wavered but has defended her against the attacks of his own friends and neighbors. Back in Prescott again, Mrs. Melvin is living in almost complete seclusion, waiting for the case to be brought to trial. She hopes that possibly she and her husband can start over again somewhere else when it is all over.

Sentenced to Take His Wife to Lunch

Philadelphia Claims a Modern Solomon in Judge Leopold C. Glass, Who Thinks Common Sense Better Than Legal Red Tape.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

Judge Glass at a Christmas party at the Home of Detention.

Judge Leopold C. Glass.

PHILADELPHIA.

AS NEW laws are added to old laws until the sum of the statutes takes on the intricacy of the switching tracks of the yards of a great railway terminal, and common sense finds itself defeated by the dogmatic limitations of legal red tape, it is pleasant to find a jurist who cries for "more psychology and less law," and practices what he preaches.

This common-sense jurist is Judge Leopold C. Glass of the Municipal Court of Philadelphia, and though he is the youngest Judge sitting on the municipal bench he has been made President Judge of the court. His cases vary; he listens to criminal and civil matters, juvenile cases and, though he is a bachelor—and the only one on the city's bench—he has made a reputation for himself in the manner in which he has handled domestic relations difficulties. Judge Glass is 42 years old.

There is no getting around the fact that some of his methods of bringing truce into embattled homes are, to say the least, novel, but then nobody wants to get around it. Some of this man's sentences have been peculiar, some have seemed, on the surface, bound to irritate, all in all his methods have caused a furore among the city jurists and barristers. But when the noise had subsided, there sat the Court, unperturbed and victorious. His common-sense sentences have worked, and discord has disappeared before the dainty advances of sweet reconciliation. Jurist Glass' plea for "less law and more psychology' has justified itself. It was only a few weeks ago that a woman had her estranged spouse brought into his court. The lady, it seemed, wished to have the amount her husband gave her each week to support her daughter and herself increased. The husband, one Herman Zimmerman, came into court as ordered and sat himself down. Mrs. Zimmerman likewise was there, but on the opposite side of the room. Observers report that though they looked at each other there was no affection discovered in their glances, rather the note was extremely pugnacious. No words passed between them.

IN DUE time their case was called. Mrs. Zimmerman informed Judge Glass she received $8 a week from her husband for the support of herself and their daughter, that $8 was not sufficient and that she, therefore, wanted more money. The Court set aside the question of finances for a moment and delved into the reasons for the separation of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Zimmerman. Those reasons were trifling, a thin quarrel or two, and the Court declared: "I can't see that you two people are very widely separated."

Then he said to the lady: "Suppose you look at your husband, perhaps he will smile at you."

Mrs. Zimmerman was in court and, feeling it was up to her to do what the Court directed, she first looked at the Judge, smiled, laughed, and then turned to her husband.

That gentleman smiled. Then he, catching it, laughed.

"Now," said the Court, "I sentence you, Mr. Zimmerman, to take your wife out to lunch."

At this point Mrs. Zimmerman broke in with the information that she was on a diet and didn't believe it advisable to eat lunch, but she added that she was quite willing to go with Mr. Zimmerman while he partook of nourishment.

So they left the court, laughing and chatting, and they haven't been back since. Court officers, investigating the case a little later, found that Mr. and Mrs. Herman Zimmerman once more were living together in the bonds of holy matrimony.

Judge Glass is a cheery-looking individual, a bit stout, intensely human. He doesn't drop that humanness when he goes upon the bench; he keeps it with him, and it serves him in good stead.

His rise has been rapid. Coming from the city of Shamokin, a town of the Pennsylvania coal regions, where he won a scholarship at the University of Pennsylvania by his high school work, he was graduated from the university's college and then from its law school. He thereupon entered into the practice of law, and before long was elected to a place in the State Legislature, where he served as a representative for 10 years. Then he was made a Judge of the Municipal Court, and a year ago was elected President Judge. In the year he has served as jurist and arbitrator of juvenile delinquency and domestic relations cases he has set many precedents. He is the sort of man who would.

His experience as a jurist has caused him to believe in early marriage. "For," he says "early marriage —and happy marriage—means that at 50 the man and woman still will be in love with each other. And it will be a more understanding love than would be possible with late marriage.

"Early marriage means that when the couple have grown old they will have the love, attention and companionship of their grown children. They will have the satisfaction of seeing those children succeed in whatever line of business they will undertake."

BECAUSE, the Judge believes, with proper attention from their parents, the children of today have a greater opportunity to succeed than did the young people of the last generation or the one before.

And, speaking on parents, the Judge had considerable to say the other day to a young mother who asked for a separation from her husband.

"Dancing mothers and working wives," he said, "not wishing to surrender the independence which was theirs in the prenuptial days, plunge ahead into wild life, neglecting their homes, their husbands and their children."

Then he turned to the husband.

"Many husbands, like you," the Court informed this man, "lose interest in their wives after marriage. They don't take their wives to the theaters, don't send them flowers or candy. Consequently, someone else does. And that's what slips the first wedge into the happiness of a home."

But despite his experiences on the bench, Judge Glass is no pessimist concerning the present generation. He refuses to believe that the world is hurrying to the dogs.

"The picture of the young mother with a child under one arm, a trashy novel in one hand, a cigarette drooping from highly-painted lips and an empty gin bottle at her feet is mostly bosh," he insists. "There are a few cases like this, but the ones we hear of are exceptions. Miss Philadelphia and Miss America, generally speaking, make conservative, home-loving, maternal wives and mothers."

THE jurist is a student of matters domestic, and an intense one, but it is in the Juvenile Court that he finds his greatest satisfaction. And there again he holds fast to his motto of psychology. He does not confine his work with children to the bench; for years he has been a worker for the good of the boys in his neighborhood, fostering their athletics, advocating playgrounds for boys and girls alike.

In the Juvenile Court, though the Judge does sit behind a desk, the formality just about stops there. The public is barred from the courtroom, no records are kept and it is seldom that any of the names are made public.

On one occasion not long ago a pretty little blonde-haired girl was brought before Judge Glass by her father. He complained to the Court that the only fault he found with her conduct was that she insisted on going "out with the boys every night."

"I don't object to the boys who come around after her," the father said. "They are very nice young men. But I believe she should be staying home instead of going out at her age. I can't do a thing with her."

"You are quite right," declared Judge Glass. "Helen should devote most of her time to her studies. If she doesn't she will grow up very stupid and will have to work at something very ordinary when she grows older instead of something with distinction. Isn't that so, Helen?"

But then Helen told her story—as she saw it.

"You don't understand, Your Honor," she said. "It is nothing of my doing. It's the boys. They're simply wild about me. I don't know why, but they really are."

The Court sat up. "Do you really mean that?" he asked.

"Surely," she answered. "They are always calling up or coming around to take me out. I must be very attractive."

NOW there was no law under which the Judge might attempt to correct this child. But Judge Glass doesn't depend entirely on laws.

So he asked Helen to be his guest for the remainder of that session of court. He gave her a place near his chair. And this child heard other girls, girls of her own age and older, tell stories similar to hers. In some instances the stories had serious endings.

Each time this happened the Court pointed out the moral to the child. By the end of the day Helen admitted that her father "must be right." And since that session in court the probation officers have reported to the jurist that Helen has been a model of good behavior.

The following story is typical of the manner in which Judge Glass works:

Last Christmas he attended a party at the House of Detention, where some two score children were held for various offenses. The Judge gathered all of them around a Christmas tree—one he had decorated and loaded down with presents—and he began handing out gifts. Then he singled out one of the boys and asked him, if he could have anything he wished, what it would be.

The child turned up his face and, half sobbing, said: "I'd like to go home for dinner, and then I'd come back."

"All right, son," said Judge Glass. "You can go home. And so can all of you."

Those who didn't have homes got dinner, too. They were guests of the Judge.

The Judge has definite ideas on juvenile delinquency.

"HOME is the only place where a child should be brought to manhood or womanhood," he says. "The average boy of today is no worse or even as bad as the boy of yesteryear.

"Years ago no one paid any attention to a few stone fights, but now if a boy is caught throwing stones or marking a pavement he is brought into court for it. One-third of all cases brought into this court in the last year, and the total was 4566, were for stealing, which is considered common in the delinquency of many children. Another third of the cases were due to childish pranks, such as trespassing, stealing rides and such things, while the remainder consist of runaways, truants, unmanageable children, assault and battery and vagrancy.

"Over one-half of the delinquency cases were dismissed. About one-third were placed on probation and about 11 per cent were committed to reform schools. So it can be seen that there were only 416 children committed for their delinquencies out of the total. That certainly proves that all of those brought to court are not wantonly bad.

"Experience has shown that children lacking proper parental care or guardianship are led into courses of life which may render them liable to the pains and penalties of the criminal law. The real interest of such children requires that they be not incarcerated in penitentiaries or jails as members of a criminal class, but that they be subjected to wise care, treatment and control so that their evil tendencies may be checked and their better instincts strengthened.

"The act of assembly in this State establishing the Municipal Court is not for the trial of a child charged with a crime, but is mercifully to save it from such an ordeal, with a prison or penitentiary in its wake, if the child's own good and the best interests of the State justify such salvation. Whether the child deserves to be saved by the State is no more a question for the Judge than whether the father, if able to save it, should save it. The act is but an exercise by the State of its supreme power over the welfare of its children.

"I WANT to state emphatically that I am not in favor of sending young boys and girls away to institutions in cases of neglect or when a parent wants to shirk the responsibility which is his under the laws of God and man. Home is the place for them and whenever possible I see to it that they remain in their homes. It is remarkable, and at the same time deplorable, to know the number of parents who try to evade responsibility by having their children committed to institutions. Children are entitled to the love, care and affection of their parents, and the home is the only place where the child can get this.

"I recall a case where a son, haled into the domestic relations branch of this court, charged with failing to support his mother, said he would have recognized it as his duty to help her if she hadn't committed him to an institution when he was young without any provocation except to evade the responsibility and care of raising him. He said he was compelled to grow up with strangers and did not come into contact with the maternal affections that children's hearts feast on. Of course, I told him he was wrong, but he said he would only give support to his mother because I so decreed.

"Social workers as a whole are very helpful. All of them try to help. Sometimes it happens that the Court does not agree with their point of view. Frequently, I think, social workers are too searching and expect too much in the homes of poor people. Love in a family means more than a spacious home, anyway, and I recommend more of the heart and less of the head in home investigation.

"The greatest need of children today, particularly in the crowded city districts, is more playgrounds.

"Athletics is closest to their hearts and they should have every opportunity to play. Where schoolyards are small, in crowded districts, we should have play yards built on school-building roofs or on factory buildings. If they play hard they will be too tired to get into mischief."

THE GREATEST NEED OF CITY CHILDREN TODAY IS MORE PLAYGROUNDS

Locked Herself in Room for Fourteen Years

Julia Colon Quarreled With Her Sweetheart and Hid Herself From the World Until Her Recent Death.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

KEY WEST, Florida.

JULIA COLON, pretty, blue-eyed Cuban girl, died here the other day in the small, dark room in which she had kept herself a captive for 14 years. Never during that long period of self-imposed imprisonment did she come out of her small prison, not once did she even show her face to the kind relatives with whom she lived. She cut herself off from the world, and she only deigned to traffic with it to that small extent necessary to provide her with food and a few necessities of life. And those she received through a small opening in the door.

Why this strange conduct? A quarrel with a boyhood sweetheart!

Julia had just entered into the first of the 'teens when she and this lad she fancied had a spat. Just a lovers' spat, a few heated words from the boy. But Julia took those words deeply; they hurt the child.

The boy had said: "I never want to see your face again."

And Julia replied: "You will never see it again, and neither will anyone else."

And she immediately went to her home at 524 Louisa street, the home of an aunt where she had resided since her parents' death, and locked herself in her room. She refused to appear for dinner that evening.

THE next day the boy who had said those hasty words came to her home. He wished to beg her pardon, to ask her forgiveness. She would not see him.

The days lengthened themselves into weeks, the weeks into months. Still Julia refused to leave her room. Her relatives, realizing that her conduct had for its cause something other than the whim of a child, provided for her in every way they could. A hole was cut in her door, and through this her meals were passed. Water for her baths was passed through this opening, for the house had no plumbing. The girl made her own clothes, but she never wore shoes. Cosmetics were regularly provided for her, and her relatives are of the opinion that each afternoon she dressed herself like any other young girl who expected a beau's call. But efforts of her relatives to catch even the most fleeting glimpse of this girl's face were unavailing. When she came to the opening in the door it was with a white mask covering her face.

JULIA, despite her imprisonment, did not allow her mind to stagnate. When she locked herself in her room she was in the eighth grade. But, being studious, she learned with the years, and the books she desired with the passing years indicated that her vision broadened as she grew older. Fiction held little interest for her; she favored stories historic in character, and especially those of Cuba, the land of her parents.

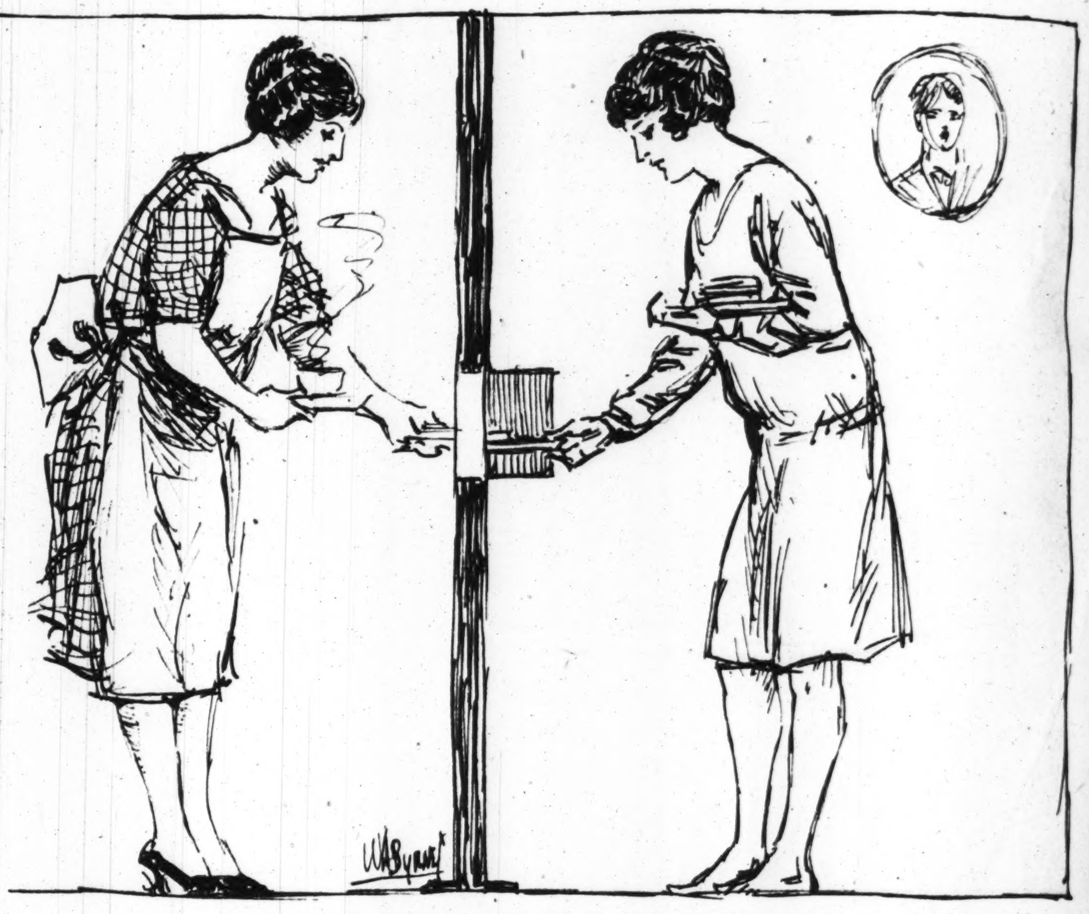
In the first part of her seclusion, girls and boys, friends and companions at school, called to visit her. But her constant refusals to see them discouraged these callers; they ceased to return, and in recent years her strange imprisonment was almost forgotten.

She was so insistent that she live the remainder of her life in her secluded chamber that she even refused to leave it when an adjoining building caught fire.

These flames threatened the house in which she lived, but to the agonized pleas of her relatives that she escape she replied: "No, there is only one time to die. If I go now it will be my time." The house caught fire, still she would not leave. Fortunately, the damage was slight and Julia was not harmed.

On one occasion a cousin, one to whom the girl was deeply attached, died in New York. The body was brought to Key West for burial, and Julia's relatives felt certain that she would yield to an urge to see this beloved relation in death. But Julia did not. She wept for days, at times she was nearly hysterical. But she would not leave her room.

Julia Colon from a snapshot made fifteen years ago.



For fourteen years her food was passed to her through a hole in the door.

Once the aunt with whom she lived suffered a heart attack and no one else was in the house at the time except Julia. "I am dying, Julia, come to me," her aunt is said to have moaned. There was a pause, and then, it is said, Julia sobbed: "I love you, I'd gladly die for you. But I can't leave this room." And she didn't.

During all the years of her obscurity Julia did not once ask about the lad whose hasty words sent her to her seclusion. And she died without learning that he had married, become the father of two children and, with this family, lived within a stone's throw of her home. Her relatives do not believe that if she had known it would have made any difference to her.

A strange thing, this seclusion, for a young woman healthy and alert, and stranger still that she kept to it when the passing years brought her more mature knowledge of the world and its ways. Did this self-imposed martyrdom become an obsession with her, one that she neither wanted to break nor could? Or through some odd self-created philosophy did she choose to stay away from all those about her, hiding her face so none might see it, quite as she had declared she would so many years before? But staunch to her declaration she remained, in no way ever varying the slightest bit from her set course, never giving the least hope or indication to her relatives that some day she might cease this strange procedure and, coming out of the door of her prison, join her family group again.

The first any of Julia's relatives knew of her fatal illness was when she failed to come to the small opening in her door to take her meals. Asked if she was ill, she replied that her sickness was of no moment and that before long she once again would be well.

BUT with the passing days her voice became weaker. Finally, her door was forced so a physician might enter. Hardly able to move her arms, she covered her face with a pillow, and only yielded to the physician's examination when all the others had left her room. The doctor pronounced her suffering from typhoid fever; a few days later she was dead.

Her last request was granted her, and her face was hidden, even in death, by a white sheet.

The physician who attended her said she was beautiful. She had long, black hair that reached her ankles, and curling eyebrows that matched her locks. Physically, her condition is said to have been that of any normal girl.

When she was taken to the cemetery, the boy who had been her childhood sweetheart accompanied her.

"DRUGGED and SOLD INTO SLAVERY"

Dorothy Carlberg's Suit for Damages Charges She Was Lured Into the Mexican Town of San Luis by a Want Ad.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

SAN LUIS, Mexico.

"WANTED — Two Scandinavian women to work in restaurant at International Club, San Luis; $75 a month, room and board. Need not fear Mexican troubles. Best references furnished. Transportation refunded on arrival.

"E. A. Washburn, Yuma, Ariz."

Dorothy Carlberg read this advertisement in a newspaper. Dorothy had just completed high school in Seattle. She was a serious young woman and, considerably before her graduation, had laid definite plans for a career. Ambitious, she had determined to enter business, to work her way to a secretaryship to some executive of some great institution, to make herself his invaluable aid. When she finished high school, she had decided she would take a business course. Once that was over with, she would begin her chosen work, she would find employment in a bank.

But, unfortunately, by the time she was graduated from high school, both of her parents had died. Alone, without sufficient means to see her through her business course, it became necessary for her to find work at once. Then she saw the advertisement offering work in San Luis.

She thought it was her opportunity. She would go to San Luis—she was of Scandinavian descent—and work there for two or three months. In that time she could earn enough money to take her through that much-desired business course. And she took the job and, with high hopes, set out for Yuma.

According to her statement she arrived there and found Washburn waiting for her at the station. They crossed the border, they were in San Luis, and Washburn conducted her to the International Club.

Tragedy was on the horizon.

"At first everything seemed all right," Dorothy Carlberg relates. "I didn't object to working in the restaurant, although there was a good deal of rough drinking, because I wanted the money so badly.

"But after a few days I began to feel uneasy, then suspicious, because of the way Washburn and his associates behaved toward me.

"Finally my fears, I knew, were well founded. This was when my employer plainly ordered me to dance and otherwise associate with the patrons of the place. I complained I had come to Mexico to work as a waitress, not to entertain or even associate with persons who might eat there.

"For reply, I was cursed by Washburn and taunted by the hangers-on about the place.

"SO things went, my fright all the time increasing, until one night—it was the tenth of November—Washburn and his horrible associates threatened me unless I took a drink with a man described to me as an influential patron of the place.

"Washburn ended by assuring me, 'It's all right. The drink is only colored water.'

"Realizing I was all alone in a strange land, with no money to get away, and that something terrible would immediately befall me if I refused, I sat down, as I was ordered, and drank what was given to me."

Continuing, the young woman said that the drink contained a drug which stupefied her and, helpless, she became the victim of the club's influential patron.

Then followed the business of her official undoing. It was a much used trick. The girl was arrested on a moral charge. Following her arrest she was provided with a "friend." The "friend" paid her fine, she was then proclaimed a woman of the streets, and given a license as such.

These licenses are issued as easily in San Luis as are dog licenses in the United States, and once a girl has been convicted on a moral charge, she is not permitted to go without one.

Dorothy Carlberg had been pushed into the rubbish heap of San Luis.

Dorothy Carlberg.

November 12 found her in abject terror of her situation, without money, powerless, in the hands of her oppressors.

Her captors now told her that if she left the precincts of the club she would be arrested and imprisoned. Possibly, it was hinted, if she tried to escape, "ley fuga" would be invoked, the so-called "law of flight," nothing more than telling some prisoner to make a break for freedom, then shooting him down before he has gotten far, after which it is reported he was killed while trying to escape.

WASHBURN, Dorothy Carlberg says, told her she might have her freedom if she would pay him a sum of money—a sum so exorbitant that the insincerity of the offer was obvious. And in the routine manner of these men who make the confounding of young women their business, a small room was obtained for her, she was charged a rental of $40 a week, and in that room she practically was a prisoner.

But despite her situation, or because of it, the girl summoned up her courage and decided to attempt escape. And with her decision came the opportunity to achieve it. For a young American of about 25—Miss Carlberg never did learn his identity—happened into the International Club one day to have a drink.

Miss Carlberg looked at him, and her impression was that he might aid her. She engaged him in a conversation, and he told her he was in Mexico collecting geological specimens for an American institution. She told him of her plight, asked his help, and received his promise of aid.

They set about plotting the manner of her escape. The young man made his headquarters in Yuma and from there he was accustomed to crossing into Mexico on his geological searches. He told her he would leave San Luis, but that he would return for her that evening.

He did so, but upon arriving explained it would not do for both of them to try to get to the border together; he feared that would only end in their arrest. But he said he would go ahead and wait for her in a machine which would be parked on the American side of the line.

At eight o'clock that evening Miss Carlberg's oppressors, going to look for her, found her crouched in a corner of her room. Thinking that the girl's nerves were in such a state that she would be valueless to them in a drinking room of the club they decided to leave her where she was for another hour or so.

When they were gone the girl stole out of the place, leaving all her belongings behind, and set out for the international line on foot. On her arrival, she found motor traffic so heavy that she was able to cross unchallenged by the customs guard.

She found her aid waiting for her; he drove her to Yuma, 20 miles away, and a little later she boarded a train bound for Los Angeles. Once there, her nerves distraught, she was cared for by friends, with whom she still lives, in seclusion.

MISS CARLBERG has filed a complaint in the Superior Court of Los Angeles, a document incident to a suit for $50,000 damages which she seeks to obtain from Washburn and associates.

It is along the border, along the southern extremity of California and Arizona, where this illicit trade thrives. Under the present international understandings, the enslavement of women is not an extraditable offense, and Mexico has no laws against it.

It was following the experience of their two daughters at Tia Juana, a little more than two years ago, that Thomas Peteet, his wife, and the two girls killed themselves.

There are numbers of young women who have innocently suffered as Dorothy Carlberg has suffered. For Dorothy Carlberg $50,000, should she get it, or any sum, will be but poor payment for her misery.

TALES of REAL DOGS

By Albert Payson Terhune

The Nameless Dog That "Moved Napoleon to Tears."

HERE again is the story of a dog whose name and whose master's name are unknown. Yet he is famous through history as "the dog that moved Napoleon to tears." Incidentally, the dog moved Napoleon to write an account of him which contains more heart and more sentiment than does any other written or spoken word of the cold-blooded Corsican's.

Napoleon was not the type of man who cares for animals, nor for whom animals care. There is no greater fallacy than the silly lie which says: "You can trust any man whom dogs like, and you must distrust any man whom dogs don't like." It is one of the foolishest statements ever made.

Some of the worst scoundrels I have ever known were men whose dogs loved them devotedly and who had the power to make strange dogs like them. On the other hand, some of the best and holiest men of my acquaintance have not been able to win the friendship of any dog.

The Governor of Maine, a few years ago, sent a collie dog to live in the state penitentiary as a pal for the prisoners. The dog made friends at once with some of the worst criminals there. The same kind of thing has happened elsewhere, among convicts, etc.

(This is a digression from my story, but it is a truth which may save you from misjudging someone whom dogs like or dislike.)

Napoleon did not like animals and animals did not like Napoleon. Which proves nothing either good or bad concerning his character. Dogs he did not care for, but he had a hatred for cats which amounted to a form of insanity. For instance:

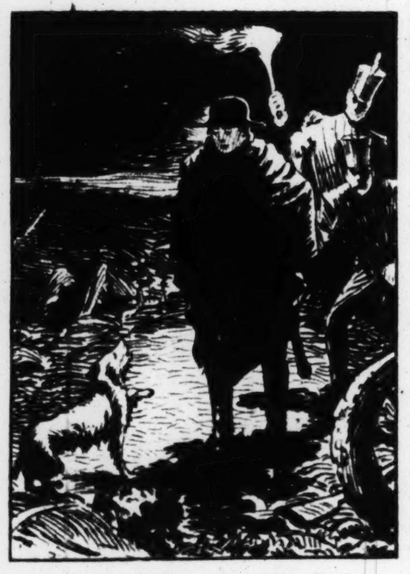
ONE night the Mameluke guard, Rustam, was aroused from a doze at the doorway of the Emperor's tent, and the whole nearby section of the camp was aroused as well, by screeches of mortal terror which issued from somewhere in the imperial tent's recesses. The voice was Napoleon's, and he was yelling for help.

In rushed the Mameluke with a hundred armed men dashing along at his heels, eager to rescue the worshiped Emperor from whatever horrible danger might have beset him. As their torches illumined the interior of the tent they halted and stared unbelievingly at the sight disclosed by the flares.

In a far corner of the tent crouched Napoleon in his night clothes. He was grasping his drawn sword and bawling for aid, as he glowered in dread at something in front of him.

The "something" which had awakened the dreaded war lord and had sent him scuttling into the corner was a tiny kitten, which was washing its face in the center of the floor and blinking with mild curiosity at the terrified Emperor.

Napoleon led a ragged French army into Italy, in the early days of his meteoric career. He swept everything before him, winning battle after battle and conquering the entire country.



He seemed to be seeking both assistance and revenge.

One morning, at the beginning of the most bloody of these battles, a fluffy little yellow mongrel dog was seen gamboling around the legs of an Italian soldier. Evidently the cur had been tied up in camp, and had gnawed in half the rope by which he had been tied, and part of which still dangled around his neck.

Then he had set off in search of the soldier who owned him, and had caught up with the man just as the Italian army began its advance. It was too late for the soldier to do anything about it. So the little yellow dog frisked along at his side into the carnage.

The Italians were defeated and driven from the position they had occupied. It was a grewsome scene, the battlefield strewn thick with dead and dying men. Napoleon, with his staff, went out, after nightfall, to inspect the field. It was there, by the light of his escort's torches, that he saw the little yellow dog that had been gamboling so merrily along the Italian front line that morning.

Here is Napoleon's own description of the scene. It is well worth quoting, word for word. He wrote:

"SUDDENLY I saw a little dog crawling out from under the tunic of a slain soldier. He rushed toward us; and then, with mournful cries, he ran back to his dead master. He licked the man's face and then ran over to us again. He seemed to be seeking both assistance and revenge.

"Whether it was my own state of mind or the grim quiet of the time or the hour of night or the dog's actions—or I know not what—never has anything else in all my battlefield experiences made such a deep impression on me. Involuntarily, I halted to watch the pitiful sight.

"'That soldier,' said I, 'perhaps has friends in his own camp and in his own regiment. Yet here he lies dead, abandoned by everyone and everything except his faithful dog. What a lesson nature gives to all of us through the medium of a mere animal!'

"What is man? And what is the mystery of his strange experiences? I had ordained and commanded battles, without an atom of emotion as to the results of my orders—battles whose outcome was to decide the destiny of the army and of nations.

"I had stood dry-eyed and watched movements executed which brought about the deaths of innumerable soldiers. Yet, at sight of that faithful dog's vigil, I was moved to tears."

History does not say what happened to the little yellow dog whose fidelity moved an iron-hearted conqueror to such emotion. But his memory is preserved forever by the description I have just quoted.

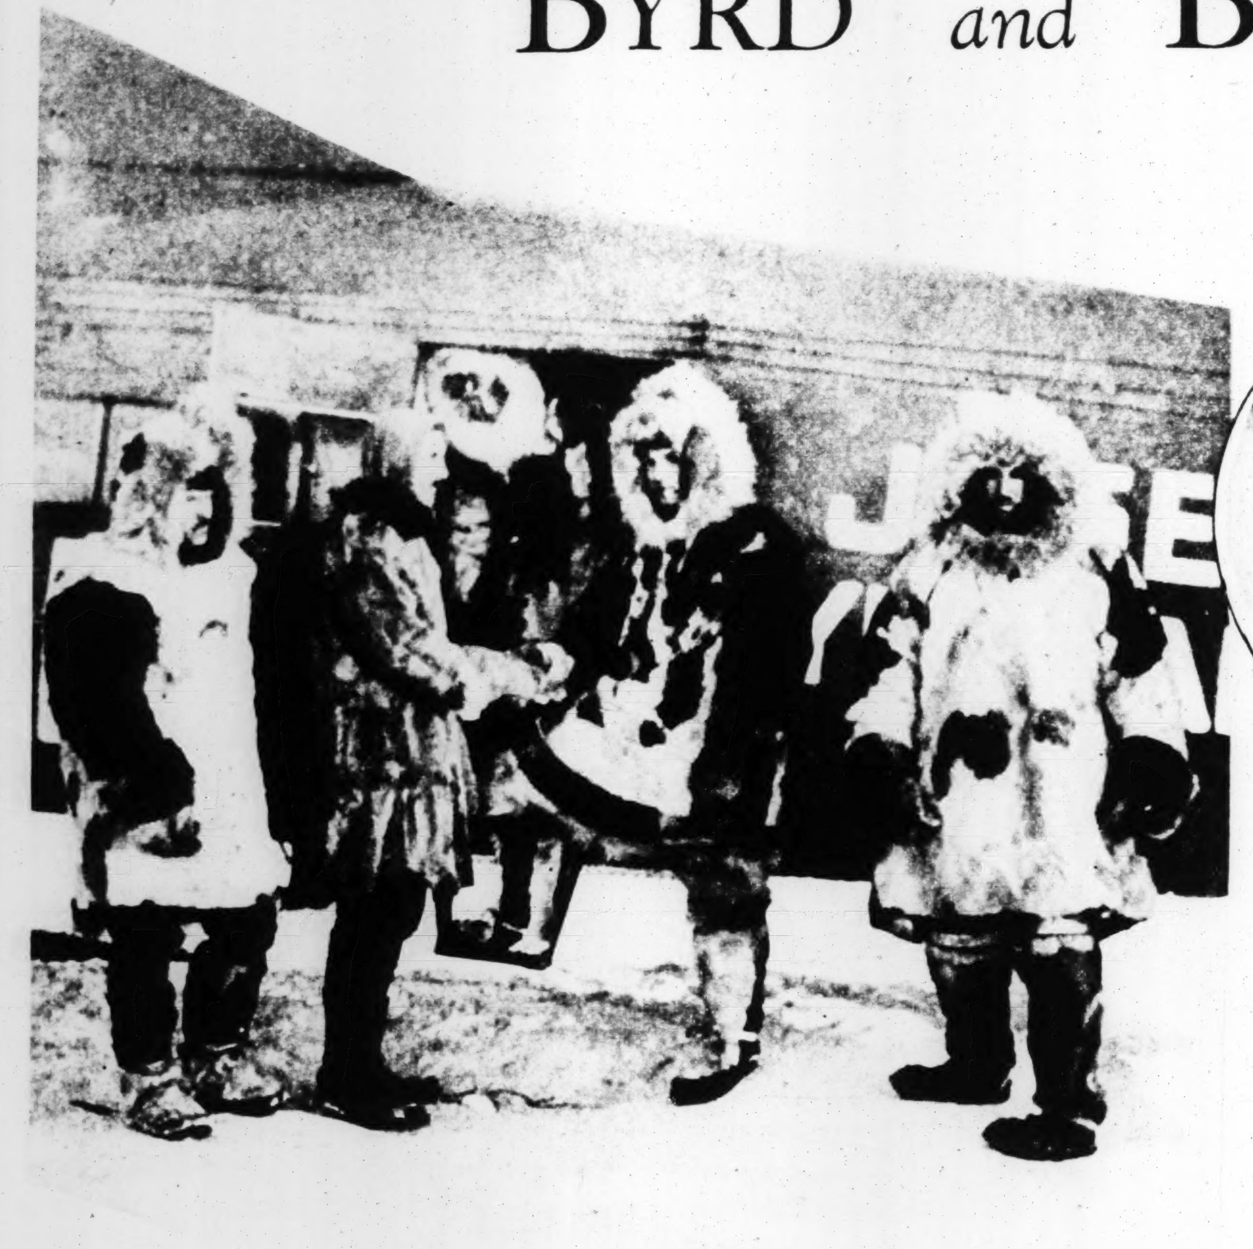
BYRD and BENNETT FLY OVER the NORTH POLE

At 9:02 A. M. (Greenwic Time), May 9, 1926, The Looked on the Top of th World, Feeling "No Large Than Pin-Points."



Byrd with his foot on the step, Bennett looking through the door as they said good-by to their shipmates before starting for the Pole.

PART IV of "SKYWARD"

By RICHARD E. BYRD

THERE were two fairly good reasons for our wanting to fly to the North Pole: first, by traveling at high altitude over unexplored regions we might discover some new land or unexpected scientific phenomena; second, a successful flight would, like the first crossing of the Atlantic, be sure to accelerate public interest in aviation.

We could have used any one of three places for our attack upon the pole: Point Barrow, Etah and Spitzbergen. The ice surrounding Spitzbergen is subject to the warming influence of the Gulf Stream. On that account Kings Bay, which is only 750 miles from the pole, can be reached as early as April. Unquestionably it is best suited for an attack on the earth's north polar axis.

My plan was to fly westward at first and explore that part of the north end of Greenland known as Peary Land.

Neither Bennett nor I could begin serious work of preparation on our return from Greenland in the fall of 1925. Official duties engaged us both until the middle of January, 1926. Then Secretary of the Navy Wilbur and my chief, Admiral Moffett, allowed Bennett and me leave. We were going this time on our own hook. We didn't even ask the navy to send us as we felt the hazardous nature of the undertaking made it unfair. From then on came a crescendo of toil which culminated when we sailed from the Brooklyn Navy Yard on April 5.

AFTER carefully weighing our own experience, as well as the opinion of aeronautical experts, we selected for our flight a Fokker three-engine monoplane. It had 200-horsepower Wright air-cooled motors, any two of which would keep it up for a certain reduced distance.

We named the plane Josephine Ford, in honor of Edsel Ford's 3-year-old daughter, as Edsel had taken a greater interest in our expedition than anyone else.

Through the generosity of the Shipping Board I was able to secure the steamer Chantier. She was of about 3500 tons displacement and had ample deck space for our flying gear, while her hold took the plane's wings and body.

There were half a hundred membeb of the expedition, nearly all volunteers, all young and full of the zest of great adventure.

After months of toil on the part of all hands, we left New York on April 5, 1926, with half a hundred men and six months' food supply aboard.

THIS fourth installment of Commander Richard E. Byrd's story of his experiences, "Skyward," tells of his dangerous journey to the North Pole in company with the late Floyd Bennett—it was the first time the Pole was reached by air—and Byrd's analysis of what he chooses to call "This Hero Business."

We had coal for 15,000 miles of steaming stowed away in the bunkers in the hold. It was a stiff job shifting this coal from the hold to the bunkers, a very dirty job that had to be done every single day.

We arrived at Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, at 4 p. m., April 29, and found the Amundsen-Ellsworth-Nobile expedition members well under way in their preparations to receive the great Italian dirigible Norge. This revelation of the energy of another air expedition had a tonic effect on the eager young American spirit of our crew.

Fate lost no time in placing serious obstacles in our path. The little harbor of Kings Bay was choked with ice, but skillful work by Captain Brennan brought the Chantier to anchor within 900 yards of the shore.

TO MY dismay, I found that there were no facilities for landing my heavy plane. I had counted on the dock at the coaling station. Now we found tied up to this sole landing a small Norwegian gunboat, the Heimdahl, taking coal. Of course, I went ashore immediately and asked if we could have the dock for a few hours, at least.

"Sorry, but our ship was nearly lost a few days ago," I was informed. "Drifting ice caught her and carried her helplessly toward the land." I knew the danger from the drifting ice.

I could see it was no use to argue. The only thing for us to do was to anchor as close as possible to the shore and send our plane through the drift ice by means of some sort of raft.

By laying heavy planks across the gunwales of our four whaleboats the crew constructed a big raft. It began to snow, and the air was cold and raw as all hands worked at top speed to meet the emergency of a landing that was far from safe. By tireless work and unswerving determination our men managed to prop the awkward body of the plane on its frail support.

Just as we finished the raft the very thing we dreaded happened. The ice started moving with great force and we had quite a struggle saving the raft and even the steamer itself. A big iceberg came galloping in with the tide. It seriously threatened the ship's rudder and we had to rush dynamite to the corner of the oncoming monster and split it into pieces that could be handled or were swept clear by the current.

My relief was great when we at last reached the ice foot protruding from the beach. Great luck was with us—we must admit that.

When the plane was pulled over the planking from the ice foot the wheels sank deep down in the snow. We replaced them immediately with skis. The start of the landing field was about a mile from the ice foot. If it was a very big undertaking for my men to get the plane ashore, it surely was a muscle-tearing job for them to get the plane and equipment up to the top of the long incline through the deep snow, in a temperature 15 degrees below zero.

AS THERE was no level stretch available that was smooth enough to take off from with a heavy load, we were forced to try another new stunt—to take off going down hill. The plane's first attempt to take off for a trial flight ended in a snowdrift and nearly upset—which not only would have hurt us, but would have upset the expedition as well! A ski was broken to bits and the landing gear bent and broken. Then twice again we broke our ski in pretty much the same way.

Neville, Mulroy and "Chips" Gould, the carpenter, worked two days and two nights making new skis, whose strength was doubled by using some of our oars. Profiting by our first experience, we treated the bottom of the skis with a mixture of resin and tar. We held our breath.

This time our airplane moved forward rapidly, then rose gracefully into the air. She made a trial flight of more than two hours and showed a remarkably low gas consumption.

Final preparations were completed on May 8. W. C. Haines, a meteorologist loaned us by the U. S. Weather Bureau, told us the weather was right.

We warmed the motors, heated our fuel, put the last bit of fuel and food aboard; examined our instruments with care. Bennett and I climbed in and we were off. Off, but alas! not up. Our load proved too great, the snow too "bumpy," the friction of the skis too strong a drag. The plane simply would not get into the air. It was an extremely anxious moment. We went a little too far and got off the end of the runway at a terrific speed, jolted roughly over snow hummocks and landed in a snowdrift, coming within an ace of upsetting, which, of course, would have smashed the plane.

A dozen of our men ran up to us, weary, heartsick and speechless. They had worked almost to the limit of their endurance to give us our chance. I waded through deep snow to the port landing gear. Great! Both it and the ski were O K. Then I stumbled to the other side and found that they also had stood the terrible pounding.

My apprehension turned to joy, for I knew that if the landing apparatus would stand that strain we would eventually take off for the pole with enough fuel to get there.

We took off hundreds of pounds of fuel to lighten the load, dug out of the snowdrift and taxied the Josephine Ford up the hill to try again. We held another council and concluded to work through the night lengthening and smoothing the runway. At the same time we would take out of the plane as much equipment as we could spare and attempt a takeoff with a little less fuel.

The weather was still perfect. We decided to try to get off as near midnight as possible, when the night cold would make the snow harder and therefore easier to take off from. Finally, at a half-hour past midnight, Greenwich time, all was in readiness to go. Bennett and I had had almost no sleep for 36 hours, but that did not bother us.

Bennett came up for a last talk and we decided to stake all on getting away—to give the Josephine Ford full power and full speed—and get off or crash at the end of the runway in the jagged ice.

A few handclasps from our comrades and we set our faces toward our goal and the midnight sun, which at that moment lay almost due north.

WITH a load of nearly 10,000 pounds we raced down the runway. The rough snow ahead loomed dangerously near, but we never reached it. We were off for our great adventure!

We climbed to 2000 feet to get a good view of the coast and the magnificent snow-covered mountains inland. Within an hour of taking the air we passed the rugged and glacier-laden land and crossed the edge of the polar ice pack. It was much nearer to the land than we had expected. Over to the east was a point where the ice field was very near the land.

We looked ahead at the sea ice gleaming in the rays of the midnight sun—a fascinating scene whose lure had drawn famous men into its clutches, never to return. It was with a feeling of exhilaration that we felt that for the first time in history two mites of men could gaze upon its charms, and discover its secrets, out of reach of those sharp claws.

Perhaps! There was still that "perhaps," for if we should have a forced landing disaster might easily follow. We must put every possible second of time and our best concentration on the job of navigating and of flying a straight course—our very lives depended on it.

As there are no landmarks on the ice, Polar Sea navigation by aircraft is similar to that on the ocean, where there is nothing but sun and stars and moon from which to determine one's position. The altitude above the sea horizon of one of these celestial bodies is taken with the sextant.

We were familiar with one means of calculation which takes advantage of some interesting astronomical conditions existing at the North Pole. It is a graphical method that does away largely with mathematical calculations, so that the entire operation of taking the altitude of the sun and laying down the line of position could be done in a very few minutes.

Our chief concern was to steer as nearly due north as possible.

There was only one way to do it—depend upon the sun. For this we used a sun compass. Of course, the sun was necessary for the use of this compass. Its principle is a kind of reversal of that of the sundial. In the latter the direction of north is known and the shadow of the sun gives the time of day. With the sun compass the time of day is known and the shadow of the sun, when it bisects the hand of the 24-hour clock, indicates the direction after the instrument has been set.

AS WE sped along over the white field I spent the busiest and most concentrated moments of my life. We could see mountains astern gleaming in the sun at least a hundred miles behind us. That was our last link with civilization. The unknown lay ahead. Bennett and I took turns piloting.

When I felt certain we were on our course, I turned my attention to the great ice pack, which I had wondered about ever since I was a youngster at school. We were flying at about 2000 feet, and I could see at least 50 miles in every direction. There was no sign of land.

The ice pack beneath was crisscrossed with pressure ridges, but here and there were stretches that appeared long and smooth enough to land on. However, from 2000 feet pack ice is extraordinarily deceptive.

The pressure ridges that looked so insignificant from the plane varied from a few feet to 50 or 60 feet in height, while the average thickness of the ice was about 40 feet. A flash of sympathy came over me for the brave men who had in years past struggled northward over that cruel mass.

We passed leads of water recently opened by the movement of the ice, and so dangerous to the foot traveler, who never knows

IF Miss Mitzi Wallstein, the prettiest mannequin in Vienna, had lost her classic beauty some four months ago as the result of a lamentable misfortune, today she would be the happy wife of Herr Alfred Braun, and Vienna would not get excited about the outcome of a unique lawsuit. There can be no doubt about it: Herr Braun was perfectly willing to marry Miss Wallstein with a disfigured face marred by ugly scars; he made a binding promise to that effect before two trustworthy witnesses, and he is too much of a gentleman to deny it. However, fortunately for her beauty but unfortunately for her marital happiness, Miss Wallstein did not lose the immaculate loveliness of her face, which is reason enough for the somewhat particular Herr Braun not to fulfill his promise. And because Miss Wallstein clings just as much to her beauty as to her right to happiness, and has sued her fiance for breach of promise, it remains for the wise Judges of the Vienna Supreme Court to decide the interesting question, whether a man is obliged to marry a woman who has remained beautiful, after he had promised that he would marry her if her face became disfigured.

miss Spitzbergen. And even if we were on a straight course, would that engine stop? It seemed certain that it would.

As we flew there at the top of the world, we saluted the gallant, indomitable spirit of Peary and verified his report in every detail.

Below us was a great, eternally-frozen, snow-covered ocean, broken into ice fields or cakes of various sizes and shapes, the boundaries of which were the ridges formed by the great pressure of one cake upon another. This showed a constant ice movement and indicated the non-proximity of land. Here and there, instead of a pressing together of the ice fields, there was a separation, leaving a water-lead which had been recently frozen over and showing green and greenish blue against the white of the snow. On some of the cakes were ice hummocks and rough masses of snow.

AT 9:15 a. m. we headed for Spitzbergen. But, to our astonishment, a miracle was happening. That motor was still running. We afterward found out the leak was caused by a rivet jarring out of its hole, and when the oil got down to the level of the hole it stopped leaking.

I quote from my impressions cabled to the United States on our return to Kings Bay:

"We felt no larger than a pinpoint and as lonely as the tomb; as remote and detached as a star.

"Here, in another world, far from the herds of people, the smallnesses of life fell from our shoulders. What wonder that we felt no great emotion of achievement or fear of death that lay stretched beneath us, but instead, impersonal, disembodied. On, on we went. It seemed forever onward."

We came into Kings Bay flying at about 4000 feet. The tiny village was a welcome sight, but not so much so as the good old Chantier that looked so small beneath. It seemed but a few moments until we were in the arms of our comrades, who carried us with wild joy down the snow runway they had worked so hard to make.

KEPT HER BEAUTY BUT LOST A HUSBAND

Vienna Banker Promised to Marry Mitzi Wallstein if Her Face Were Marred, But Reneged When the Difficult Operation Was Successful.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

VIENNA.

IF Miss Mitzi Wallstein, the prettiest mannequin in Vienna, had lost her classic beauty some four months ago as the result of a lamentable misfortune, today she would be the happy wife of Herr Alfred Braun, and Vienna would not get excited about the outcome of a unique lawsuit. There can be no doubt about it; Herr Braun was perfectly willing to marry Miss Wallstein with a disfigured face marred by ugly scars; he made a binding promise to that effect before two trustworthy witnesses, and he is too much of a gentleman to deny it. However, fortunately for her beauty but unfortunately for her marital happiness, Miss Wallstein did not lose the immaculate loveliness of her face, which is reason enough for the somewhat particular Herr Braun not to fulfill his promise. And because Miss Wallstein clings just as much to her beauty as to her right to happiness, and has sued her fiance for breach of promise, it remains for the wise Judges of the Vienna Supreme Court to decide the interesting question, whether a man is obliged to marry a woman who has remained beautiful, after he had promised that he would marry her if her face became disfigured.

BOTH principals in the case are well-known figures in the life of the Austrian capital. Miss Wallstein is one of the most beautiful women in Vienna; she had won many beauty contests and was known as the queen of the Vienna mannequins. She was employed by a fashionable dressmaking firm and was often seen in theaters, at 5 o'clock teas and at the races, wearing the most recent creations of her firm with superb grace and elegance. On such occasions she was usually accompanied by Herr Alfred Braun, junior partner in a Vienna banking house and member of numerous exclusive clubs. It was no secret among the friends of Herr Braun that the young banker and the beautiful model were in love with each other, but they also knew that Herr Braun had no intention of marrying a girl who, after all, was a model and would not easily be accepted by Herr Braun's social set.

About four months ago Miss Wallstein was suddenly taken ill, and her condition grew worse so rapidly that the attending physician suggested that she should be taken to the private sanitarium of Prof. Heinrich Neumann, the famous Viennese surgeon. It was late in the night when Miss Wallstein arrived at the sanitarium, but her condition seemed so serious that she was examined immediately, and a consultation was held in the presence of Prof. Neumann. The doctors established that she was suffering from what is known as inflammation of the middle ear, complicated with meningitis.

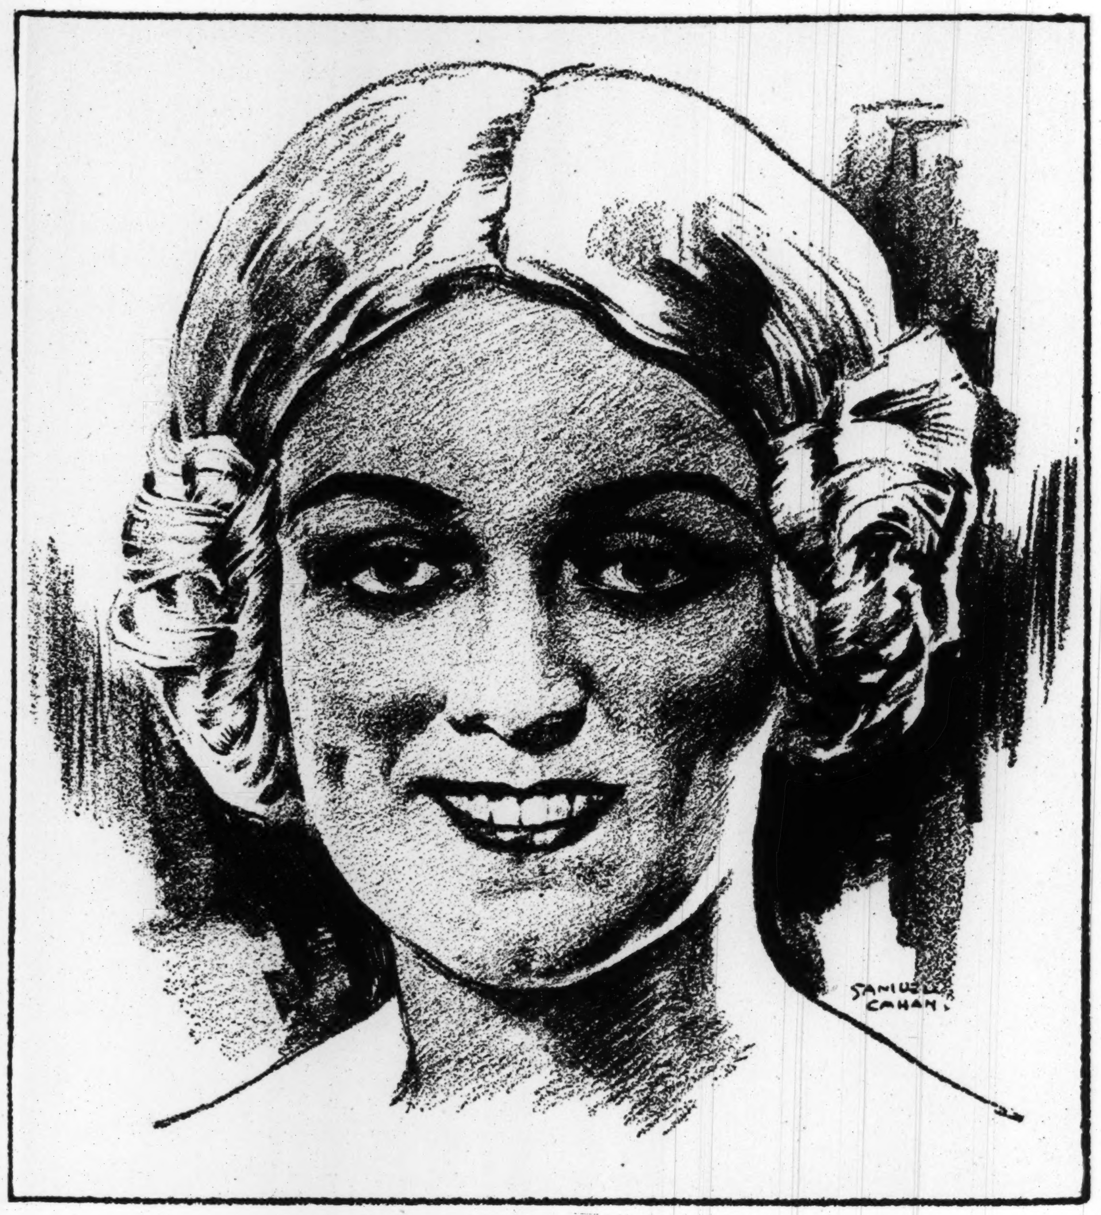
IT WAS decided that the patient must be operated on next morning, because in the opinion of the professor an operation within 24 hours was the only means of saving her life. Early in the morning, before she was to be carried into the operating room, one of the assistant physicians gave her a printed blank with the request that she sign it.

"What is it?" asked the patient. "Why should I sign it?"

"It is a statement acquitting the surgeons from any responsibility in case your face should be disfigured in consequence of the operation. It will perhaps be necessary to cut through certain nerves in the face, and in that case the face will be marred."

Instead of signing the paper the patient became hysterical. To lose her beauty? Oh, never, never. She would rather die and she would not let herself be operated on under such conditions.

Prof. Neumann, who was all set for the operation, was at once notified of the patient's refusal to sign the customary statement. The aged surgeon himself went to the room of Miss Wallstein and explained to her that it was not absolutely certain that her face would be disfigured in consequence of the operation. But it was a possibility, perhaps a probability, and he could not undertake the operation without the patient's signing a statement acquitting the doctors of financial responsibility. He spoke of the absolute necessity of the operation, he went even so far as to hint at the certain consequences of any delay—but all his persuasion was of no avail. The beautiful Mitzi sobbed hysterically and asked the surgeon to give her a pistol, because she would rather kill herself than live with a disfigured face.



Mitzi Wallstein, Vienna's most beautiful mannequin.

Instead of a pistol the surgeon brought to Mitzi—her mother. The old woman, who was conscious of the fact that her daughter had only 12 hours to live if she refused to be operated on, implored Mitzi to sign that paper, she begged her on her knees, but with no success.

Around noontime an elegantly clad young man appeared in the sanitarium and asked to be taken to the room of Miss Wallstein. It was Herr Braun, who came to visit his sweetheart and was surprised to learn that the operation had not yet been performed. When he learned the reason for the delay and was informed by the doctors that the girl would die if she should persist in her refusal to sign the necessary paper, he joined the personnel of the sanitarium in the frantic effort to persuade Miss Wallstein to do what any other sane person in her place would do. Mitzi looked at the man she loved, she listened to his words silently, and suddenly sat up in her bed and, pointing at Herr Braun, said to the doctors:

"Well, look at this man, gentlemen. If this young man will make a statement right here, before you as witnesses, that he will marry me if I should lose my beauty and be made ugly and miserable through this operation, then I'll sign whatever you wish me to sign."

HERR BRAUN was visibly embarrassed by this demand. Why, he said, that was pure foolishness. This was not a moment to discuss marriage plans. Mitzi must sign, she simply must, it was a question of life and death. But Mitzi remained steadfast. She would not sign unless Herr Braun made his promise before witnesses.

At 2 o'clock Herr Braun decided to make a last and frantic appeal—not to Mitzi, who was unyielding, but to Prof. Neumann. He went to the surgeon's study and asked him to save the life of Mitzi and not insist on her signing that statement. The surgeon, however, explained to him that he could not do otherwise. He was risking a damage suit and all that unpleasant publicity which is connected with such a lawsuit.

At 3 o'clock the professor was notified that Miss Wallstein still refused to submit to the conditions of the operation. The surgeon nodded, said something about the vanity of women and egotism of men, and left the sanitarium. He figured that the patient would fall into a coma at about 10 o'clock and be dead in the morning. The drama was nearing its end.

The arguments and expostulations went on in the room of Miss Wallstein. The hours passed, the patient became so weak that she could hardly speak. Her mother wept at the bedside, Herr Braun was moved by this strange drama. At 5:30, when the patient seemed to be in a kind of half-consciousness, Herr Braun stepped to the bed and cried:

"Mitzi, dearest, I'll do it. I'll marry you if your face is disfigured. I promise it before witnesses. And now sign that paper."

With a happy smile around her lips, Mitzi put her name to the document. One of the assistants ran to the telephone and called up the professor. The surgeon rushed to the sanitarium, in an hour everything was made ready for the operation and at 8 o'clock she was brought back from the operating room. She was saved.

The next day Prof. Neumann visited his patient. She was out of danger now. The operation was so successful that it had left absolutely no mark on her face.

Mitzi was indescribably happy. She had retained her beauty and won a husband. Now it was certain that the man she loved would marry her. Herr Braun soon arrived at the sanitarium; he also was glad and promised to see her every day while she was in the sanitarium. He was attentive and behaved like a real fiance. However, he did not speak of the approaching marriage.

IT TOOK about four weeks before Mitzi regained complete health. She left the sanitarium, returned to her work and was happy until she received a letter from Herr Braun, in which he regretfully stated that he would not and could not marry her. First, he said, he had made his promise under a moral pressure. Second, he had said that he would marry Miss Wallstein if she should leave the hospital with a disfigured face; and he had been determined to make good his promise, because he regarded this forced marriage as an act of charity. But now that Mitzi was as beautiful as ever she had no need of charity, nor was she entitled to any particular sympathy. On those two premises Herr Braun based his refusal to marry the beautiful mannequin.

What is yet to come in the strange romance of Herr Braun and Miss Wallstein belongs to the realm of jurisprudence. Both parties have engaged excellent lawyers, who are determined to fight to the last ditch and are prepared to offer a brilliant performance for the benefit of those who will be fortunate enough to secure cards of admittance for the trial, which will take place some time during the summer.

Byrd and Bennett Fly Over the North Pole

miss Spitzbergen. And even if we were on a straight course, would that engine stop? It seemed certain that it would.

As we flew there at the top of the world, we saluted the gallant, indomitable spirit of Peary and verified his report in every detail.

Below us was a great, eternally-frozen, snow-covered ocean, broken into ice fields or cakes of various sizes and shapes, the boundaries of which were the ridges formed by the great pressure of one cake upon another. This showed a constant ice movement and indicated the non-proximity of land. I quote from my impressions cabled to the United States on our return to Kings Bay:

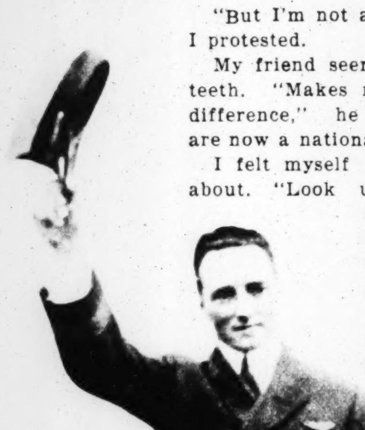
"We felt no larger than a pin-point and as lonely as the tomb; as remote and detached as a star.

"Here, in another world, far from the herds of people, the smallnesses of life fell from our shoulders. What wonder that we felt no great emotion of achievement or fear of death that lay stretched beneath us, but instead, impersonal, disembodied. On, on we went. It seemed forever onward."

We came into Kings Bay flying at about 4000 feet. The tiny village was a welcome sight, but not so much so as the good old Chantier that looked so small beneath. It seemed but a few moments until we were in the arms of our comrades, who carried us with wild joy down the snow runway they had worked so hard to make.

Before the Chantier had steamed many miles toward home I began to realize that we had stirred up something by flying to the pole. First, there were radios of congratulation and good wishes. Then radios of inquiry. And finally radios that literally ordered me to do things I never even dreamed of doing, couldn't do even if I wanted—such as make a speech at three different banquets to be held in three different cities on one and the same night. I felt rather stunned about it; but, of course, greatly appreciative.



Byrd.

I wondered exactly what it all meant. What I ultimately found out about "being a hero" gave me almost as much of a "kick" as did the sensation of circling the Pole.

We arrived at New York on the morning of June 22, 1926. We were met by the mayor's official tug, the Macom, on board of which were several official welcoming committees, a delegation of senators and representatives from Congress, a regiment of newspaper reporters, and enough photographers to man a battleship.

FOR half an hour I was tossed about like a leaf in a storm. Then a friend cornered me. He was laboring under high tension. He spoke feverishly:

"We arrive at the Battery at noon. You will be presented with a medal and the keys to the city at twelve-fifteen. You will make two speeches in reply. At lunch you will make another speech. At four-thirty-two we leave for Washington. On arrival you will be met by a committee of welcome. Twenty minutes later President Coolidge will present you with a gold medal. You will make a speech—"

"But I'm not a speech maker," I protested.

My friend seemed to grind his teeth. "Makes not the slightest difference," he snapped. "You are now a national hero. You—"

I felt myself whirled bodily about. "Look up, Commander. Stick an eye on that airplane up there," yelled someone.

Involuntarily, I glanced skyward. Twenty cameras clicked.

All of this was entirely unexpected. I felt bewildered, but most grateful that the nation should do all this for us. Of course, I didn't take it all to myself. Far from it. There was Bennett by my side, who deserved equally with me and perhaps more. Then there were our half-hundred shipmates who had unselfishly put every ounce of their strength and energy into the job. Then my thought dwelt on the dozen or so other men who had formed necessary links in our success.

The scene at the Battery resembled a riot. A parade was formed. As we passed up Broadway the air grew thick with a blizzard of paper streamers and confetti. The sidewalks were packed with people. Traffic stopped.

And so on all that day, ending with President Coolidge's presentation in Washington that night. And all the next day. And the next, and the next.

WHAT did it mean? I asked myself the question; but could find no answer.

The first inkling of the great discovery came in Washington just before I faced the President and a large audience of distinguished diplomats. I stood in a little bare alcove glancing over my notes. Suddenly a door behind me opened, then softly closed. I turned. Facing me stood a little white-haired lady in black bonnet and gown. Despite the age in her face, her eyes were brown and bright. They looked into mine unblinking.

"You are Commander Byrd?" she asked.

"Yes, madam."

She came a step forward in a sudden wistful eagerness. "And you reached the North Pole?"

"There seems to be no doubt of it."

Her lips parted as if to speak again. But before she could utter a word an abrupt change came over her. She gave a quick sigh. Her mouth trembled. She thrust out one hand as if to touch me. Her eyes dimmed and filled. Then she cried out:

"Oh, I'm so glad!" Before I could stop her she was gone.

I MANAGED to inquire about her during a lull in the ponderous proceedings of the evening.

"Poor thing," whispered my informant. "She's had a tough break in life. Lost her husband 20 years ago. Brought up two fine boys on what she could make herself. Lost both of them in the World War. Now she's all alone."

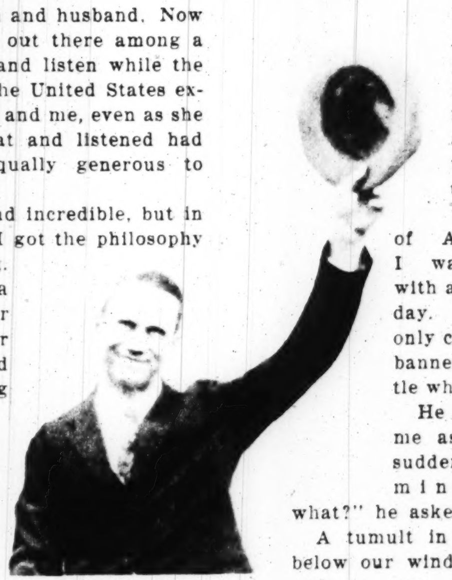
In a flash of understanding I knew something of the answer to my question: What is a national hero?

I was a hero to that sad little mother, but not in a way the word is usually used. No doubt she admired us for having succeeded. But that wasn't what made her seek me out and face me first-hand with her gladness.

What that mother saw in me was the living memory of her husband and sons. They had been splendid men. I later learned that they had been adventurous and so were the kind who would have liked to have flown to the North Pole. They were fine, keen, courageous men. And if they were all that to the passing acquaintance who retailed their virtues to me, what demigods must they have been to that little white-haired lady.

To her I was the living flesh she so longed to touch. I, she knew, was son and husband. Now she would sit out there among a great throng and listen while the President of the United States extolled Bennett and me, even as she might have sat and listened had Fate been equally generous to her.

It may sound incredible, but in that moment I got the philosophy of the thing. Now, in a trice, another man's mother had wiped away my smug acceptance of unexpected fame.



Bennett.

My memory sprang back to Annapolis days. I recalled the first time I marched down the town street as color bearer. The band was playing. As I passed, men uncovered, ladies applauded, children waved their hands. People weren't saluting and cheering me. They were saluting the Stars and Stripes which I carried.

EXACTLY that was happening now. The cheers and the handclasps, the waving hats and flags, the music and the speeches weren't really meant for me. The banner I carried now wasn't so visible, nor easily painted. It didn't in its symbolism depict the stormy history of a people. It never would stir a nation to righteous indignation against an invader. It couldn't be nailed to the mast of a sinking ship.

No, my banner was none of these. In our success people saw success that might have been their own. In Bennett and me mothers saw their sons, wives their husbands, sisters their brothers. In us men saw what they too might have done had they had the chance. In us youth saw ambition realized.

In us, America for the moment dramatized that superb world-conquering fire which is American spirit. For the moment we seemed to have caught up the banner of American progress. For the moment we appeared to typify to them the spirit of America. I was talking with a friend one day. "I'm really only carrying the banner for a little while," said I.

He looked at me as if I had suddenly lost my mind. "The what?" he asked.

A tumult in the street below our window put an end to our talk. We looked out. I knew what was happening.

In the sunshine flags twinkled. Black ribbons of humanity lined the avenue. At upper windows were crowding faces. Extra traffic men pranced to and fro. Long gay streamers and confetti floated down from the skyscrapers. A band flashed into view. The quick march it played was the music of victory. Uniformed ranks swung rhythmically behind the band. Then came a column of automobiles.

In the leading car, framed with flowers, stood a sturdy youthful figure, arms outstretched to the cheering multitude. It was Gertrude Ederle.

I LEANED far out. I wanted to shout a message, to deliver something I had been holding. I wanted to shout: "Here is the banner!" and cast that invisible something into the outstretched hands of the girl in the leading car.

But I did not need to. The lusty throats of ten thousand Americans were shouting my message. And the banner was already in the hands of its next fortunate bearer.

That's what this hero business means.

Science Tells Why Skins Get Coarse

Science at last tells why women, even young girls, get ugly, coarse pores on their faces. It's because zinc stearate is put in face powders to make them stay on. Skin specialists say these powders are dangerously laxadermic (skin-relaxing). They open the pores instead of closing them. The more you powder the more you fill up the relaxed skin so that the clogged pores cannot close. That's why faces get ugly, coarse pores, then blackheads, and often eruptions.

Now, thanks to modern science, you can powder as often as you like without the slightest fear of enlarged pores. The specialist who perfected the famous La-May Face Powder tried for years to get a powder to stay on perfectly without dangerous zinc stearate. After hundreds of experiments he met with success by using a fine, silky adhesive powder that is prescribed by doctors to heal eruptions.

But the marvelous part of his success was due to an amazing accidental discovery. After La-May had been in the stores only a short time thousands of women began claiming it reduces the pores and prevents fine skins getting coarse. Women who have used no other find this to be true. That's why millions of women are discarding old-style powders and using La-May. So, if your pores are getting coarse let La-May refine them to youthful beauty. Or, if you have a fine, dry skin let La-May keep it fine. Its wonderful beautifying qualities seem to agree with all skins; many women say it quickly corrects oily skin.

Your druggist has La-May (French, Poudre L'Ame) in all shades at fifty cents and one dollar. Remember, it is most popular in New York because it is the only powder guaranteed not laxadermic; it will not, cannot, cause enlarged pores; it is absolutely harmless; it does not contain rice starch, white lead or any harmful ingredient to make it stay on so well. When you try La-May you will say it goes on smoother and looks better than any other powder; it does not cake on or flake the skin. Save this notice.

Why Folks Get Fat and how they lose it

Science, some years ago, found a cause of excess fat which is easy to correct. Scientists proved it on thousands of test animals, then on human beings. The results were reported in medical journals, and the use of this method has spread the world over.

Then a great medical laboratory embodied this method in Marmola prescription tablets. They have now been used for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. The use has grown to vast proportions through users telling others.

The results are seen in every circle. Slenderness prevails. Excess fat is much less common than it was. Now physicians everywhere are prescribing for obesity the chief factor in Marmola.

Abnormal exercise or diet is not required, not advised. One simply takes four tablets daily until weight comes down to normal.

The prescription is not secret. A book in every box gives the formula complete. It explains the results so you may know they are natural and helpful. Learn how easy it is to get these results if you need them. New beauty, new health and vitality come when the fat departs.

ew things bring more joys to men and women than reduction by Marmola.

Go get a box and watch effects. You will be delighted.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. Any druggist who is out will order from his jobber.

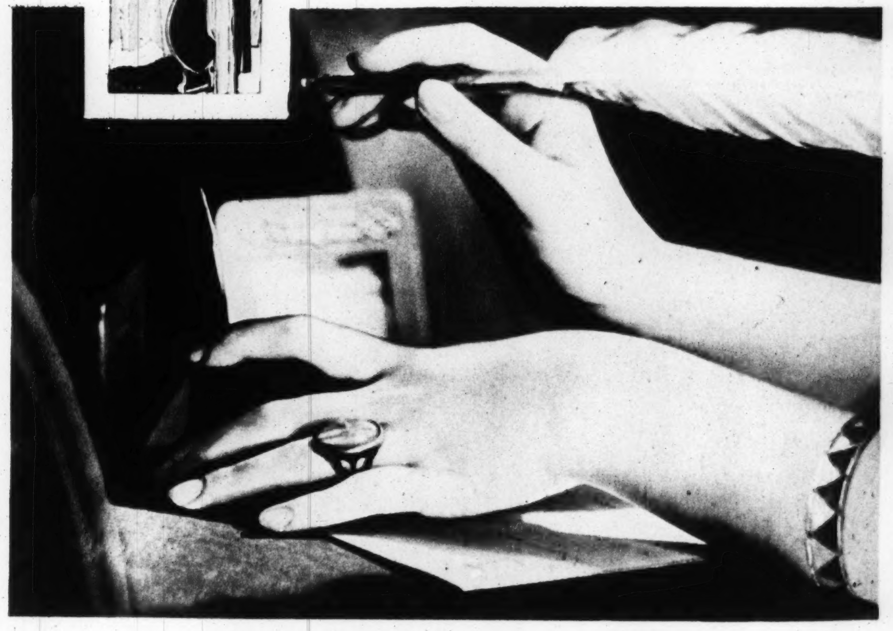
Smooth as silk—the hands of lovely Southern girls! Do you know how they keep them so white and pretty?



Your Hands ...

do they say nice things about you?

HAVE you ever noticed the smooth whiteness and charm of a Southern woman's hands? How her delicate skin seems to speak of infinite care!

And yet such skin is yours as it is hers, a natural gift of loveliness that every woman can preserve.

"How does she do it? What is the magic method by which the lovely aristocratic woman of the South keeps her hands so charming?" ask wives and daughters of the North.

The answer is very simple. Almost all women can have pretty hands if they will but care for them.

Household tasks must be done, of course. But they will not harm, Southern women have learned, if surface soiling is not allowed to penetrate and coarsen tiny pores. And so they formed the frequent rinsing habit. Many times each day, as often as is necessary, after each task is done, they rinse their pretty hands in the generous lather of the mildest soap they know—Octagon Toilet Soap.

Do try Octagon Toilet Soap. Use it regularly. As often as you drink a glass of water, every time you pass near the bath.

How to tell a real good soap

Octagon Toilet Soap yields a special lather—mild, pure, with elastic clinging suds that really cleanse. Some soaps form a "skin" when you are half-way through the cake. Other soaps get soft and mushy. But Octagon Toilet Soap is the same all the way through, generous in all waters with its clean, abundant lather, yet firm to the end of the cake.

And Octagon Toilet Soap is full measure—all solid soap—an extra week in every cake. Try a cake today. To keep hands pretty—this pure white soap.

LISTEN, JO. WAIT UNTIL I GET OFF MY COAT. I'LL SHOW YOU ONE OF THE NIFTIEST THINGS YOU EVER SAW. IT'S A SCIENTIFIC MARVEL. IT VIOLATES FOUR OF NATURE'S LAWS ALL AT THE SAME TIME.
HA! HAS SOMEONE GOT YOU ALL WOUND UP AGAIN ON ANOTHER PERFECTLY SILLY INVENTION?
NO SIR! THIS IS BIG STUFF! GET ME AN EGG. NEVER MIND, I'LL GET IT MYSELF. WAIT RIGHT HERE.
AN EGG?
YES, AN ORDINARY EVERYDAY EGG. NO TRICKS. NOTHING UP MY SLEEVE. NOTHING! WATCH!
I PLACE THE EGG BETWEEN MY TWO HANDS THUS. NOW WATCH ME CLOSELY BECAUSE THE CLOSER YOU WATCH THE LESS YOU SEE
YOU CLAIM AN EGG IS EASILY BROKEN DON'T YOU? NATURALLY YES! WELL I WILL NOW SUBJECT THIS MERE EGG TO TERRIFIC PRESSURE. I'LL USE ALL MY STRENGTH THUS AND—THE RESULT IS....
HA! HA! HA!
LISTEN, WHAT IS SO FUNNY ABOUT AN ACCIDENT? THE EGG SLIPPED. THAT'S BOUND TO HAPPEN NOW AND THEN. WAIT UNTIL I GET ANOTHER EGG. ONE THAT ISN'T CRACKED.
ALL RIGHT MAKE ANOTHER MESS ON THE FLOOR. I'LL CLEAN BOTH UP AT THE SAME TIME.
DON'T WORRY! THERE'LL BE NO MESS THIS TIME. ALL RIGHT HERE'S THE EGG. JUST AN EVERYDAY EGG. WATCH. I'LL ROLL UP MY SLEEVES SO YOU WONT CLAIM THERE'S ANYTHING PHONY ABOUT THIS TRICK.
I WILL NOW USE ALL MY STRENGTH THUS AND—HA!

NOW REMEMBER, YOU'RE ON THE EXCLUSIVE BATHING BEACH OF THE HOTEL SWELLMORE, AND DON'T GET INTO TROUBLE WHILE I'M SWIMMING!
THE ONLY SAFE THING FOR ME TO DO IS DIG A HOLE AND CRAWL INTO IT!
THIS IS DEEP ENOUGH TO HIDE A BARBER POLE- THINK I'LL QUIT!
GIT OFF AND STAY OFF! THIS IS A PRIVATE BEACH!
HOTEL SWELLMORE PRIVATE BEACH
WHAT'S WRONG?
AW, HE WON'T LET US SWIM THERE—HE THINKS HE OWNS THE OCEAN!
I'M JUST DOING WHAT NAPOLEON WOULD HAVE DONE IF NAPOLEON WAS ME!
YAAH! PUT US OFF!
BIG BUM!
MESS O' MUSCLE!

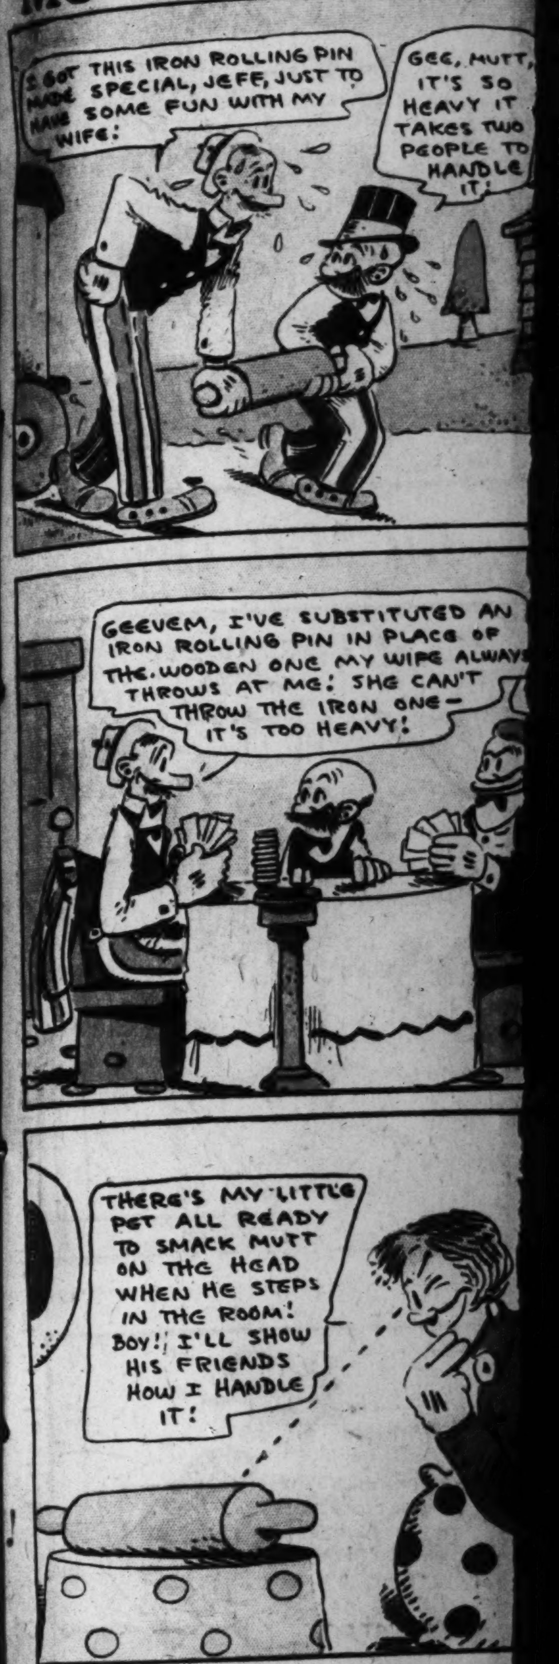
MUTT AND JEFF



I GOT THIS IRON ROLLING PIN MADE SPECIAL, JEFF, JUST TO HAVE SOME FUN WITH MY WIFE!
GEE, MUTT, IT'S SO HEAVY IT TAKES TWO PEOPLE TO HANDLE IT!
GEEVEM, I'VE SUBSTITUTED AN IRON ROLLING PIN IN PLACE OF THE WOODEN ONE MY WIFE ALWAYS THROWS AT ME! SHE CAN'T THROW THE IRON ONE—IT'S TOO HEAVY!
THERE'S MY LITTLE PET ALL READY TO SMACK MUTT ON THE HEAD WHEN HE STEPS IN THE ROOM! BOY! I'LL SHOW HIS FRIENDS HOW I HANDLE IT!

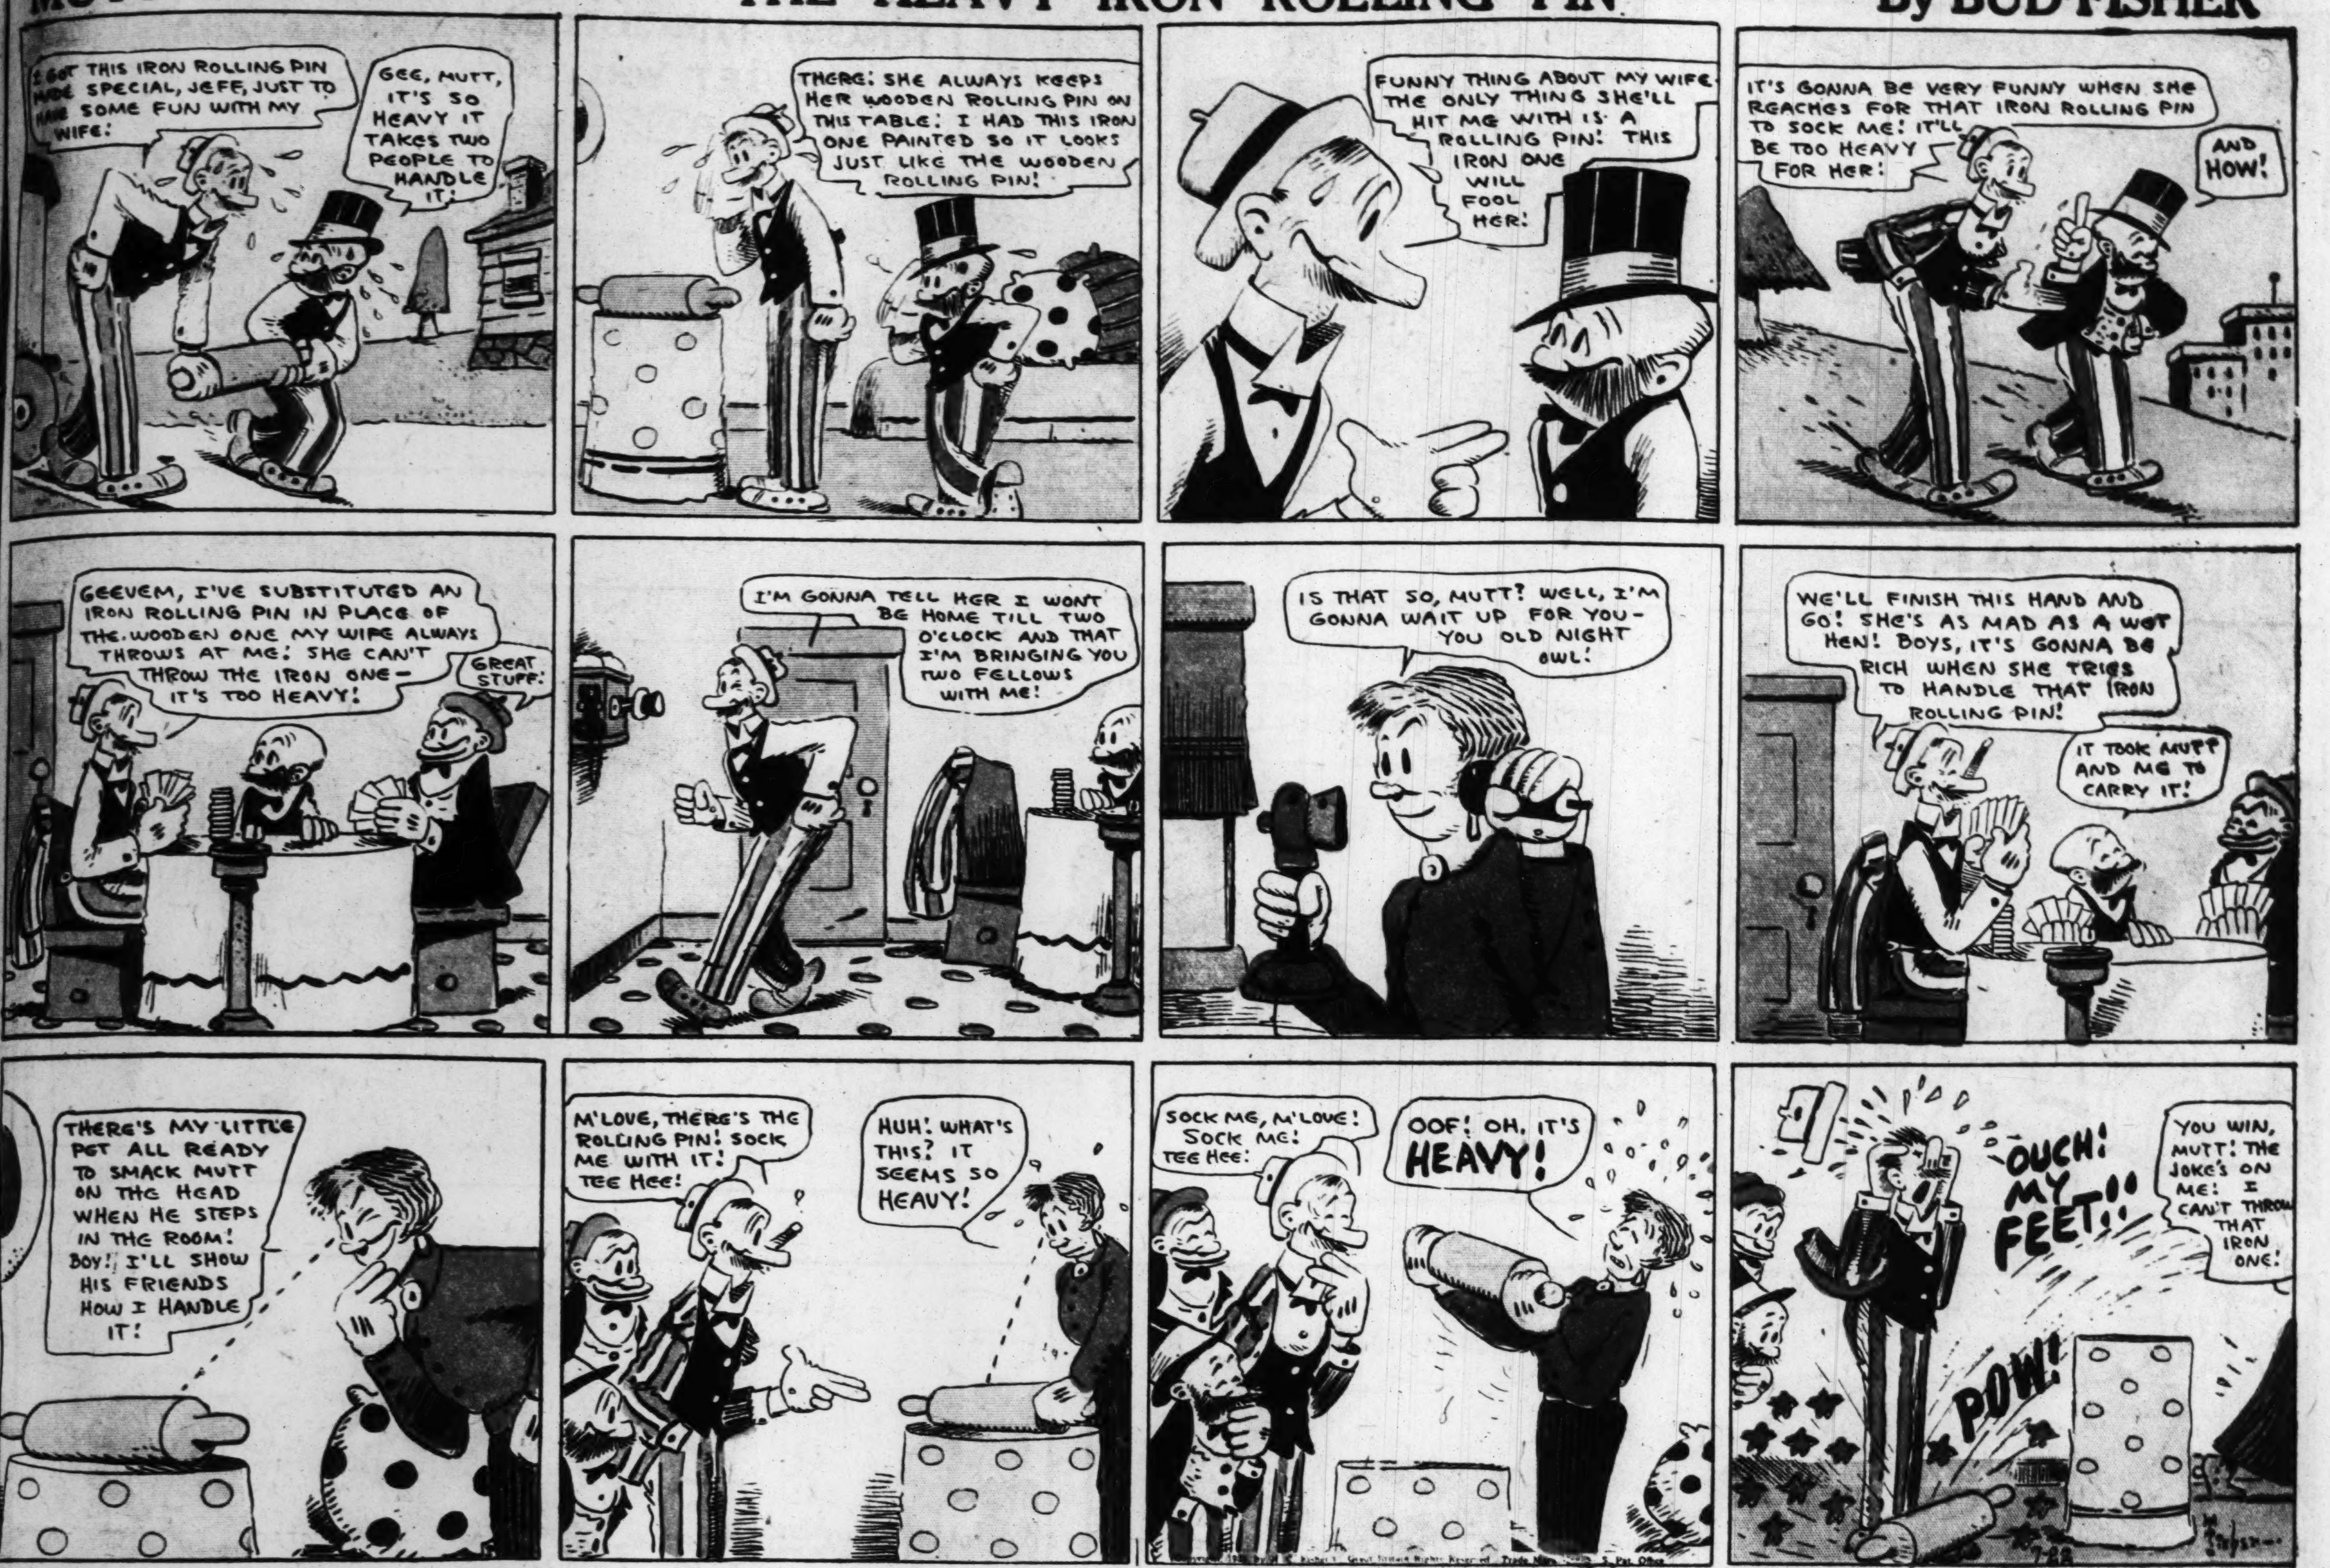
THE HEAVY IRON ROLLING PIN

By BUD FISHER



I GOT THIS IRON ROLLING PIN MADE SPECIAL, JEFF, JUST TO HAVE SOME FUN WITH MY WIFE!
GEE, MUTT, IT'S SO HEAVY IT TAKES TWO PEOPLE TO HANDLE IT!
THERE! SHE ALWAYS KEEPS HER WOODEN ROLLING PIN ON THIS TABLE! I HAD THIS IRON ONE PAINTED SO IT LOOKS JUST LIKE THE WOODEN ROLLING PIN!
FUNNY THING ABOUT MY WIFE. THE ONLY THING SHE'LL HIT ME WITH IS A ROLLING PIN! THIS IRON ONE WILL FOOL HER!
IT'S GONNA BE VERY FUNNY WHEN SHE REACHES FOR THAT IRON ROLLING PIN TO SOCK ME! IT'LL BE TOO HEAVY FOR HER!
AND HOW!
GEEVEM, I'VE SUBSTITUTED AN IRON ROLLING PIN IN PLACE OF THE WOODEN ONE MY WIFE ALWAYS THROWS AT ME! SHE CAN'T THROW THE IRON ONE— IT'S TOO HEAVY!
GREAT STUFF!
I'M GONNA TELL HER I WONT BE HOME TILL TWO O'CLOCK AND THAT I'M BRINGING YOU TWO FELLOWS WITH ME!
IS THAT SO, MUTT? WELL, I'M GONNA WAIT UP FOR YOU— YOU OLD NIGHT OWL!
WE'LL FINISH THIS HAND AND GO! SHE'S AS MAD AS A WET HEN! BOYS, IT'S GONNA BE RICH WHEN SHE TRIES TO HANDLE THAT IRON ROLLING PIN!
IT TOOK MUTT AND ME TO CARRY IT!
THERE'S MY LITTLE PET ALL READY TO SMACK MUTT ON THE HEAD WHEN HE STEPS IN THE ROOM! BOY! I'LL SHOW HIS FRIENDS HOW I HANDLE IT!
M'LOVE, THERE'S THE ROLLING PIN! SOCK ME WITH IT! TEE HEE!
HUH! WHAT'S THIS? IT SEEMS SO HEAVY!
SOCK ME, M'LOVE! SOCK ME! TEE HEE!
OOF! OH, IT'S HEAVY!
OUCH! MY FEET!!
POW!
YOU WIN, MUTT! THE JOKE'S ON ME! I CAN'T THROW THAT IRON ONE!
